This is particularly true at this time of the year.

Stores are now advertising Spring Wearing Apparel and a host of things that are bought for household use incident to spring cleaning.

Think of the money that will be spent by women for spring clothing. The new frocks, hats, shoes, lingerie, corsets, gloves, sweaters, neckwear, light wraps and blouses that will be bought.

The same is true of men's buying. Think of the suits, light top coats, hats, shirts, collars, ties, gloves, socks, shoes—the sporting goods and the incidental wearing apparel bought for golf, tennis, and so on.

Think of the new things that will be bought for spring cleaning and home convenience at this time. The vacuum cleaners, carpet sweepers, brooms, gas and electric heaters, ranges, washing machines, paints, varnishes, floor wax, cleansing fluids, curtains, upholstery, garden and porch furniture, lawn mowers, garden tools, etc.

Think of the lighter foods coming into use. Cereals, fruits, salads.

• • • •

All these new demands are incident to the changing season, and they all are Trade Stimulating.

People feel livelier at this time and consequently loosen up their purse strings.

• • • •

The opportunity for local merchants to get over effective Local Advertising News at this time is so evident that it needs no emphasis.

LEADING AUTHORITIES NOW SHOW JUST WHAT TANLAC REALLY IS

Physiological Action of Principal Ingredients of Celebrated Medicine on the Human System is Explained.

SUPREMACY CLAIMS WELL SUPPORTED

Many of the Medicinal Elements Have Been Known and Used Since Civilization First Began

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this country and Canada, is composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science. The formula is purely ethical and complies with all National and State Pure Food and Drug Laws. Altogether, there are ten ingredients in Tanlac, each of which is of recognised therapeutic value.

Many of these ingredients have been individually known and used since civilisation first began, and some of them have been used and prescribed by leading physicians everywhere, but until they were brought together in proper proportion and association, as in the Tanlac form, humanity had not heretofore realised their full value and effect.

In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Britannica says. "It has been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered." In referring to others of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac, the 13th Edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard medical text book states that "They impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues."

This same well-known authority, in describing the physiological action of still another of the ingredients of Tanlac, which is of value in treating what is commonly known as "a run-down condition," uses the following expression: "It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescence from acute diseases."

There are certain other elements in Tanlac which, beause of their influence upon the appetite, digestion, assimilation, and elimination, improve the nutrition and vital activity of the tissues and more important organs of the body, and produce that state of general tonicity which is called Health.

The United States Dispensatory makes the following comment regarding another ingredient: "It may be used in all cases of pure debility of the digestive organs or where a general tonic impression is required. Dyspepsia, atonic gout, hysteria, and intermittent fever are among the many affections in which it has proven useful."

There are certain other ingredients described in the Dispensatory and in other standard medical text books as having a beneficial action upon the organs of secretion, whose proper functioning results in the purification of the blood streams passing through them. In this manner objectionable and poisonous ingredients of the blood are removed and the entire system invigorated and vitalised.

Tanlac was designed primarily for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver, and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful reconstructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and a thorough elimination of the waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.

Although Tanlac's claims for supremacy are abundantly supported by the world's leading authorities, it is the people themselves who have really made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it with gratifying results, and have told other millions what it has done for them. That is why Tanlac has become the real sensation of the drug trade in this country and Canada, and that is also why it is having the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world to-day.

TO FORCE DOWN COST OF LIVING.

Dutch Municipalities Engage in Importation.

AMSTERDAM, March 16.—(Associated Press—By Mail). — A number of Dutch municipalities, including Amsterdam, are going into the importing business themselves, in an effort to force down the cost of living and expose profiteering.

A year ago, some of the municipalities bought American shoes and put them on sale at a price much below that charged by the Dutch merchants.

Some months later, they imported beef from the Argentine, and put it on the market at about half the price charged for Dutch meat.

The latest move of the Amsterdam City Council is to import from Holland, one of the greatest dairying countries in the world, butter from Denmark, which is to be sold at a price of 50 Dutch cents a kilogram below the quotations for Dutch butter of the same grade.

These municipal bodies, in which there are many Socialists, believe that Dutch middlemen demand exorbitant profits and that this habit can only be broken when the people find they can buy imported commodities much cheaper than domestic, even after freight and duty charges have been paid.

Dutch manufacturers have demanded of parliament a protective tariff, in addition to the ordinary five per cent. duty charged on most commodities, but the Government has declined to adopt a general policy along this line.

TO BE TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION

THE CAUSE OF MANY ILLS

If you do not feel well and go to your family physician, one of the first things he will do is to ask you to hold out your tongue. The reason for this is that the condition of the tongue shows the condition of the stomach and bowels.

If you allow your bowels to become constipated you will have bilious attacks, sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, heartburn, water brash, etc, and those troublesome piles which cause so much annoyance and misery.

Keep ouyr bowels moving regularly and you won't be sick.

In Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills you will find just the remedy you require for this purpose. They are purely vegetable and do not gripe, weaken or sicken.

Mr. James S. Harris, Box 9934, Halifax, N. S., writes: "For two years I sugered with constipation. I could not get anything to cure me, and hardly anything would give me even temporary relief. One day my uncle induced me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and even brought me a vial. I tried them without much faith, but I soon found that they were doing me good, and after using the second vial I was relieved of the trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price, by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is a difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and cause no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

In Our Front Window

So that all may see what truly fine footwear we sell, we have displayed our entire assortment in our large front show window. We are certainly not ashamed of it; otherwise we would not place it there.

There are models from a great many makers. They are the cream of what they have to offer, and were selected only after careful deliberation. The result is that this assemblage embodies the maximum of quality and style perfection.

It may be of interest to some women, who are planning and getting together their summer costume, to know that already we can show complete assortments of new footwear for summer wear.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

IN FAVOUR OF CONTROL LIQUOR

Prohibition is based on the principle that a government should adjust a standard for weaklings and the weak-minded, in other words the exception, and the strong must be compelled to live under those standards. This, he said, was an utterly wrong principle.

What the speaker, and the organization which brought him to Peterborough, advocated on Saturday night, is government control, as in British Columbia. Each drinker is licensed. A premium is placed on temperance for if the licensee drinks to excess his license is cancelled. The effect of such control is to make moderation the price of liberty.

Prohibition not Prohibitory.

The United States has the most abominable conditions prevailing that could be conceived, he said. Prohibition is unpopular and not a success. There are distilleries by the hundrers of thousands in people's kitchens and "hootch" parties are popular. The price of prohibition is absolute despotism. The cost of enforcement, however, he declared, would bankrupt any country in the world.

It was at this point that Hon. Mr. Windle half-seriously, half-jocularly asked those in the hall who felt they needed prohibition, to stand up. No one stood up. "Liberty for all the people is more important than prohibition for the few who need it," he said.

The speaker endorsed the prohibitionists' argument against drunkenness fully, but to abolish drunkenness, they want to abolish drinking. This stand, he declared, could be taken against anything which is misused, and was a fallacious attitude. The reformers next move, he said, was to snatch the pipes, cigars and cigarettes from the mouths of the multitude of smokers.

Continuing his denouncement of prohibition he claimed it undermined the whole Christian system and was contrary to Scripture teaching. He read parts of the Old and New Testament, notably Luke 7:33 and 34; John 2, and Luke 5:39, to uphold the cause of temperance as against prohibition, concluding his address with an appeal to register a strong majority against prohibition on April 18.

Rector Opposes Prohibition

The chairman made the explanation heretofore mentioned, and asked Rev. Frank Vipond of Lakefield, to express his views on prohibition. Speaking as a clergyman he said prohibition was not his idea of Christianity and its practices. "I for one shall not vote for prohibition," he said, predicting terrifying results in this country in five years if prohibition was carried.

A voluntary collection was taken at the door for those who wished to assist in defraying the expenses of holding the meeting.

HAD AN ANNOYING HACKING COUGH

GOT NO REST AT NIGHT

Hacking coughs are wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest and keeps the lungs and the bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition that unless you get immediate relief the cough may become settled and serious lung trouble ensue.

There is no better remedy than Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for relieving all kinds of coughs or colds, combining as it does the lung healing virtues of the pine trees with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing and healing expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mrs. E. J. Ross, Penhold, Alta., writes "About three years ago I caught a very bad cold, accompanied with a sore throat and hoarseness. I was so hoarse that you could not hear me speak. I could get no rest at night with the terrible annoying hacking cough. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. I finally saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised so I got a bottle, and after using four of them my cough had all gone. Now I always keep it in the house."

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, price 35c and only 60c a bottle. Manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE CITY MANAGER

In contrast to the order of things that admittedly prevails in most cities, the 150 towns that have adopted the city-manager plan, have made their city governments simple and understandable for the first time in at least two generations.

Like most successful revolutions, this one goes back to the past for some things which had been ill-advisedly abandoned and brings some old principles down to date to fit modern life.

The fathers of this country had no municipal problems, to be sure, but they had public affairs to be taken care of. They employed town meetings, in which the people could express themselves on important questions, but the carrying out of the business was entrusted to a compact body of "select men"—asimple, natural, straightforward arrangement.

In later days, when municipal business became more elaborate, somehow the idea grew up that government also must be complicated to cope with the new situation. Thereupon—exit popular control, enter the politician.

Little towns and big cities developed intricate governmental mechanism with artificial, meaningless divisions called wards, a mayor to do things, and a council to keep him from doing them, and perhaps an auditor and a treasurer, to make sure that the others did not run away with the cash.

It made politics an intricate game that only professionals could play successfully! Professionals of every degree from the ward leader to the big boss!

The complicated machine kept on going after a fashion, but the real government, the invisible government which did things and had the real authority, was direct, simple, and powerful. Only, alas, the public did not control it!

And so it has become clear through a bitter experience that popular control can be had only through getting away from the complexity of politics.

Simplicity — That's the gist of it. Everything that has to be popular has to be simple whether it's a song, or an advertisement, or an idea—or a government!

It is beyond all question that far more people are politically active and effective under the manager plan than under any other. More people register at the polls, decisions that are all their own. Fewer shut their eyes and accept partisan dictation.

Let us get the outline clear:

1—The People. Their job is easy: only one body of men to select—the city council. Never more than five to be chosen at any one time. That's the so-called short ballot idea.

No national or state issues to be settled on the same day. No political machines necessary to make up a ticket when the list of offices is so short. Any group may nominate its candidate for the council by petition. That's the non-partisan ballot feature.

If these city councillors go against the people's wishes they may be "recalled" to private life.

If they pass a measure which a respectable minority dislikes, it may be submitted to the whole people for approval through the "referendum."

If they fail to act, a similar body of citizens may appeal through the initiative.

2—The Council. It has all the powers of the municipality, subject to the one condition that it must employ them through the organisation provided in the charter. The idea is called "Unification of Powers"—no division of responsibility between equals—no "passing the buck" around a circle—no baffling of the public by obscurity of authority or legal piffle.

No matter what happens, the council has the power to fix it.

3—The City Manager. He is appointed by the council, serves at its pleasure, gives full time, heads the administration, appoints his subordinates.

Simple, straightforward, all the way through. Straight lines all the way from the people to the lowest public servant. In the next instalment we shall tell how the whole movement started.

DO ALL MY HOUSE WORK

Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly get about.

Cobourg, Ont.—"For many years I have had trouble with my nerves and have been in a general run down condition for some time. I could not do my work half of the time because of the trouble with my monthly sickness. I was told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and advised to try it. It has done me good, and I strongly recommend it. Since I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work, and I also know friends who have found it good. You can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. ELLEN FLATTERS, Box 761, Cobourg, Ont.

Why will women continue to suffer so long is more than we can understand, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For forty years this good old fashioned root and herb remedy, which contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MOCK ELECTION IN LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, April 11. — On Thursday evening the weekly meeting of the Brotherhood took the form of an 'At Home' to some Sunday school classes and the choir. Fifty were present and after the reading of the minutes and some business, a mock trial for the reeveship was held.

Mock Election.

Three candidates were in the field. Mr. Clark Dixon introduced Mr. Roy E. Green as one who had travelled widely and had experience. Mr. Jack Ridpath nominated Mr. A. E. Partridge as one who had travelled overseas as a soldier and whose wounds during the war should enlist the support of the entire electorate. Mr. Kenneth Madill was introduced by Geo. Sherin and Sherman McIlmoyle who considered his high attainments as principal of Selwyn school made him an ideal candidate.

The candidates then appealed on platforms fearfully and wonderfully made.

Graft Alleged.

One candidate suggested there was secret graft and promised if elected to keep the treasury empty at all times. Another claimed to have been Lord Mayor of London and member of British House of Commons and in touch with all leading men. As Peterborough consumes one-third of all chewing gum made in Canada, he proposed a bonus of half a million to a chewing gum factory so that every one in Lakefield would have work, the taxes would have added only 18 mills on the dollar by bonus. Another candidate proposed abolition of all taxes and the bonusing of every citizen, this to be accomplished by each church appointing representatives to watch the local banks and "visit" them some dark night.

One candidate had a census of the town taken and discovered there were 1,362 men, 428 women and 162 children and one who could not be classified and was designated "fowl" (a local hit which brought down the house). He felt the present train service deplorable especially if everyone wished to leave the same day and proposed, of elected, to have three hundred Grand Trunk trains a day, but another candidate declared the president of the C.P.R. had told him his railway had been asleep for 80 years and proposed, if this candidate were elected, to run three roads into the town.

Other suggestions were development of power from river, so that Young's Point, the greatest grain-growing district in America, could have proper facilities; thousands of windmills, same to be run when there was no wind by the "hot air" of the other candidates; economy by cancelling subscription to the Globe for the public library and substituting fifty copies of Dr. Chase's almanac, most valuable to readers; the establishment of matrimonial bureaus for both sexes, etc.

The Election.

When ballots were counted it was found that Kenneth Madill had 27,000 votes, which constituted a plurality. It was suggested that if bribery could be proved, a heavy fine might be inflicted by the justice of the supreme court, who was present, half the fine to go to president, half to judge and the balance to charity.

The new reeve briefly thanked the electors and promised good service. One of the defeated candidates made a stirring speech in which he vigorously denounced the electors and announced he would leave town at once.

The new reeve appointed Rev. S. F. Dixon town chaplain, at a salary of $6,000 and with absolutely no work, which position was accepted with the understanding that salary would be increased later.

The people were then divided into groups for a guessing contest, and light refreshments were provided. Many declared they had not spent a more enjoyable evening in years.

RECIPIES

Chicory Salad.

The chicory salad should be served in a bowl that has been rubbed with a raw onion. Mix the chicory with a French dressing made with part lemon juice and tarregon vinegar.

Delta Pudding.

This pudding is made by cooking one cup of washed rice in three cups of milk until soft. Add two tablespoons of butter, one-quarter cup of sugar, one cup of raisins and four tablespoons finely chopped almonds. Mix well, flavor with vanilla and mould in greased cups. When cold turn out on the dessert plates and pour over a lemon or orange sauce.

This dinner was served for a dollar and a half and was much nicer than some for which we have paid twice as much. I also persuaded the chef to give me these additional recipes that he thought would interest my readers.

"Favorite" Potatoes.

This is the chef's favorite method of serving potatoes. Place in a saucepan a tablespoon of flour and a tablespoon of butter and when smooth add one cup of meat stock, stir until it boils. Place in this sauce some slices of boiled potatoes and a tablespoon of chopped parsley; let stew for four minutes. Season with salt and remove from the fire and stir in one egg yolk beaten with a teaspoon of cold water and a few drops of lemon juice. When the egg has set turn out and serve.

A FIGHT TO THE FINISH

The above was the title of a very arousing message last night in St. Paul's church by the minister, Rev. R. Pogue. He said there can only be one attiude upon the part of the churchof Jesus Christ to the traffic in intoxicating liquor in any form —and that is an attitude of hostility. The Christian's attitude to the traffic is a "fight to the finish." Jesus Christ was manifested to destroy the works of the devil, not to license them or limit them or take them under government control, but to destroy them. The traffic in liquor is a work of the devil. Alcohol is a work of the devil. It has done more to mar God's handiwork, the human body, the human mind, the human soul, then all other works of the devil put together. A professor of medicine addressing a gathering of students, said if he were granted the gratification of one wish he would ask for the destruction of the process by which alcohol is made. One thing which science has done for us is to demonstrate with as much conclusiveness as that two and two make four that alcohol is always hurtful and that it is even so as a medicine. Just in proportion as people are educated, as they open their minds to the light which science is creating all around them, will they cease to expect their doctor to prescribe it and will they wish to use it in any form.

Speaking on the so-called legitimate use of it the speaker said, that the use of it almost always led to its abuse, and that for the reason that, unlike all other drinks, such as tea or coffee, a small quantity of it robs the person of the power to act normally. The man who uses it, uses a poison which robs him of the power of self-control. Many a man has gone to a gathering of friends with the intention of being moderate in its use and before the evening was over has been turned into a raving maniac or a murderer.

The only thing to do with such a power for evil is to destroy it. The only thing to do for the man who cannot use it in moderation is to put it beyond his reach. There is no use in talking about personal liberty in such a case. No man who uses alcohol as a beverage is free. What is freedom? It is the God-given power to do right and to act normally. Liberty for a bird is freedom to soar and sing in its native air. A bird is made for flight. That is why the creator gave it wings. If a bird's instinct should become perverted so that it wanted to swim instead of soar, we should help it to be free if we screened every lake and pond and so prevented it destroying itself by drowning. In doing such a thing we should not be interfering with its liberty. We should only be making it possible all the better for it to exercise its liberty of soaring and singing in the blue of the sky. And when we put alcohol out of the reach of men, when we put a screen upon it, so to speak, so that they cannot swim in it or wallow in it, and so unman themselves, and rob themselves to think rationally and act rationally, we do not curtail their liberties—instead we only make it possible for them to be truly free, to be the men God intended they should. And that surely is the work of the church. The church's work province from the outside and so do free. It is to prepare the way of the Lord by taking out of the way the things which cause His children to stumble and to fall. And that is what you will do on April the 18th when you mark your ballot for the preventing of liquor entering our provine from the outside and so do away with the evil of the open cellar as you have already done away with the evil of the open saloon.

ELIZABETHAN ERA REVIEWED

ADDRESS BEFORE WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB BY HEAD MASTER OF TRINITY COLLEGE SCHOOL.

IDEA METAMORPHOSED

"The Spacious Days of Elizabeth" was the title of the address delivered before the Women's Canadian Club on Saturday afternoon by Rev. Dr Orchard, head master of Trinity College School, Port Hope. Dr. Orchard is a most likable speaker, and handled his subject in a very interesting way. He considered the two most important factors in the moulding of the Elizabethan era as being the influence of Greek thought which manifested itself for the first time in England during the reign of Elizabeth, and the discovery of a new world horizon in the western hemisphere which was just opening up at this time.

The forces that were at work at the time of Elizabeth's birth were the new ideas of beauty and freedom of thought learned from the Greeks, and the throwing off of the old-time notions with regard to the earth as being a flat amorphous mass, with roots stretching down somewhere into the nether regions. Elizabeth's reign, he said, was an example of the truth of the old saying which declares that a country under a queen is ruled by men, while a country under a king is often ruled by women. Her qualities often considered hard and unwomanly by her biographers, were the very best thing for the country at that time, which might have been ruined by a woman with softer characteristics. Under her guidance London rose to a position as the head port of the world, and the Royal Exchange was founded in 1566. The principal note of her reign was that she ruled by factions and parties, which she upheld or weakened at her own pleasure.

Elizabeth also had labour troubles, which were probably just as serious in her day as they are now, and they settled them very effectively, legislation enacted by her remaining inforce until the reign of Queen Victoria. The speaker reviewed some of the habits of the olden times, which seem peculiar to a modern generation. William, the Conqueror ate with his fingers, and never saw a fire, the two thousand cooks of Richard the Second, could not make plum puddings nor mince pies, Chaucer never saw a printed book, Queen Elizabeth never drank tea or read a newspaper, George Third had no umbrella. There was no sugar until the 13th century, no coal until the 14th, no butter until the 15th, no tobacco or potatoes until the 16th, no tea, soap or coffee until the 17th, no umbrellas or lamps until the 18th, no trains, matches, telegrams or chloroform until the 19th.

The architecture of this time was interestingly described by the speaker. Prior to Elizabeth's reign, safety from outside attacks was the chief factor in house building, and the Lord's room, the cooking room, and the main hall, where the entire household ate lived and slept were their ideas of a house in those days. Elizabeth sent men abroad to study the architecture of other countries, and, in her reign, we find the introduction of a more comfortable mode of living. More rooms were added, and everything was ornamented Even the chimneys, the roofs and the towers were carved in exaggerated forms, and some windows contained as many as 3,200 panes of glass. There were wonderful gardens also, with the pattern of the geometrically-laid grass-plots to correspond with the pattern of the house-carvings. Here were all sorts of flowers, fruits and vegetables, and a forest rose at the rear to provide protection for these houses which were truly dwellings, the children growing up in them rarely leaving the house or garden for the first 15 or 20 years of their existence.

The dress of these days was extravagant in its richness. Scarfs for men came at £10 each, shoe-buckles and garters at £5, the sum of £100 was considered a moderate outlay for gentlemen's costume, with hats of silk, and velcet and hat bands of striped white and black, never two days like. The speaker declared the intricacies of feminine attire in those days far too difficult for him to attempt to describe, but gave a little description of the ruff or band so popular then, from which the band-box was named. Starting first as a plain linen collar, it increased gradually in size, and was upheld first by wooden supports, then by bone and later by steel. The invention of yellow starch by Mistress Ann Turner, was perfected by the Dutch and a Holland woman in the employ of the Queen gave lessons in yellow startching at £5 each, with £1 extra for instruction in mixing and preparing. The ruffs, which were called piccadeles, were made by a taior named Higgins, residing in a part of London which afterwards became known as Piccadilly.

A very hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Orchard was moved by Mrs. R. J. Devey seconded by Mrs. A. H. Stratton and presented by Mrs. James Kendry cars, or for the professional men of mature years who suffered such loss in practice, while young men hung out their shingles in their absence, and increased in worldly wealth. So, in the spring of 1920, at the Montreal Convention, it was decided to ask for an additional payment of $1.00 per day from enlistment to date of discharge for men who had served in the actual theatre of war, and proportionate pay for those who had served elsewhere.

The soldiers' dollar had not increased in value any more than the dollar for any other part of the world, and reference was made here to the $8,000,000 which represented a difference in exchange lost somewhere between Ottawa and the paymaster's quarters in France, which the Government declares it didn't get, and the soldiers know very well they did not receive. They feel that the increase asked for by them is just as reasonable as the increase in pay demanded by the members at Ottawa who, while they may have worked ujst as hard during the war in their places in the Legislature, ere spared a few of the minor discomforts endured in the trenches at Flanders.

The G.W.V.A. band rendered some fine selections before and after Mr. Turley's speech, which were very much enjoyed.

We have voted out the poor man's bar. Next Monday let us vote out the rich man's cellar.

REFERENDUM INFORMATION

NEXT Monday, April 18, the electors of Ontario will be expected to vote on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

The reason so much liquor is being consumed in Ontario is because the law permits liquor to be imported into the province. At present it is perfectly legal to import car loads of intoxicating liquor into Ontario. Under these conditions it is difficult and almost impossible to properly enforce the laws.

Next Monday, electors, on entering the polling booths, will be handed ballots reading as follows:

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? NO

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? YES X

People who are in favor of temperance should mark an X opposite the word YES as shown on the ballot above.

When To Vote

This year the polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The law allows employees one hour, in addition to the noon hour, without loss of time, in which to vote.

People who find it impossible to vote before 5 p.m. will be able to vote between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

MEETINGS THIS WEEK

This week meetings will be held as follows:

TUESDAY, April 12th, 8 p.m., Mark Street Church. Speaker: Mayor Anderson, Orillia.

Prohibition Rally, Salvation Army Hall, Browntown, 8 p.m. Speaker: Rev. Dr. Speer, Toronto.

WEDNESDAY, April 13th, 8 p.m., Public Meeting in favor of the Referendum, St. James' Methodist Church. Speaker: Rev. Dr. Speer, Toronto.

ROBERTSON FIGHTS CATHOLIC UNIONS

In Doing So the Minister of Labor Is Not Prompted by Religious Bigotry.

VERY MODERATE MAN

He Is Fighting, Like the Late Cardinal Gibbons, to Prevent Division Among Citizens.

By M. GRATTAN O'LEARY.

SENATOR GIDEON ROBERTSON, at present a political storm centre because of his attacks on the National Catholic Unions of Quebec, incarnates the "middle-of-the-road" man whom Mr. Meighen has summoned to his banner. In the Senate, where his presence is like an exotic plant of democracy in a hot-house of reactionism, he is regarded as a dangerous radical, but one fancies that British Labor leaders like Mr. Robert Smillie and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald would hold him to be anything but progressive.

He is not of the class of Labor leader who promises the millennium every morning. He is simply a plain, old-fashioned trades unionist, his thinking cast in a traditional, conservative mold, and with nothing utopian in his vision. Nor is his attack upon the National Catholic Unions prompted by either religious bigotry or anti-clericalism. It is simply that he regards them as a menace to the solidarity of trades unionism as a whole, and, consequently, a development to be combated.

It was the same with the One Big Union. Senator Robertson saw in the rise of the O. B. U. the ultimate destruction of all that Labor had achieved on the North American continent in the last half century, and so he fought it with all the strength at his command. In the Quebec Catholic Unions he discerns a similar peril. He sees their idea of a sectarian test for membership spreading to other provinces and other Labor groups, incubating religious prejudice, promoting sectarian groups and enfeebling the entire Labor movement with the poison of bigotry and strife. And so just as he fought the One Big Union he is now fighting the Catholic Unions.

Oppose Religious Segregation

IT is perhaps not without interest to recall that in this attitude he is fighting over again a battle which the late Cardinal Gibbons fought and won more than a quarter of a century ago—in the days of the Knights of Labor. The Knights of Labor, under the leadership of Terence Powderly, himself a Catholic, came under the ban of the church. In Quebec, where Cardinal Taschereau was then at the zenith of his power, they were completely banned, no Catholic being permitted to join them under pain of excommunication, while in the United States, where the matter had been left to the decision of the American bishops by the third plenary council of Baltimore, a similar situation was threatened. It was argued that Catholics who joined an organization like the Knights of Labor endangered their faith, and a movement was mooted for the organization of purely Catholic workmen's societies under the direction of the clergy. Cardinal Gibbons stoutly opposed the idea. In a letter addressed to Rome, and which has since become famous, he defended the right of Catholics to mix with Protestants in daily intercourse.

Cardinal Gibbons won a clear-cut triumph. Not only did Rome decide not to forbid the organization of the Knights in the United States, but the ban was lifted in Canada. The inadvisability, not to mention the danger, of Catholics segregating themselves from Protestants in the sphere of citizenship, was definitely defined.

Senator Robertson is not concerned with the faith and morals of Catholics, as such, but, like Cardinal Gibbons, he believes that any system which would divide the members of the various creeds into a multitude of unions could only result in disaster, not only for the cause of Labor, but for that of religious tolerance as well. And while he may not be as successful as was the late cardinal of Baltimore in achieving his ends, he will not easily recede from his position.

Much Worser.

"HAVE you a little fairy in your home?"

"No, but I have a little miss in my engine."—The Drexerd.

FARMERS' CABINET GOOD OFFICE MEN

Premier Drury Answers a Hundred Letters and Does Day's Work With Despatch.

NIXON IS SYSTEMATIC

Minister of Education Grant Never Hurries, But Always Has Work Well in Hand.

By W. H. G.

IF he is wise, the supporter of the United Farmers' government will come to Toronto during the session of the legislature should he desire to find out how the Drury cabinet is getting along. From his seat in the speaker's gallery, he will be able to judge by results. There he may note how his favorite minister has improved in oratory. He may also pick up a copy of "votes and proceedings" and follow up the progress of government legislation. He may possibly determine the good and bad points in the administration of the year.

But the ardent member of a U. F. O. club, who would learn how the ministers of the crown carry on between sessions, is up against a hard proposition. It is difficult for him to get anything more than a peek into the nicely furnished offices, marked "private."

Over a year ago, there were those who had grave forebodings that the province would suffer severely at the hands of farmers who were inexperienced in "office work." People had become accustomed to the widespread belief that lawyers and professional men were best suited to occupy cabinet positions.

Since then results have satisfied many that that belief was ill-founded. Yet there are others who still wonder how these farmers manage their office work.

However, a minister cannot hide his light under a bushel for long. There are a select few, who act as judges and sooner or later, give their verdict. These are civil servants, who stay when governments go, and whose favorite pastime is to make comparisons. And in spite of the fact that the majority of these unobtrusive individuals are supercritical, their general belief is that the present cabinet, taken as a whole, is as efficient as the average group of men which has invaded the buildings in the past. It appears that the training of the farmer gives him a great capacity for work, which after all is the main essential for office or any other kind of efficiency.

Premier Drury sets the pace. On an ordinary day, he comes down to the office from his room bright and early and loses no time in getting to work. When there is something that must be done with despatch, meals and rest are secondary considerations.

Usually, he has from eighty to one hundred letters to go through before he does anything else. To the greater portion of these, he directs a reply for his secretary or the deputy to write. Those which he deems ought to have special consideration he dictates himself. And when he dictates, he carries on as fast as he speaks when on the public platform. It is very seldom that he has to grope for a particular word or special phrase, the better to express the idea he wishes to convey.

Biggs Looks Busiest

THEN comes deputations. There is never a moment in the morning when there is no one waiting in the outside office to see the premier. And here the judges find one fault. He has not learned the gentle art of "choking off" an eloquent speaker, who has exceeded his allotted time for presenting his case.

At two o'clock Mr. Drury slips away for luncheon and is generally back at three, when he either sticks at his desk or attends a meeting of the council. The evenings he spends in study in his room and in keeping in touch with the affairs of the world at large.

Hon. H. C. Nixon, the provincial secretary, who is sarcastically referred to by some of the opposition as the "boy statesman," also has a large number of deputations to attend to, but to his lot falls more actual office work. Like the premier the more work there is the better he enjoys himself. He is exceedingly systematic and has never yet been caught with an untidy desk.

It migth be going too far to call the minister of education, Mr. Grant, the "dandy" of the cabinet, yet in the solitude of his office, or as he slowly paces through the halls of the parliament buildings, that descriptive word just naturally presents itself. He never seems to be in a hurry. There is not the hustle around his office that is found elsewhere. But he gets his work done. He might be compared to an electric motor; silent, but efficient. At the end of the day he can always retire to his room and indulge in quiet reading with the knowledge that his routine work is well in hand.

The minister of public works, Hon. F. C. Biggs, is the aggressive member of the cabinet. He literally breezes into his office in the mornings, although he is not at home as often as his colleagues. His keen interest in the progress of good roads takes him out over the province very frequently. But when he comes back then everybody around the southeast corner of the second floor knows it. He believes in advertising that he is working.

Hon. Peter Smith, whose duties as provincial treasurer are perhaps a little heavier than some others in council, leaves most of the details to those under him. In spite of outside criticism levelled at him for his administration of the finances of the province, he is judged by these servants as a good man for the job. He accepts plenty of advice—and then turns around and does as he pleases. He holds more conferences with various men and groups of men than any other man in the cabinet.

Mr. Doherty is the placid, easy-going gentleman, who is capable of doing more than his manner would lead one to believe. His forte is a well directed initiative, as evidenced in his two trips to the old country.

If we are to accept the opinions of civil servants then the business of plowing may not be such a handicap to those who aspire to be office men, as one would naturally be led to believe.

Touch the Bell

THE latest story of J. D. Rockefeller, the millionaire oil king, illustrates one of his mottoes, "Never do any unimportant work for yourself which others, whose time is less valuable, can do."

One day his secretary was reading to him an important letter which called for an interest calculation. Instinctively the secretary began a rapid calculation, but the reproof came without delay. "Mr. Rogers," said the millionaire, "you have clerks to figure interest. Touch your bell."

J. L. Englehart

Englehart, a Practical Joker, Pulled "Good One" on the Count

Former T. and N.O. Chairman a Kindly Man With Great Sense of Humor—Close Interest in Government Railroad.

MR. J. L. ENGLEHART, who died recently, gave of his very best for years to the T. and N. O. Railroad, of which commission he was chairman. He served too without pay, turning his $5,000 salary over to charity. He put into effect a paternal not to say patriarchal method of handling the employes, holding frequent conferences of officials. He kept tab on the work of almost every employe and one of them was as likely as not to receive a personal letter of commendation. Many stories are told about his capacity for close detail in the affairs of the road. Mr. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., is authority for the following:

While on a trip over the Ontario government's road he got into conversation with one of the track workers and asked him how he liked certain officials. After getting the trackman's frank opinion about several of his superiors Mr. Nesbitt asked: "And Mr. Englehart, what about him?"

"Englehart!" replied the man with the pick. "Say! If there's a match missing on this line Englehart knows it."

Petrolea also knew Mr. Englehart as a kindly benefactor. The big Imperial Oil Company's plant there, of which he was head, saw many examples in effect of better conditions for workers. A practical form of workmen's compensation was worked out years before the province made it effective.

Mr. Englehart, in his younger days, was a confirmed practical joker. One day in the old Tecumseh House in London he saw a couple of wooden spigots in the office. A few minutes later, on the street, he met the president of the local game protection association, to whom he confided his suspicion that the proprietor of the hotel was breaking the game laws as he had just seen a couple of "Canadian wood cocks" at the hotel.

The overzealous president, without verifying the information, proceeded to lay a charge against the hotelkeeper and summoned Mr. Englehart as a witness. Crown Attorney Taylor was rather dubious about the case, knowing Mr. Englehart's predilection for jokes, but placed him in the box. The witness had taken the precaution to provide himself with the exhibits in the case, and when asked to tell his story, he repeated his story as to what he had seen at the hotel, and in confirmation he produced the spigots and laid them on the magistrate's desk. The irate crown attorney accused him of trifling with the dignity of the court and pressed for a commitment for contempt, but Magistrate Lawrason, who loved a joke himself, looked at the spigots and overruled the motion.

"Then I ask your worship to assess the costs of the case on Mr. Englehart," insisted Mr. Taylor, but the magistrate laughing, replied: "I'm afraid you'll have to pay the costs yourself."

Gardening a la Mode

"WHAT'S the best way to grow potatoes?" asked the amateur gardener of his more experienced friend.

"Plant onions above them," was the reply.

"The onions will make the potatoes' eyes water, and that'll save you a lot of work with the watering-can!"

SIR ROBERT HORNE'S METEORIC RISE

IN the last two years Sir Robt. Horne has shot like a meteor across the political sky of Great Britain, minister of labor, president of the board of trade, and now chancellor of the exchequer in succession to Bonar Law. People are justified in asking, What next? For he is not yet fifty years of age. He resembles Bonar Law in one respect: he is the son of a Scottish manse Bonar Law of a New Brunswick one.

Sir Robert was an athlete in his youth and played rugby for Glasgow University. He was said to have been making between $60,000 and $80,000 a year at the bar when at the outbreak of the war he threw it up to assist in recruiting. His subsequent political adventures have therefore been also made at considerable financial sacrifice. He was discovered in a sense by Sir Eric Geddes, with whom and Sir Auckland he went to schoo at Watson's, Edinburgh's famous academy. When Sir Eric wanted help to organize the transport system during the war he called in his old friend. He has been progressing onwards and upwards ever since.

Sir Robert is a Conservative. Some months ago the London Times marked him out as Bonar Law's natural successor as leader of the Conservatives, but hinting that he might one day head a new party by fusing the progressive elements that now exist side by side within the coalition. He is sure of a notable future in British politics.

A Priest President

THE C.P.R. once had a temporary president in the person of Rev. Father Lacombe, O.M.I., the well-known and well-beloved missionary of the farther west, relates George Ham in Maclean's Magazine. The arrival of the first through train from Winnipeg to Calgary was the occasion. At luncheon in President Stephen's private car, at which were several directors and Father Lacombe, it was playfully suggested that in recognition of his invaluable services during the building of the road through an unknown country largely peopled by savages, the good priest should be elevated to the presidency of the C.P.R. An emergency meeting of the directors was hastily called. Mr. Stephen resigned his office, and Father Lacombe was elected in his stead. His term of office lasted exactly one hour, during which he installed Mr. Van Horne as general manager, but did not enunciate any particular policy, and gracefully retired without drawing his salary. Then Mr. Stephen (later Lord Mountstephen), was re-installed as president.

Slumming in Montreal

WRITING of Vice-President I. G. Ogden, "financial genius of the C.P.R.," in Maclean's Magazine, George Ham says that he has a keen appreciation of the humorous. His frequent sallies always produce laughter. One of the best, he goes on, was that when, some time after the formation of the Montreal millionaire club, the Mount Royal, which led to the desertion of some of the habitues of the well-known fashionable St. James' Club for the new attraction, one day a friend, who had been conspicuous by his absence from the St. James and presence at the Mount Royal, dropped in casually at the former, and when Mr. Ogden saw him gaily greeted him with "Hello, old man, slumming again?"

From the Ranks

WORKHOUSE boy, pit worker, bus conductor and soldier, Captain Robert Gee, V.C., M.C., who won the by-election in East Woolwich from J. Ramsay Macdonald, has had a wonderful career, particularly as a fighting man.

After spending three years in the workhouse, he "roughed it" in the East-end, and got a job as a bus conductor at twelve shillings a week before joining the army. Rising to the rank of regimental quartermaster-sergeant, he was given a commission on the field for gallantry subsequently winning the Victoria Cross at Cambrai.

On one occasion finding an enemy machine-gun still in action, Captain Gee, revolver in hand and followed by only one man, rushed and captured the gun, killing eight of the crew.

The Confessional: Uncensored Talks With Big Men About Themselves

No. 29—R. J. FLEMING

By Emil Longue-Beau.

THERE'S no half-way with the man whom everybody calls Bob. With this one, he's either the implacable grinder for a soulless corporation, or the biggest-hearted man Toronto has ever produced. He is called that by one of the cleverest critics of Sir William Mackenzie, whose cherished lieutenant R. J. still is, as well as a hydro warmer for Sir Adam Beck.

Bob wore a beard till shortly after he became a street railwayman. Then he shaved to a mustache, because, as he said to a friend who knew how to take a joke, "When I got used to trimming the public, I thought it better to start to trim myself." He's all cheerfulness, all heartiness, and whenever he pleases, all reticence.

"Ah, here you are," he cried, rising from the big chair in the big board room whose windows overlook St. James' cathedral. "Glad you got here, pretty nearly on time, too. Tell me what you'd like to know and I'll tell you as little as I can." This with a slap on the shoulder and a smile that a motorman couldn't have pulled off.

"It's up to you," I said.

"To me?" he rejoined, with another slap. "Well, if you hear the story of my life, you'll be here a long time. It's been quite a long life," he went on, "and a pretty full one."

"Full?" I questioned, in surprise, "and you a prohibitionist?"

"I don't mean it that way," he said; "but merely that I've been busy—though maybe you think fat men don't work much?"

"My observation has been," said I, "that they are great successes getting other people to work."

"That's the ticket," proceeded our liquorless Falstaff. "That's it exactly. And you confer a wonderful benefit on the others. I'm thinking of bequeathing a small endowment for a yearly lecture in Convocation Hall on 'The Sacrifices of Obesity'. It won't be a mistake for some millionaire to establish a store which large men may enter with the certain knowledge that they can get underwear that won't split when first they put it on. Believe me, it's a Christian virtue for a man to carry two hundred and sixty pounds on one pair of ankles and not become wearied of the load. I'm quite an old Christian from that point of view. I've been fat a long time. Years ago I laughed and grew fat; and I haven't lost the merry habit, though I'm rolling on towards seventy."

"Seventy what?"

"Seventy years, my dear boy. You're a babe to me. I'm rising sixty-seven—didn't you know that?"

"You are astonishing."

"Oh, yes, I'm among the old fellows, but only according to the calendar. You see, I keep up my pleasures—seeing Toronto grow is the chief one, caring for Jerseys is the next; paying wages is the third, and remedying complaints is the fourth. All these, understand, are beyond those family joys on which we do not expatiate to the press. Oh, yes, I have another pleasure."

"Which is."

"Watching Sir William Mackenzie. There's some man, if you like—all pepper and sight. And as staunch as humanity's born. He took me away from the assessment department to run the street railway. Then he made me manager of the power interests. Though he has some of the eccentricities of genius—he's a great man to work for. He doesn't slobber over you or anything like that, but he stands by you. People who rap at him don't know him."

"You have found him to be a philanthropist?"

"Not exactly—not altogether. There's nothing philanthropic about a share certificate, is there?"

"It'll be some parting between you when the power and light clean-up's through, and the city takes over the street railway."

"It will indeed, till we meet to part no more. I hope the railway passes to the city on the first of September. Do you know what I'm going to do? I'm going to the Exhibition every day and all day and stay with my Jerseys. It will be bliss divine, all bliss excelling."

"For the Jerseys," I said.

"Yes, they don't see as much of me as I'd like."

"How much more of you do you want them to see?"

"Say," said Bob. "I'm afraid you're getting to be a jollier."

"Possibly," was the answer. "See the company I'm in."

"My dear boy," said R. J. gravely, life is too short at rising sixty-seven, to spend an afternoon in this sort of frivolity. Why don't you go and work for the referendum. You know, I'm a veteran of the Dominion Alliance, and for many years its treasurer. I've a daughter in the mission field, and I shall soon be out of work."

"Why not run for mayor?"

"Not on your life. I was mayor of this town twenty-nine years ago. I was re-elected. Then I was two years off the job, then back in 1896 and 1897. I resigned to be assessment commissioner in August, 1897. It was all right, and I think I was a pretty good mayor. Toronto was a manageable place then. Now it's a metropolis, and it takes a whole Church to run it. In those days I knew everybody on the street; now I——"

"Now you are scarcely ever on the street," I couldn't help breaking in.

"Not as much as I'd like to be. The auto is an enemy to Shanks' pony. It's very different from the days when I used to deliver milk and sell coal and wood. Oh, you needn't look as though you fear I'd not mention my humbler days. When a man's too big to remember the foundation on which he was reared, there's something hopeless about him. I can spend a dollar without missing it, but it wasn't always so. I know what it is to be poor because I hadn't anything, and I know what it is to be poor because I had too much."

"A poverty lots of people would like to suffer."

"Oh, I don't know. It's a fearful thing to be land poor. I was, as a result of the land boom of thirty years ago. It's all right up on St. Clair now, but I've seen the time when you couldn't sell land, and it was a most infernal scratch to keep what you had. That's the period in life when you really know that taxes are certain as death and when you need all your faith in good old Toronto. I did faith, and here I am, and at Pickering the Jerseys are. Do you like cream? Ride down with me and I'll give you a pailful. It'd fatten you a bit."

"Does Sir William like cream?"

"Not much; and I haven't found out yet whether Sir Adam does. Did you ever know a funnier thing than that McDougall and I should be working with Sir Adam after all we've gone through? Hydro sure does generate queer colleagues. It makes you cultivate a forgottory, which is the best handmaid to memory a man can possibly acquire."

"For instance?"

"Yes, for instance, as you profoundly remark. I was going over my personal file the other day, and found this."

"This" was two letters, one from Sir William MacKenzie to Sir William Hearst, and one from himself to Sir Adam."

"You know, Sir Adam had trouble in supplying munition plants with power during the war. In February, 1917, he got legislation authorizing the appointment of inspectors to regulate water powers. He became inspector with absolutely autocratic power over the Hydro's competitors. Then in the legislature he accused us of stealing power from the province at Niagara Falls, said Sir William had threatened him with a libel action, and dared us to come on.

"Sir William wrote to Premier Hearst flatly charging Sir Adam with untruth—'despicable calumny' was a phase you can read here—courting the fullest investigation of the facts. Look here'—and Bob put his pencil on this paragraph:

"Sir Adam Beck accuses us of stealing. I wonder what crime he would class his action of last year, when he attempted to treat our solemn contracts, confirmed by the legislature, as scraps of paper? This I know—when we attempted to take him into the courts, he rushed to the government, and through his influence stopped the ordinary course of justice."

"Pretty warm that," proceeded Bob. "And I followed suit with something just about as strong. Here, read it for yourself."

Which I did, while Bob, who was as blithe as a May robin, rose, thrust his hands into his pockets, strode to a window, and whistled as he watched his chariots go by. His was sure some letter, as long as a Church inaugural, and as full of punches as the inaugurals are of words. When I was through reading, he remarked:

"D'ye think I could have made a writer?"

"You could have made anything," I said, "from a preacher to a politician. Is there anything in the letters to withdraw, now that the armistice is on?"

"What we have written we have written," answered R. J. "But if Sir Adam doesn't rake them up, we shan't. We've agreed to sell, and that's all there is to it. 'Forget it' is sometimes a very good business maxim. But it's sometimes worth knowing that there really is something to forget."

I'm going to the Exhibition every day and stay with my Jerseys.

MANITOBA HAS A WOMAN M.P.P. NOW

Mrs. R. A. Rogers Original Occupant of "Lady Members' Room" in New Capitol.

OF OLD WEST FAMILY

Manitoba Is Right Up-to-date With Four Political Parties Elected Through "P.R."

By HILDA RIDLEY.

AT the opening of the Manitoba legislature there were two entirely unique features. One was that four different political groups took their places, and the other that a woman stepped upon the floor of the house as an elected member.

Mrs. R. A. Rogers, M.P.P., who is a member of the Norris government, was elected through the proportional representation system that was tried out for the first time in Winnipeg last June in the case of the election of ten members from the city. Perfectly self-possessed, and with a record behind her of five years of useful work for the returned man and his dependents, Mrs. Rogers "took the house by storm." There is no doubt that her election is a popular one, and that it presages a long line of women, who will follow in her steps in helping to make the laws of the province.

A great, great granddaughter of that Sir George Simpson who was at one time the governor of the Hudson Bay Company, Mrs. Rogers springs from the stock of the pathfinders. Her maiden name was McTavish, and her forebears were the McTavishes who planned the old Forts Garry. She herself was born at historic Norway House, Manitoba, where her father, the late Donald McTavish, was stationed as chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company. When she was two years old she was taken east, and went to school in Montreal. Upon leaving school she returned with her father to Winnipeg, where she met and in the following summer married Mr. Arthur Rogers. She is the mother of four children, three girls, and a boy, who is still at school.

It is most interesting to visit the rooms set aside in the parliament buildings for the special use of Manitoba's future women legislators. On the door are inscribed the words, "Lady Members' Room," and the word "members," it is to be noted, is given a plural rendering. The parliament buildings are new and among the fair promises which their beauty symbolizes, is the prescience that prepared a fitting place for the reception of future women legislators. With a color scheme in soft shades of brown, with plants in the windows, and on the writing table a photograph of the four children of Mrs. Rogers, the room has an atmosphere not only of dignity but of charm.

Perfectly at home and happy in her new environment, Mrs. Rogers demonstrates anew the adaptability of women and the capacity for growth and development which enables her to adjust herself to new conditions and exigencies. She speaks with enthusiasm of the courtesy that has been extended to her by the members throughout the present session.

"Not that I expect to be treated as if I were anything but a very independent woman," she said smilingly. "I don't expect the men to carry my books for me—or to see me home at night—or anything of that kind; but I do appreciate the fair treatment that has been accorded me. I think there is a tremendous future for women in public life. We need the women's point of view, which is quite different from the men's. I think we have discovered since the war that men and women can work together, and work far better in that way than in separate camps."

In the four "groups" in the Manitoba legislative assembly, there are twenty-one Liberals, sixteen Independent Farmers, ten Labor members and seven Conservatives. Mrs. Rogers was the only one of the four women candidates who ran for election last June who succeeded in winning a seat.

GENERAL ALEX McRAE IN WAR AND BUSINESS

MAJOR-GEN. ALEXANDER D. McRAE, C.B., of Vancouver, who has become managing director of the Western Canada Colonization Association, had the name of being a great business organizer even before the war, when he was given a national opportunity for displaying his capacity. At the outbreak of war this western business man was made a lieutenant-colonel and given charge of all remounts west of the Great Lakes. A noted horseman himself, he saved the government huge sums of money in purchasing. Later he proceeded overseas and reorganized the army horse business in England and France, abolishing separate Canadian remount depots and again saving much unnecessary expenditure. He then became Director of supply and transport and quartermaster-general. As the latter he became father of the Canadian army ration scheme, under which the C. E. F. was said to be the cheapest and best fed force in the war. The Australians adopted his system en bloc. Once again there was a great saving of money. During the last year of the war, at the request of the British authorities, he was seconded to the imperial service and became director of administration in the ministry of information, with the rank of major-general. He served in this capacity without pay.

Major-Gen. McRae is an Ontario man, a native of Glencoe, who has been west for the past twenty years.

THE COMRADES LOST OPENING AGAINST THE CANADIAN GENERAL

A FREE KICK TAKEN BY M'DONALD OPENED THE SCORING—M'DOUGALL RECIPROCATED THROGH A PENALTY—TURNER MOST OUTSTANDING PLAYER—SCRIMMAGE IN FRONT OF GOAL GIVE C.G.E. THE LEAD—C.G.E 2, COMRADES 0.

Under League auspices the Canadian General and Comrades played at Exhibition grounds on Saturday afternoon in very windy weather. Both teams received a defeat last week, but on this occasion the C.G. E. team defeated the Comrades by a score of 2 goals to 1.

The Teams.

Comrades—G. T. Poste, goal; R. Jolliffe and F. Mallison, backs; A. Jackson, H. Cowie and W. Warman, half-backs; J. P. Roberts, M. Dunkley, E. G. Hardie, Wm. McDougall and C. Hopkins, forwards.

Canadian General — C. Griffine, goal; J. McDonald and J. Wain, backs; J. Mann, H. Turner and J. Williams, half-backs; D. Gash, C. Hotston, J. T. Powell, J. Williams and T. Bartley, forwards.

Referee—W. R. Thompson.

The Game.

There was no advantage in winning the toss and play opened in the most lively and spirited fashion. Only a minute had gone when Williamson with an easy opening faltered, and was disposed by Joliffe. Quick as a flash C. Hopkins beat down the wing to make Waine mis-kick that was very dangerous, but McDonald cleared in nick of time. Turner made an opening for Powell, but he was slow to accept it. A free kick against the Comrades proved disaster. McDonald sent in a hard shot to Poste who misjudged the ball that slopped through and put the C.G.E. ahead. Comrades improved and for a long period over-ran the C.G.E. defence, but the backs prevented a score. Comrades were superior in their forward line and were very dangerous at this stage. Eventualy a raid resulted in McDonald hitting the ball with his elbow for a penalty. McDougall was trusted with the kick to even up the score.

Second Half.

C. G. E. started off prominently, and ouly Comrades' resolute defence kept them out from goal, where Poste played a good game. Each goalkeeper was visited in rotation. Williams and Bartley made a raid on the left wing that was spoiled by C.G.E. player getting offsides. Turner was playing a great game at centre half and time and again tried to intrdouce his steadying influence that was very ineffective. At last giving an opening, he sent the ball into goal that ended with a scrimmage in front of Poste's charge. The Comrades players claimed an infringement had been committed, when "Wag" Hoston give the C.G. E. the wining goal. The referee claimed he did not see the offence and allowed the game to proceed, but the Comrades players alleged the C. G. E. player punted the ball through with his hand. There was nothing between them for fifteen minutes, both goals having narrow escapes. Just before the final whistle Powell and Hotston tore down upon the Comrades' defence to put the ball through, but a previous infringement nullified the point. The C.G.E. retired winners of two valuable league points. C.G.E. 2 goals, Comrades 1.

Goal scores—Comrades, McDougall. C.G.E.—McDonald and 'Wag' Hoston.

LINDSAY IS OUT OF THE CENTRAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

The Lindsay Post says:—Lindsay Greybirds will not be in the Central Ontario Baseball League this year. This decision has been definitey arrived at after due consideration, and after a determined effort had been made to round up sufficient players to guarantee a good team. The trouble is that for two or three years past Lindsay has not been developing material, but this year there promises to be a four-team Town League, and it is interesting to note in passing that one of the teams will be compriged chiefly of young blood. While the Greybirds were making a good showing in the Central League in the past two seasons the development of players through the Town League was being neglected.

On the other hand, there is no gain saying the fact that it takes a good fast team to compete with the calibre of ball played in the Central League; that Peterboro, Oshawa, Belleville and Cobourg have drawing powers whereby players can be located and given legitimate employment, and play baseball on the side. Peterboro, Oshawa and Belleville have also a larger population to draw from, which is also an advantage to the game.

It had been demonstrated time and time again, that Lindsay fans will not patronize anything but winning, ball and losing teams also means financial loss to those managing the affairs. It has also been the case for years back that the entire responsibility of organizing falls on the shoulders of a faithful few, and hence the decision this season to get back into the town league and develop players, and come back stronger than ever in a year or two.

There is also a possibility of placing a team in the Tri-County League this year, a League that produced good baseball last year. It is hoped that bigger gates will result from this end of the League

It is a blow to enthusiastic fans in Lindsay to see the Greybirds drop out of the Central League, as games with Peterboro, Oshawa, Belleville, Port Hope and Cobourg were always enjoyed. However, there may be a brighter day coming, when Lindsay (if allowed) will step back into the Central arena and land the silverware. In the meantime Lindsay wishes the Central League every success, and will co-operate with the officers in every way possible to bring about that success.

In the meantime Lindsay fans are asked to fall in line and boost the town league. May the four teams selected be well balanced and may they provide good baseball.

CITIZENS BANQUET TO BASKET BALL CHAMPIONS

PUBLIC RECOGNITION TO BE GIVEN WEDNESDAY NIGHT — OPPORTUNITY TO DISCUSS SPORTING SITUATION IN PETERBOROUGH.

A citizens' banquet will be tendered the champion basketball team of this city at the Empress Hotel on Wednesday evening, 13th April, at which the City Council will be represented. The basketball team have had the honour of bringing the firt championship to Peterborough in some years, and are entitled to all the recognition the citizens of Peterborough can give them on this occasion.

At the banquet an opportunity will be given speakers in the city, who are interested in amateur sport to briefly discuss the situation, and Dr. A. M. McPherson, Rev. Father Costello, ex-Mayor Duffus, R. M. Glover, W. R. Breyfogle, and H. R. H. Kenner will talk on the subject from different angles. Music will be supplied by Mr. Walter Evans and Mr. John Crane.

To show their interest in the meeting, the following gentlemen have contributed cigars: Messrs. A. W. Clydesdale, Ed. Wright, Louis Yeotes, Bruce Patterson, Sam Ray, United Cigar Stores and Alderman Gainey.

Tickets are on sale by members of the committee, and those who are approached to purchase them will do a good service to the city if they are present on this occasion.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

"HUMAN HEARTS" COMING.

All who enjoy good melodrama—and who does not?—are promised a treat at the Grand to-night when Mr. Frank Carpenter will present at the Grand Opera House a revival of a famous play that has entertained thousands during its many performances. This is Hal Reid's "Human Hearts," which is a combination of all of those elements that go to make an excellent play.

"Human Hearts" has many beautiful stage pictures; it provides much amusement with its many bright comedy scenes; and it has many very impressive moments that grip the heart-strings. The cast is a very strong one, with wee Dorothy Mackay the featured member. Local theatre-goers will recal the big hit she scored in "Cinderella," "Babes in the Woods," and other productions in which she revealed histrionic ability that amazed the critics, portraying extremely difficult roles with a finish that would have done credit to many performers old enough to be her grandparents.

"WAY DOWN EAST."

In his master production of "Way Down East" at the Grand Theatre, it is apparent that David W. Griffith has seized upon the opportunity to reflect life in all its moods. He has taken this story of a woman's struggles and the surrounding pastoral element to bring forth all shades of love and life, contrasting the rural simplicities with the teem of city luxury. He brings forth the joys of righteousness only to place beside them the woe of sin and of shame. Not content to unfold the moods of life, Griffith in all the mastery of his genius and art takes advantage of Natures' whims and shows her moods also. There is happy Spring bursting into the open summer, while sombre autumn turns on the lathe of season to the drab of bleak winter. That this all gives wide range to the photographers' art it is useless to emphasize, but these changing landscape vistas are merely in keeping with the shifting modes of life as brought forth in the incidents of the drama. Fitting Nature's moods to keep apace with the theme of life is art and genius, and in so doing Mr. Griffith has struggled to heights previously unknown even for him.

"THE GIRL FROM NOWHERE"

It has become a truism in things theatrical to say "a laugh is worth a hundred dollars." If this is true then the "Girl from Nowhere" must be an exceedingly valuable property It is as full of laughs as a Ford is full of rattles. Imagine a meek little man endeavoring to interview a big husky heavyweight prize fighter who will persist in showing that what will happen when he gets the other guy in the ring, and illustrating the punch with which he will rock "the big cheese to sleep". There are two of these fighting men Bearcat O'Brien and Eat-em-alive Dumpsey. Their other so flat you could play him on a gramaphone. The big fellows are making moving pictures for rival firms, and their meetings are full of vituperative remarks, which cause endless amusement. All these things are so neatly done, however, that they bear not the sligtest resemblance to what is known as a Burlesque show. Then there is the hilarious scene where the detective measures the "Silly Ass" for a suit of clothes, sells stockings to the young lady and gets himself hopelessly involved in the process. There are dozens of mirth provoking situations in which the detective finds himself. That sterling comedian, Billie Oswald, plays the detective and the part fits him like a glove. His idea of a detective's duties probably would not recommend him to the Chief of police, but it is a thing of joy to the audience The "Girl from Nowhere" Stuart Whyte's latest greatest and up-to-datest musical comedy will be at the Grand on Tuesday, April 12. The cast also contains such internationally famous names as J. V. Barrett-Lennard, the immaculate English johnny, and a host of others. The title role is played by Canada's own Comedienne in her own inimitable manner. A round a dozen girls who besides being as pretty as the proverbial picture, can sing and dance, complete the cast. To use a colloquialism it is "some" show.

AT THE ALLEN.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO EXCHANGE WIVES

The latest Goldwyn release "The Concert," which comes to the Allen Theatre to-day for two days, commencing to-day, gives an admirable answer to a question that has been troubling certain "Bohemians," that is, why isn't it all right to exchange wives?

The picture shows just what would happen, and when Leo Ditrichstein played in so successfully on Broadway, both advanced thinkers and conservative clergymen went away pleased. The play is an exceptionally well acted comedy.

THIS WAS TOO MUCH FOR FATHER EVEN IF HE WAS A POLICEMAN.

One of the scenes in the "One Best Pet," newest of the Chester Comedies, featuring Snooky, the Humanzee, calls for the appearance of a group of "nature dancers." By rare good luck, Director W. S. Campbell was able to enlist the aid of a Los Angeles teacher, who assembled her pretty girls at Lincoln Park for the scenes. The girls wore only draperies under their cloaks and when they started to perform they were suddenly interrupted by a husky policeman. The director was in a quandary, but only for a moment, for one of the girls rushed over to the policeman, threw her arms around his neck and cried, "Father, what will mamma say if you interrupt our practice." Father took one look and quit.

"The One Best Pet" is at the Allen theatre to-day and to-morrow.

500 GIRLS DANCE; DOZENS WIN JOBS.

Beauties Flock to Goldwyn Studios To Get Chance in New Film, "The Concert."

A beauty concert of magnificent proportions was conducted by Goldwyn people to obtain the 12 prettiest dancers in Southern California for a fantastic effect in "The Concert," a feature picture, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre for two days beginning to-day. Miss Marion Morgan, a dancing expert, passed her critical eye over 500 applicants before she picked the beautiful dozen. The dancers embody the theme of a musical composition played by the great Maestro, around whom the story centres. By clever photography, the slightly clad girls are made to appear as dancing on the top of a piano and in space.

BEBAN HERE IN GREATEST DRAMA

"One Man in a Million," Latest Robertson-Cole Release, Creates Sensation.

Critics who have seen "One Man in a Million," the new Robertson-Cole super-special release, starring George Beban, have expressed themselves as believing it to be the greatest drama ever filmed. The picture, a six-reeler, is a monument to the years of theatrical experience of Mr. Beban. He wrote the story, produced and directed the picture and is playing the leading role. To have done all these things successfully is a remarkable achievement and establishes a record in the cinema world. "One Man in a Million" opens at the Empire Theatre to-day for a run of three days.

In "One Man in a Million" Mr. Beban is seen in his familiar role of the humble Italian whose heart is really bigger than his body. Lupino Delchini is the chaarcter name and Lupino makes the scattering of sunshine a business. Early in the picture a kindness performed brings him reward in the form of an appointment as pound master in a small western town. As "Daddy of the Doggies" his romance begins.

Mr. Beban did not rely on humans alone to make the picture a success. "Bo-Bo" the parrot as Lupino's companion brightens up several of the episodes, while the score of dogs in the pound add considerable "pep." Although every tense scene is interrupted by a dash of comedy, the entire picture is so carefully woven as to grip at all times. It teaches a real human interest lesson without being a preachment.

In support of the star is an excellent cast which includes: Helen Jerome Eddy, Irene Rich, Lloyd Whitlock, George Williams, Jennie Lee, Wade Botoler and George Beban, Jr. The later is the five year old son of the star and shows wonderful artistic ability in one of the most important roles.

AT THE REGENT

"A THOUSAND TO ONE" WAS BEST SELLER NOVEL

"A thousand To One," the Hobart Bosworth special, which opens at the Regent Theatre, beginning to-day, was adapted by J. Parker Read, Jr., from the popular Max Brand novel, "Fate's Honeymoon."

Joseph Franklin Poland created the continuity for the picture which Rowland V. Lee directed under J. Parker Read, Jr.'s personal supervision.

"A Thousand To One" introduces Hobart Bosworth as an Associated Producers star, though this star's screen career is both long and brilliant.

Into "A Thousand To One" Max Brand has woven a heart - human story of the love of man and woman and the regeneration of the man to make himself worthy. It is said that this picture provides Hobart Bosworth with the most lovable characterization of his career.

WAR VETERANS' COMBINATION TOO MUCH FOR THE DE LAVAL

MANY NEW PLAYERS IN BOTH TEAMS—VETS TWO GOALS IN TEN MINUTES—DYER A GOOD CENTRE FORWARD—DE LAVAL BEAT JONES TWICE IN THREE MINUTES—EXCELLENT FOOTBALL BY VETS LEFT WING—G.W.V.A. 5, DE LAVAL 2.

The first appearance of the G.W.V.A. and De Laval football teams under local league auspices, attracted a fair crowd of spectators on Saturday afternoon at Exhibition grounds. The Vets won the game by 5 goals to 2.

The Teams.

De Laval — R. Dyer, goal; A. Pickle and R. Leach, backs; R. Thompson, R. Lindsay and R. Rhamm, half-backs; J. Conway, J. Cutmore, G. Dyer, E. Abramham and J. Lindsay, forwards.

G.W.V.A.— W. Jones, goal; N. Crowe and A. Walker, full-backs; H. Burrows, T. E. Haycock and O. M. Hurlle, half-backs; S. Curtiss, T. Monks, S. Wallis, A. Rorrison and J. Sharman, forwards.

Referee—Alex. McKinley.

De Laval Opened Strong.

De Laval opened strong and finely led by Dyer, the forwards were early in front of Jones. A smart clearance by the Vets' backs prevented danger. A solo run by Curtiss produced an unproductive corner. On mid-field play, Rorrison drew out the De Laval defence until he saw Curtiss lying unmarked to run right through to open the scoring with a fast ground shot. Soon afterwards Conway broke away to swing an accurate pass across to Lindsay, who tested Jones in Vets' goal.

Two Goals in 10 Minutes.

From the goal kick Monks beat down the centre of the field to get the advantage of Leach in a tackle to score the second goal. After this reverse the De Laval played a better game and paid the Vets' defence repeated visits, but Jones' experience in goal was of great service when all seemed lost. Bob Lindsay was conspicuous at centre half by breaking up tactics and let Conway away on the right who shot across a beautful centre to Dyer. The centre forward let drive with his left foot to miss the cross-bar.

Dyer at Centre Played Havoc.

Play ran from end to end until Dyer at centre broke through the defence of the Vets to make Jones throw himself full length at the ball to save at expense of a corner that was fruitless. Offsides against the Vets spoiled their chances. A foul against Lindsay for handling was sent past by Burrows. Two fouls against Rorrison and Wallis in front of De Laval goal brought temporary relief to their defence. On mid-field play R. Lindsay tried to force the issue on the Vets and carried the ball down into the goal area that made Jones run out of goal to clear.

Sharman Made it Three.

Rhamm tried to block the ball, but mis-kicked to let Sharman tear down upon the De Laval defence that was completely bewildered when he shot the ball through from 5 yards out. Dyer in goal made a poor attempt to stop the ball. At this point in the play Thompson was accidently injured but resumed. A spell of even play was followed by a De Laval rally, but Jones saved his charge on two occasions from J. Lindsay and Dyer respectively. The Vets retained their lead of 3 goals till the interval. G.W.V.A. 3, De Laval 0.

Half Time.

De Laval resumed with great vigour, E. Abraham missing the mark by a few inches. A foul throw against the Vets looked dangerous until Crowe caught his foot on the ball to punt up to Monks and Curtiss. They passed backwards and forwards until Leach intervened at a critical moment. Rhamm sent in a rocket shot to Jones who found difficulty in clearing, with Crowe punting to touch. Cutmore sent the ball across again for Abraham to test Jones. Haycock relieved the pressure in a nice tackle against B. Lindsay, sending Rorrison and Sharman down the wing. Leach and Pickles accepted the challenge to outplay the Vets pair. But the Vets inside left in clever individual tactics, played the De Laval to a standstill, then sent a rocket shot to Dyer, who saved, but let the ball drop at the foot of Waldis to touch it through—4 goals.

De Laval 2 Goals in 3 Minutes.

After this success the Vets took the game easy, which proved very costly, because the De Laval set a fast pace. Nice combination by J. Lindsay and Abraham resulted in the inside left walking through the defence. When he was was within shooting radius the ball left his foot like a rocket. Jones threw his two army up into the air to prevent a score but was too late. No sooner had they started when Rhamm, from mid-field, sent in a shot that landed right into the goal from the air. The Vets' goal-keeper stopped the ball, but it dropped through into the net. A break-away by the De Laval centre forward was spoiled when he accidently hit the ball against Conway.

Sharman's Beautiful Goal.

Hurlle stopped their progress and drove the ball up to the right wing, where Monks transferred the play down upon the De Laval goal area. He run the ball into the corner and centred into goal, where Sharman was covered by Pickles, but the Vets player let drive with his left foot to score. Individual play was conspicuous and in this respect "Tiny" Conway played an important part in front of Vets' goal, but his parting shots lacked the necesary sting. A few minutes later a miskick by Walker let Dyer right through, who took advantage of the opening, but he was checked by Jones when trying to force the ball into the goal.

Beautiful Football by Rorrison.

On return play Rorrison initiated a movement which brought out clever play in dribbling, feinting and swerving his body that left him with the goalkeeper to beat, but unexpectedly Pickles gave him the legitimate shoulder as he kicked the ball to go past. He repeated the same performance a few minutes afterwards that left Sharman placed, but he was called offsides. Play was down at the Vets' goal when the game ended, G.W.V.A. 5, De Laval 2.

ENGLAND BEATEN BY SCOTCH ELEVEN

HUNDRED THOUSAND TURNED OUT AT GLASGOW FOR INTERNATIONAL GAME—OTHER OLD COUNTRY SCORES.

GLASGOW, April 9.— Scotland won the international soccer match from England to-day by three gaols to nothing. The game was played at Hampden Park, Glasgow, and reports show that the weather was splendid and there was a crowd numbering 100,000. Wilson scored the first goal for Scotland when play had been in progress for twenty minutes. He netted the ball with a fast drive. The English forwards lost a number of good chances in the first half, while weakness was displayed in the visitors' goal. Morton scored the second goal for Scotland soon after restarting with an easy shot. Cunningham headed the third tally into the net. The Scottish forwards played magnificently, while Ewart was brilliant in goal.

England's defeat was due to the forwards, principally the centre, good openings being lost through weak finishing. Marshall was Scotland's best back and McMullen their best half. Bliss and Kelly were the stars on the English forward line.

Welshmen Also Won.

In the other international between Wales and Ireland, the Welshmen were victorious by 2 goals to 1.

Burnley Defeated.

There were also a few surprises in the league games played. Burnley, the leaders of the first division, came acropper at 'The Hawthorns,' where West Bromwich Albion blanked them, 2 to 0. The mighty Liverpool eleven who are running in second place, were only able to draw with the "Rams" at Derby, and now have to share that position with Bolton Wanderers, who trimmed the "Geordies," 3 goals to 1. The only three visiting teams in the first division to get the full points at the expense of the home teams were the "Villans," Preston North End and Manchester United, who downed Blackburn Rovers, Everton and Middlesboro respectively.

Coventry City Win.

The surprise of the Second Division was the downfall of Bristol City before Coventry City on the latter's grounds. There were only three tie games in this section, while Bury were the only visitors to win. They defeated Stokes by an odd goal.

There were many upsets in the Third Division, and the most surprising was the victory of Gillingham, the tail-enders, over Queen's Park Rangers at Shepherd's Bush. Crystal Palace, the leaders, were only able to tie with Watford, even though the game was at the "Palace." Another surprise was the downfall of the "Railwaymen" from Swindon to Grimsby Town by 3 goals to 0.

Aberdeen Score Five.

Aberdeen were the top scorers of the day, they making 5 goals to 2 against Hearts. Celtic had a setback when Raith Rovers defeated them by 2 goals, while Rangers were only able to halve the points with Hibernians. The following are the scores and standing up to date:

GOLDEN WEDDING OF MR. AND MRS. A. R. PLUMMER

AGED 73 AND 74, RESPECTIVELY—FORMER PETERBOROUGH RESIDENTS.

Surrounded by their family, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Plummer, 78 Greenlaw Avenue, Toronto, celebrated their golden wedding on Saturday, 9th April. Mr. Plummer, aged 73, and his life-partner, aged 74, were both born in Brighton, England's fashionable seaside resort, in Sussex, and shortly after their marriage came to Canada, making their home in London, Ontario, where they resided for fifteen years before removing to Peterborough. In 1905 they went to Toronto, where Mr. Plummer engaged in the grocery business until five years ago, when he retired Seven children were born, four of whom are still living and residing in Toronto. Many beautiful gifts were received, including one from a brother in New York.

HEAVY LOSSES WERE SUFFERED BY GREEKS

600 KILLED AND 3,400 WOUNDED IN ASIA MINOR.

ATHENS, April 11.—(Canadian Press).—An official statement issued yesterday estimates the total losses of the Greeks in the fighting in Asia Minor at six hundred killed and 3,400 wounded.

WOMEN'S REST ROOM OPENED

The local branch of the United Farm Women of Ontario opened their rest room on Saturday afternoon. This is the room directly above the Farmers' Grocery on Simcoe Street, and is intended for the comfort and convenience of farm women on market days. It is a large, well-lighted room, and will doubtless meet a long-felt want of the rural feminine visitors, whose only waiting places hitherto have been the hotels, the streets, or the groceries. The dance to be held on Wednesday evening next in Victoria Hall is for the purpose of raising funds to furnish this room.

BATTLE IN DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, April 11. — (Canadian Press).—A battle raged for twenty minutes this morning around the North-Western Hotel in the North Wall section here, when civilians, armed with bombs and fire-arms, fiercely attacked the hotel, where Government auxiliaries are quartered. One of the assaulting party was killed and several were wounded, two seriously. A number of auxiliaries are believed to have been wounded.

OBITUARY

HARRY LYNCH.

The death occurred in Chicago on Saturday evening of Harry Lynch, eldest son of Mrs. James Lynch, Aylmer Street. Deceased had been confined to the hospital for the past three monthrs, suffering from heart trouble, therefore his death was not unexpected. The remains are expected to arrive in Peterborough this evening, and the funeral will take place from his mother's home, 556 Aylmer Street, to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, and proceed to St. Peter's Church and Cemetery.

MRS. REBECCA WARNE.

The death occurred this morning, at her residence, 38 George Street, of Mrs. Rebecca Ann Thomas, widow of Albert J. Warne, Sr., who predeceased her four years ago. The deceased, who was in her 70th year, was born in Cobourg, and was a daughter of the late William B. Thomas of that town. She had been an invalid for several years, and contracted pleurisy about three weeks ago, from which she did not recover. Of a bright and cheerful disposition, she will be greatly missed by her circle of friends. She has been a resident of Peterborough for the last 26 years, and was a member of George Street Methodist Church.

Those left to mourn her loss are four sons, Albert, William, Stanley, and Ernest, two daughters, Mrs. B. Roy Hutchinson and Miss Mabel, all residents of Peterborough, and five sisters, Mrs. James Clarke of Cobourg, Mrs. John Piper of Toronto, Mrs. Will Gould of Miami, Man., Mrs. John Clarke and Mrs. Will Kline of Los Angeles, California.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday, 13th April. Service will be held at the house at 2 p.m.; from thence to Little Lake Cemetery.

INFANT CHILD.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pilling died this morning.

MRS. MARY WALLACE.

The death occurred early this morning of Mary Margaret Cunningham, widow of David Wallace, at her residence, 218 Park Street.

She leaves to mourn her loss four daughters: Mrs. Geo. Hillier, Lulu, Muriel and Stella, at home; one brother, William, of Winnipeg, and a sister, Mrs. Geo. Swain, Togo, Sask.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon from the family residence at 3.30 p.m. to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Dr. Blagrave, of St. John's Church, will conduct the funeral service.

ATTENDED FUNERAL

Hundreds of citizens of Petrolia lined the streets of that town in respectful silence on Saturday afternoon last as the funeral cortege of Jacob Lewis Englehart passed on its way to the cemetery. The shops were closed during the hour of the funeral and throughout the day, the flags on municipal buildings were flown at half-mast. Mr. Englehart, described as "the successful man of business, the public-spirited citizen, the generous benefactor of a community in which he had a deep and abiding love and the friend of humanity in general", gave to the town of Petrolia the Charlotte Eleanor Memorial Hospital, named after his wife, who died a few years ago. The gift included his former residence and 35 acres of ground. Mr. Englehart was an uncle of Mrs. Jos. Wearing of Peterboro, who attended the funeral in Petrolia, on Saturday.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(Canadian Press).—The truce in the British labor situation and the stronger showing of Federal reserve banks were among the elements which contributed to the firmer tone of the Stock Market at the outset of to-day's session. Oils, particularly the European division, were strong. Textiles, Tobaccos, Rubbers, Coppers and other specialties also improved. Moderate re-actions occurred in American Sugar, United Fruit, Lackawanna Steel and Rails.

Rails led the irregular re-action during the noon hour, Pennsylvania falling a fraction to a new low of 32 3-8, while others, notably Northern Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line, fell one to two points. The seven per cent. money rate also provoked bearish pressure against the leading industrials and specialties.

Specialties were in demand during the dull forenoon, Theusual favorites in the industrial district recording only nominal changes. American Woolfen, Associated Dry Goods, Common and Second Preferred, Hide and Leather Preferred, Central Leather Common and Preferred, Endicott Johnson, Sears Roebuck, Agricultural Chemical, Tobacco Products and Famous Players Common and Preferred rose one to two and half points. Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt were added to the stronger oils and motors were higher under the lead of Studebaker The few weak featurs embraced American Linseed which declined four points and American Smelting and Sumatra tobacco at losses of one to two point. Call money opened at seven per cent. the higher rate being attributed to last week's deficit in actual reserves by clearing house banks

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 11.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling Exchange strong, demand 3.91 1-2. Canadian dollars to 7-8 per cent discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO April 11.—Only a slight transient upturn in Wheat prices resulted to-day from the freezing temperatures last night and the night before through out considerable section of the wheat belt. Field advices tended to show that the crop had escaped any serious damage. Besides bears were favored by the continuance of negotiations for the settlement of the British mine strike. Opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 higher were followed by set backs to well below Saturday's finish and then something of a reaction.

Corn held comparatively steady. Receipts were light. After opening 1-8 to 1-4 to 3-8 higher the market eased a little but then hardened again. Oats paralled the action of corn starting unchanged to 1-4 to 3-8 higher and later recovered from the small decline. Weakness in the hog market had a depressing effect on provisions.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

TORONTO, April 11.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts heavy, trade draggy. Heavy beef steers $10 to $10.75; butcher steers, choice $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves $10 to $12; lambs $12 to $13.50; hogs $13.50 to $14.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, April 11.—(Canadian Press). — The closing of the Montreal Exchange was as quiet and uninteresting as the opening. Abitibi was strong, closing another ¼ higher at 37. National Breweries, which did not appear until late, was also strong and closed 3-4 up from its close last week at 38 3-4. Riordon did not change. All other leaders were dull and practically no trading took place during this morning's session.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 11.—(Canadian Press)—C.P.R. and Spanish River registered gains of one point each at 128 and 72 respectively in dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Dome Mines was active and advanced forty cents per share from its opening at 19, while Brazilian added a good fraction at 30 5-8. With the exception of these stocks, prices were circular. Transactions were made in a wide variety of issues but in no case was there a big volume of trading.

NIGHT OF TERROR IN LIMERICK

BELFAST, April 11.—(Canadian Press).—Limerick was the scene of terror last night, following the Assassination of Constable Wiggins and the wounding of other police officers. There was promiscuous shooting in which one civilian was killed and six wounded, according to reports reaching here.

Two constables were shot yesterday while walking along a street in Kildorrey village near Cork. Both died later.

MAYOR OBJECTS TO INCREASE

HALIFAX, April 11.—Mayor J. S. Parker of this city has come out flat footed against a proposal to jump his salary from $2000 to $4000. He also refused to consider the payment of a salary of $1500 a year to a deputy mayor and the employment of a male stenographer for the mayor's office at a salary of $1500, when the scheme as a whole was laid before the city council at a recent session of that body.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Ernest G. Stephens, who died April 10, 1919:
Dearest father, thou has left us,
And your loss we greatly feel,
But we hope again to meet thee
On the resurrection morn.

We miss your kind and willing hand,
Your fond and earnest care,
Or home is dark without you,
We miss you everywhere.

IN IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Lance Corporal Fred Collett, killed in action, Vimy Ridge, April 9th:

An unseen string of memory's harp,
Is softly touched to-day,
And thoughts of you come crowding fast,
And tears we cannot stay.
He sleeps beside his comrades
In a soldier's grave unknown,
But his name is written in signs of love,
On the hearts he left at home.
Sadly missed by wife and children.

House Sits All Night in Wordy Battle Over Shipping Programme

ATTEMPT OF GOVERNMENT TO FORCE THROUGH AN ITEM OF $8,300,000 MEETS STRONG OPPOSITION.

ACRIMONOUS DEBATE

OTTAWA, April 12.—(Canadian Press).—The House of Commons sat all night and was still sitting at 9 o'clock this morning.

On the one side, the Minister of Marine, Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, supported by a number of Government members, fought to put through an item of $8,330,000 for the completion of the Government shipbuilding programme. On the other side the Opposition and Progressives obstinately resisted an attempt to force the item through.

Charges and counter charges were hurled across the oor. The Government insisted that the Opposition was blockading and wasting time. The Opposition declared that the Government was trying to "bulldoze" them into passing estimates and was not giving the information required. From the Opposition benches came charges that the Government was pursuing a wasteful, reckless policy.

The debate waxed acrimonious when, shortly before three, Dr. McGibbon, Muskoka, charged William Duff, Lunenburg, and Frank Cahill, Pontiac, with being unsympathetic towards the returned soldiers. Later he withdrew the statement, but said he proposed to place the war record of Duff before the House. Members left, and for a long time there were only 19 in the House.

Two attempts were made after seven this morning by the Opposition members to have the committee rise and report progress, but the Minister replied that in view of the deliberate attempt at obstruction he would not consider rising. Dr. Michael Clark, at nine, wanted the closure applied.

Shortly before ten, the Premier, Sir George Foster, Sir Robert Borden and Hon. T. A. Crerar entered the house and the debate was given a new impetus. Another attempt was made to have progress report-

ADVERTISING AS PROFIT PRODUCER

That advertising is a great profit producer is very evident in the case of Gillette Safety Razor Company, the pioneer of the safety razor business which is not much over twenty years old. It has grown rapidly in this score of years on account of the advertising it has done. The Gillette people first commenced advertising in magazines but shortly turned to the newspapers, using pages and pages of space. Last year was the most prosperous in the history of the Company. Its net earnings amounted to over five and a quarter millions of dollars.

REPORT OF ISOLATION HOSPITAL MATRON SHOWS INCREASE OF SIX CASES IN PAST MONTH.

QUARTERLY STATEMENT

Miss A. M. Price's report for March, submitted to the Board of Health yesterday, showed that on March 1 there were 5 scarlet fever patients and 4 diphtheria cases in Queen Mary Hospital. During the month 10 scarlet fever cases were admitted and 4 diphtheria. Only one patient was from out of the city.

During the month 11 cases were discharged. There were no deaths. On April 1, 12 cases, 11 of scarlet fever and 1 of diphtheria, were in the hospital.

Upkeep of Hospital.

The statement of the expenditure at Queen Mary Hospital during the first three months of this year showed a total of $3,092.20, of which salaries represented about one-third. The fuel bill was $789.09, and the groceries and provisions $576.02. Repairs to building totalled $239.42, and incidentals $234.30. During January the upkeep of the hospital cost $563.18: in February $1,446.92, and in March $692.10. Salaries during March were $391.66.

DECLARES ICE IN LITTLE LAKE IS IMPURE; TO MOVE THAT THE ICE BE USED ONLY FOR COOLING

James Lynch notified the Board of Health at a meeting yesterday that he would bring in a motion at a future meeting directing that ice from Little Lake be used for cooling purposes only.

Mr. Lynch declared the water was impure, and it was reasonable to suppose that the ice would be impure as well. The Board, he said, would have to determine an unpolluted source for ice supply for next summer. The public should be warned against using Little Lake ice for other than cooling purposes, and he gave notice of motion to this effect.

ARMED POSSES SEEK THUG IN SWAMP, HIDING

CLOSE IN ON SUSPECTED HIDING PLACE OF ESACPED BANDIT IN CARADOC SWAMP, NEAR LONDON.

COMPANIONS REMANDED

LONDON, Ont., April 12.—(Canadian Press). — Police and armed posses of farmers, searching for the missing bandit known as "Pat," who made his escape yesterday afternoon, when four men attempted to rob the Home Bank at Melbourne, were closing in on all sides of Caradoc Swamp this morning, believing the fugitive to be in hiding. The man was seen running towards the swamp last evening, and no one has reported seeing him emerge.

Sidney and William Murrell and Henry J. Williams, captured yesterday, appeared in court this morning and were remanded for a week without entering any plea. They are in the county jail under heavy guard.

STEADY FREIGHT MOVEMENTS SHOW LOCAL ACTIVITY

PETERBORO'S DIVERSIFIED INDUSTRIES HAVE MAINTAINED OUTPUT DURING SLUMP.

Peterboro's industrial stability in the face of universal depression in business, has been reflected by the exceptionally heavy freight movement since the first of the year.

Mr. Alpine Macnab, G. T. R. station agent, told the Examiner that the freight shipments have been steady all winter, and with the coming of Spring have shown no abatement. With its diversified industries, including those factories that produce foodstuffs, Peterboro has come through the crisis of the last year in a flourishing condition that must be regarded as highly satisfactory when contrasted with the idleness that has hung over the motor towns and others that have piled all their industrial eggs into one basket. Mr. Macnab said that the Peterboro flour mills and the Canadian Packing Company, had apparently suffered but little in the groping toward business re-establishment. The public might refuse temporarily to buy motor cars, Louis Quinze furniture, pianos, phonographs and other so-called luxuries, but they simply could not get along with an empty larder or three square meals a day. Hence there has been a steady demand for flour and rolled oats, ham and bacon — foods that are essential to every family. Even the home consumption gave the manufacturers of these products a stream of business that was continuous if not as voluminous as usual. The Milk Products Company and the De Laval Company, both of which may be considered in this category, added their quotas of freight, and the other industries, such as the C. G. E. Company, maintained active operation, all combining to swell the quantity of goods shipped out of Peterboro, while other cities were industrially dormant and waiting for something to turn up or rather to revive them.

PREMIER MURRAY TO TAKE A REST

LEAVES TO-DAY TO ENTER SANITARIUM AT BATTLE CREEK, MICHIGAN.

HALIFAX, April 12.—(Canadian Press). — Premier Murray took his seat in the Legislature yesterday for the first time this session. The Premier has been ill, and at one time it was rumored he was going to retire from the active direction of the Government. The Premier leaves to-day for Battle Creek, Michigan, where he will enter a sanitarium.

We have voted out the poor man's bar. Next Monday let us vote out the rich man's cellar.

JUDGMENT FOR O'REILLY; ONUS ON DEFENDANT

DAMAGES OF $293.45 AND COSTS OF ACTION AWARDED IN SUIT FOLLOWING AUTO COLLISION.

COUNTER CLAIM VAIN

Judgment awarding damages of $293.45 to Joseph O'Reilly was given by Judge Huycke yesterday morning in the case of O'Reilly vs. the Gladstone Cartage Company, heard on April 5.

Joseph O'Reilly, farm implement dealer of this city, sued the Toronto Cartage Company for $400 for damages to his car and himself, received in a collision with one of their trucks on the Kingston road one mile west of Bowmanville on October 10 last. The defendant company entered a counter claim for $300.

Judgment was given by His Honor in favour of O'Reilly with the costs of the action, while defendants' counter claim was dismissed.

V. J. McElderry represented plaintiff and Angus C. Heighington, of Toronto, the defendant company.

Lays Onus on Defendants Driver.

"I think the plaintiff was possibly —indeed probably — going faster than wisdom would dictate under the circumstances, but such speed—about 20 miles an hour, so far as I can learn—I find was not the proximate or even a contributing cause of the collision," said Judge Huycke. "The defendant company, or its drivers, were the ones responsible. Apart wholly from the speed of the truck, as to which the evidence was conflicting, and the very heavy and unwieldly load, the defendants are clearly liable in my view and as I find for two other reasons."

"In the first place," he said, "the truck did not have proper or sufficient lights. As to this, too, the evidence is contradictory, the plaintiff and one Kennedy, who was with him in the front seat of the car, being contradicted by the Spademan brothers who were on the truck. Having regard to all the conditions, I accept the story as given by the plaintiff and Kennedy. Their evidence was strongly corroborated by one Wilson, who shortly before saw the truck leaving Bowmanville, and who says specifically the large Presto light spoken of was not going, only the small coal oil lights, high up burning. These were insufficient. The Spademan boys were, I find, in error in saying the large light was burning when they approached plaintiff.

On Wrong Side of Road.

"Secondly, defendants' truck was on the wrong side of the road. It is admitted that it was on the centre or crown of the road owing to the nature of the road, and it is more than doubtful, if legally, it had the right to be there even under those circumstances. Plaintiff says it was on his side of the road and came upon him full head on. This is verified, I find, and placed beyond all question by the evidence of Mr. Jarvis, Chief of Police at Bowmanville. He was on hand a few min-

THE NEW SERIAL

The first time Kate saw Jim Laramie was one night on a lonely trail when he rode swiftly out into the spectral light and stood for a moment silhouetted against the sky. The next time, in Belle Shockley's lunch room * * * He was deliberately lifting a broad horseman's hat from a rather round, high forehead and disclosing a head of inoffensive-looking sandy hair. His smooth face was burnt by many mountain suns into a seemingly immutable bronze.

UNITED STATES WILL NOT ENTER THE EXISTING LEAGUE, DECLARES HARDING, ADDRESSING CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 12 (Canadian Press).—President Harding delivered his first message to Congress to-day in person. The two Houses assembled in joint session. The address was about 7,000 words in length, and a large portion of it was devoted to the related subjects of peace, the League of Nations, and the foreign policy of the United States.

Mr Harding opened with a definite declaration against the League of Nations. "In the existing League of Nations world governing, with its super-powers, this

MIDDLETON IS AST.-ASSESSOR

HIS TENDER OF $125 MONTH ACCEPTED BY FINANCE COMMITTEE FOR TEMPORARY POSITION.

WERE 13 TENDERS

James Middleton was appointed Assistant City Assessor to W. H. Henry at a special meeting of the Finance committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon. Out of 13 applications that of Mr. Middleton was chosen, not because it was the lowest—for it was the highest—but because in the opinion of Mr. Henry and the committee he was the only applicant with the necessary wide experience in valuation of property required to successfully fill the position, which is only temporary, for four or five months, and entails immediately taking charge of the assesment. Mr. Middleton was appointed at the salary asked for—$125 a month.

The Applications.

The applications with the salary expected were as appended: J. J. Rogers, of Kingston, $90 a month; W. H. McDonald, 484 Charlotte street, $15 a week; James Clancy, 741 Water street, $25 a week; Austin H. Nixon, $75 a month; A. A. Goodfellow, 518 Water street, $110 a month; James Middleton, $125 a month; R. H. Perry, $100 a month; the city assesor, said Ald. Morri-$100 a month. Applications were received from Robert Harrison, Water street, who asked $300 for four or five months; James Miller, 221 Carlisle avenue, applied but stated no salary, and an application from John M. Allen had to be rejected because no salary or qualifications were stated as requested in the advertisement.

The applications were sifted over by Ald. Turner, the chairman, with the committee, which was comosed of Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Ald. N. Phelan, Ald. F. Whitehouse and Ald. R. Morrison. Only those with experience in valuation were considered and this left the choice between Mr. Goodfellow and Mr. Middleton. A. A. Goodfellow stated he had 38 years' experience as a building contractor and Mr. Middleton said he had been 16 years in the real estate business.

"I think Middleton is the best man. I don't think Mr. Goodfellow has any experience in valuating property around the city," said Mayor McIntyre.

Mr. Henry said as it was only temporary he did not want to have to break anybody in. "I want somebody who can take a ward and go right to it."

In this case I don't think you have to consider salary. It's efficiency you want," declared Mayor McIntyre.

There was difficulty in reaching a decision on the salary. "That's practically $5 a day we're paying," said the Mayor, thinking the pay over in terms of day labor. No one would make a motion appointing James Middleton because of the difference in salary. "I move we leave it to the city assesosr, said Ald. Morrison to clear the air. "I second it," added the Mayor.

"You better move Mr. Middleton be appointed," broke in Ald. Whitehouse, who saw no use in delaying the inevitable. Ald. Turner moved that on the recommendation of Mr. Henry Mr. Middleton be appointed.

Ald. Phelan—"Of course there's some of thees low-priced men who may have had experience if we could see them. I don't feel like supporting that motion after calling for tenders and then accepting the highest one."

Ald. Turner's motion stood with Ald. Morrison seconding it and carried on the vote, although Ald. Phelan did not vote.

City Assessor Henry was authorized at the meeting yesterday to employ two assistant clerks for a period of several months instead of one for 8 or 9 as previously decided upon. Mr. Henry said that two would cost no more than the one, but would be more valuable in the period when the rush of work was heaviest.

WED 60 YEARS AGO TO-MORROW

MR. AND MRS. JAMES ROSE, ABOUT TO CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING, BOTH HALE AND HEARTY.

ONE 81, THE OTHER 82

Mr. and Mrs. James Rose 718 Harvey street, are celebrating their sixtieth wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Mrs. Rose, who is in her 81st year, and Mr. Rose, in his 82nd, are hale and hearty. The former still does all her own work, and does it well and runs up and down stairs, according to her husband, "like a young girl," while Mr. Rose makes his own garden, and is as erect as a man of sixty. Neither has to depend on eyeglasses, except for reading, and both could easily pass for 20 years younger than their actual ages His sister, Mrs Jacobs, who lives with them, is 89, and is a bright old lady.

Mr. Rose came out to Canada from England in 1857, stayed for nearly three years and then returned to marry his old school playmate. They lived in England for 10 years, crossing the ocean once more and coming to Peterboro in 1870, living here ever since that time. Mr. Rose came into Peterboro first by way of the old Cobourg bridge, since condemned over Rice Lake, the bridge traversed by the late King Edward when as Prince of Wales he toured Canada. He remembers George street first as a place of few stores and many vacant lots, and the now peaceful Charlotte street as a very rough section of the town. Those were the days when the loggers brought their shanty down with them on the logs that went over the dam. Mr. Rose worked first for Mark Curtis in is brick yard, then went out on the farm to return to Peterboro and establish a brick yard of his own He helped to make the bricks for George street church built over 40 years ago. He himself comes of a long-lived family, possessing a picture taken in England, some years ago, showing his mother at the age of 101 surrounded by four generations of her descendants.

Eleven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Rose of whom eight survive, a daughter in Oak Park, near Chicago, one in Buffalo and one in Rochester, and five sons John in the North West, and Abraham, James, Henry and Wesley of Peterboro. They have 34 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren

PROSPECTS GENERALLY HELD TO BE NOT UNFAVORABLE FOLLOWING EARLY CONFERENCES WITH PREMIER.

PREPARED TO WALK OUT

LONDON, April 12.— (Canadian Press.)—Both sides in the controversy between the mine owners and the coal diggers which brought about the strike of the British miners last week, were received by the Prime Minister to-day. The mine owners conferred with Lloyd George at eleven o'clock and the miners were ready to talk with the Premier immediately after the conclusion of his conversation with the owners.

Representatives of the miners will report to the Triple Alliance of Labor later in the day as to whether the prospects of a settlement are sufficiently favorable to justify the postponement of the strike of the National Union of Railwaymen and the National Federation of Transport Workers, the members of which are prepared to walk out at twelve o'clock to-night. The prospects were generally held not to be unfavorable.

ONE KILLED WHEN FACTORY WRECKED BY AN EXPLOSION

CEMENT HOUSE OF MILLER RUBBER COMPANY AT AKRON DESTROYED.

AKRON, Ohio, April 12.—(Canadian Press). — One man was killed and six others were injured this morning when an explosion wrecked the cement house of the Miller Rubber Company.

Officials of the company estimated the damage at twenty-five thousand. A large quantity of gasoline and chemicals were used in this department of the factory, it is said.

PIPE BAND WILL ESCORT PLAYERS

Every detail of the arrangements for the banquet to the championship basketball team at the Empress Hotel to-morrow night has been completed. The boys will be escorted to the hotel in automobiles, headed by the Caledonian Pipe Band of 10 pieces, and will leave the Y.M.C.A. at 7.15 o'clock. The banquet takes place at 7.30 o'clock, and admission is by ticket, which may be secured from members of the committee or at the hotel at the time.

This is going to be one of the most important events in the sporting annals of Peterborough, and the citizens who are interested in good, clean, amateur sport should be present.

FIRE MARSHAL NOW INVESTIGATING FIRE

LINDSAY, April 11.—Fire Marshal Burnett of Toronto is in town for the purpose of investigating all the circumstances in connection with the fire on the farm of Mr. H. Sloan on Thursday night last.

Mr. Sloan resides on the old Lee farm, South Ops, and was in Lindsay on the evening when his barn, home and contents were totally destroyed by flames, the origin of which is so much of a mystery as to call for the Fire Marshal's attention.

CAMPBELLFORD COURT OF REVISION REVIEW CLAIMS

RATEPAYERS PROTEST AGAINST ASSESSMENT OF WATER MAINS —CAMPBELLFORD NEWS OF INTEREST—SOCIAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12. — The Court of Revision met in the Public Library last evening to hear protests, etc., from the ratepayers along Rear and Front Streets as to the water main and sewer laid there last year. In 1917 the sewer was laid along Bridge Street, and in 1919 it was laid up Rear Street as far as the Anglican Church House. The water main and sewer were laid in the same ditch up to this point, but from there on they were in separate ditches, the water main being laid in the centre of the road and the sewer on one side. A large number of the ratepayers whose land along Rear Street and Upper Front Streets fronts on the part of the streets affected by this sewer and main assembled in the Library to discuss the matter with the Court last evening. The Court consisted of Chairman Mayor A. J. Meyers, Councillors W. Wiggins, Chas. Palliser Southworth. Reeve Davidson, Solicitor I. A. Humphries and the Municipal Clerk, Mr. McGregor.

Shortly after eight the Chairman declared the Court ready to receive and discuss any complaints, etc., whereupon Mr. G. A. Payne read the following petition:

The Petition.

"To the Corporation of the Town of Campbellford: We, the undersigned ratepayers of the town of Campbellford owning property facing Rear Street in the said town humbly petition your municipal body to charge the cost of extending the water-main on Rear Street from the local improvement to the general tax of the town of Campbellford for the following reasons:

The work, as originally planned, from Front Street to the Church House, was to have been constructed by the Waterworks and Electric Light Commission, and would have been paid by them, and, if so, it would practically be paid out of the General Tax, and the work was fully complete before the petition, therefore was presented to the Council.

That, as originally planned, the sewer and water main were to be constructed in the same ditch, and it was never intended by those who signed the petition for the work to be done as a local improvement that they were to be charged for any of the cost in connection with the placing of a water main along said street.

That all the extensions of the water mains in the town of Campbellford have been paid out of the general taxes of said town, and there is no reason why the property owners of Rear Street should pay for the extension along other streets and then be charged for the extension of Rear Street as a local improvement.

The water service on Rear Street, as a first protection, serves not only the property owners on Rear Street, but also those who are living on adjoining streets of said town.

That had the work been done as originally contemplated, and both the water and sewer mains been placed in the same ditch, the expense of the erection of the said water main would not have been nearly so great as by separate ditches, and the petitioners signing the petition for said work were entirely misled as to the expense of said work.

The O. T. A.

This petition was signed by all the property owners along these streets, except those who were sick or absent.

Mr. Payne said that he was acting for these petitioners, and that he desired to say that the work would have been carried on by the Anglican Church had the town not offered to take it over. That both the sewer and water mains were in one ditch as far as the Church House, and that the people who signed the original petition were misled, in that they never expected to have to pay a portion of the expense incurred by the water main. He said that it was all very well to have people sign a petition and agree to do something according to the Local Improvement Act, but he said for all they knew about this Act, it might just as well have been according to the Ontario Temperance Act. He desired to know why there had been two separate ditches dug from the Church House on up Rear Street, and on whose authority this was done.

He said that it was very singular that this street be the first to be asked to pay a share in their local improvements, while all others had been paid for out of the general tax. He asked that the water main be paid for by general taxes. He asked what consideration had been made for the five town lots at the Market Square. What had been done with the two hundred loads of stone which was taken out of this trench? He said that he was not looking at it from a legal aspect, because while the ratepayers had signed all right, they had been mis-led.

The Chairman asked if all those who signed the petition just read signed the petition for the sewer and water main.

Mr. Payne said that he did not know, as he had not read the names.

Mr. Mulhearn said that no one who hadn't signed the original had signed the appeal.

Mr. Meyers—Was there any one who signed the original and who did not sign this?

Mr. Mulhearn—No, except in a few cases where the parties were either absent or sick.

Mr. Meyers—It is a very remarkable thing that so many who signed that petition didn't know what they were signing.

Mr. Stillman—The petition was misrepresented to the ratepayers They had been told that they would not be called upon to pay for the water main.

Mr. Meyers—Who said that?

Mr. Stillman—Mayor Hay said that the water main would be paid for by the Commission Board.

Made a Report.

Solicitor Humphries—The Clerk had made a report to the Council before the work was taken up as to the cost. The first petition was presented to the Council but was found to have less than two-thirds of the ratepayers affected had signed, and it was sent back and re-signed. The Clerk reported again, which report can be found. It was estimated what each ratepayer should pay, and this was discussed at the November meeting. A rate of $2 per foot frontage was struck, and a by-law was passed on the estimate.

Mr. Payne—Was this by-law for both sewer and water main?

Mr. Humphries—For both combined.

Mr. Payne—Was the work under way then?

Mr. Humphries—The lower end had been constructed as far as the Parish Hall.

Mr. Payne—Why were two ditches necessary from the Parish Hall on when they had come that far in one?

Mr. Humphries—Engineer Caddy who had charge of the work could give the reason.

Mr. Payne—His reason would be "It would be better that way."

Mr. Meyers said that perhaps he could give the reasons: (1) It wouldn't be a good practice to run both together on account of leaks if there happened to be leaks in the pipes near each other; the water main would become contaminated. (2) The sewer pipe has to be operated on a gravity system, and along most streets the trench has to be deep in some places.

Gravity System.

Mr. Payne—How was it then that they could be placed in the same trench at the lower end, where the sewer would be expected to be very deep?

Mr. Meyers — It would need a much deeper trench for a sewer, and the costs would have been about the same. In places where the water main would be six feet down, the sewer would be eleven.

Mr. Jenkins—Not much chance of contamination there.

Mr. Meyers—It wouldn't always be so as it is a gravity system.

Mr. Payne—The original petition was signed when both were in the same ditch, hence there was the idea that both would go on in the same ditch.

Mr. Mulhearn said that he was on the Council at the time, as well as Mr. Reindeau, who was present and who could testify as to his statements. He said that the Council intended one ditch, and that they spent considerable time planing for this work. He said that the original plan had been to lay the pipes 18 inches apart. Mr. Reindeau said that this was right.

Original Petition.

Mr. Humphries then read the original petition: We, the undersigned, owners of the land set opposite our respective names, do hereby petition the Council of the Corporation of the town of Campbellford to construct a sewer and water main in the town of Campbellford from the intersection of

COMMITTEE ON RAILWAYS NOW IS COMPLETE

PREMIER ANNOUNCES PERSONNEL AT DULL SESSION OF HOUSE FROM WHICH MANY WERE ABSENT.

DUE TO FISHER FUNERAL

OTTAWA, April 12.—The House of Commons lagged through the dullest day of the session yesterday. Many Liberals, including Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, were not in the House, having gone to the funeral of Hon. Sydney Fisher. Consequently no really important business was brought up. However, the Prime Minister made an important announcement as to the personnel of the Committee on Railways and Shipping. The members of the committee follow:

George Allen, Winnipeg; Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Jaques Bureau, Three Rivers; P. F. Casgrain, Montreal; A. B. Copp, Westmoreland; Hon. T. A. Crerar, A. L. Davidson, Annapolis; H. C. Hocken, Toronto; C. E. Long, North Battleford; Hon. A. K. Maclean, Dr. Manion, Fort William; J. L. Papineau, Beauharnois; Hon. Dr. Reid, H. S. Stevens, Vancouver; I. A. Stewart, Lanark; T. M. M. Tweedie, Calgary; W. H. White, Victoria, Alta.; F. S. Cahill, J. D. Chaplin, William Duff, W. F. Maclean, York; J. F. Reid, Mackenzie; H. H. McLean, Royal; Hon. S. C. Mewburn, Hon. Chas. Murphy, G. B. Nicholson, Algoma.

PUSSYFOOT IS HOOTED OUT OF THIS COUNTRY

BRICKS, EGGS AND GLASSES OF BEER THROWN BY MOB WHICH ESCORTED HIM OVER THE BORDER.

UNABLE TO SPEAK

WINDSOR, April 12. — (Canadian Press.) — Hooted from the platform before he was able to utter a word of his advertised speech for a "dry Ontario," Pussyfoot Johnson, the famous American prohibition worker, left the Windsor armouries with a police escort last night ,and then marched out of Canada at the head of a derisively howling mob. An occasional brick, egg or glass of beer was mingled with the taunts hurled by the crowd, but Pussyfoot escaped unhurt.

Police Inspector N. S. Wigle, who walked beside Johnson, was hit in the shoulder with a brick and some smaller articles struck the other policemen.

"This is the best joke that I have heard in some time," Mr. Johnson declared to the newspaper men, as the hall reverberated with hostile roars. "They won't let me speak, and I could not if they would." The whisper in which he spoke told why.

Long before 8:15 when Pussyfoot appeared, the armouries seating nearly 4,000, was filled to overflowing. The entire Windsor police force was scattered through the hall and around it, but it was soon evident that they would be unable to gain a hearing for the man who a large part of the crowd insisted was a "foreign agitator."

Mr. Johnson's foes seemed in the minority but they set up such a tremendous din that any speaker who essayed an address would be attempting a greater task than Demosthenes' feat of speaking above the boom of the sea.

POTATOES 18c. A BUSHEL.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., April 12.—Potatoes are selling for 18 cents a bushel on the market here. It is the lowest price reached in many years, and is due to the receipt of thousands of bushels growers had been holding for higher prices since last fall and now tey are almost giving them away.

BELLEVILLE TRAIN WILL BE CHANGED

BEGINNING MAY 1 AFTERNOON TRAIN WILL LEAVE PETERBORO AT 12.10 P.M. INSTEAD OF AT 2 P.M.

IMPROVE SERVICE

Prospective changes in the G.T.R. time table include the setting back of the afternoon train to Belleville from its present hour of departure at 2 o'clock to 12.10 o'clock, on the arrival of the noon G.T.R. trains from Toronto, one by way of Lindsay and the other from Port Hope.

Mr. A. Macnab, the local station agent, stated that there were several distinct advantages in this revision, which he understood would take effect on 1st May.

By connecting at Belleville with a through train going east, persons leaving Peterborough at 12.10 p.m. would arrive in Ottawa at 7.30 p.m., and in Montreal at 10 p.m. This should prove an accommodation not sholld prove an accommodation not entire district, including Hastings, Campbellford, and Stirling. Connections could also be made in Belleville with the west-bound train for Toronto, arriving there at 5.40 p.m.

In requesting this change, local travellers have pointed out that by leaving this city at noon, they could reach Hastings around one o'clock and Campbellford at 1.45, allowing them more time than at present for their business calls, and enabling them to return on the evening train leaving Campbellford at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Macnab said that travellers out of Peterborough had particularly urged the moving forward of the afternoon train, stating that it was made up here, and might as well be started at noon instead of holding it until two o'clock.

On the other hand, it was argued that the change would not interfere with the business of those persons coming to Peterborough from the east in the morning. They would have nearly four hours here, which, it is believed, should be sufficient to enable them to complete their affairs in this city and get away at 12.10 p.m.

From the company's standpoint, the principal reason for making the change is the expectation of an increase in traffic by reason of the fast time that can be made to Ottawa and Montreal from Peterborough and the towns between here and Belleville. This service also applies to Lindsay, Millbrook, and other towns in this district.

CRASHES 1,500 FEET TO DEATH

SQUADRON LEADER KEITH TAILYOUR, TEMPORARILY IN COMMAND AT CAMP BORDEN, KILLED YESTERDAY.

OTTAWA, April 12.—(Canadian Press.)— The Canadian Air Board last night announced that Squadron Leader Keith Tailyour, A.F.C., Canadian Air Force, was killed at Camp Borden yesterday. A full report has not been received, but at the time of the accident to his machine, he was at a height of 1,500 feet. Squadron eLader Tailyour was one of the most experienced instructors there, was in charge of the school of special flying and temporarily in command of the camp.

WANT AD USED TO OBTAIN MINISTER

A "want ad" sandwiched between classified advertisements for a book-keeper and an automobile repairman in the "male help wanted" columns of a Boston paper the other day called for a minister "between 30 and 40 years old, who is a good parish worker."

The advertisement was inserted by a "Universalist Church established over 40 years and in excellent financial condition."

THE CITY MANAGER

It was a bold step on the part of the little city of Sumter, S.C., when it took the idea of the city-manager plan out of an academic pamphlet and resolved to lead the country in its adoption. This was in 1912.

Sumter chose as its first manager an engineer from out of town and saw him save his salary for the town the first month, but this is hardly a test for Sumter has only 8,000 population.

The real leadership in the new movement properly belongs to Dayton, O., a city of 150,000, where the idea was worked out with greater thoroughness in a special charter and applied to more typical municipal problems.

This instrument was adopted in 1913. It provided for a council of five members elected at large on a non-partisan ballot and four business men and a labor representative were elected. Their first task was to hire a city manager.

They cabled General Goethals at Panama offering him the position at a high salary. He declined, however, but they found an admirable choice in Henry M. Waite, city engineer of Cincinnati.

Waite went to Dayton, appointed expert department heads and began sending cheerful electric thrills through the marrow of the personnel of the administration. Within a month he was the beloved "big chief" and the men on the city payroll were beginning to be proud of their employment.

Things had been no rottener in Dayton than in many other American cities. Each administration achieved low taxes by passing along deficits to the next. A council of 15 ward-elected members quarreled jealously over appropriations.

At one time a public-spirited citizen offered several hundred acres of wooded hills as a gift to the municipality, but councilmen from other sections could not bear to see the south section get such a handsome benefaction and contrived to prevent acceptance!

Grade crossings could not be eliminated for like reasons; the sections not benefitted wold not vote the city's portion of the cost.

The council blocked the mayor part of the time, the mayor blocked the council part of the time.

The red light district was open. The workhouse was a school for crime.

The party machines alternated in city hall and used the patronage for their own welfare first and the city's second. A handful of men in the machines had been the real rulers of the town.

Quietly and rapidly the new regime cleaned up the mess. A scientific budget brought economy and the city began to live within its means.

Central purchase secured quantity prices and advantageous contracts —Dayton was, for instance, paying 9 cents for gasoline long after the rest of us paid 26 cents.

The red light district was closed. The workhouse became a farm and a maker of character.

City employes went on an eight-hour day and did vastly more work.

The park area grew from 20 acres to 541 acres including the traet the old council rejected.

The city got real garbage collection for the first time and a disposal system that paid its own bills from sales of soap grease.

The tax rate came down despite the fact that the municipality did 40 per cent. more work for the money. The deficit of $125,000 was cut to $50,000 the first year.

Water supply and lands were purchased for $67,000 as compared with an earlier bid four times as high and for the first time in years Dayton got abundant water in summer.

A new spirit in the city hall was reflected in the new things that the municiaplity soon began doing for its citizens. Private and public district nursing was co-ordinated, clinics were opened, milk was supervised, food was insepcted, 7,000 disease-breeding dry vaults were eliminated, recreation and gardening on vacant lots tremendously expanded—and down came the general death rate and the infant death rate by radical jumps!

A free legal aid bureau helped a thousand poor people a year. Grand opera singers sang at very cheap popular concerts.

Natural gas at 34 cents replaced artificial gas at 85 cents. Dayton is buying better street lighting to-day than the old regime did and at lower costs despite the rise in prices. Eleven loan shark compainies were driven out of town.

There is a municpal country club outside the city, a beautiful big playground with golf links, tennis, camps, etc., and the membership fee, if you are so fortunate as to be a citizen of Dayton is only a dollar a year.

Just a reform wave? No—it has gone on through three elections and is still going!

The New Dam.

The work on the new dam has been commenced for this season and it is expected that the structure will be completed this year. Mr. George E. Donaldson, of Lindsay, is again in charge of the work.

Exchanged Pulpits.

Rev. T. L. White of the Baptist church and Rev. S. F. Dixon of the Methodist church, exchanged pulpits on Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. White also addressed the Lakefield Brotherhood at 10.30 a.m.

The Referendum.

Rev. P. L. Jull preached a powerful sermon on the Referendum in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning. Mr. Jull feels very strongly on this important issue and the result of his discourse will be very far reaching.

Fire Drill.

Under the authority of the Reeve, a practice alarm was given by telephone on Thursday night at 12 o'clock to the members of the local volunteer fire brigade.

The location of the fire was supposed to be the school, and within seven minutes of the alarm being given the chemical engine was in place ready for action, and within fifteen minutes the big gasoline engine was pumping water through 300 feet of hose from the station well. Fifteen members of the brigade turned out, which was a very good showing. Unfortunately only a few citizens were out to witness the practice.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, APRIL 12TH, 1921.

THE AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION.

Motorists of the city and district are reminded of the annual meeting of the Peterorough Automobile Association which takes place this evening in the Board of Trade rooms. The membership of this Association should be half a dozen times as large as it is in view of the large number of car-owners in Peterborough, but it is to be feared that many of the motoring fraternity have been selfish in their attitude towards the Association, satisfied to sit back and enjoy the results of the organization's work without contributing anything to the funds. Membership in the local body includes, of course, membership in the Ontario Motor League, which has done a great deal for motorists in this Province, continually fighting for good roads and improved motor legislation. Many car-owners have been partaking of the fruits of the Motor League's activities without helping in any way to finance the organization. It is hoped that they will realize the selfishness of their position, and by joining the Peterborough Automobile Association do their part in providing better conditions for motorists. To-night's meeting should attract a large and enthusiastic attendance.

GOVERNMENT PURCHASES.

The Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature is to pay some further attention this week to the purchase of motor trucks for the Public Works Department by Hon. F. C. Biggs, a transaction that netted the neat profit of $13,800 for a dealer in the Minister's constituency. It is in the public interest that this deal should be sifted to the bottom. Mr. Biggs' integrity or honesty of purpose are not at stake, for most people will accept the testimony of the Minister that there was no pecuniary reward for himself in the transaction, but there is a natural interest in the investigation of the whole system of Government buying, created by the resultation of the profit secured by one dealer through what was evidently a very careless method of purchasing on the part of Mr. Biggs' department. There seems no reason why Government supplies on the scale of the purchase under discussion should not be purchased by tender. The tenders should be called for by public advertisements and an opportunity given to every firm to make a bid, so that the Government could have the advantage of competition. There was nothing competitive about the method in which the contract for these particular trucks was let, and a continuance of such loose methods would be a costly system for the Province.

NO TIME FOR APATHY.

In spite of the invasion of Hon. C. A. Windle, star of the "wet" campaign, Peterborough refuses to get excited over the referendum, and the indifference of many citizens to the question would seem to indicate that a large proportion of the vote on the lists will not be polled. It is to be hoped that there will be an increase in interest before next Monday. The question to be settled is one of premier importance to the people of this Province, and on an issue of this kind no man or woman has the right to be neutral. The responsibility of deciding Ontario's policy in regard to the importation of liquor has been laid upon the shoulders of the voters and they should discharge that responsibility by going to the polls on Monday and marking their ballots as their judgment dictates. Remaining aloof from the polling booths is a flagrant evasion of the duties of citizenship and a large and representative vote should be polled in Peterborough in order that the willingness of this city's residents to carry out their responsibilities as citizens of Ontario may be demonstrated. With an issue of such importance to be decided a very large percentage of the total vote should be registered on Monday so that there will be no doubt as to Peterborough's opinion on this momentous question.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

During his address here on Saturday night Mr. Windle, the imported advocate of the Citizen's Liberty League, waxed eloquent in his admiration of the system of Government control as inaugurated by the Province of British Columbia. It was the sanest method of dealing with the liquor problem that he had ever heard of, he declared. Leaving on one side the fact that the British Columbia plan is as yet but a theory and has never been tested, Mr. Windle might reasonably be asked to explain what the system adopted by the Pacific Province has got to do with the question that the people of Ontario have to decide on Monday. There is only one issue in the present referendum—that is whether or not the importation of liquor is to be prohibited. Advocates of Government control, either according to the British Columbia model or along any other lines—and there are many good citizens who favour this method of handling the liquor evil—should have no quarrel with the Referendum Committee so far as voting "yes" on Monday is concerned, for the prohibition of the importation of liquor would leave the way open for the introduction of Government control, while the continued flooding of the Province by imported spirits would effectually check the demand for such a system. The trouble is that for every man who conscientiously believes in Government control as the most effective method of dealing with the liquor question there are half a dozen who don't care what system is in vogue so long as they can get enough to drink. Let the Province vote next Monday in favour of importation and the clamour for Government control would subside as suddenly as it appeared.

IMPORTED SPELL-BINDERS.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)

The wisdom importing speakers from the United States to discuss the prohibition question is another matter altogether. The people of Ontario do not stand in need of instruction upon this question. They have had the experience of a strong measure of prohibition. They have had experience of the open bar, and of the closed bar. They have had a greater wealth of experience than any American community in the matter of liquor control and prohibition. Why then should they be expected to sit at the feet of an orator like Hon. Windle of Chicago? Even if Mr. Windle's war record had been one to commend him to Canadians, he is in possession of no vital facts regarding liquor that the average Canadian is not aware of. To bring him here at all was a mistake. The publicity he has received has certainly not improved the chances of the drys. Nor would Pussyfoot Johnson have any greater influence if he were permitted to speak. It is only when his voice is drowned by yells of opposition that it becomes penetrating. If the object is to work the community into a frenzy, then the importation of such spell-binders as Rev. Billy Sunday is a move in the right direction. The liquor question is one that ought to be settled calmly, by voters reasoning and not in the throes of hysteria. We doubt greatly if the effect of speeches such as those delivered by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Windle will be to induce a reasoning mood. They appeal rather to the emotions and to the sense of the ridiculous. They are by no means helpful contributions to the solution of a serious problem.

WAGES AND EMPLOYMENT.

The last issue of the Labor Gazette is of especial interest. It contains a supplement, giving the wages and hours of labor in Canada from the year 1901 to 1920, and deals with the building trades, the metal trades, the printing trades, street railway conductors and motormen, freight conductors, freight brakemen, freight locomotive engineers and firemen, telegraphers and sectionmen. There is also a table illustrating by samples the movements of rates of wages and hours of labor from 1911 to 1920 in various branches of factory employment and in the lumbering industry.

Taking the rates of pay in the year 1913 as 100, the index numbers are given for every year from 1901 to 1920, the average pay for all classes of labor (weekly rates) having risen from 69.8 in 1901 to 179.3 in 1920. Taking the rate of pay per hour, a still better result is shown, wages having been raised from 64.9 in 1901 to 190.3 in 1920, or nearly three times as much. All trades have shared in these increases in fairly even proportions, and there has been a steady progression year by year, the greatest jumps, of course, being in the last year or two to keep pace with the mounting costs of living.

The question is, now that the high peak has been passed, and a sensible reduction in price has occurred in many articles of necessity, should not the cost of labor move in sympathy with this downward tendency, in order to stimulate industrial activity and keep the employment market brisk? Reports from all quarters agree as to a general dullness in the building trades, for instance, which is one of the most important of those dealt with in the Labor Gazette's bulletin. There is the greatest need of houses. Buyers, however, are holding back in face of the high construction costs which prevail. Public bodies are hesitating to let contracts, and in many cases it is impossible for the would-be houseowner to finance the deal. While this condition of things exists, there will naturally be stagnation in the building industry, with consequent unemployment and general dissatisfaction all round.

Would it not be wiser for those employed in the building trades to accept a reduction in wages and thereby purchase for themselves a more stable livelihood? If people could be shown that there really was a material falling-off in construction costs as compared with a year or so ago, there would undoubtedly follow a period of increased building activity. The process of getting back to normal must be shared in by all classes, or readjustment to peace conditions will never come.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If Messrs. Windle and Johnson would carry on their battle through the mails they'd get just as much fun and do just as much good.

The success of the Health Association's work depends largely on the success of the Motor Show. You can help by visiting the Armouries on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

At least Pussyfoot Johnson succeeded in disturbing the usual calmness of a Toronto Sunday.

Less than a week, thank goodness,
And then the shouting and the tumult ceases;
Pussyfoots and Windles depart.

CITIZENS OF LONDON GROW ROUND-HEADED

LONDON, April 11.—(Associated Press).—Anthropologists claim that owing to the incursion of peoples from Middle Europe, Londoners are growing round-headed.

It is said this tendency toward globular formation of the cranium has amounted to 2 per cent. within the last 200 years.

"The old British inhabitants were longheaded, and they have been supreme in initiative, governing capacity and colonizing genius," says a commentator. "The round-heads are lacking in initiative, but they have a great capacity for patient labor."

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

WORST WEATHER IN YEARS ON ATLANTIC

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 9.—During the last month the weather on the North Atlantic has been the worst for years. Almost daily shipping was reported in distress, and the ports of Halifax and Sydney, N. S., have been busy havens for disabled shipping and steams short of coal.

St. Johns also shared in this work says the St. John's Daily Star, and dock employees were kept busy in making the necessary repairs to the large number of ships which were forced to make this port in distress. Newfoundland shipping suffered from the ravages of wind and sea and as a result 14 of the foreign-going fleet met with disaster and 35 members of their crew were sent to a watery grave. Numbers of other craft have reached their destination badly damaged, and repairs have cost thousands of dollars.

The following is the list of vessels, owned in Newfoundland, lost since December, 1920: Schooners Donald T., Emma Belliveau, Ludwig, Eloise, Frances, Mintie; Cento, Elsie Corkum, Newton S. Lake, Sparkling Glance, Elizabeth Fearn, Marjorie McGlashen, County of Richmond and the S. S. Euphrates.

The County of Richmond, which left here Feb. 8th, bound to Bungeo, and was wrecked on Feb. 14, near Ramea, carried her crew to the bottom, while Captain Hoeburg, of the Ludwig, was drowned when his vessel went ashore at Malaga.

The crews of the remaining schooners that were lost were, with one or two exceptions, taken off their water logged vessels in mid-ocean after undergoing the hardships that are so inseparable from the lives of those who go down to the sea in ships.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

Noreen Learns Who Thierry Is.

Chapter 25

Thierry Brunswick suddenly appeared again one morning at breakfast.

"Have you missed me?" he smilingly inquired.

"Yes, surely!" I fibbed to flatter his young vanity.

"I ran into New York for the week-end to see the governor. I needed more lucre. Tried to lure him into a trip down here but—nothing doing. He's so damn busy!" he ejaculated—then as quickly stammered an apology. "Just like me to forget myself like that—I'd not offend you for worlds. You'll forgive me?" he pleaded with all the grace and dignity of a versatile swain.

"Tell me about your people?" I asked, purposely changing the subject.

"My mother is dead," he told me with real emotion in his young voice. "It's five years now," he mused. Then he went on quickly. "Dad is Rowland Brunswick. He's a New York lawyer—maybe you have heard of him?" he asked proudly.

"Why, is your father the Brunswick of the big Marmaduke case?" I asked eagerly.

"That's the governor!"

"Of course I've heard of him—Leonard, that's my husband, is also a New York lawyer, and we followed the Marmaduke case with the keenest interest. I would not be surprised if my husband had met him—he is one of Leonard's models. Leonard thinks he is one of the biggest lawyers of the day and often talks to me about him," I told him enthusiastically.

As I talked I could see Thie was consumed with satisfaction.

"Dad is a whale!" he exclaimed proudly. "That's ripping too, your knowing him—maybe father knows Mr. Allen," he suggested.

"He might. But of course Leonard is not very prominent yet," I said slowly, but added quickly and with loving fervor in my voice; "He is going to be—everybody will hear of him some day."

"Do you know your cheeks are as red as apples!" Thie flung at me. "It's fine to see enthusiasm stir a fellow like that," he complimented awkwardly. "I'm zero on these soft females that always hand out the lukewarm stuff," he finished, with a quick gesture of his long slender hands.

"All boys are like you," I smiled. "Before they are 20 they like women, and when you get to be around 30 you'll fall easily for the young girls—the ones you say bore you now," I told him.

His brows knit and clouded. I thought he did not like my calling him a boy.

"I'm not talking of a question of age now," he answered impatiently. "Kids do bore me. But what I'm getting at are these enameled skin vamps—the kind that stir up a man without so much as a ripple of feeling under their own hard crust."

He was tense. The man in him entirely crushed out the boy. I watched him with new interest.

"Dad did some dirty work two years ago for a woman of that sort—I have reason to remember her. She had gotten tired of her last husband and Dad helped her throw him in the dump heap. There's not much left of a fellow when a vamp like that finishes with him."

I started to smile, but Thierry's earnest expression suddenly stopped me.

"Sometime I'll tell you why I feel so strongly," he said as we rose from the table.

"You will tell me now—if you care to," I suggested.

The boy's story interested me—and brought wildly to my mind that other woman with her vampire ways. Something made me eager to hear Thie's story.

"I can't tell your around here," he said, glancing around the hotel halls with its throng of people.

I thought a minute.

"I'll run upstairs and put on my coat and hat, and we can go out on one of the piers. The sun will be warm there this morning."

"I'd like to tell you," he said with that adorable smile of his, as I left him waiting for me in the corridor.

Tomorrow—Thierry's Story.

DOG TRIED TO SAVE HIS MASTER.

Kept Assassin Away For Months, Finally Killed

NEW YORK, April 9.—There is a certain town in Sicily where the inhabitants have trained dogs to protect their homes against brigands and other lawless characters. These Sicilians on leaving their homes seldom bother to secure doors or windows. They have trained their dogs so well that the animals can take care of the most cunning of criminals.

When a thief enters one of these homes the dogs do not attack him. They receive him in silence, even wagging their tails sometimes in apparent friendliness. But no matter where the thief may go the dog follows, never losing sight of him for a moment. He follows the thief from room to room. The thief may load himself up with all the loot he likes, but the dog views his thieving with indifference.

It is not until the thief attempts to leave the place that the dog displays any real interest in him. He then becomes remarkably active. He jumps in front of the culprit, barring his way and defying him to attempt to leave. If the thief makes a break for the door or window, the dog springs for the throat. But wherever he sinks his teeth nothing short of death can make him release his hold. If the intruder attempts to draw a weapon the dog is upon him like a flash of lightning. These dogs have been nicknamed Italian bulldogs, but they are of a mongrel breed with just a trace of the genuine bulldog in their blood. They more closely resemble wolfish hounds.

Several years ago a Sicilian whom the Camorra had marked for death came to New York, as some men do to escape their enemies. He settled in Harlem's little Italy and he made his abode in the basement of an old brick house. He had brought with him an Italian bulldog for protection. He kept this dog a prisoner day and night in the basement.

When his enemies learned he was here they decided to make short work of him. He was vigilant, and when they found that they could not attack him with safety on the streets they decided to visit his home at night and slay him as he slept. They forced a window in the rear of the basement and were about to enter when by the light of a lantern they discovered the dog. They realized at once the animal was an Italian bulldog and they hastened away in confusion. Fear of the animal caused them to spare the man's life for many months.

At last they decided they could no longer postpone their mission. One night when the Sicilian was drinking wine at the home of a friend a member of the gang visited the basement. He forced a window and stepped inside, and as the dog came forward he slew him with a sawed-off knife. He then sat patiently in a dark corner of the room and awaited the Sicilian's return. When the Sicilian entered just before daybreak he was shot to death. An hour later when Italian detectives visited the place and saw the dead dog and his master they had little difficulty in reconstructing the tragedy, for they knew an Italian bulldog when they saw one.

WILL CUTS OFF WIFE.

Dr. Parrish Left Entire Estate to Woman "Friend."

NEW YORK.—The will of Dr. Charles Ellison Parrish, an osteopath, who died suddenly at 41 Central Park West on Feb. 20, leaves his entire estate to Miss Laura C. Beardsley, described as "my friend of the same address.' He gave nothing to his wife, Mrs. Katherine Parrish of Bellingham Bay, Wash.

He adso left a mother, Mrs. Tabiatha Parrish of Nashville, Tenn., and three brothers and a sister there. Dr. Parrish was born in Nashville in 1865, and was educated abroad. The value of his estate was not disclosed.

SEES LIVELY HOPE FOR DISARMAMENT

NEW YORK, April 11—Representative Patrick H. Kelley, of Michigan, said in an address at a dinner of the Carpet Association of America in the Hotel Commodore recently that he believed that the present Administration, co-operating with the British Government, would bring about an agreement on the question of armament that would mean the saving of millions of dollars to both nations. Equality must be the basis for this agreement.

KINGSTON VETS WOULD BAN HEARST PAPERS

KINGSTON, April 11—The Army and Navy Veterans have appointed a committee of six members to wait on local news dealers regarding the sale of Hearst publications. The committee will also wait on the officials of the public library and on the Finance committee of the City Council and request that action be taken at once in the matter of ceasing to handle Hearst magazines now that the library is to be supported by municipal funds.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

HERE'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO DARKEN AND BEAUTIFY FADED HAIR.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its apearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get the famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and the lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compond now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or a soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

Voice Of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

Dear Sir: What a travesty on liberty is the freedom demanded by the Citizens' Liberty League. Surely this is not the heritage of freedom for which our forefathers fought and bled and died.

Liberty to fill our land with whiskey
With sorrow, sin, and ruin in its train,
To replace on our backs the heavy burden
We never thought that we should bear again.

Liberty to make the home a hovel,
Liberty to make the man a sot;
Liberty to ruin youth and maiden,
To bring back scenes we rather had forgot.

Liberty to rob the wife of husband,
To make the wife a terror to the home,
To cause the children to be known as orphans,
To fight their way through this dark world alone.

Liberty to steal the shoes from baby
And pinch its little face with cruel want,
To rob the young of chance of education,
To call this 'Liberty' is only cant.

Surely no one in the City of Peterboro will be deluded by this personal liberty catch phrase and be led to vote 'No' at the coming referendum.

Real liberty is based upon justice and right, and truth and mercy are its right and left hand supporters. No such attributes attend the kind of liberty sought by the liquor interests or its supporters. The liberty they seek is based upon cruelty and greed, with a merciless disregard of the consequences to the rest of the world. They have always shown an utter indifference to the sufferings caused by the traffic as long as they could pile up a fortune out of the ruin and misery it was nothing to them.

Strong drink has proved itself in the past to be of such a nature that it was impossible to control it. The only way is to end it. Its supporters speak glibly of government control (which by the way is not an issue in this referendum) but they know perefctly well that they would defy any sort of control as long as they possibly could and that it would be much easier to get away with it as long as it was being brought into the province in large quantities. If the referendum goes in favour of prohibition there will only be the small quantity brought in as may be authorized for medicinal and church purposes, and the gate will be very narrow indeed for the bootlegger, if the authorities are in earnest in the enforcement of the law. Let every voter who wishes to see an honest chance given to the prohibitory law, vote 'Yes' on the 18th. We have fought this monster for years, driving him back foot by foot. Do not let us fail now. Thanking your, yours faithfully,

GEO. LEADER.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

The appended extract is taken from the Toronto Globe of last Saturday's date:

'That gentleman lent the high reputation of his position and his personal word to introduce to the citizens of Toronto a man from Chicago of the name of Windle. That man was notorious, and his record had been told in the Press of Canada. The 'liberty' loving people, however, set this aside as irrelevant, and the man himself told us that the record complained of was only that of the pre-war days. We know this to be absolutely false.

"Almost immediately before starting on the present tour, in March, 1921, Windle published in his paper the most fiery denunciatios of England ever written. The closing paragraph reads as follows:

"'Was such a civilization worth saving? Is this heartless old hag clothed in the garments of lust, loot, and murder, worthy the life of the humblest son of Columbia who died in France? He thought that he gave his life for a Vestal Virgin about to be ravished by the Huns. America threw all her resources into the fight with the same idea, but we find that, instead of a Vesal Virgin, we fought for a vile old prostitute that she might parade her shame and infamy throughout the world.'

Assails English Characeter

"It is simply untrue to describe this as a criticism of British policies; it voices hatred and assails English character.

"I have personally verified the quotation, certify the above to be correct, and that the referenc hroughout is to Engand and to England alone.

A B. CUNNINGHAM.

THE REFERENDUM.

Peterborough, Ont., April 10, /21.
To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—For many months some kind friends of mine in Montreal have kept me well advised as to the right time for me to purchase certain "goods."

It is pleasant to find that others are interested in one's welfare and prosperity, and are seeking, so unselfishly, to promote one's happiness. I wonder if we might call this practical Christianity? I must ask the Ministerial Association. After all their trouble it may appear unkind for me to say that on the 18th inst. I intend to tell these friends that I desire a discontinuance of their interesting letters.

One likes to think that our country is not ruled by the politicians, but by the people as they deposit their ballots. This view enhances the responsibility of every good citizen as to his vote on the 18th inst.

Our friends the enemy are now zealously advocating government control. The question arises if these people have known during all the past years when helpless women were being beaten and poor little children abused, that government control would abolish these monstrous evils, then why in the name of humanity did they not tell us? But we must not take the friends of whiskey too seriously. Shouting for something they know is not available, and which they do not even desire, is a very old trick of theirs. They used it against the Dunkin Act, the Crooks Act, the Scott Act, and the O.T.A., and now we recognize it as an old, if not a valued acquaintance. The idea is to raise a counter issue—any old issue will do—and thus catch some votes. It may be asked why are some educated and admittedly clever men willing to go on a platform and repeat weak, puerile, or even silly arguments against prohibition. It is simply because those are the only arguments available on that side of the question. If there were any better ones these clever men would certainly use them.

To quote the words of that intellectual giant, the late "Hon. Edward Blake, "Prohibition is right in principle, and it is very desirable that we should obtain it."

While far from being a panacea, prohibition is certainly the right remedy for the evils of the liquor traffic. And it is not subversive of true liberty, for it recognizes the principle that every man is entitled to, a full measure of personal liberty so long as he does not use that liberty to injure his neighbor.

In view of present world conditions and the imperative duty of everyone to help our country in this difficult reconstruction period, there should be an immense majority on the 18th aaginst importation. The principal thing to fear is over-confidence on the part of the "drys." A word to the wise is sufficient.

EAT ONIONS.

WASHINGTON, April 12 (Canadian Press).—"Eat onions" is the advice given to the public by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Unless there is increased consumption of the vegetable, the Department said, in a recent announcement, there will be a great waste of the old crop, of which there is now an estimated carry-over of 2,500 cars, and the spring crop is almost ready.

CAMPBELLFORD COURT REVISION

Bridge and Rear Streets, thence northerly along Rear Street to the intersection of Rear and Front Streets, both in a northerly and southerly direction. The said work to be proceeded with and constructed as a local improvement under the provisions of the Local Improvement Act, that a special assessment be levied on the frontage of each lot to pay for our proportionate cost of the work, and said special assessment to be spread over a period of ten yeads.

If after the by-law has been passed setting the rate at $2 per foot, what will the other ratepayers think?

Mr. Davidson said that he had objected to the work from the first, Rear Street had protection from both Front and Rear Streets. The petitioners seemed willing to pay before they got the work done, and if they don't pay now what will those ratepayers say who have no protection but pay their taxes just the same. When they signed they should pay.

Mr. Mulhearn said that Rear Street had no adequate protection. When the work had nearly been completed as far as the Church House, he and Mr. Baker worked up an investigation as to whose authority the work was being done under. It was found that there was no real authority for the work. As to fire protection, he claimed there was none on Rear Street, as he found out when his barns and contents were totally destroyed by fire. These might have been at least partially saved if there had been fire protection, but both hydrants and hose were frozen up.

Mr. Davidson said that it couldn't be blamed upon the town if hydrants freeze in cold weather, but the hose was not frozen.

Referred to Council.

Mr. Meyers asked the solicitor if the court could legally deal with the case.

Mr. Mumphries replied that it should be referred to the Council.

Mr. Long asked what about the town lots.

Mr. Meyers said that they were estimated in cost to the town.

Mr. Southworth—How did the actual cost compare with the estimate?

The Clerk showed that the estimate had been $10,550, while the cost had been $11,640.

Mr. Wm. Smith — I was a commissioner when the petition was presented to the Committee Board, but owing to the lack of finances the petition was referred to the Council. The ratepayers understood that they should pay their share of the sewer, but should not pay for the water main. In no case have the people as a whole financed the waterworks except once; all the rest has been done by the Water and Light Commission up to the present. I myself am a ratepotory, and I am willing to help pay for the sewer, but not the water main.

Mr. Meyers—Did you know the rate?

Mr. Smith—No. I knew nothing about it. Should these property owners have to help pay for all the rest and then turn around and pay for their own?

One Ditch

Mr. J. A. Irwin—Everyone understood that there was to be only one ditch. He considered that the council took advantage of the sewer for the main and they were now appealing against it but not against the sewer. He desired justice.

Mr. Humphries—I hope gentlemen, that you will appreciate the difficuty of the work before the court.

Mr. Irwin—We appreciate it especially since they are new men.

Mr Humphries—I suggest that if no one else wishes to say anything now that we proceed with other business and meet the council and call another meeting later.

Mr. Meyers—We shall proceed with matters which come under this act. This matter is not to be dealt with by us.

Other Claims.

Mr. Jenkins asked to have the 12 foot lane at the rear of his premises deducted from his frontage as it belongs to Mrs. T. Blute.

Mr Vic Hay's frontage will be taken as what is stated in his deed.

Mrs. Shannon's lot as it is a three cornered one will be assessed as having a 66 foot frontage.

Mr. Farre and Mr. Z. Hubbel were left off the list as their land does not front on the improvement. A. W. Griffin's name was changed to F. F. Long.

Mr. A. Peeling was allowed a frontage of 60 feet instead of 66.

It was decided that for the purpose of this assessment lot 22 be considered as a 72 foot lot.

As no other business came up it was decided to call an open meeting of the council for Friday evening to take up the question and the meeting adjourned.

Social Evening.

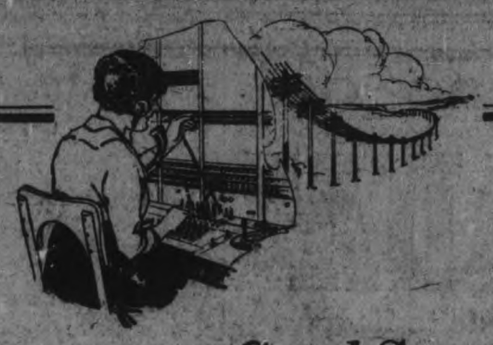
Last evening a most successful social evening was held in the school room of St. Andrew's church, when the East Side members, the winners in the recent contest, were entertained by the West Side. The contest just concluded has been going on for eight weeks. Ten points were allowed for each member present at each meeting and 50 points was the maximum allowed for any one programme. Both sides worked hard and are to be congratulated upon the success of the contest, as shown by the increased attendance and interest. The final score was East Side, 2610 points; and the West Side 1920 points. In the absence of the President, Mr. George Anderson, Mr. John Storrie, the first vice-president, conducted the devotional exercises and then called upon Mr. James H. Caskey to take the chair.

Mr. John Shand favored the audience with a reading, "The Courtship of John Brown," which was heartily applauded. Mr. John Storrie rendered a solo, "Young Tom O'Devon,' which was heartily encored, and for an encore sang "Chili Bean," which brought much applause. Miss B. McConnell then gave a reading in her usual pleasing manner, which was enjoyed by all.

Then followed progressive games, there being 15 tables, and in these the contests were most original and humorous. One table furnished the Personal column for a newspaper, another lost and found, another wit and humor, and another, sports, etc. These literary contributions were read and brought forth peals of laughter during the serving of the very dainty refreshments, which the young ladies of St. Andrews' know so well how to provide.

Next folowed an impromptu debate: Resolved, that it is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all. The affirmative was upheld by Miss Mary Stephens and Mr. Gerald Connor, while Miss Bertha McConnell and Mr. John Storrie ably defended the negative. Rev. C. H. McIntosh, Miss Buchanan and Miss Donald kindly acted as judges.

Rev. M. McIntosh in a most amusing manner, summed up the judges' decision, which they decided was a tie. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the West Side Young People for the excellent programme and luncheon. Mr. James Caskey made a very efficient chairman. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.



Good Service On Long Distance

IF YOU use the long distance telephone you already know how speedy, efficient and satisfactory the service has become.

Our staff of skilled operators was never better trained, more courteous or obliging. Science has worked wonders in perfecting transmission and our system has been equipped with every known device to ensure good service, no matter what the distance.

In fact, distance as a factor in long distance service has been eliminated. The voice of a speaker five hundred or a thousand miles away sounds as if he were just across the street.

The handicaps of war and post-war conditions have been largely overcome as regards existing Long Distance lines.

The recent decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners makes effective a Classification of Long Distance Service which will repay careful study by all users.

In our further announcements we will explain these Classifications. Our Manager will also be glad to give you full information at any time.

Make your money and your time go farther. Use "Long Distance."

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

The young people of St. Andrew's and their pastor, Rev. Mr. McIntosh, are to be congratulated upon the success of their contest which has so stimulated social and Christian activity in their organization.

Social and Personal.

Mr. William Gibson, of Balaclava street, yetserday received word that her mother was seriously ill in Marmora. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson left immediately for Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith and little son, Master Charles, Mr. and Mrs. McGregor and family, of Havelock, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, Victoria.

Dr. Alfred Brown of Picton, one of the most able clergymen in the Bay of Quinte Conference, will conduct the missionary services in the Methodist church on April 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Tripp are renewing old acquaintances in town.

Miss Shaw, who has been ill since Easter, returned to Toronto to-day (Tuesday.)

Mrs. I. Fredrick, Grand Road, is visiting in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood spent Sunday with Mrs. Hart.

No Trouble to Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty.)

There is no need for any woman to countenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made by mixing some powdered delatone with water it is easy to get rid of them. The past is applied for 2 to 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

Serve with Oatmeal

—To bring the rose tint to women's and children's cheeks.

—To increase men's energy and vim.

Do this, madam, for tomorrow's breakfast; Stew some raisins according to the recipe printed here, and mix with the oatmeal that you serve tomorrow morning.

Do it for the added flavor—to make oatmeal more attractive.

But do it mainly for the food-iron that raisins send into the blood, and for the raisin's mildly laxative effect.

The bloom of youth

The tonic food-iron of raisins helps to bring the bloom of youth to cheeks that perhaps are paler than they should be. Then the nutriment of raisins—1560 calories per pound—gives men and children the energy they need.

For regulating, tonic and nutritious properties combined, one can find no other food that's so effective. The luscious flavor makes it easy to serve stewed raisins frequently, so there's every argument in favor of their daily use.

Try it for a month and see. Look in your pantry now. Begin tomorrow.

Send for free book, "100 Raisin Recipes." But first try the recipe printed here.

Stewed Raisins

Soak raisins over night, pour water off and place in stewpan, putting in not quite enough water to cover and cook slowly for about an hour, then sugar to taste and add a bit of vanilla. Some raisins do not require much or any sugar.

What Dr. J. H. Kellogg says:

(Dr. Kellogg is head of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium.)

"Raisins are served on the Battle Creek Sanitarium Table every day. A pound of Raisins has twice the food value, an equal amount of iron and seven times as much food lime as a pound of choicest lean steak. The sugar of Raisins is much more wholesome than cane sugar, requiring no digestion and being absorbed in one-fourth the time required for ordinary sugar. If the American people would eat more Raisins and less meat the results would be better digestion, less rheumatism, less Bright's disease, less heart disease, greater efficiency and longer life."

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins in all your cooking, for they are the finest grown. Made from tender, juicy, thin-skinned California table grapes.

Packed in an immaculate plant in California. Clean, sweet, wholesome, American raisins—the kind you know are good.

Three varieties: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). All dealers. Insist upon the Sun-Maid Brand.

CHURCH SERVICES IN MARK STREET

The services were unusually interesting and profitable. The addresses by Messrs. Powel and Brond on the referendum in the evening were intensely interesting.

"His Brother's Body-guard" was the subject of the morning sermon by Rev. G. E. Ross and was a development of the text found in Gen. IV., 9. "Am I my brother's keeper?" The following is a synopsis of the discourse:

Societies and Associations in Nature.

In the world of nature God has organized the objects of His creation into families and associations. One of the most noticeable facts in reference to plants is that they do not form a monotonous covering for the earth's surface, but that there are forests in one place in another thickets, meadows in another; all exceedingly varied. All down through the range of the plant kingdom, from mighty trees to forms so minute that the microscope must be used to discover them, God has arranged trees, lilies, ferns, mosses, mushrooms, lichens, and even the gren thready growths found in water, into families in the starry heavens, in the flower-bespangled earth, and in the wonderous sea, groups, associations and families abound.

The Wreck of Domestic Happiness.

The most sacred place on earth is man's home. He will yield his time, talents, wealth, position, health; yes, even his hope of heaven, but you must not touch the sanctity of his home. The home of Cain and Abel was a hallowed spot. We believe those two boys were of the same age. They grew like young trees of the garden, side by side. They slept together, ate together, played and prayed together, in the same home and at the same mother's knee. For one hundred and twenty-eight years they had been brothers in that eastern home. Their joys and sorrows, hopes and fears, trials and triumphs were one and the same, and mother's prayers and father's counsel were equally shared by both. It would seem that each is his brother's keeper, but things are not what they seem. There is no difference so bitter and so difficult to heal as that which comes between members of the same family. The hate of a brother in blood is deep and cruel as death.

The Quarrel and the Murderous Deed.

The history of the fall is followed by a chapter of tragic events. We learn from it that public worship had been established, and that the righteous and the wicked bowed before the altar of God. This is a reasonable service. Our sins and our mercies are all public, and our repentance and homage should be public also. God makes a difference between the oblation of the righteous and the wicked. He had respect unto the believing and holy Abel, accepting his choice lamb either by fire from heaven, or by evident prosperity in his cattle and lands. But unto Cain, who brought his fruits, though not his first fruits, he had no respect. It is so still; the sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination unto the Lord, but the prayer of the upright is His delight.

Cain, instead of being humbled for his sin, was wrathful and envious against his brother, enticed him to the field, and there dyed his hands in the blood of matchless virtue, even that of his mother's son.

Abel Was Slain by the Hand of Religion.

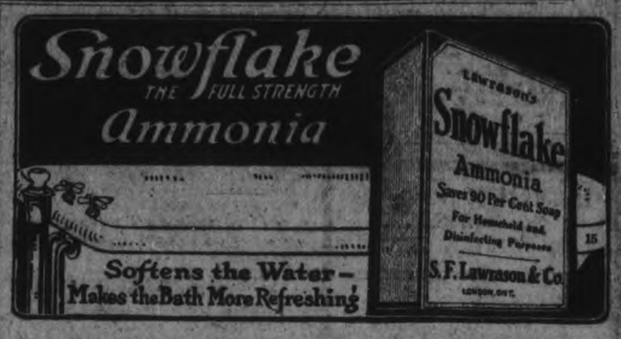
Men were actuated by religion in earliest times. Religion as a principle was found in the members of the first human family. The most prominent thing connected with Cain and Abel was their religion. All nations of men have practiced some form of worship. Conscience, like the unresting heart that sends its crimson streams through the system, and so perpetuates its life, is unjiringly impelling men to die to sin and live to God. The religious is the most perfect type of manhood known. Humanity at its best is to be found only in the highest Christian state. Natural religion is essentially defective in its offerings. Cain recognized only a God of providence in his offering; and he did not feel that he should sacrifice as a sinner. Cain held a religion that did not hold him. His heartless question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" marks him out as a stranger to God's grace. There was no blood in Cain's offering; it was not a type of Christ.

Spiritual Religion Alone Commends a Man to God.

This is illustrated in the life of Abel. He possessed faith. Cain lacked faith. God accepted Abel's sacrifice, and Cain writhed in madness and slew him. The blood of a brother dyes the grass at his feet; and yet when God asks Cain for an account of his brother, his answer is a hideous falsehood. "I know not," says he. "Am I my brother's keeper?" Certainly he was his brother's keeper; and every man born into this world is akin to every other man by creation and redemption. Some are poor, but too proud to make it known; then you need not make it known; just help them to help themselves. Is your brother weak and subject to temptation?—then help him by your strength. Is he a man of appetite and passion?—then it's up to you to remove the temptation out of his way. The unsaved man has our measure, and if our religious life is out of joint, we might as well try to set fire to an iceberg as to try to lead that man to Christ. Never talk religion to the express man while he is unloading the booze for your cellar; he may get rattled.

Jealousy, the Prince of All the Devils.

You will notice that Abel was slain by envy and jealousy. Abel's offering was acceptable to God and Cain was angry. We see this illustrated every day. It is the spirit of Cain that is blasting the peace of the world. It is lifting its hideous head by the sacred atar of our God, even in His church. It is this spirit that is keeping young men from entering the ministry, and not the small salaries paid. He feels that his soul is too exalted to pull strings for the said pulpit, and unless he does the wire-pulling, he must remain unknown; so he goes away like the youth from Jesus—"sorrowful." But we can all cultivate the spirit of Abel; the spirit of Christ. A woman with breaking heart came to Dr. Talmage and said, "I have more trouble than I can bear, what shall I do, my heart is breaking?" If you must suffer," said Talmage, 'suffer splendidly.'"



PETERBORO WAS REPRESENTED AT THE CONFERENCE

President Fred Roy, R. Denne, R. Turner, Treasurer E. Linton, G. McDonald, and W. R. Morris, represented the recently organised Peterborough Club at the annual conference of Rotary District No. 4, held in Ottawa on Friday and Saturday last.

Over 1,000 delegates gathered in conference, representing forty clubs with a membership of over 4,000. Clubs from down in New York State are within this district, and Canadians and Americans met in the Canadian capital, welcomed by Canada's Premier, the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Premier Meighen's tribute to the Rotarians was as follows:

"The ideals for which Rotary stand must have the hearty support of every man who wishes the best for his country and his fellowmen, and there is perhaps nothing in these days which is more important to emphasise than the idea of individual service for the general good. The public good must rest on business integrity and personal unselfishness, and I believe that your organisation can do much to promote these desirable qualities."

Prominent Rotarians from the United States addressed the meeting, which was presided over by District Governor Harry G. Stanton.

The president of the Peterborough Club said to-day that the conference had been very helpful to the Peterborough delegates. They received new ideas on community service and returned more inspired with the ideals and objects of Rotary than ever. The true conception of Rotary's mission in the motto, "Service, Not Self — He Profits Most Who Serves Best," was shown when the work of the different clubs in boys' training and community service had been outlined.

RECIPIES

Chicken Chinois.

One of the most delicious chicken dishes that I have found was served at one of the many Chinese cafes. The Chinese name is Hung Yuen Guy Ding, which means almond chicken. To make, fry one cup of blanched almonds in hot oil until they are a light brown. Place in a saucepan one cup of chopped onions, one cup of water chestnuts cut in dice, one cup chopped mushrooms, and half a cup of chopped celery with half a cup of olive oil; fry rapidly and keep moving so that each particle receives an equal amount of oil and heat. When colored, cover with water and simmer for fifteen minutes. Bone a pound and a half chicken, cut in pieces and fry for two minutes, cover with chicken stock and cook with cover on for fifteen minutes, add one cup of cream sauce. Place the chicken in the center of a serving dish, place around and over the cooked vegetables and on top put the browned almonds.

Pineapple Chicken.

Another odd Chinese dish is called Bor Lor Guy or pineapple chicken. For this dish beat two eggs with one tablespoon of cornstarch. Cut up a small boiled chicken, dip in the egg mixture and fry in deep hot oil.

Place in a saucepan one and a half cups of chopped green peppers, one and a half cups chopped pineapple, one and a half cups chopped celery, half a cup chopped canned sour ginger and four tablespoons of oil and fry for two minutes; add the fried chicken and four tablespoons of orange juice and cook over a hot fire for five minutes; add two cups of the stock that the chicken was cooked in and simmer for thirty minutes. Add one tablespoon of lemon juice and one cup of white sauce made with chicken stock. Mix well and serve in a border of cooked rice.

Note—Water chestnuts and sour ginger can be purchased from any Chinese grocer.

"Chinese" Chop Suey.

Every week I am asked how to make Chop Suey, and as the dish is unknown in China I have asked the manager of one of the largest Chinese cafes in this city to give me the recipe used by his cooks. The name means a variety of small pieces. Cut a small chicken into small pieces and fry for five minutes. Place in a saucepan two cups of sliced water chestnuts, two cups of sliced mushrooms, two cups bamboo shoots, two cups diced celery, half a cup of hot oil; fry for two minutes and cover with boiling water and cook for fifteen minutes; add the fried chicken and one cup of cream sauce made with chicken stock, one cup of chicken stock and cook for ten minutes. Serve very hot with boiled rice.

California Hot Pudding.

One of the nicest hot puddings is served at one of the downtown lunch rooms and is made with California fruit. Cover one package of seeded raisins with cold water and let stand over night, in the morning place in a double boiler with four tablespoons of sugar and one tablespoon of lemon juice and cook slowly for one hour; remove from the fire and allow to cool. Rub into three cups of flour sifted with four teaspoons of baking powder five tablespoons of butter; add sufficient milk to make a smooth dough. Roll out the dough rather thin on a well floured board, brush with melted butter and spread over the cooked raisins; sprinkle with sugar mixed with a little cinnamon and roll up like a jelly roll. Pinch the ends together and place in a buttered baking pan. Brush with melted butter and when it has been in the oven ten minutes baste with some of the juice from the raisins mixed with a little melted butter. When well browned remove to a hot platter and pour over a sauce made with the raisin liquid thickened with cornstarch and butter.

California Parfait.

One of the specials made by a large ice cream company is called California parfait and has a large sale. Mix two cups of cooked, chopped seeded raisins with the juice and grated rind of one orange, two cups of cream and twelve finely chopped toasted almonds. Place the mixture in a mould and pack in cracked ice and salt for three hours. This will serve six.

Coffee Cake "Hotel Special".

A coffee cake that is served in one of the coffee rooms of a large hotel is made by mixing two cakes of yeast dissolved in half a cup of lukewarm milk with four cups of flour and three beaten eggs; work this to medium stiff dough, cover with a cloth and stand in a warm place, free from draughts, and let rise until double in size. Beat to cream six tablespoons of butter with four tablespoons of sugar, a pinch of salt, a little nutmeg, the juice and rind of one lemon; add this to the dough with one and a half cups of chopped seeded raisins; place in a shallow, buttered baking sheet and allow to rise for about one hour. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Bake in a medium oven forty minutes.

Dr. John Dill Robertson, health commission of the City of Chicago, at a meeting of caterers the other night said that we should serve more bran bread with raisins in it and we would be much healthier. After the meeting, one of the stewards gave a recipe that he is using at one of the big clubs and as it is very simple every housekeeper should make it at least once a week.

Bran Bread With Raisins.

Mix one and a half cups of flour with two cups of wheat bran, half a teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, half a cup of molasses, half a cup of water and two cups of milk; mix well and stir in one cup of chopped seeded raisins. Spread on a baking sheet about one inch thick and bake in a slow oven.

Halibut Italian.

Halibut as served at one of the Italian cafes is specially delicious. Place two inch and a half slices of halibut in a saucepan and cover with cold water, add a little salt and bring to a boil, skim and add one cup of milk and simmer for twenty-five minutes or until soft. Make a sauce of two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of flour and two cups of the fish stock; cook ten minutes and strain. Add to the sauce four chopped hard boiled eggs and season with salt and pepper. Place the cooked halibut on buttered baking dish, pour over the sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese, dot with bits of butter and bake until brown in a medium oven. Serve in the same dish.

MASS MEETING IN OMEMEE ON SUNDAY EVENING

OMEMEE NEWS OF INTEREST—VISITORS TO VILLAGE.

OMEMEE, April 12.—On Sunday evening after the evening services, a mass meeting was held in the Presbyterian church when all the congregation were united to be present, Rev. F. Stillman and Mr. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. gave sort addresses on the coming referendum.

Improving Roads.

Mr. T A. Rowan of town is dragging the roads in town which in many places are in a very poor condition at present.

Successful Concert

The play entitled "The Old Ontario Home", given by Reaboro talent in Coronation Hall on Friday evening was a decided success so far as the talent could be described but the audience did not come up to the average. The heavy downpour of rain in the evening caused many to remain at home, some of whom have already stated that if a return visit is forthcoming, they will patronize it without fail. Those who heard it are loud in their praises of the evening's entertainment.

Monthly Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mr. B. Courtney on Wednesday afternoon last, with a small number of members present. Mrs O. G. Williamson read from the study book and several items of business were transacted. Refreshments were served at the close by [illegible].

Mr. Outwater has returned to Norwood, and is living in Mrs. Reynolds' double house near the station.

The Cradle.

On Saturday, to Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hogg—a son.

TRY PHOSPHATE IF YOU ARE THIN AND UNDER WEIGHT

Nothing like Bitro-Phosphate, says Dr. Harrigan, of New York, to make thin, delicate, nervous, discouraged men and women take on needed weight and quickly exhibit a nerve force that radiates health, energy and ambition.

It is known to be such a wonderful aid to frail and tired out people that McDermid & Jury and other leading druggists, who have a large demand for it, are glad to guarantee Bitro-Phosphate.

CAUTION: Although Bitro-Phosphate is an excellent aid in relieving weak, nervous conditions its use is not advised unless increased weight is desired.

TAX REFORM BILL MUCH CRITICISED

OPPOSITION FORCED PREMIER TO ALLOW IT TO STAND OVER.

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—When the Government Tax Reform Bill came up for a second reading in the Legislature yesterday it met with so much objection the Premier had to allow it to stand over until to-day.

The chief feature of the bill is initiative principle dropped last session and reviewed this year. Under this provision ten per cent of the electors voting in the last municipal election may petition the Council and require the submission of a vote by the ratepayers upon the question of partially or wholly exempting improvements, income, business, etc., and placing the extra burden upon land.

Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Hon. G. S. Henry, Hon. Thomas Crawford and J. E. Thompson, Conservatives, and J. A. Calder, Liberal member for North Oxford, opposed the bill. Hon. Mr. Ferguson's objection was to the application of the principle of initiative with which he had little sympathy. With municipal elections every year electors had the power to enforce their will upon any Council and to put out those who disobeyed the popular will. H. H. Dewart, K.C., did not want to put any obstacle in the way of the bill, but he, as did Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Thompson and other members, objected to the fact that while only the ratepayers could vote on the matter the petition could be presented to the electors, who could not vote on the matter they had initiated.

Mr. Drury could see little real ground for opposition. It was reasonable that the electors should have the right by petition to ask that the ratepayers pass upon the question. No harm was done to property interests since ratepayers and ratepayers alone had the making of any change in their own hands. The Premier was supported by K. Homuth, R. R. Hall and other members.

ROCKDALE NEWS

ROCKDALE, April 12.—Miss Estella Peever, is spending the week end in Lindsay.

The erection of a new fence and other repairs are under way at the cemetery.

Miss Hatty Spry was the guest of Miss Ida Stunburg over Sunday.

Miss E. Ellis, who has spent the winter with her sister in Toronto, has returned to her home here.

TRENT RIVER HAPPENINGS

TRENT RIVER, April 12.—The weather has turned colder the past few days, causing ice to form again on the small ponds.

Referendum meetings were held at the Town Hall, Preneveau, on Tuesday at Victoria Methodist Church, on Wednesday, 13th April, at Cordova Methodist Church, on Thursday, 14th April, Trent River Methodist Church, on Friday, 15th April, Rush Point Methodist Church.

There will be special speakers at all these meetings, which will open at 8 p.m. sharp.

Mr. W. Christie returned to Toronto on Saturday after spending a couple of days at Cedar Isle.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Townsend arrived on Monday from Toronto, and will remain all summer. Mr. Townsend is a well-known pianist, comes highly recommended, and will take charge of the Sedgewick Pavilion for the season. He will begin at once to arrange the hall for the opening early in May.

Mrs. Hendren, of Norwood, spent a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. T. J. Brown.

LICENSE INSPECTOR BELIEVES $800 WHICH KEENE RESIDENTS HAVE PAID IN FINES WILL STOP CONVIVIALITY

During the last six months, a total of over $800.00 has been paid out of Keene and the surrounding country for infractions of the O. T. A.

This total was completed by a $200.00 fine extracted by Magistrate Langley from a Keene man in the County Police Court this morning. He pleaded guilty to the charge of having "wet" goods in an unlawful place, and made the total outlay of $210.65 without a qualm.

License Inspector J. Stewart believes this last fine will put a stop to the conviviality which seems to have settled of late upon the village.

JUDGMENT FOR O'REILLY

utes after the collision, and with much wisdom and forethought took a lantern and followed back the well-defined track of the truck. He says it was well over on the plaintiff's side and evidently tried to turn off just before the cars struck. This puts it beyond a preadventure in my mind and clearly places the fault and consequent liability on the defendants.

I find the slight deviation in the road at the place in question was not a "curve" or "intersection" as contemplated by the Statute referred to in argument.

Damages Allowed.

The defendants must therefore pay damages as follows:

West End garage	$ 93.50
Jackson Motor Co.	130.95
Dr. Gallivan's bill	15.00
Hire of cars while repairs being made	39.00
Other necesary expenses, travelling, etc., say	15.00
Total	$293.45

The court's claim, Judge Huyeke dismised with costs. The plaintiff was also given his costs of action.

HOUSE SITS ALL NIGHT, ETC.

ed but Sir George Foster replied "In order to report progress there must be some progress made. Again the debate proceeded.

At 2 O'Clock.

From three o'clock yesterday afternoon House of Commons has been in Session and is still going strong. Members who held an all night session have for the most part given place to colleagues returned after a rest to continue the battle. It is the longest sitting the House has had since the stirring days of Borden Naval Bill of eight years ago. From present indications there is every likelihood that the present blockade will likewise end in closure. So far as can be ascertained the intention is to sit till 2:55 this afternoon. Then the House will be adjourned to meet again five minutes later at the regular hour of three o'clock. When the speaker then takes the chair notice will be given of closure to operate from the beginning of the subsequent sitting. If this procedure is followed, the present debate will go over this afternoon till to-morrow and will then be continued with a twenty minute limit placed on speeches, till not later than 2 o'clock on Thursday morning.

YOUNG PEOPLE HELD A RALLY

Rev. C. S. Applegath Tells of the New Muskoka Assembly to be Opened in June.

A Canadian Chautauqua Institution is to be established in Muskoka this summer modelled after the great institution of that name at Chautauqua, N.Y.

An announcement to this effect was made last evening at Trinity church hall where an enthusiastic rally of young people representing the four Epworth Leagues of the city filled the hall to hear Rev. C. Sinclair Applegath of Port Hope, President of the Canadian Chautauqua Institution Limited, tell of the aims and purposes of the new movement.

This new feature on the Muskoka Lakes will be known as "Muskoka Assembly," and will be operated continuously from June 15to Sept. 6.

A beautiful site 220 acres in extent has been secured on Lake Rosseau opposite the Royal Muskoka Hotel with over two miles of shore line.

The Assembly will be a combination of summer school and holiday resort. The mornings will be devoted to short courses of summer school work in various subjects and the afternoons to recreation under expert leadership, while each evening a programme of entertainment will be provided, including music, amateur drama, moving pictures and popular lectures.

The Institution is procuring the services of many of the best teachers, lecturers, preachers, musicians and literary men of Canada to take part in the educational work of the Assembly.

The Epworth Leagues of the Bay of Quinte Conference will hold a summer school at Muskoka Assembly from July 11 to 18 and a strong delegation from Peterborough is planning to go. 'Muskoka Assembly' will be non-denominational, but operated upon distinctly Christian lines.

During the third week in August a "Preachers' Week" will be held for ministers of all denominations.

The announcement last night had an added interest from the use by the speaker of beautifully colored lantern slides of the Muskoka Lakes.

Rev. F. E. Malott was chairman and the orchestra of St. James' Epworth League rendered a very pleasing selection.

Miss Succee sang and Miss M. Sherlock gave an appropriate reading.

THE MARVELS OF THE NEW BIRTH.

"The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth. So is every one that is born of the Spirit."—John iii., 7.

The world is full of religious cults, "isms" and court-plaster remedies for human need, but in the words of Divine wisdom there is but one remedy. Only the Divine physician can diagnose the soul's disease, and prescribe the remedy that is efficacious and certain. The mere mention of the words "Ye must be born again" is sufficient to cause many a man and woman to start away like some frightened animal from the hand that would caress and bless. Yet think for five minutes. Is not the new birth and eternal life just the answer to our need? As the days go on, and the years draw nigh when we say "I have no pleasure in them," cannot we too learn from the falling leaves and fading flowers the need of the resurrection life. Is it such an unthinkable thing after all, that the Saviour of men should say to each of us "Ye must be born again," and plead with us in His word to antedate and make sure of Heaven here and now, as well as there and hereafter? The marvel of the new birth can no more be "explained" than can "the wind, that bloweth where it listeth," but "we can hear the sound thereof," and the heart that sings the new song of life and thanksgiving to God for the unspeakable gift of Christ, has also for us the evidence of the new birth in the soul. And the Divine Physician tells us of the way to obtain His remedy. If it cost money, many would not be able to obtain it. If it was only to be had by those with a University education, many could not attain it, and if He bid us do "some great thing" how many of us would not strive earnestly to obtain eternal life in this way. But He is no respecter of persons, and offers His salvation as freely and lovingly to the slave as to the conqueror, to the peasant in the same way as the King. "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have eternal life."

There was a moment that every Israelite had between being bitten and dying; that moment was given to him to look and live. And this life, which so many of us fritter away heedlessly, is the moment in which we may look and live. Look to Christ on the Cross. "There is life for a look at the Crucified One, there is life at this moment for thee." Some of us can say that we have searched the Scriptures of truth for a quarter of a century and have found this to be the way of life and the secret of life. "God was in Christ," and the sight of Him on Calvary, paying the price and making full atonement for sin, is the Divine remedy. Can we not trust the Divine Physician, and the prescription? We trust men, who often laif us, cannot we trust Him who is faithful and true?

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRINGTIME

DO NOT USE HARSH PURGATIVES--A TONIC IS ALL YOU NEED.

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches, and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you, and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives as so many people do, in the hope that you may put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of give strength. Any doctor will tell you that this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood, which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired ,depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Miss S. L. McEachron, Nairn, P.O., N.B., says: "I have been in the habit of taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring and they keep me in the best of health. I think it is entirely due to the use of these pills that I always have such good health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOSPITAL RATE.

Efforts of Belleville Council Find Favor Here.

HAMILTON, April 11—The council of the city of Belleville is making application to the legislature to amend the Municipal act so as to grant larger incomes for municipal hospitals. They wish a special rate added to the one they already get, which would place them on a basis similar to that of the board of education.

T. H. Pratt, chairman of the local hospital board, declared that this was a step in the right direction. Mr. Pratt thought that this should have been done long ago, and if passed would be greatly appreciated in Hamilton.

MEMOIRES OF COUNT WITTE

The memoirs of Count Witte, who was Russia's great liberal premier, embody a candid exposition of the Kaiser's secret hostility toward America. The book, from the press of Doubleday, Page & Co. and published simultaneously today in the United States, England, France, Spain, Germany and Russia, tells how, twenty-four years ago, Wilhelm feared America as a dangerous competitor of the fatherland and sought to form a European league to strangle our commerce.

It was just then—1897—when the Kaiser visited Petrograd that he conferred upon Count Witte the Order of the Black Eagle. At the same time, according to the Count, Wilhelm approached him with a plan for the anti-American trade alliance of Europe. An account of that conference in the book runs:

"The Kaiser opened the conversation by calling my attention to the dangers which were threatening Europe from beyond the seas. America, he said, is growing rich at Europe's expense, and it is necessary to build a high tariff wall around Europe so as to make it impossible for America to flood us with its products. The European countries must unite to shut out the transatlantic competitor who is growing very dangerous, especially as regards agriculture, and thus to arrect the development of the United States of America.

"I took the liberty then of observing to the Emperor that the interests of continental Europe were not identical with those of Great Britain and that, therefore, she would have to be excluded from the contemplated European union. His Majesty retorted that England constituted no danger for the agriculture of Europe and that she could not be excluded, for the reason that it was his intention to establish the best of relations with her. The tariff wall should be erected against America alone, he reiterated.

Russia Was Friendly.

"Thereupon I pointed out that, whether or not England was included, an economic war against America was not practicable, because many European countries were not likely to agree to it. Speaking for Russia, I went on, saying that we would be loath to embrace His majesty's viewpoint, for the reason that ever since the American Revolutionary War we had been on the best of terms with the United States of America, and that we did not intend to quarrel with that country."

Count Witte then expressed to the Kaiser his own views of a European league which should be one body politic, abolish internecine warfare, reduce taxation and armament and do away with economic competition.

"His Majesty," continues Count Witte, "listened to my remarks with great interest and graciously bade me farewell, saying that my views were original and interesting. Emperor Nicholas, in the course of my next audience with him, handed me a brief note the German Kaiser had given him on leaving Peterhof. The note contained the statement of his opinion regarding the necessity of waging an economic war against the United States of America, which the German Emperor had expounded to me. I did not conceal from His Majesty I had discussed the subject with the German monarch, and I also stated my own ideas on the subject. His Majesty assured me that he shared my view and asked me to write a reply to the note from my stand-point, which I did in the form of an unsigned memorandum. This, His Majesty said, he would send to Emperor William, together with a personal letter. It is noteworthy that when Theodore Roosevelt was elected President, Emperor William began to flirt with him, and the two rulers made a great show of their sudden friendship."

"Loan That Saved Russia."

Count Witte gives an interesting account of what he calls "the loan that saved Russia." This is the great loan which he placed in France in 1906, which Soviet Russia is now repudiating. In this connection the Kaiser is represented by Witte as being the evil genius that almost blocked the transaction. The circumstances connected with the loan were as follows:

"France was willing to open its money market to us," writes Count Witte, "but as a preliminary condition the French Government demanded the conclusion of peace with Japan. When the Portsmouth treaty was concluded new obstacles presented themselves, notably the Franco-German conflict over Morocco, and the Paris Government made the conclusion of the loan contingent upon the peaceable settlement of that conflict. Elsewhere in my remarks on the Kaiser. I tell the story of how I succeeded in having the clash arbitrated by an international conference at Algeciras. The conference lasted till the end of March, 1906, and until its termination the conclusion of the loan was out of the question.

"The loan was to be an international one, but in view of the large amount the French group of bankers was to play the leading part. In 1905 I opened preliminary negotiations with Neutzlin, the head of the Banque de Paris et des Pays Bas. I insisted on 2,750,000,000 francs as the nominal amount of the loan. Anticipating upon the course of events, I may say that, owing to the treachery of Germany and of the American syndicate of bankers headed by Morgan, we had to reduce the amount to 2,250,000,000 francs. The syndicate which was to handle the loan was to be made up, we agreed, of French, Dutch, English, German, American and Russian banking firms. Austrian banks were also permitted to participate in the loan.

"In the meantime Germany continued to obstruct the progress of the Algeciras Conference. Her claims were so unfair that even the representatives of her allies, Italy and Austria, in some cases voted for France."

In a confidential report to the Czar Count Witte spoke about the situation in the following terms:

"I cannot get rid of certain, probably unfounded, suspicions regarding the conduct of the German Government. The international situation is at present such that Germany has an excellent opportunity to push France to the wall. Russia is not in a position at present to render any considerable military assistance to France. Austria and Italy will not stand in Germany's way. As for Great Britain, she is unable to help France on land, and there is no doubt that from a military standpoint Germany is perfectly able to give France a sound beating. The temptation for Germany is great. Even granting that Germany is not thinking of war, she may still be bent, on the one hand, upon preventing her neighbor's, i. e., Russia's, speedy recovery from a disastrous war, and, on the other, upon showing France that her salvation lies in a rapprochement with Germany. Consequently, suspect I, Germany must have ulterior motives in displaying so much interest in the Morocco question, which is properly speaking, of little importance to her. I have noticed that Germany's civility and amiability are mere lip service."

"Seeing that Germany continued to make difficulties," continues Count Witte, "I took advantage of the permission the German Emperor had given me to communicate with him directly, asking him to speed up the deliberations of the Algeciras Conference. My effort of labor was lost. The Emperor informed me that he could not concede certain conditions without prejudicing Germany's prestige, and ended with the usual advice to exert pressure upon France for the purpose of rendering her more tractable."

Finally, however, the conference drew to a successful conclusion and the Russian representative went to Paris to sign the final agreement for the loan. Neutzlin, the head of the Bank de des Pays Bas, went to London to confer with Revelstock, the representative of the London banks, Fischel, German banker, of the Mendelssyon firm, and Morgan, senior, of the United States. The representative of the German bankers, he wired Count Witte, was waiting for permission from his Government to take part in the loan, and Morgan's attitude was less favorable.

"It will be remembered," writes the Count, "that I had secured the American banker's promise to participate in loan during my stay in the United States. The next day Neutzlin telegraphed to me from London that the German Government had forbidden the German banking firms to take part in the loan.

"Thus Germany first protracted the Algeciras conference in the hope that, unable to contract a loan, we would cease the free exchange of eredit notes for gold. Germany would have greatly profited thereby, for Russian would then be at the mercy of Berlin stock exchange speculation, as was the case before I introduced the gold standard. She failed, however, to reach her goal. Then at the last moment, on the eve of the conclusion of the loan, she treacherously ordered her bankers to refrain from participation in the transaction.

"Morgan also followed suit and refused to participate in the loan. But the refusal of the Germans and Americans had no effect on the English, nor did the Austrian banks withdraw. Italy did refuse to participate, but for purely financial resons. She had just succeeded in stabilizing her financial system."

The agreement was finally signed and the loan concluded. It was the largest foreign loan in the history of modern nations. After the Franco-Prussian War Theirs succeeded in securing a somewhat greater loan, but it was largely an internal one, while this was almost exclusively subscribed abroad. By its means Russia retained intact its gold standard of currency. It was indeed as Count Witte called it, "The loan that saved Russia."

A Danger Signal—Tender and Bleeding Gums

Healthy teeth cannot live in diseased tissue. Gums tainted with Pyorrhea are dangerously diseased. For not only the teeth are affected, but Pyorrhea germs seep into the body, lower its vitality and cause many ills.

Pyorrhea begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisonous germs that breed in pockets about them.

Four out of five people over forty have this disease. But you need not have it. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection. And keep Pyorrhea away by using Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy, the teeth white and clean. If you have tender or bleeding gums, start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

The Triple Alliance Threatens to Call Its Strike Immediately

N MANIFESTO ISSUED LAST NIGHT VIRTUAL ULTIMATUM IS PRESENTED THAT UNLESS THE MINERS ARE MADE AN OFFER WHICH THEY FIND ACCEPTABLE THE GENERAL STRIKE WILL BE CALLED.

CLAIM TO PROTECT LIVING STANDARD

LONDON, April 12 (Canadian Press). — A sensation was caused last night by the issuance of a public manifesto by the Triple Alliance, wherein a definite threat was made that unless the striking coal miners receive from the mine owners an offer which they are justified in accepting, the Triple Alliance strike will begin on Tuesday.

The manifesto insists that the mine owners' reduction of wages is provocative, as the scale is 50 per cent. below the cost of living.

In resisting such monstrous proposals, the manifesto continues, the Triple Alliance is defending the standard of living of the entire working class.

The document accuses the mine owners of trying to break up the unity of the Miners' Federation, and declares tat if they were to succeed they would do the same to the other workers.

"Suporting the miners means supporting the whole of organised labour," says the document, plunging then into a strong attack upon Lloyd-George and the Government, terming their responsibility for the strike heavier than that of the owners."

Continuing, the manifesto says:

"The well-being of the nation is threatened, not by the miners, but by Lloyd-George and the Government."

It charges the Government with partiality in industrial disputes ,and attacks the formation of the volunteer force to be used against labour, saying the Government likely has assumed the responsibility for provoking bloodshed and civil war. All sections of organised labour are urged to support the miners.

The manifesto was signed by Smith and Hodges on behalf of the miners, Abraham, Cramp, and Thomas for the railwaymen, and by Gosling and Williams for the transport workers.

Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds

"I have actually gained twenty-five pounds and I just think Tanlac is the grandest medicine in the world," said Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds, 127 North Denver Street, Kansas City, Mo.

"For ten long years I suffered from a very bad form of rheumatism, stomach and nervous troubles. My appetite was very poor. What little I did eat soured on my stomach and I suffered the most severe pains in my back, hips and shoulders. My rheumatism was so bad that I could not raise my hands to comb my hair and my arms hurt me to my finger tips. I became so weak and run down that I lost all my energy and life had become almost a burden. I tried many things but nothing helped me.

"I had only taken my first bottle of Tanlac when I noticed that my appetite was improving, and that I could sleep better at night. I have taken three bottles and the way it has helped me and built me up is surprising. I can eat anything and everything without the slightest disagreeable after effects. I sleep just fine at night and am in better health than I have been for years. I am glad to give this statement hoping that any who are suffering as I did may experience the same wonderful results which I believe they will if they give Tanlac a fair trial."

MY RESOLVE.

By Louise M. Martin.

I will sing my song, there may be one to hear it,
Some one may listen and be helped along.
I will try to help, there may be one who needs it,
Some one who falters, with strength almost gone.
I will be kind, for there is need of kindness.
I will be cheerful, for there are many sad,
I will help to lift the burdens of my brothers
And make the weary hearts of others glad.

I will put by the things that vex and try me,
I will forget the dark clouds that I dread,
I will keep on, whatever doubts assail me,
Until I see Hope's bright star over head.
I will believe that all things work together
Somehow, for good, though I see not the way,
Somehow at last the wrongs shall all be righted,
Life's close shall usher in Heaven's radiant day.

INDEPENDENCE FOR CROATIA

VIENNA, April 12—(Associated Press.)—What purports to be an address to Belgrade by the Croatian Peasants' Party formulated at a meeting in Agram on February 11-12 and suppressed by the government is printed by the Reichpost of this city. It is virtually a declaration of independence of Croatia.

A significant feature of it is the fact that it is addressed to "His Royal Highness, the Regent of the Kingdom of Serbia as Military Commander in Belgrade." Signed by 48 deputies of the Radich party it begins with the statement that they consider it their duty to invalidate in the name of the Croatian nation and state the address which the Central Committee of the National Assembly, with only eight members of the Croatian Diet, presented to the Regent in December, 1918, and also to invalidate the decisions of the Croatian Diet since October of that year.

Croatian Diet.

Declaring that the Croatian Diet in October, 1918, proclaimed the entire independence of Croatia, Slavonia, Dalmatia and the Mur Islands and handed over to the National Assembly the supreme power, the address points out that at the same time it distinctly made clear that they meant only to become members of a union but by no means to join the centralized state of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. It supports this view by construing the decision of the Peace Concerence in response to its appeal for an Independent Peasant Republic as meaning Croatia was compelled to become part of the S.H.S. only in an international sense and that the conference did not force upon Croatia the Serbian monarchy.

The monaarchy was proclaimed by the Regent, the manifesto continues, "on the basis of the above-mentioned address which was repudiated and invalidated by the Croation nation in November of last year," so "that the persent regime which constitutes an unprecedented reign of terror can only be kept up by force of arms and oppression."

Has Been Oppressed.

Since December of 1920, the manifesto continues, the Croatian nation has been oppressed and suppressed in a manner never before experienced in its history, while the introduction of corporal punishment and its daily practice upon the peasants by the gendarmerie because of their republican tendencies "is a deadly hurt to the national feeling, dignity and culture of the country."

Relying upon military force, the manifesto charges that the Serbs have deprived the Croatians of equal rights in the union in any sphere and has outlawed them in financial, military and constitutional affairs.

Suppression of newspapers printing articles offensive to Belgrade is charged as well as the strict prohibition of a Peasants Party organ. It recites the arbitrary dismemberment of Croatia by a packed commission a way "not even attempted by the Venetians, the Turks, nor the Austrians," in the course of centuries. It recites the arrest and imprisonment of the Croatian deputy Nikola Srdovic because he defied the King and stood by his constituency and says that the Serbian commissionaires publicly declare they will bring about the bankruptcy of those municipalities who do not vote as Belgrade directs.

"By far worse wrongs, were done by your government to the Croatian-Mohammedan majority in Bosnia and Herzegovina," continues the document, "as well as to the Croatian majority in the Barska. Two hundred thousand Croatians there were treated in a manner that would have been forbidden even were they Magyars. A system of murdering and plundering is being carried on. The embitterment of the whole nation is such that history may hardly afford an analogy to such general discontnet.

Only a Republic.

The manifesto concludes: "After this great war a peasant state can exist in our territory only in the form of a republic and if the present moment is not a suitable one for the construction of a republican constitution in our territory on account of party disputes and weariness, the unbending will and resolution of the Croatian people is that a peasant republic be created without huindrance by force. The conscience of reawakened humanity, the vigilant eye of Europe, the vital interests if our Jugoslav national unity demand categorically that your Royal Highness may forbid any tearing asunder of the Croatians and the Serbs by military forces under your command, thus creating an entrenched military camp in Croatia instead of building up a peaceful workshop with new constitutional life in harmony with Serbia and in community with all Jugoslavdom."

The Reichpost declares that this document was promtply suppressed and the only paper printing it was confiscated. Incidentally the Vienna Reichpost has been forbidden circulation in South Jugoslavia because of a series of articles describing alleged persecutions of the minor peoples by the Belgrade goverment.

Success in life does not come by having your own way every time. Yielding a little here and there smooths many a rough place. In domestic life, one finds the most perfect house where there is mutual forbearance, and in business the most successful merchant is the one who does not seek to gain every cent for himself.

One of our lady subscribers who says she enjoys this department of our paper, hands us the following recipe for making good husbands, which she has tested and it worked like a charm.

First. Be a good wife; in so doing you will have a good influence over hubby.

Second. Treat him to kind words, kisses and good dinners. Prepare the dishes he likes best, if your means will allow.

Third. Keep his room in order no matter how often he scatters things around; put hat and boots where he will always know where to find them.

Fourth. Never scold; no matter how wet the wood or how much the stove smokes; tell him you like it that way; smile and go on.

Fifth. Make him believe he is all the world to you, as, indeed he should be. Laugh at his jokes, no matter how stale.

And last but not least, keep all his buttons sewed on and all in their proper places, and all his socks well darned. Then, if you do not have a good husband we will say that you must have remarkably poor material to work on.

All sensible people who have the means and opportunity, recuperate themselves by frequent pauses for recreation. They do not defer this period of pleasure until the closing months of worn out life. They are too wise to expect impossibilities of nature—the recuperation of an utterly exhausted body. They are grateful to heaven that they possess the means which is wisely used to prolong a useful existence.

If a woman would be healthy she must have some healthy object to live for, and what more worthy object for a wife than to look well to the ways of her household, and find health and cheerfulness in helping her husband in a mutual interest to lay by something for the years to follow when feeble hands and tottering limbs forbid profitable employment. Such a course pursued by men and women would prevent the great demand for almshouses, homes, and charities of all sorts. "The righteous are not forsaken nor his seed found begging bread."

One meets few unworried people. Most faces bear lines of care. Men and women go anxious to their days work and rush through the hours with feverish speed, and at night have hot brains and tumultous pulses to disturb refreshing sleep. This is not only most unsatisfactory, but it is also a most costly mode of living. Worry exhausts vitality. True, all good in life costs. Virtue goes out of us in everything we do that is worth doing. But for normal, healthful action, nature provided. There is recuperative energy enough to destroy the waste. The fountains are filled as fast as they are drained. The fiber is renewed as fast as it is worn away. Worry, however, is abnormal and unhealthy. It exhausts vitality more rapidly than nature can reinforce it. It is like friction in machinery and grinds away the fiber of life. Worry, therefore, both impedes progress and makes work unduly costly and exhaustive. One neither accomplishes so much nor does it so well while the outlay of vitality is greater. To live nobly, energetically up to one's best, and yet without worry is one of the highest attainments possible. It is the life whose vision of beauty is pictured as the perfect peace; hence the ideal theory of life is—Work without Worry.

What kind of a woman are you at home? Are you one of those who chase through life, dust cloth in hand, making everyone in the household uncomfortable because of a little dust—upsetting the peace of the whole family, for the sake of gratifying your passion for housecleaning? Or do you prefer to live as comfortably as possible, choosing rather to have a home a sacred and beloved spot to husband and children, and hold their love above even the sacred duty of chasing microbes?

PROGRESS BRITISH AERIAL TRANSPORT.

Rapid Development, Says Member Aero Club of Canada.

Aerial transport for commercial purposes is being rapidly developed in Great Britain, according to a letter just received from one of the leading aeronautical experts in England by a member of the Aero Club of Canada. Many new aviation companies have been formed and are now doing considerable business and several others are in process of formation. The system of aerial transportation bids fair to become one of the really important factors in the business life of Europe generally.

The extent to which this development has proceeded is clearly indicated in the advertisements that are published in the London papers giving the details of the various companies and the services being conducted. Keen competition has arisen with the result that each company is holding out inducements in connection with convenience of travel and the facilities for the transportation of express and light freight.

The Aero Express is being operated twice daily from London to Paris. The first machine leaves the London aerodrome at 9.30 a.m., irrespective of weather conditions, and the second at 3.30 p.m. Automobile connections for the convenience of passengers is arranged. There is a daily service to Amsterdam, while the Air Post of Banks, not only has a complete service to Paris but maintains branch traffic offices where bookings are made. Passengers and goods are insured at the same rates as those which a person can obtain at steamship or railroad offices.

Goods for despatch are collected daily at the various branch offices where staffs are maintained to handle traffic and the rates are given in much detail. A large department store in London has established an areial service delivery to Brussels. Orders received by mail from Brussels merchants are filled and despatched by aeroplane on the same day. Another London house sends a salesman with a complete line of toods to Brussels and other towns in Belgium and orders are filled within two or three days.—Canadian Motorist.

America's Air Gibraltar

By F. A. COLLINS

How Uncle Sam Is Diverting His Air Craft Strength to New Plans for the Defence of the Panama Canal---How the Canal Might Be Injured or Attacked and How the System of Defence Will Be Organized.

UNCLE SAM is building a Gibraltar of the air to defend the Panama Canal. In the event of war with any foreign power the canal would, of course, be a most vulnerable point. When the great waterway was designed and built the possibility of attack by air forces was scarcely thought of, or at least appeared to be a danger of the very remote future. The amazing advance of aeronautics during the late war has completely transformed the situation. Without adequate air defence the canal would be at the mercy of the enemy. The fortifications constructed to defend the canal contain some of the heaviest artillery in the world, but these would be powerless against a well-directed air force.

The government has been quick to realize the necessity of adequate air defence. Within a few days 276 scout planes were shipped to the isthmus. The station designed for the air fleet of the Panama Canal is one of the most elaborate in the world. It will ultimately rank among similar air stations much as Gibraltar ranks among the world's sea fortifications or as Heligoland before its demolition. The great air station now in course of construction is known as France Field, being named for Lt. France, who lost his life there in May, 1918. Although the field has been in existence only since April, 1918, is, doubtless, destined to be one of the most famous in the world.

Strategy of "France Field"

France Field is situated on the Atlantic side of the isthmus, although it is designed to protect both ends of the famous waterway. The location was chosen because the form of the coast line at this point is ideal for the purpose. The canal, as all the world knows, is only forty miles in length. The fleets of air craft could fly from one end of the canal to the other in less than half an hour, thus making a surprise attack from either side practically impossible. If an attacking fleet were to sail for America either from Europe or Asia there would, of course, be ample time to mobilize air forces on either side of the isthmus.

The Panama Canal makes it possible for the United States to shift its fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean or the other way about on very short notice, which gives an immense advantage over an enemy. Before an invading army could be landed on American soil it would, doubtless, be necessary to overcome the resistance of Uncle Sam's navy. Within the time it would require an attacking fleet to cross the oceans the forces on both sides of the continent could thus be combined by employing the convenient short cut afforded by the canal.

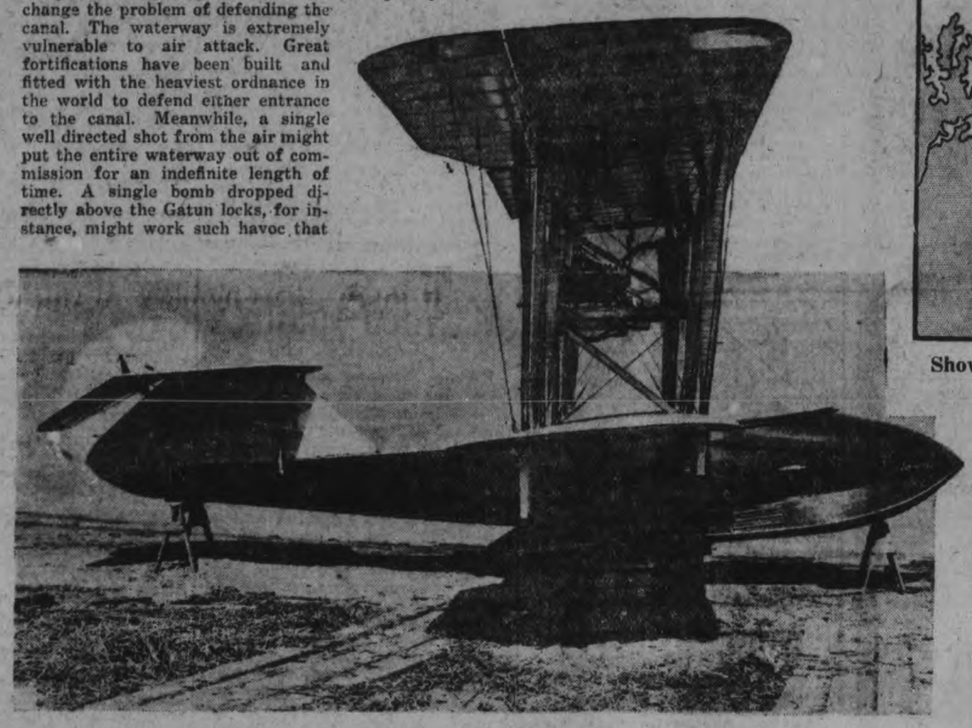
The vital importance of keeping the canal open and under American control in case of war is, of course, obvious. The enemy would recognize this fact and, doubtless, direct its attack upon so vulnerable a point. In some respects the defence of the Panama Canal is even more important than that of New York or San Francisco. If the canal could be captured or closed the American fleet, or a portion of it, on one side of the continent could be practically [illegible] from the other. The delay in sending the fleet around Cape Horn might determine the issue of battles. It was largely this argument which convinced the United States that the Panama Canal should be built.

It was not foreseen, of course, that the development of fighting air craft would completely change the problem of defending the canal. The waterway is extremely vulnerable to air attack. Great fortifications have been built and fitted with the heaviest ordnance in the world to defend either entrance to the canal. Meanwhile, a single well directed shot from the air might put the entire waterway out of commission for an indefinite length of time. A single bomb dropped directly above the Gatun locks, for instance, might work such havoc that a year or more of labor would be required to open the canal to navigation.

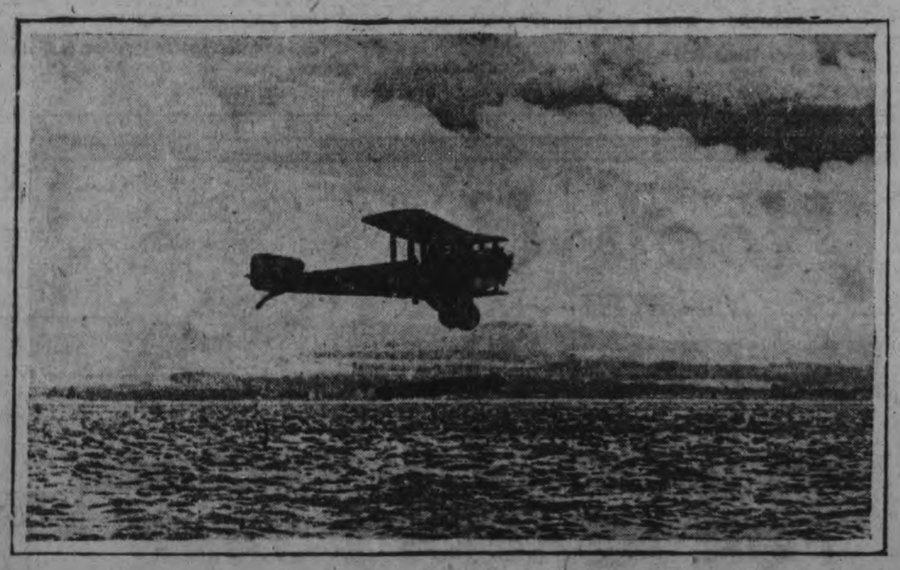
Heavy Land Artillery

The war has shown that air attacks can be directed from a fleet stationed many miles offshore and well out of the range of the enemy's fortifications. An enemy fleet, for instance, could cross either the Atlantic or Pacific ocean and launch a number of aeroplanes which could fly swiftly high above the anti-air craft guns mounted against such an attack. If the enemy worked from a land base the problem of attack would, of course, be greatly simplified. It will be recalled that the Zeppelin attacks on London and Paris were launched from bases several hundred miles distant.

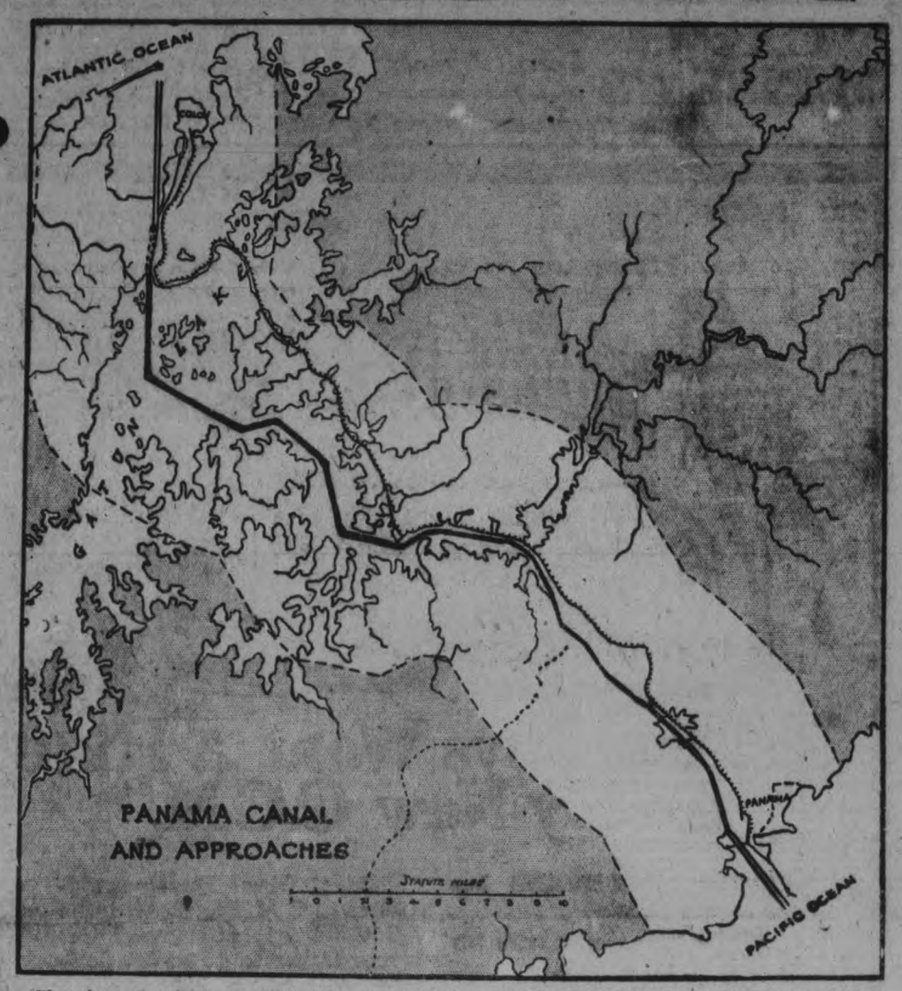
The great air station being equipped at the Panama Canal enjoys many natural advantages. It will depend for its defence on both land and sea planes as well as dirigibles. Its most important weapon will be the famous flying craft of the NC-4 type. The marvellous accomplishment of these flying boats designed by Americans, equipped with Liberty engines and manned by American crews, has proved their efficiency. The canal air defences have an immense advantage over the enemy in any attack because of the short flying radius which will be required of them.



The Flying Boat Designed for Scouting Service at the Canal.



A Torpedo-Carrying Seaplane Dropping a Torpedo During Flight.



Showing the Panama Ship Route from Sea to Sea. The White Parts of the Land Area Indicate the Canal Zone Controlled by the United States.

The heavy land artillery, located on either side of the Isthmus of Panama may be depended upon to hold the enemy about six miles offshore. To venture further in unless the forts be silenced would be to court annihilation. The fleets of flying craft will only be required to fight at a distance of six miles from their base. They can, therefore, leave their bases, attack the enemy fleet and return with a flying radius of almost twelve miles. As a matter of fact, a considerable margin would be allowed.

The NC-4 boats have proved beyond question that they are efficient over a flying radius of more than 2000 miles. The difference in the amount of gasoline required for a twelve-mile and 2000-mile radius is considerable. This enormous economy in carrying capacity would, of course, be utilized for carrying bombs, guns and ammunition. A fleet of the NC-4 boats would thus prove extremely effective against any air fleet which could be sent against them from over sea. Their fighting efficiency would, of course, be supplemented by land machines of the Martin bomber type and dirigible balloons.

The Flying Grounds

The location of the flying grounds is ideal. It is situated on the eastern shore of Folks River and an estuary of the bay. The land, though level, is naturally marshy, but by filling in a practically unlimited area becomes available, which is also convenient to an ideal body of water suitable for flying boats. The location is conveniently connected by a branch line with the Panama railroad and by concrete roads. The hangars are built around the edge of a lagoon, while the quarters of the officers and non-commissioned men are located at the ends of the hangars on opposite sides. The landing field is in the rear of the hangars on the south side. Both land and water planes can thus be easily handled and housed.

France Field is at this writing under command of Lt. N. F. Harmon, Jr., J. M. A., with the title of Department Air Service Commander. The 7th Aero Squadron is at present engaged here in active flying and flights will be in operation as soon as the personnel and materials are available. The pilots and observers at France Field have had wide experience in flying in France, several having been attached to the French and British armies.

More people lose their teeth from neglecting thorough cleansing than from any other cause, if the teeth are to be kept in good condition they should be cleaned after every meal, and always before going to bed. It is a good plan to rinse the mouth with a little salt in water morning and evening. This helps to keep the gums healthy, and healthy gums as a rule mean healthy teeth. The proper way to clean the teeth is not from side to side, as most persons imagine, but up and down. The upper teeth should be brushed from the gums downward, and the lower teeth from the gums upward. Then particular attention should be given to the back or inside of the teeth, as it is there that foreign substances are apt to accumulate.

Some Reasons Why Women Should Not Attend Prize Fights

SHOULD women go to prize fights? It is an English woman who gives an interesting answer to this question. Writing in the London Daily Sketch, Edith Shackleton gives modern woman's real tribute to true manliness in reply to the many arguments that are being beaten up in favor of women flocking round the ring with the easy enthusiasm with which they go to a new opera or a smart wedding.

"There is not the least doubt that some women will go to prize fights," says Miss Shackleton, "for besides the disappearing parasitic type of woman who thinks it fun to go anywhere she is 'taken,' there are a few who know a little about boxing, and to whom the names of the champion pugilists mean something. But these women are as rare as the men who go to dress shows and are generally thrilled by the names of Worth and Paquin.

"The truth is that women are ceasing to be mere lookers-on at anything in which they have no active part. It is doubtful that if the polite, expensive and usually bloodless tourneys of Elizabethan days were revived they would re[illegible] particularly enthusiastic feminine patronage. The forceful, modern women would be busy helping with a baby competition somewhere or wrestling with the tough agenda of an important committee meeting, or getting needed exercise and fun on their own account.

"Boxing will never be a woman's game, because, physically, women are as ill-adapted for it as they are for growing beards, and modern woman, shedding her remnants of slave and squaw habits, will leave her menkind to what is entirely their own affair.

"Boxing, moreover, isn't interesting unless you understand its laws. A street fight, with its primitive passion, must hold the attention, even if it also rouses the shame or pity, of any human being, and few women are too anaemically-minded to enjoy any simple tests of masculine strength and grace, but what is there to attract the unlearned in the spectacle of two dumb men with muffled hands softly stepping and swaying and dabbing with a technique so complicated that they appear to unaccustomed eyes to be performing some rather absurd mystic rite?

"'Women's love of true manliness' is one of the fatuous reasons given in favor of women's attendance at boxing contests. The woman of the reconstruction period knows a lot more about true manliness than that. She saw true manliness in hospitals during the grim four years behind us, while she stood by with dressings and instruments, and learned to keep her own mouth from twitching in sympathy with those of shattered fighting men. She knows that the real love of true manliness has its best expression in her treatment of the man-child in her arms—in the unspectacular personal sacrifices that go toward the rearing of clear-eyed and clean-limbed boys.

"There are millions of women in England today—from the ill-paid little teacher in the elementary schools, raising unquenchable ideals in the minds of her slum pupils, to the women with great names who serve on royal commissions or once unspeakable things—who are all expressing their love of true manliness, and not one of whom has seen a 'ring' or wants to, though she may from a distance applaud its making.

"Boxing, they tell us, encourages the spirit of fair play. It is something of the spirit of fair play which will keep most women away from what must be solely man's affair."

CUT HIS LEG.

Yesterday afternoon about four o'clock Cecil Hayes, son of J. E. Hayes, 219 Park street, suffered a serious injury while working on the new buildings at the Canadian General Electric Company, for which his father is contractor.

Mr. Hayes was cutting the ropes that bind the hardwood flooring, which is being laid in the plant, with an adze, when he stumbled and fell, the sharp instrument striking him on the left leg, severing the artery and vein. Dr. J. V. Hayes, his brother, was called and stopped the flow of blood and Mr. Hayes was removed to his home, 219 Park street, in Belleghem's ambulance. He was improved to-day and Dr. Hayes said while the injury was serious he believed the wound would be healed up in a week.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(Canadian Press).—The usual mixture of gains and losses, the former predominating, marked the opening of to-day's session on the Stock Exchange. Dealings were very light, traders evidently holding back in anticipation of the publication of the President's message to Congress. Utilities were strong features, Western Union soon gaining 2½ points and Consolidated Gas 1 3-4. Mexican Petroleum, Utah Copper and Keystone Tire also averaged one point advances. Heaviness was shown by minor steels, especially Sloss Sheffield and Midvale. Cuban American Sugar and Food Products also were lower.

Independent steels continued under pressure during the forenoon. Republic lost 1 5-8, Lackawana 2½, and Sloss Sheffield extended its decline to four points. Sugars again reflected the unfavorable financial conditions in Cuba, falling one to three points, and Chemicals also were heavy. Contrary movements were made by Coppers, Tobaccos and specialties of the type represented by merchandise issues, particularly Sears Roebuck and May Department Stores, gains in these issues running from one to four points. Rails figured only slightly in the moderate turnover. Call money opened at 7 per cent.

The market developed sudden activity and general strength during the noon hour. Oils and motors were most conspicuous at extreme advances of one to almost three points. Rails also improved under the lead of Reading, Northern Pacific and Pennsylvania averaging one point gains.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 12.—(Canadian Press).—Lowest prices yet this season were reached in the wheat market to-day, and in rye, corn and provisions as well. Numerous holders of wheat appeared to have lost confidence and there was an apparent scarcity of buyers. Opening quotations, which ranged from ½ to 2 lower, were followed by something of a rally, but then by declines lower than before.

Corn sympathized with wheat weakness. After opening 1-8 to 1 5-8 off the market continued to sag. Oats were depressed by the action of other cereals, starting a 3-8 decline to 3-4 advance, and later showing losses all around. Provisions went down with hogs, which, like grain, dropped to a new low level for the season.

Corn finished nervous, ½ to 5-8 net lower.

Deliveries of grain and provisions sold at figures under any since 1915. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish at 1 3-4 cent lower.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange easy; demand, 3.91 1-8. Canadian dollar, 11 1-8 per cent. discount.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 12.—(Canadian Press).—Trading was almost at a standstill this morning on the Toronto Stock Exchange. In only three issues did the total sales reach or exceed 100 shares, and the fluctuations were confined within the limits of half a point. In the unlisted section considerable activity developed in Brompton and Hollinger. Brompton, opening at 33 3-4, on sales of 220 shares, sold off to 32, closing at this low point. Hollinger, opening five points under yesterday's close, recovered its loss before noon with a close at 6.95.

WEDDING BELLS

SMITH—HARRINGTON.

At St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized, when Miss Grace Harrington, daughter of Cornelius Harrington, and John Smith were united in marriage. Rev. Father Cantillon officiated. The bride, in a suit of navy serge, with hat to match, and carrying white carnations, was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Harrington, in blue suit with pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on the 7.45 train for Toronto and Detroit. They will reside in Peterborough. Many beautiful and costly gifts testified to the regard felt for the young couple.

BLACK—McCULLOCH.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Knox Manse this morning, when Miss Jennie McCulloch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCulloch, 310 Margaret Avenue, was united in marriage to Mr. Edward Cecil Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Black, 648 George Street, Rev. Mr. McKenzie officiating. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on the 7.35 train for Toronto and points West. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside in the city.

OBITUARY

MRS. J. P. FITZPATRICK

The death occurred in Toronto on Sunday of Elizabeth J. Meehan, widow of the late John P. Fitzpatrick, at her resjdence, 63 Havelock street. Mrs. Fitzpatrick is the mother of John D. Fitzpatrick of this city, who is in Toronto to-day. Interment will take place in Lindsay.

ENGINEERS TO HOLD MEETING

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will be held on Thursday evening next at 8.15 in the Board of Trade Rooms.

The speaker of the evening will be Mr. A. C. D. Blanchard, Chief Field Engineer of the Chippewa Development of the Hydro - Electric Power Commission at Niagara Falls. He will describe the construction methods in use on this great work, which is second only in magnitude to the Panama Canal.

Mr. Blanchard will illustrate his address with many lantern slides, showing details of the work, and will also exhibit a moving picture taken along the line of the Power Canal, in which the operation of the various construction machinery will be shown.

Part of these pictures were taken from an airplane, and are said to be the first of the kind in the country.

All citizens will be welcome.

WAS SUFFERING FROM INDIGESTION NO FEAR OF PAINS NOW

Indigestion is one of the worst forms of stomach trouble, and many people suffer terribly after every meal they eat. The rising and souring of the food, pains in the stomach, heartburn, water brash, belching of wind, vomiting shortly after eating, etc., are some of the symptoms.

There is no need for any person to be troubled with indigestion, dyspepsia or any other stomach trouble if they would only take Burdock Blood Bitters, which contains a combination of nature's roots, herbs, barks and berries: a combination that cannot help but put the stomach right.

Mr. H. H. Collins, Norton, N. B., writes:—"I was with the overseas forces for four years and two months, and in October, 1916, I was unfortunate enough to be wounded and taken prisoner. I was a prisoner for 2½ years, and the food they gave us was not good, at times, and after a few months I found I was suffering from indigestion. When I came home in July 1010, I was nearly a wreck. I was told to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and found great relief, and can now eat without fear of pains and sickness. I would recommend B.B.B. to all who suffer from indigestion."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has made a reputation second to none for relieving all stomach troubles. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Miss Audrey Brown of Port Hope is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perry.

Mrs. W. Madill, Toronto, is convalescing at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. McBain, Rubidge Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Burnham have returned from the south and will spend the summer at Chemong Park.

The many friends of Donald McIlwain, Lake street, will be glad to know that he is improving after a severe attack of pneumonia.

NERVOUS TROUBLE

Nervous troubles are, without a doubt, the most discouraging form of sickness to the sufferer. You are tired and ill but cannot say what is wrong, no pain except frequent headaches, you are fretful cross and irritable without a cause; no ambition or desire to continue your daily routine, you feel a picking or itching of the limbs or body and feel that some terrible calamity is about to overcome you; you cannot enter into your former pleasures, and prefer solitude to the company of your friends. In such cases the whole nervous system is deranged and require the most careful attention. Take one of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets every night or every second night and if there is any tendency to stomach trouble take one Special Stomach Tablet three times a day before meals.

For sale at Warne's Drug Store. 25c, 50c and $1.00 per box. The Henderson Herb Co., Toronto.

"All the Boys Want a Ride on My New C.C.M."

TOMMY STEVENS has one big kick—

All the boys want to ride his new C. C. M. bicycle.

Tommy says, "The fellows pester the life out of me. Before one of them has finished a ride, some other fellow is

Coaxing for a Turn

They all seem to like my new C. C. M. a lot better than their own bikes."

Aside from this one kick, Tommy is tickled to death with his new bicycle.

He admits he can hardly blame the fellows for wanting to ride it. It runs so much easier. And when the boys ask him why, Tommy tells them about the

C.C.M. Triplex Hanger

It reduces friction. And there's a freedom from those mean "tight and loose" spots often developed by other hangers.

Tommy says, "It makes a C. C. M. bicycle run so smooth and easy you'd almost think you were riding down grade. And I can feel the Triplex fairly sizzle with power and pull away like mad when I hit her up!"

Boys! Girls! Have you ridden a C. C. M. Bicycle with the C. C. M. Triplex Hanger? Get your father to go to the dealer's with you and see one.

The New Models Are Beauties

The last word in bicycle style and smartness. Wonderfully smooth enamelling that fairly sparkles. And the "bright as sunshine" nickelling is done over copper so it can't rust.

All C. C. M. Bicycles have the New Hercules Positive Drive Coaster Brake — the kind that coasts farther and has no clumsy side arm.

The C. C. M. is "A Real Bicycle for a Real Boy."

And there's a special one that the boy won't outgrow. Equally good for a lad of nine or a youth of twenty. Step into a C.C.M. dealer's and ask to see the C. C. M. 18-in. Curved Bar Model.

GORDON MAKES MAIDEN SPEECH

TOOK PART IN DEBATE ON SHIPPING QUESTION.

G. N. Gordon, West Peterborough, in his maiden speech, contended that people of all shades of opinion were opposed to the Ministers' shipbuilding scheme. After quoting newspaper editorials in support of this contention, Mr. Gordon said that the Minister had got his principles of depreciation all mixed up. The correct way to arrive at depreciation was to take the basis of cost and the difference between it and replacement value. He did not think the Government should stop its railway policy because that would cause a general upset in business conditions, and that much more unemployment, but there was no use in keeping on a shipping policy to carry empty bottoms to far distant ports or whisky to some other place. It was simply pouring good money away and the loss would be greater as they went along.

NEW DRUG WORTH MILLIONS

Only Drug Known That Acts Upon the Liver

People who have been suffering for years with headaches, indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, kidney pains, etc., will be pleased to know that they will suffer no longer if they will try the new drug. Doctors recommend that you take one tablet of Tanated Calomel before meals, or two at bedtime, and in 2 to 5 days you will feel 100% better, your head clear, appetite keen, vigorous, keen, bright, alert, and all aches gone. The success of the new drug is due to the fact that it is the only drug known that acts directly on the Liver. No salts, seidlitz, or castor oil are necessary to drive it out of the system, as it is self-eliminating. The next time you have any trouble, due to intestinal congestion, just try this from your druggist. F. C. Weber, Charlotte Street.

SPORT COMMENT

Frank Robbins, president of the O.B.A.A., announces that he has decided upon the two men whom he will appoint to the executive. Mr. Robinson has selected Jake Solomon, of Peterborough, and C. E. Gordon, of Midland, and Solomon will also serve on the sub-committee which will be composed of President Robbins, Pat Kennedy, A. J. Walsh, Mark Dulmade, and Jake Solomon. Kennedy will be chairman. Several new applications for affiliation have been received, and Mr. Robbins looks for the greatest year in the history of amateur baseball in Canada. Northern Ontario is exceptionally active, and several new leagues have been formed there.

Winnipeg matchmakers are making another attempt to get Bobby Eber to box there. He has refused two or three good offers to appear there, but it is likely that he will accept the latest offer to appear there, as he intends to make his home in the West for the next six months. Joey Schwartz is the man picked to meet Bobby, and they want the pair to go twelve rounds.

Billy Smith, the heavyweight addition to Hamilton's boxing colony, will be a spectator at the ringside at Toronto to-night, when Soldier Jones and Harry Greb perform. Smith has not performed on this side of the Atlantic as yet, and is anxious to get some idea of what will be expected of him. Alf. Brooks will go along to act as chaperon.

FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION ACCEPTS THE GORDON CHALLENGE CUP

PETERBORO'S MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT WILL DONATE A HANDSOME TROPHY THAT ACTS AS A PRELIMINARY TO ONTARIO CUP—RULES FOR CUP—SCHOOL BOYS' FOOTBALL LEAGUE?

A special meeting of the Peterboro Football Association was held last evening in Sutcliffe's Barber Shop to receive communications and the transaction of business. Mr. Cook occupied the chair. Every team was represented with the exception of DeLaval and Caledonians.

A New Football Cup from G. N. Gordon.

The following letters were read from G. N. Gordon and a reply will be sent the Peterboro member of Parliament, accepting the cup:

April 6, 1921.

Dear Fred:

I was thinking of giving a cup to the winning Football Club. Would it be acceptable? If so, let me know and I will arrange to get it.

Yours faithfully,
G. N. GORDON.

Dear Fred:

I beg to acknowledge your favor of the 7th inst., and I might suggest that you call it the Gordon Cup. Drop me a line when you would like me to have this ready for presentation, and what should be engraved on it. If I can help you to get the Scottish Football Team to come to Peterboro, I shall do all I can when they come to Ottawa.

Yours faithfully,
G. N. GORDON.

Rules for Challenge Cup.

The following rules recommended by the O. F. A. were gone over individually and discussed. They will be endorsed at the next regular meeting of the P.F.A.

1. Cup to be called the Gordon Challenge Cup.
2. The cup shall be the property of the P.F.A. and shall be held in trust by the Executive.
3. The entire control and management of the competition shall be rested in the Executive.
4. The competition for the cup shall be open to all clubs in membership with the P.F.A.
5. This series of games shall form the qualifying stage of the Ontario Cup Competition. The winner of the cup shall represent P.F.A. in the Ontario Cup Finals.
6. The entrance fee for this competition shall be $5 to be paid to the executive and shall accompany the application.
7. A player shall not be allowed to play for more than one team in this competition.
8. The duration of each game shall be not less than 70 minutes; in case of a draw the game to be re-played on the following Tuesday evening.
9. The receipts of the cup ties shall be apportioned as follows: All money collected shall be pooled, and after expenses paid 50 per cent. will go to the executive and 50 per cent. to be divided equally amongst all clubs.
10. The final for the Gordon Challenge Cup shall be played on May 24th at the Nicholls Oval.

Warkworth Asks for Affiliation.

A communication was received from the Warkworth Football Club re joining the P. F. A., which will be discussed at the next meeting, after the local clubs have considered the proposition. Representatives will be given a hearty welcome if they prefer to attend the regular meeting.

Bert Mason Resigned as a Referee.

Bert Mason resigned his appointment as a referee for Saturday, April 16th; also to take off his name from the list of referees, owing to signing as a registered player. Mr. Howarth was appointed to fill the vacancies.

Public Schools Football League.

A representative of the Peterboro Football Association will interview the School Board on the question of getting a School League for Football started. The Association will provide a Football Trophy to be competed for annually by the school teams.

SPRING FISHING.

The season for speckled trout fishing opens on 1st May. In the Algonquin Park region, owing to what promises to be an early spring, the ice should be out of the lakes by the end of April, and anglers should make their reservations at the "Highland Inn" to be assured of accommodation. During the month of May good fishing is found in this territory, the principal species being speckled, lake, and salmon trout. Ask Grand Trunk Agents for particulars, or write to N. T. Clarke, Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ontario. 3d 4 12 21

MUSIC AND DRAMA

HUMAN HEARTS.

Twenty years rolled back last night at the Grand Opera House, when Frank Carpenter, formerly associated with several of the Stuart-Whyte atractions, presented a revival of the famous old melodrama, "Human Hearts," one of the most popular of the plays of several decades ago. Ask mother—she knows. "Human Hearts" is a true-to-type picture of the melodrama that, before the advent of the moving picture, used to stir the emotions of audiences from one end of the continent to the other. It is one of those productions where the characters are either impossibly good or incredibly bad, one of those rags-are-royal-raiment-when-worn-for-virtues-sake plays that once upon a time used to make people grip the arms of their seats—and still carries a thrill, judging by the applause of last night's audience.

Mr. Carpenter has provided a capable caste and an adequate scenic investiture for his revival. Little Dorothy Mackay, well remembered for her work in "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Babes in the Wood," is featured as Grace Logan and is the same clever, sweet youngster of the pantomimes. Sid Leonard handled the tramp role in successful fashion, Anthony Andre was a manly Tom Logan, Mary McDermott contributed an effective presentation of the faithless wife and Thos. V. Morgan was the traditional villain.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE GIRL FROM NOWHERE."

The latest and greatest Stuart Whyte production which plays at the Grand Theatre to-night is "The Girl from Nowhere," and is probably the most expensive show that has ever been staged in the city. Mr. Stuart Whyte, whose name on a bill is a guarantee for the quality of the show, has spared no expense to make this, his latest musical comedy sensation, his greatest production. Dresses, scenery, and lighting effects have been provided with a lavishness which is unequalled. It is not mere expenditure of money however, that will ensure success, but the discrimination in the purchasing. The careful blending of colours in the expensive satins, silks, and velvets, is absolutely necessary, so that there may be no garish contrasts to offend the most artistic eye. Mr. Stuart Whyte is a past master where colour schemes are concerned. These schemes are not worked out in a minute, but weeks of careful consideration are given to each scene, so that at the finish everything harmonises down to the most trivial detail. Then again, only the very best of materials are used in the costumes to ensure that the draping of these modistes' creations will be artistically correct. It might be mentioned that Miss Zara Clinton, who plays the title role, alone wears nearly $4,000 worth of costumes. Some of the materials used cost as much as $30.00 a yard. It is no busines for a poor man to embark upon, this theatrical production business. The outlay for a show of any pretention before a penny is earned is enormous, and a poorly dressed show is doomed to failure, hence the wonderful dresses in "The Girl from Nowhere."

WAY DOWN EAST.

D. W. Griffith's picturization of "Way Down East," taken from the famous stage play of Lottie Blair Parker and which has been one of the American theatrical classics for twenty-two years, will be presented at the Grand theatre for the first time on Thursday evening, with an unusually brilliant cast of interpreting players including Lillian Gish, Richard Barthelmess, Mary Hay, Burr McIntosh, Lowell Sherman, Creighton Hale, Mrs. Morgan Belmont, Kate Bruce, Edgar Nelson, George Neville, Vivia Ogden, Porter Strong, Josephine Bernard, Mrs. David Landau, Patricia Fruen, Florence Short, Emily Fitzroy, Myrtle Sutch and others.

The photo-drama production of this popular play represents ten months of labor and an enormous outlay of money. The story of the play is followed with fidelity and what digressions are made are deemed necessary to enhance dramatic values through extensive elaboration.

"Way Down East" is Mr. Griffith's most stupendous production. As innovations are expected in his presentations there will be no disappointment in his latest effort for the thrilling snow storm and enthralling ice gorge scenes at the close are by far the most pretentious things he has yet attempted.

Following the premiere on Thursday evening the presentation will be offered twice daily on Friday and Saturday. An augmented orchestra will simplify the presentation with a special musical accompaniment.

AT THE ALLEN.

TENSE SITUATIONS IN "THE VICE OF FOOLS"

There was nothing Marion Rogers wold have done less willingly than the promoting of the affair between Cameron West and Diana Spaulding, yet through the error of intuition that is exactly what she unwittingly managed to do. The strange tangle of human affairs was greatly complicated by the infatuation of Diana for Granville Wingate and of Wingate for Marion.

The story is told in "The Vice of Fools," by Francis James. It has been visualized by Vitagraph from the scenario of Graham Baker, with Alice Joyce in the stellar role, and will be shown at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday.

Alice Joyce is given wonderful opportunities to display her remarkable dramatic ability in "The Vice of Fools," a society drama based on a four cornered love tangle. Seeking to save the man she loves from a marriage she believes would prove disastrous, the heroine unwittingly advances the affair. At the Allen.

AT THE REGENT.

LAVISHNESS OF PRODUCTION SHOWN IN OUTDOOR PICTURE

J. Parker Read's Reputation for Gorgeous "Sets" Suffers No Whit in "A Thousand To One."

The popular belief that lavishness of production applies exclusively to those photoplay vehicles boasting gorgeous interior settings has been disproved in J. Parker Read, Jr.'s mounting of his Hobart Bosworth vehicles.

Hobart Bosworth's pictures cost, it has been shown, on the balance sheets, approximately as much as the specials starring Louise Glaum, Producer Read's emotional artiste.

For example, take "A Thousand To One," the Associated Producers' offering at the Regent Theatre, for which Producer Read spent thousanrs of dollars searching for ideal location alone.

A huge expedition of trucks and members of the Bosworth Company travelled far into the north woods to reach locations; two railway trains were purchased and wrecked in a big moment in the film—and this flashes by the eye in quicker sequence than the words describing it; settings for the ornate and gorgeous gambling "joints" which punctuate the earlier parts of "A Thousand To One;" marvellous San Francisco night effects, secured only after assiduous work and much waiting in the Bay City, water scenes showing a sunset over the Golden Gate and a myriad other details ran the production cost into an enormous sum.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT WAS POSTPONED TILL NEXT MEETING

The bowling tournament will start off next Tuesday night in single and double and three men and five men teams. All entries will have to be in by Saturday, and the draw made Saturday night.

STOPS HIS TRAIN TO RESCUE CHILD

COCHRANE, Ont. April 12.—(Canadian Press)—Noticing a farm house on fire and a child's face at the window, Engineer John Nelson, hauling a train from Cochrane to O'Brien on the Transcontinental Railway, stopped his engine and after whistling for the brakeman to protect his train in the rear, ran across the fields with his fireman to the rescue.

Arriving there the child jumped from an upstairs window into the arms of the fireman. The youngster indicated as plainly as possible in his broken French that his mother was inside the burning house. The men made a scaffolding of fence rails and with much difficulty got the woman out safely. She had been ill in bed.

HORSES RAN AWAY.
A team belonging to the Peterborough Lumber Company ran away this afternoon. The horses started their escape at the corner of Water and Brock streets, when an automobile crossed their path and broke the tongue of the waggon. The horses became excited and started to run. They bumped into an automobile standing in front of Dunsford's on Brock street, and here the curtain rang down on the venture. The net damage was a broken waggon tongue, a slightly damaged automobile and a few scratches on one of the horses.

REFERENDUM INFORMATION

NEXT Monday, April 18, the electors of Ontario will be expected to vote on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

The reason so much liquor is being consumed in Ontario is because the law permits liquor to be imported into the province. At present it is perfectly legal to import car loads of intoxicating liquor into Ontario. Under these conditions it is difficult and almost impossible to properly enforce the laws.

Next Monday, electors, on entering the polling booths, will be handed ballots reading as follows:

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? NO

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? YES X

People who are in favor of temperance should mark an X opposite the word YES as shown on the ballot above.

When To Vote

This year the polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.
The law allows employees one hour, in addition to the noon hour, without loss of time, in which to vote.
People who find it impossible to vote before 5 p.m. will be able to vote between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

MEETINGS THIS WEEK

This week meetings will be held as follows:
TUESDAY, April 12th, 8 p.m., Mark Street Church. Speaker: Mayor Anderson, Orillia.
Prohibition Rally, Salvation Army Hall, Browntown, 8 p.m. Speaker: Rev. Dr. Speer, Toronto.
WEDNESDAY, April 13th, 8 p.m., Public Meeting in favor of the Referendum, St. James' Methodist Church. Speaker: Rev. Dr. Speer, Toronto.

PREPARATIONS FOR VOTE ARE NEARLY ENDED

EXPECTED THERE WILL BE NO HITCH ON MONDAY WHEN LARGE REFERENDUM VOTE IS POLLED.

LISTS VERY ACCURATE

Preparations for the taking of what promises to be one of the largest votes ever polled in West Peterborough on Monday next, are being completed by Sheriff J. A. Hall, returning officer, and it is expected there will not be a hitch when the machinery which will determine the people's wishes begins to operate at eight o'clock on Monday morning.

Deputy returning officers have been appointed for the 76 polls, which include an advance poll, and most of these, in fact practically all in the townships of Galways, Cavendish and Harvey, have secured the necessary paraphernalia for recording the "ayes" and "nays."

The voters' lists are about as complete now as human ingenuity can make them and in this regard Peterborough is more fortunate than other places, as the lists were completely renovated for the by-election and are comparatively accurate. These lists have been given to most of the deputies. Altogether about half of the deputies have got their ballot boxes, which are filled with the lists, ballots, voters' book and everything down to pencil and pen nibs. Those who have not yet secured their boxes may get them at the returning officer's headquarters.

Advance Poll.

An advance poll will be held in the City Council Chambers Thursday, Friday and Saturday night from 7 till 10 o'clock. This poll is open for the convenience of commercial travellers and railwaymen who, for obvious reasons could not cast a ballot on Monday.

There will be two more polls open on Monday than there were in the memorable West Peterborough by-election. One or two polls where it was found there were too many listed have been split up into two, otherwise the voting places are unchanged.

Voting in Country.

Rural voters are in a more favorable position than city folks if by some misfortune their names are not on the list. In the country they simply swear they should be listed, another person corroborates the statement on oath and the person is entitled to vote. In the city there is no recourse if a name is not on the lists Monday.

DAYS TO PETERBOROUGH MOTOR SHOW

BANDIT TIED TO TELEGRAPH POLE.—Sydney Murrell, accused of the murder of Russell Campbell, following the attempted bank robbery at Melbourne, Ont., on Monday, was captured by infuriated villagers and roped to the nearest telegraph pole. The snapshot was taken by special photographer, who raced from London, Ont., with the detectives. On the right are the heroines of the day, Miss Irma Wright, ledgerkeeper, who gave the alarm, and Miss Agies Campbell, teller, who slammed and locked the door of the bank safe while the thugs overpowered the manager. Miss Campbell is the one on the extreme right.

MAY PLACE BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL OF THE BANDIT BELIEVED HIDING IN A SWAMP.

LONDON, Ont., April 13 (Canadian Press).—The placing of bloodhounds on the trail of the bandit "Pat," who made his escape when he and three others attempted to hold up the Melbourne bank on Monday, is being seriously considered by the police.

Residents in the vicinity strongly advocate the use of dogs as a means of finding out definitely whether the fugitive is hidden in the dense underbrush of Caradoc Swamp.

The funeral of Russell Campbell, the victim of the shooting at the hold-up, was held to-day to Mount Brydges Cemetery. Full military honours were accorded, the deceased having served in an overseas unit. A hundred persons from the surrounding country attended the funeral.

ANOTHER BOOST FOR ADVERTISING

The Crodoch Terry Company, of Lynchburg, Va., increased its sales over seven million dollars in four years, through the medium of newspaper advertising space. In 1914 at the first of war the company's sales amounted to $4,804,071.32. In 1918 at the close of the war, their shipment equalled $12,658,943.02. Although some four hundred employees joined the colours, their sales increase was $7,854,-471.00. Every year the Company uses pages of newspaper space to which it credits its success.

DECIDING VOTE OF SPEAKER DEFEATED RESOLUTION INTRODUCED BY LABOR GROUP.

WINNIPEG, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)—The Legislature last night took up the resolution presented on behalf of the labour group calling upon the Norris government to vacate office and turn the administration over to a cabinet composed of representatives of the various groups in order of their numerical representation in the House. Attorney General Johnston declared during the debate that the proposed resolution was at direct variance with the British North America Act and therefore unconstitutional. The motion was defeated by the deciding vote of the Speaker.

OTTAWA BOY IN POTATO BUSINESS.

Makes $211 An Acre Clear Profit.

OTTAWA, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—How a thirteen-year-old boy made $211 clear profit per acre on potato growing was told in the annual report of a growing contest for boys in Carleton and Russell Counties, presented at a meeting here. Last year Willie Meredith, the boy in question, took away second prize. This year he came back with an average of 490 bushels of tubers to the acre, and his clear profit was the amount named.

WILL ATTEMPT REJUVENATION OF AUTO CLUB

AFFILIATION WITH BOARD OF TRADE TO BE CONSIDERED FOLLOWING UNSUCCESSFUL MEETING.

OFFICERS RESIGN

President C. R. Banks of the Peterboro Automobile Association, and Secretary-Treasurer H. O. Fisk, both resigned at the annual meeting of that body held in the Board of Trade rooms last night. After vainly trying to carry out the routine of an annual meeting, the election of officers, and decide upon a definite membership campaign, with only a handful of members present, adjournment was made till Tuesday, March 26th, before which date each member was urged to get busy and ensure a representative attendance.

The President, Vice-President and the Secretary will meet the Board of Trade, and consider affiliation with the board. This, it is hoped, would lift the Automobile Association out of the state of decay and obscurity into which it has, candidly, fallen. The association has at present a membership of only 82, a miserably low figure when it is considered that there are about 1000 motorists in Peterboro. The officers made 'no bones' about the matter last night. The only antidote for the association's debility is an active membership campaign, it was decided, and it was thought that affiliation with the Board of Trade, who would take over the secretarial work, would do much to put this organization back on its feet. "I think that's a very good idea," said Mr. Banks, when J. J. Duffus mentioned and moved that the officers consider affiliation with the Board. W. H. Bradburn seconded the motion which was adopted.

Gone Behind.

In his address President Banks regretted that the local association had admittedly gone behind in the past year. Other clubs were filled with an enthusiasm which was lacking in Peterboro, except among a few. Other clubs membership numbered in the hundreds. Chatham had 300 members; Hamilton was aiming at 1500. "It is regrettable that in Peterboro we have a membership of only 82 out of the hundreds of car owners, and these had to be drummed up and begged to join," he said. Mr. Banks referred to the splendid annual convention of the Ontario Motor League held in Toronto and he praised the O. M. L. and spoke of the value of membership.

Made Laughing Stock.

The increased license fees this year in the opinion of Mr. Banks, would have a deterrent effect on the membership of the League. If more motorists had belonged he believed the raise might have been contested. Speaking of Thomas Tooms' bill in the Provincial House to reduce the speed limit, the president declared it made Peterboro the laughing stock of the country. Mr. Banks, on account of his business, asked to be relieved of the presidency, for he said that he was busy in the evenings when one should be free to attend to his duties.

Mr. Fisk followed Mr. Banks with his resignation. Mr. Fisk said he had completed three years as secretary-treasurer and he wished to retire from office. "I don't think we would have had 25 members if it had not been for Mr. Fisk getting out and hustling," was the retiring president's tribute to Mr. Fisk's work, when he handed the resignation to him. Mr. Fisk's report for the year showed a net balance of $27.06 in the treasury.

MOVES TO END STATE OF WAR WITH GERMANY

KNOX RESOLUTION FOR CONCLUSION OF PEACE BETWEEN U.S. AND CENTRAL POWERS INTRODUCED.

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, April 13. — (Canadian Press.)—The Knox resolution to end the state of war with Germany and Austria was introduced in the Senate to-day.

It would provide that the United States' rights under the Versailles Treaty should be reserved. The resolution was referred to the Foreign Relations committee without discussion.

The stand which the Harding administration would take regarding the conclusion of peace with Germany and Austria has been the subject of vain speculation for some time. At the time of his election it was believed that the new executive would move for a speedy peace, but latterly there have been indications that the administration is not anxious to do so. The Knox resolution, if reported by the Foreign Relations committee, will force the issue.

ESCAPED WAR, MUST PAY A SPECIAL TAX.

To Keep Care For Hungary's War Disabled.

BUDAPEST, April 13 (Associated Press).—Austrians who did not see service in the war are to be compelled to pay a special tax, the proceeds of which is to be devoted to the care of the disabled Hungarian soldiers or the dependents of those who were killed in the war.

Hungary has about 250,000 disabled fighting men, and, including the orphans, widows, and refugees, the government has to provide for more than 1,000,000 persons. This number is about one-eighth of the entire population of Hungary.

More than 4,000 families who fled from Transylvania when that section of Hungary was annexed by Roumania by the Peace Treaty still are living in railway cars in the various yards in this city. When one family manages to find rooms in Budapest, the vacated cars are immediately claimed by newly arrived refugees.

Through the efforts of American welfare missions about 75,000 children are being fed in Budapest alone. Complete outfits of clothing have been distributed to them many times.

INABILITY OF MINE OWNERS AND STRIKING MINERS TO AGREE FOLLOWED THIS MORNING BY ANNOUNCEMENT OF GENERAL STRIKE WHICH MAYTHROW 4,000,000 INTO IDLENESS.

RUMORED ELECTRICIANS WILL GO OUT

LONDON, April 13 (Canadian Press).—Great Britain's Triple Alliance of Labour will call its members from their posts at 10 o'clock on Friday night, it was announced here this morning.

This decision follows the inability of the National Miners' Federation to reach an agreement with the mine owners and the Government for the settlement of the miners' strike which began on 1st April. The decision to strike was reached unanimously by the transport workers and railwaymen, General Secretary Thomas, of the Railwaymen's Union, said after this morning's session.

It has been estimated that if the alliance should call a strike, there would be nearly four million persons idle in Great Britain as a result.

It is now feared that other labour organisations may become involved in the controversy.

The Daily Mail declared to-day that the executive committee of the Electrical Trades Union resolved last night to support the Triple Alliance. An electricians' strike would paralyse the street car traffic and the public lighting companies.

All the London newspapers to-day dwelt on the serious injury done to the country by the continued uncertainty over the industrial situation.

The miners, it is learned ,threw in the faces of the Triple Alliance the argument contained in the manifesto issued by those very leaders last week charging the Government and the owners with conspiracy to break up the Trade Unionist movement.

The miners pointed out that the desertion of the railwaymen and transport workers at this juncture would bring approximately this result, as the Triple Alliance was generally considered the most powerful industrial weapon of the Trade Unionists.

The miners, according to The Evening Standard to-day, have decided that there can be no renewal of negotiations for strike settlement, even if the invitation emanates from the Government or Labour leaders.

WILL THEY SATISFY THE MINERS?—The point has been reached in the British mining controversy where the miners must receive from the mine owners an offer which they are justified in accepting, according to a manifesto issued by the Triple Alliance. Here are some of the owners prominent in the negotiations. Top, left to right: The Duke of Hamilton, who owns valuable coal pits in England and Scotland; Lord Joicey, believed to be the largest and wealthiest coal mine owner in the world; Sir Lindsay Wood, one of the foremost mining engineers in Britain, who is aiding the Government in the negotiations. Bottom: The Marquis of Londonderry and Lord Gainsford.

Plans and specifications for the above work may be seen at the office of the Township Clerk, Bruce Johnston, R. R. No. 5, or phone No. 544 r 3.

Tenders are to be addressed to the Clerk and are to be marked "Tenders for Concrete Sidewalks."

BRUCE JOHNSTON,
6d87 683 Township Clerk.

MAY RE-ORGANIZE LINDSAY'S POLICE

LINDSAY, April 13.—The City Council here are debating the question of re-organizing Lindsay's Police Department, and decision is left until the Police Committee meet on May 9th. Some of the Aldermen felt that new blood is needed, especially at the department's head, while others contend that any re-organization at all should embrace the whole police force. The Chief's record, however, has been highly commendable, leaving no room for criticism, but certain members of the Council feel that he has reached an age in service when he could not perform police duties satisfactorily to himself or to the municipality.

COSTLY LIVING.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—The minimum living wage level for a family of five in New York is $2,333, according to a cost of living survey made by the Labor Bureau. The figures are rated on a family of mother, father, boy twelve years, girl six and boy two years.

LOOKS GOOD FOR WORLD'S WHEAT CROP.

Harvest Likely to Be All-Sufficient.

LONDON, April 13.—Associated Press.)—The prospects of the coming world's wheat crop are favorable and the harvest is likely to produce enough to meet the world's demands, says Sir James Wilson, chairman of the Central Agricultural Wages Committee for Scotland, who is an authority on that subject. He declared in an address he delivered the other day on "The World's Wheat," that the world's supply for the current cereal year is more than equal to the demand, and he predicted that on August 1 next there would be a surplus of exportable wheat left in the exporting countries. But, he said, this surplus, outside of Russia and India, would not be large and if the world's future weather proved unfavorable, the fall in the world's price of wheat might be checked and the price might even rise again.

For the world as a whole, he said, there is no more reason to fear a future permanent dearth of wheat than that the world will be starved of food generally. He predicted that some time within the next 20 years the world's price of wheat, measured in gold, will return to a level not far from the pre-war average.

RULES FOR AIR TRAVEL CITED.

International Agreements Are Registered.

GENEVA, April 13.—(Associated Press.)—International aerial agreements are beginning to come into the League of Nations Secretariat for registration. Franco-British and Germano-Swiss air conventions have been received. They are almost identical in their principal provisions. Both apply only to private and commercial craft.

The governments interested reserve the right to prohibit circulation in certain areas for military reasons and the agreements provide that any aircraft finding itself accidentally over such areas must at once give the signal of distress provided for in the air navigation regulations of the country over which it is flying.

Passengers are required to have the usual papers for international travel and all goods carried must be accompanied by bills of lading. Certain aerodromes are specified as the only points from which aircraft may start and land. Machines must carry certificates of "air worthiness," and marks of identification must be sufficiently plain to be easily recognized during flight.

HISTORICAL LORE OF GREAT VALUE.

Lies Buried in Letters and Diaries.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 13.—(Canadian Press Limited.)—Historical lore of great value lies buried in scores of old letters and diaries which are still to be found at Norway House, Manitoba, and some of the other Hudson's Bay posts, and a great treasure store of data is to be found waiting for the historian who would turn his efforts to Manitoba.

Early days of the traders, hard times, social and personal events in the lives of the old pioneers and explorers, are all to be found recorded in beautifully written diaries which are still existent. In one case record is made of a year in the early part of the nineteenth century when there was a great shortage of meat. Actual cases of cannibalism among the Indians, driven to extremes at that time, are cited. Romance and life and history are all to be found in these books and letters.

The suposition that Samuel Hearne, the great explorer of the Northwest, was dismissed from the services of the Hudson's Bay Company in disgrace after his surrender of Fort Prince of Wales to the French, is not borne out by documents found at Norway House and other northern posts. History records this fact, but the newly discovered documents indicate, however, that this information is incorrect. According to these papers, Hearne was in the employ of the company at another post as late as five years after the event at Fort Prince of Wales.

Campbellford Bowlers Prepare for Opening

PLANS FOR THE OPENING OF THE BOWLING AND TENNIS GREENS—CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13. — The Tennis and Bowling Club met last night with Mr. W. E. Brewster acting as chairman. The following members were present: Dr. O. C. Watson, Wm. Brewster, A. Reindeau, P. Kelly, J. Archer, S. Glover, S. Neale, W. Wiggins, Dr. H. B. Longmore.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Mr. Reindeau and Kelly said the books had been audited for 1920. Their report was accepted.

Mr. Reindeau reported on the roller for the green. He said the roller at the agricultural ground was too heavy and cumbersome. Mr. Kelly and Mr. Reindeau were appointed a committee to obtain a suitable roller.

The committee to see a caretaker reported and said that Mr. Sutton could be employed for $20 per month. His duties and salary are to commence when instructed, and he is to be responsible to the both chairmen.

Messrs. Brewster and Allan were appointed a committee to purchase the various implements, etc., for caring for the green.

The secretary was instructed to find out what will kill weeds on a green and serve as a fertilizer to the grass.

Full membership fee was set at ten dollars and the fee for tennis was fixed at five dollars; full membership fee for ladies to be five dollars.

A motion was made that Dr. Watson, Mr. Reindeau, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Brewster be a committee to secure a pump.

Messrs. Brewsetr, Reindeau and Allen appointed a committee to canvass for subscribers.

Meeting adjourned till next Tuesday night.

Interesting Address.

The Local Council of the Social Service were very fortunate in securing Dr. Hincks of the Social Service Dept., of Toronto University, to address their meeting last evening. In the absence of the president of the Local Council, Mr. J. A. Irwin, Rev. C. E. Clark occupied the chair, and after a very pleasing solo by Mr. R. C. Weston, introduced the speaker, Dr. Hincks, who was not an entire stranger to Campbellford, as he had conducted the medical practice of Dr. Macoun for a short term 14 years ago. The speaker based his remarks on observations secured in five provinces of Canada and stated that few realized the the relationship of mental abnormality to social problems in Canada. In Canada there are at the present time over 160,000 people mentally handicapped and there are more cases of mental disability than physical disability. Mental disease leads to pauperism, crime, prosttution and the spread of venereal diseasecease. The assassin of President McKinley was insane; Jip the Blood was a defective, the whole history of crminology bears out this fact that of 600 admissions to Sing Sng rison over 50% were sub-normal. If we believe these facts are true are we satisfied with the present methods of dealing with these?

Pauperem Allied.

Relation between abnormality and illegitimacy. Fifty per cent. of the mothers of illegitimate children are feeble minded. Pauperism closely allied to mental deficiency. If an adult who is strong physically is chronically out of work, abnormality is suspected. What are we in Canada doing for these 160,000 defectives? Aside from providing shelter and for advanced cases of insanity asylums, we are doing nothing. We have provision at Orillia for 1000, but what little we are doing costs a lot. $6,000,000 is spent yearly in Canada on asylums and $7,000,000 on the administration of justice. But it is of paramount importance that we help to stem the tide of abnoramality so that fewer will need care. 50% can be prevented by early diagnosis and early scientific treatment. The chief vantage point is in the treatment of the children, all of whom should be mentaly examined and those mentally deficient should be taught separately.

We need provision in hospitals for early cases of mental disease.

Immigration needs to be improved as every immigrant who has to be sent to an asylum costs the country from $4000 to $7000.

There are three grades of mental deficiency: idiots, usually of hereditary nature; imbeciles, and moran, the highest type.

The feeble minded are a menace to society, and the best form of treament is work that is suited to the individual. The speaker strongly urged the mental examination of the pupils in the urban and city schools, that the pupils might be aided in choosing the place for which each is best fitted.

The lecture was nicely illustrated with stereopticon views showing the work that is being done in the Cobourg and Whitby hospitals; also in New Westminster, B. C.

Miss Emma Meiklejohn then rendered a solo in very fine voice.

Dr. Hincks is a most pleasing and convincing speaker and those who were present were much profited by the excellent manner in which he dealt with this important issue of 'Mental Abnormality.'

A hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Hincks was moved by Rev. C. F. McIntosh and seconded by Mr. R. C. Watson for his very impressive address. Dr. Hincks replied fittingly. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Farmers' Club.

The Farmers' Club shipped 90 fine calves on Tuesday for which they paid for from 5 to 7c. They distributed about 10 bushels of grass seed.

Messrs. Scott and Kent shipped 221 fine porkers to the Canadian Packing Co. at Peterboro on Tuesday. They paid 12½c.

A Dance.

The young people of Campbellford held a social evening in the Opera House on Tuesday evening. There were about one hundred and ninety present and all enjoyed a most excellent time. Dancing commenced about nine-thirty, the music being furnished by Leonard's Orchestra. An excellent lunch was served at midnight which was excellently dealt with by all. Each and every one who was present reports having had a most enjoyable time. There will be another of these social evenings held by the young people next Tuesday evening in the Opera House.

Personal Mention.

Mr. R. S. Southworth is in Toronto, this week

A horseman dashed up outside and presently strode into the room. He was tall and well put together; not quite as straight as an arrow, but straight, and not ungraceful in his height. This was Harry Van Horn, a neighboring cattleman, and he wore the ranchman's rig, including the broad hat and the revolver slung at his hip. His step was clean and springy as he crossed the room and looked keenly at his guests—last and longest at Kate.

REMINSCENCE OF ROSENEATH.

Hurrah for Roseneath that village so fair,
It's many long years since I lived there.
I once knew the merchants well
And McGoderfy that kept the Hotel.
That was the scene of many a fistic Bout
When the Boys got merry and full of Jack Stout,
They chased Old Mick upstairs and down
Took possession and bedlam reigned in town.
Their shrieks and yells you could hear a mile
As they paraded from the Corners to Leeper's stile
And the missiles were flying both flask and stone
No wonder the Chief of Police got a broken collar bone.
The war made many changes in the past
We'er free from all that Dog done thing at last,
The hotel sign has changed from license to sell
To fresh groceries by Murphy we know so well.

Negotiations For Settlement of British Coal Strike Fail

MINERS REFUSE TO ACCEPT PROPOSAL FOR SETTLEMENT OF WAGES WITHOUT NATIONAL POOL OF PROFITS—TRIPLE ALLIANCE STRIKE IS SUSPENDED BUT SITUATION CRITICAL, OFFICIALS SAY.

LONDON, April 13. — (Canadian Press.) — The conference of the mine owners, mine workers and government officials yesterday, failed to reach a settlement in the miners' strike, the miners refused to accept the Prime Minister's proposals for the national settlement of wages without a national pool of profits, which Lloyd George declared to be impracticable. The transport workers and the railwaymen, however, suspended their strike notices, which would have expired at midnight.

Thus the day which opened with almost a certainty that the transport facilities of the country would be idle to-day, ended with much brighter hopes, despite the fact that the executive of the transport workers in sending out the notice of suspension of the strike, asserted: "The situation is still critical."

The only government proposal which the miners would consider was the one in which the government offered, after the wages question had been settled, to give temporary assistance to mitigate the rapid reduction of wages. Others they brushed aside at times with heated arguments.

STORY OF ESCAPE EMPRESS EUGENIE.

Told in Letter of Late Sir John M. Burgoyne.

LONDON, April 13.—The recent death of Sir John Montagu Burgoyne, famous for his rescue of the late Empress Eugenie at the fall of the Second French Empire in 1870, has brought to light a letter written by Sir John to Sir Henry Ponsonby ten days after the dramatic voyage across the English channel. The letter relates the details of the escape in which Dr. Evans, an American dentist, was instrumental.

Sir John's yacht happened to be lying in the harbor at Deauville on Sept. 6, 1870, waiting favorable weather for sailing. At 2 p.m. two strangers came aboard and asked for an audience with the owner. They appeared to trust Sir John and confided to him that the Empress was concealed in Deauville. He agreed to convey her to safety in England and it was agreed that Lady Burgoyne should remain on board in order not to arouse suspicion.

It was arranged that Her Majesty should come aboard at five minutes past midnight. Meanwhile, at 11.30 p.m., Sir John had a visit from a young Russian, to whom he has only been introduced. This gentleman had brought a friend who "wished to look over the yacht.' They were shown over the craft, although Sir John said he was convinced the men were spies.

The visitors were conducted by Sir John personally into the town and had scarcely gone when Dr. Evans, the Empress and Mme. le Breton came up and were taken on board without baggage.

Empress Eugenie was said to have been greatly agitated and to have sobbed bitterly. She was cared for by Lady Burgoyne through the two days of the voyage to Ryde, England. The trip of itself was uneventful except for the fact that heavy weather and a nasty sea made travel for the Empress very uncomfortable. A landing was made at Ryde at 7 o'clock of the evening of September 8 and the Empress left immediately for Hastings to join her son.

Sir John in his letter says the escape was planned by Prince Metternich and most skillfully carried out by Dr. Evans.

We have voted out the poor man's bar. Next Monday let us vote out the rich man's cellar.

GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE ON HYDRO GIVES HOUSE SOME INTERESTING FIGURES AS TO CHIPPEWA.

TO COST $55,000,000

TORONTO, April 13.—(Canadian Press.)—The Legislature last night settled down to the Hydro Commission estimates. Hon. D. Carmichael, government representative on the Commission, explained the items in detail as they were taken up. The end of the estimates was reached about 12.30 and the House rose.

Among the interesting statements of the Minister was that the Chippawa power development would cost the province in capital investment approximately fifty-five millions. This meant that 500,000 horse power that would ultimately be developed would represent an investment of something over a hundred dollars per horse power. The Miniser intimated that this would mean, at six per cent., about $6 per horse power annually. Another $4 for developing power would give the Commission power at station at about ten dollars per horse power.

The House put through committee Hon. Manning Doherty's farm loan bills without amendment. Important extensions to the mothers' allowances act were submitted by Hon. Walter Rollo. The changes represent the judgment of the mothers' allowances board in respect to the need for dealing with cases outside the Act and embrace among other things the principle of taking care of deserted, which was rejected when the original Act was framed.

CLOSURE WILL BE USED, SAYS HON. DOHERTY

GOVERNMENT TO FORCE PASSAGE OF INTERIM SUPPLY OF $71,000,000 AND TWO APPROPRIATIONS.

TO OVERCOME BLOCKADE

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press.) — Formal notice that the closure would be applied to pass the Government's motion for two months' interim supply amounting to seventy-one millions and two appropriations included in the main estimates was given by Hon. C. J. Doherty before the Commons adjourned at midnight.

The other two items to be passed are $8,330,000 for the completion of the government's ship-building programme and $1,750,000 for the maintenance and repair of government steamers and ice-breakers. The appropriation for the completion of the vessels under contract for the government merchant marine was the object of the Opposition filibuster during Monady night and the greater part of yesterday. With respect to the item for maintenance and repair of ships, these was some difference of opinion. Deputy Speaker Boivin believed that it had been adopted in committee. One or more Opposition members thought otherwise.

Mr. Doherty's notice is to the effect that he will move when the House goes into committee of supply to-day that consideration of the three items in question shall be the first business of the committee and shall not be further postponed.

Discussion of appropriations will terminate at 2 o'clock on Thursday morning. Votes upon them will follow. The Minister of Justice by his motion brought to a close the sitting of the House, which had lasted 33 hours, one of the longest since the famous obstruction of the Borden Naval Aid Bill in 1913.

GENERAL HOSPITAL AT BELLEVILLE HAS DEFICIT OF $10,000

MUST GET RELIEF OR CLOSE ITS DOORS—BILL FOR HOSPITAL AID BEFORE LEGISLATURE.

BELLEVILLE, April 13.— Unless a grant to the General Hospital here is forthcoming, it is possible that this institution may close its doors. There is a deficit this year of from $10,000 to $12,000—from patients who do not pay the highest rates and those who can pay nothing—and the board is now faced with three alternatives, said Mr. W. C. Mickel, K.C., if provision for wiping off this indebtedness is not arranged for.

"These are either to (1) shut its doors; (2) hand it over to the city to maintain and operate or (3) cease taking in any patients except those who can pay the full rates at from $30 to $40 per week."

Belleville has a bill before the Legislature for hospital aid, which has had its first reading. It provides for "levying a special rate therefore upon all rateable property over and above and in addition to or in excess of the general rate provided by in section 297 of the existing Act, and without obtaining the consent of the electors thereto."

THE MOTOR SHOW.

In once more reminding the people of Peterborough that the Motor Show commences to-morrow in the Armouries, The Examiner does so in the hope that the financial returns from the event this year will enable the Health Association to carry out the full programme mapped out for 1921. It would be a pity if any of its activities had to be abandoned because of insufficient funds, and yet if the revenue from the Motor Show does not come up to expectations it is certain that some of the work planned by the Association will have to be dropped. In the light of this fact, attendance at the big event becomes more or less of a duty which the citizens generally should be glad to discharge. A sizable surplus will be of the greatest assistance and inspiration to the Health Association, for it will be viewed as a mandate from the people to "carry on" in their magnificent battle for a cleaner Peterborough and a more healthy population. If the work that is done among children was the only activity of the Association, it would deserve the enthusiastic support of the public; but that is only one branch of the Association's campaign. The success of the Motor Show should leave no doubt as to Peterborough's appreciation of and desire to help this fine organization.

THE RAILWAY COMMITTEE.

The Prime Minister has announced the personnel of the Parliamentary Committee which is to investigate the railway and shipping situation. No more important committee has been appointed in the House of Commons than this body, which is expected to produce suggestions that may lead to a solution of the railway problem, one of the greatest tasks that lie before the Parliament of Canada. It was hoped that the best brains and ability of the House would have been selected by the Premier of this committee, but while there are many good men among the twenty-six named by Hon. Mr. Meighen, notably Hon. T. A. Crerar, Leader of the Progressives, and Hon. A. K. Maclean, there is a feeling of disappointment that a number of sincere advocates of public ownership have been left off the committee, while other members whose affection for public-owned enterprises is open to question are included. The members of the committee will, it is hoped, recognize their responsibility in being chosen for such momentuous work and will drop all ideas of political advantage, determined to find, if possible, a way out of the tangle in which Canada is involved as a result of the railway situation. If they play politics instead of conscientiously endeavoring to reach a solution, the result will be valueless and their findings of no particular moment. For the sake of Canada may the members of all shades of political opinion consider only the importance of the task that has been entrusted to them.

SAFETY FIRST.

Mr. James Lynch's motion before the Board of Health in regard to the use of the ice cut from Little Lake is timely. Although the water in the lake is far from pure, and consequently the ice harvested there is in a similiarly unsafe condition, it is freely used in hotels, restaurants, ice cream parlours, and, no doubt, in hundreds of private homes for the purpose of cooling water, milk and other beverages. It is well that public warning should be given of the danger of this practice and that people should understand that in putting ice from Little Lake into their beverages they are taking chances of introducing into their systems a few million well-nourished and virulent typhoid fever germs. The ice does well enough for use in refrigerators and for other similiar cooling purposes, but keep it out of the things you drink if you want to be safe. The Board of Health would be acting in the public interest if it would notify the proprietors of hotels, restaurants and refreshment parlours that Little Lake ice must not be used in beverages, and at the same time issue a general warning for the benefit of the public, for many people have been using ice in that way in ignorance of the risk they were running.

THAT SPRINKLER.

Citizens who have viewed the motor sprinkler recently added to the Board of Works' equipment are by no means backward in criticizing the purchase of the apparatus, and there are frequent exclamations of surprise that the Council should have regarded such a sprinkler as a necessity. People who were led to expect that the pavements would be flushed with neatness and despatch by this wonderful piece of machinery, and anticipated a gush of water that would severely test the storm drainage system, have watched the puny stream that trickles from this noisy specimen of gas-driven vehicle with a feeling a good deal akin to disgust. For flushing the streets the motor sprinkler is useless; it does manage to lay the dust, but its spread is so narrow that it requires the negotiation of a block three or four times to take in the width of a street, and its water carrying capacity is so limited that it seems to be tearing around looking for a new supply every three or four minutes. A motorized water sprinkler sounds up-to-date and modern, but if the one now in operation in Peterborough is the best that is available there are many citizens who would prefer the old-fashioned watering cart and who fail to see $5,000 worth in the machine.

SYDNEY FISHER.

It was always a matter of pride with Sir Wilfrid Laurier that, when called upon to form his Government in 1896, he entrusted each portfolio to a Minister who had special knowledge of the work of the department over which he was to preside. Thus it was natural that Sydney Arthur Fisher should become Minister of Agriculture, for he was a practical farmer—a gentleman-farmer, if you will, for he was a man of means and not dependent for his living upon the products of beautiful Alva Farm at Knowlton—but even in those days he was known for his interest in practical and not merely theoretical farming. It was in this spirit that he took up his national work as Canada's chief farmer, and it is but doing him justice to say that during the fifteen years of his incumbency of the office agriculture took long forward strides. He was keenly interested in agriculture and in education and the rural schools of the country found in him a warm champion. Educated himself at McGill and at Cambridge, he realized the value of decent schooling for every country boy and never failed to urge its importance upon every opportunity. Though not a member of the House of Commons after the defeat of his old chieftain, he continued to wield a powerful influence in the counsels of his party. He had no aspirations for leadership; he was not the type that sways the populace, but he was uncompromising in his loyalty to his party. In debate he was clear and incisive, his diction always worthy of the older Parliamentary traditions, and it would be well for Canada if more men of the leisured class, such as he, would devote their talents to the service of their country, for surely their country is worthy of such devotion.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Don't forget that the Motor Show opens to-morrow night.

It is surprising, that Pussyfoot Johnston should be greeted with "boos." Don't they know he doesn't like the stuff?

Citizens who stay away from the polls on Monday are shirking their responsibility.

Now that Lieut.-Col. Hendrie has apologized for introducing Hon. Mr. Windle to the people of Hamilton some body ought to make a similiar apology to the people of the Province.

Neither the Ontario Legislature nor the House of Commons seem to believe in the theory that the brain functions best between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning. Both these bodies have taken to all night session.

APSLEY DRAMATIC SOCIETY STAGED SUCCESSFUL PLAY

A METHODIST CHURCH ORGANIZATION GIVES DELIGHTFUL EVENING—BEST HISTRIONIC PRESENTATION IN YEARS.

APSLEY, April 13. — On Friday evening, April 8, the Methodist Church Amateur Dramatic Society staged a play, entitled 'Home Ties,' in the Orange Hall to a crowded audience; and, notwithstanding the weather being against us, a very enjoyable and successful evening was spent. Each act of the play was received with applause, and commentators say it was the best play staged at Apsley for many years.

Special request has been made to the society to repeat the performance.

The hall had been nicely decorated by members of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The Characters.

Ruth, A Country Maid Home from College—Miss Lulu Knox.

Miss Winn, Adopted Mother to Ruth—Mrs. Will Lean.

Martin Winn, Adopted Father to Ruth—Willie Earnshaw.

Len, A Country Suitor of Ruth's—Roy Brown.

Harold, A City Suitor of Ruth's—Tom Lean.

Alma—A City Visitor to the Winns—Miss May Hales.

Mrs. Poplin, A Rich Widow—Mrs. Will Staples.

Josiah Tizzard, A Suitor of the widow's—Archie Downing.

Lindy Jane, A Servant of the Winns (all fun)—Charlotte Tucker.

A recitation was also rendered by Mrs. Will Staples.

Ice cream, kindly donated by Mrs. Jones, was served during the evening.

After the play a unique sale was held, when the "shadows" of ladies who had brought baskets for the social was sold. Mr. Herb. Tucker ably acted as auctioneer, causing much fun and laughter, and incidentally setting high prices for the baskets.

The sum of $86 was raised during the evening.

All regretted Mr. Robert Knox's inability to serve as chairman, due to his recent accident.

The entertainment closed by singing the National Anthem.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

THIERRY'S STORY

Chapter 26

Thierry and I pushed our way through the crowds of pleasure seekers on the Board Walk. The sun was warm and expanded one's geniality. Humanity was gay this morning.

I looked at Thierry's face, but it was solemn and drawn with the tension of unpleasant thoughts. I quickened my steps. When he had unburdened his troubled heart to me I hoped it would lift the cloud from his young countenance.

We threaded our way down the long length of the Steel Pier. Near the end we sat down on one of the benches. Neither of us spoke for several minutes.

Thie lit a cigarette and flicked the match down into the water below us.

Even the ocean seemed calm this morning. The rise and fall of the great languid swells lapped softly at the steel framework beneath us.

I watched Thierry, waiting for him to find courage to start the conversation. His perturbed emotions were strangely contrasted to this sun-warmed peacefulness.

I laid my hand softly on his knee. He looked at me and smiled, and then jumped quickly into his story.

"She nearly made a fool of the governor," he ejaculated. "I saw it coming on, but I counted on the Pater's common sense—never dreamed she could dupe him."

He snapped the end of his cigarette into the ocean. I heard it sizzle as it hit the water. He took out a thin cigarette case, slightly curved, and drew another cigarette from it. I noticed the small initials, "T. B." in gold on each cigarette, and on the cover of the case. He offered me one absently mindedly, and I shook my head and watched him slip the case back into his pocket.

"The governor prizes himself on his ability to read human nature," he went on after a minute. "Never got duped by a fake witness, got eyes that see straight through your gizzard." He smiled a little to himself, and then his face seemed suddenly drawn with pain.

"She got to coming out to our place for week-ends. I didn't like her—hated her right from the first, but she smashed all my tolerance when I caught her with her arms around Pater's neck one day. They never knew I saw them. But from that time on I worked like hell to beat her at her own game."

He settled back and drew a big breath of cigarette smoke deep into his lungs. I wished he wouldn't do it. He seemed so young. But as he talked, his youth slipped from him with the daring and dexterity of his story.

"I'll always believe she used poison or dope on Dad. There must be some insidious venom that those vamps use on a man. Dad is always so big—a regular whale, I tell you!" He spoke between his teeth, the veins on his wrist tightened and his fists clenched.

"Maybe I ought to thank her for fogging his senses or I'd never have been able to put my scheme over. It's the only time I've ever fooled Dad myself," he mused and his eyes brightened at the memory.

"After I butted in on the love drama, I decided to launch a little love scene myself. I began to telling her she had eyes like a sphinx and that they made me just a little afraid of her. She liked that—I knew she would—and of course she started out to test her sphinx-like power on me. I never let her know I hated her. I made a point of doing and saying all the little personal things I could think of. I hid all the knowledge I had and let her think I was an innocent young ass. A woman loves to bring out new emotions in a man—and the younger he is, the better. I never let Dad get wise to my game. But she didn't want that any more than I did, so I didn't have much trouble in that direction."

I watched Thierry with admiration. What a helpmate this boy would be some day for the right Woman.

TRAVELLERS MAY VOTE AT THE ADVANCE POLLS

TORONTO, April 12.—Proclamations were issued Saturday by returning officers in the referendum to be taken on April 18 that under the Dominion Elections Act advance polls will be open on April 14, 15 and 16 for the convenience of commercial travellers and sailors, as well as railway men. Heretofore only railway men have had the privilege of voting at advance polls in an election, but in the referendum this privilege is being extended to commercial travellers and sailors. Certificates entitling persons to vote at the advance polls will have to be obtained from the returning officer of the riding in which the voter resides.

LOG-DRAGGING DUMMER ROADS TO LEVEL THEM

CARS STILL STICK IN THE MUD—SUCCESSFUL CONCERT BY THE CHORAL CLASS — ENTERTAINING PROGRAMME—PERSONAL MENTION.

REFERENDUM WORK

WARSAW, April 13.—Practically everyone has everything cleared up after the syrup-making, and men and teams are on the land.

Roads Bad.

Cars are still sticking in a few places. The boundary and near road to Lakefield are particularly bad

On Thursday last some of the men living on these roads used the log-drag and levelled the roads from Mr. J. A. Crowe's gate right out on the Dummer road, and to-day two more men did the same thing.

Sowing Grain.

A little grain has been sown in the neighborhood.

Ladies' Aid Meets.

Thursday afternoon the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid met at the home of Miss Maggie Miller. Among other business it was decided to have a missionary study at the next meeting.

In the Churches.

No service in the Anglican Church Sunday.

In the Presbyterian Church Rev. Graham's morning subject was, "Seek Peace and Pursue It," Ps. 34, 12-14. His evening subject was, "The Proper Choice in Life," taken from the story of Mary and Martha.

Last Wednesday evening Rev. G. Graham took up the study, "Behold I Come Quickly." There will be no class this week.

Referendum Meetings.

Thursday evening there was a meeting of all interested in the referendum. Meetings were arranged for this week—Tuesday night at Carmel, Miss Barrie, Rev. Girard Graham and Rev. J. Knox will speak; Thursday evening there will be a meeting at Cotessloe, Rev. J. Knox will address the people; Friday evening at Zion, Miss Barrie, Revs. Graham and Knox will speak; Saturday evening, some special speaker is expected, as well as the local ones, in the Town Hall in Warsaw. Special music is being prepared for all these meetings.

Successful Concert.

The Choral Class concert on Monday evening was a great success and reflected credit on the training of Mr. Walden and also the practice of the class. The hall was full, but not crowded, and every one was more than delighted.

Dr. Munro was Chairman.

The following programme was rendered:

Chorus (class)—"Hail, Smiling Morn!"

Short address on music by Dr. Munro.

Solo—"The Holy City"—Master Kenneth McCannon. (Encored).

Violin solo—Dr. Munro.

Chorus (class)—"Roseate the Hues."

Reading—"The Shooting of Dan McGrew"—Mr. V. Selkirk.

Solo—"When You Come Home, Dear"—Mrs. Hughes.

Solo—"My Ain Fireside"—Mrs. E. Hamblin.

Chorus (class) — "Little Boy Blue." (Encored and repeated).

Solo—"Daddy"—Master Kenneth McCannon. (Encored) He sang, "Jenny Wren."

Solo—"We Never Miss the Sunshine"—Mrs. Rufus Payne.

Solo — "Nora" — Mrs. Hughes.

LACK OF OTHER'S VIEWPOINT IS ONE REASON FOR ACCIDENTS

SPEED OF AUTOS NOT CAUSE OF MISHAPS, AND ABSENCE OF COURTEOUS COOPERATION IS LARGE FACTOR SAYS MOTOR LEAGUE OFFICIAL.

(By G. A. Hodgson, 1920 President Ontario Motor League.)

Many accidents happen because people have not the point of view of others users of the roadway. If the motorist could get the pedestrian's point of view, and the pedestrian the motorist's point of view, I am satisfied there would be fewer accidents and fatalities. Each should know the other has rights on the streets and each should respect those rights. We need throughout the whole country a campaign of safety with a new slogan, "Courtesy First."

Motorists pressed for years for increased speeds and were finally granted a speed of twenty miles in towns and cities, and twenty-five in the open country. If it can be shown that this speed is a direct factor in causing accidents, organized motorists would be the first to ask for a reduction of the speed limits. Statistics show that most automobile accidents happen when the speed is less tha than fifteen miles per hour, so that speed is not really a factor in these accidents. Safety education is the great thing; people must be show that accidents can be prevented and that a better spirit of co-operation between all classes will bring about a real improvement in the situation.

Law Won't Stop Skid.

If a person alighting from a standing street car sees a motor approaching he should not take it for granted that the automobile will stop because of the law on the subject. It is within the bounds of possibility that the driver of the motor may not have his car under proper control, and the law will not stop a skidding automobile. On the other hand it is up to the drivers to study the situation continually on the street, and be ready to stop the regulation six feet behind standing street cars. I am also opposed to the practice of some motorists of using the automobile horn as a form of harsh warning to "get out of the way." This has often the effect of making the pedestrian assert his rights, and again we have the unnecessary feeling of antagonism and the lack of co-operation.

All Are Not Responsible.

I regret that all motorists are not responsible drivers. I believe that the organized motorists are careful users of our highways and that they will support all reasonable legislation. The existing regulations were brought about in the interest of safety. I feel satisfied that the pedestrian will have to be regulated in the congested areas of large cities, as traffic must be kept moving safely. The pedestrian who crosses at intersections and refuses to cross between blocks is helping to keep down the accident toll.

Playgrounds enter largely into the question of traffic accidents, and I am of the firm opinion that money spent on playgrounds is money well invested. I am strongly opposed to the idea of setting apart certain streets as play areas at certain times of the day. The average child playing heedlessly on a protected street develops the idea that streets are safe, and it is against human nature to think a child will play on one street and keep off another. For instance, if Mrs. Jones, who lives on a protected street, takes little Willie out to another section of the city where no street is set aside for play, it is unreasonable to expect him to stay off the roadway. Let us have larger playgrounds and more of them.

Must Guard Children.

Automobile fatalities in Toronto in 1920 totalled 64. This figure can be cut by 75 per cent. in 1921 if people will co-operate with this end in view. We are told that three-quarters of the fatal accidents happened to children. I tell you, no legislation in the land will control the child and make him responsible. The shock is no less severe if it is the child's fault. Every driver of a vehicle must use good judgeent when children are on the road, or even when they are likely to be there.

Again, I think the press is a big factor in this matter of co-operation. Each motor fatality gets a big headline "Another Automobile Fatality." The coroner's jury may bring in a true bill, but when the case goes before the courts and all the evidence is brought out, the motorist is usually exonerated and the press give this news a few lines. If the papers would show when the pedestrian is at fault and when the motorist is wrong this publicity would do a great deal towards wiping out much of the existing ill-feeling between pedestrians and motorists. I am both a motiorst and a pedestrian and I believe I can speak for both in making my plea for co-operation.

Take Street Cars Off?

Finally, I want to point out the vital importance of town planning in connection with street accidents. A city with narrow streets breeds traffic accidents unless drastic action is taken. I believe we shall come to the question of taking the street cars off certain main thoroughfares and laying one way street-car lines on other streets. Above everything, though, may I plead with you for your co-operation in this question of preventing accidents, and let me bespeak your hearty support of the Safety League's campaign.

NO SPEED LIMITS BOTHER FANCY TAXICABS OF CUBA

Havana, Cuba, claims the distinction of having solved the problem of cheap transportation more satisfactorily than any other city.

Operating within a territory whose radius is little greater than a mile, 8,000 automobiles carry one or two persons between any two points in the circle for 20 cents. Under no speed limitations, the drivers are left to their own fate, rushing back and forth through the streets, but their feet and hands become so highly developed that they can swerve out of one another's way more adeptly than can be imagined.

Besides, Cuban upholsterers have transformed the automobile. Mahogany replaces the metal of the tonneau, whipcord for the body upholstery, fancy carpet for the floor, and many colored leathers for the seats. In a single car may be seen five or si different shades of leather.

Stop liquor firms in Quebec from sending intoxicating liquors to our boys and girls by putting an X opposite the word YES on your ballot next Monday.

PRODUCTS FIELD AND THE FOREST IN AUTOMOBILES.

We are prone to think of the automobile as essentially a steel product, and this is true, but, nevertheless, in going about a factory devoted to the manufacture of cars, it is surprising to find the number of other materials and trades represented. In building an automobile it is necessary to utilize the products of the field, the trees of the forest, as well as those which come from the depths of the earth. The animal, the vegetable and mineral kingdoms are all required to furnish their quota in the manufacture of a complete automobile.

The automobile industry, says a writer in Motor, uses in a year about 1,500,000 tons of steel in the manufacture and repair of cars and trucks. If production had been up to normal last year it would have gone well over 2,000,000 tons. On the average car, we use a little over a thousand pounds of steel for a chassis. In the Ford car, it requires just under 950 pounds of steel for each chassis. These figures do not include the sheet steel used in the body, but are simply the chassis alone. A great many of our more expensive cars, of course, use sheet or cast aluminum for the body metal in place of the pressed sheet steel.

The wood, in a set of average wheels, will weigh about 75 pounds. Hickory weighs 48 pounds to the cubic foot, and this is the material generally used for wood wheels. On heavy trucks where the heavy wood wheels are used, the weight, of course, runs up very rapidly. In the manufacture and repair of automobiles, the industry uses annually 200,000,000 pounds, or 100,000 tons of second growth hickory. A large number of the trucks are, of course, equipped with metal wheels made of cast steel, or some other suitable material.

Wood, Rubber and Copper.

We use in a year probably 50,000,000 square feet of rubber cloth material or artificial leather for manufacturing automobile tops and keeping them in repair. The tremendous amount of copper used in the automobile industry for radiators alone has made this branch of manufacture one of the biggest copper consuming industries in the world. It is excelled only by the electrical industry and even in the latter, a great proportion of its product finds its way into the automobile industry in the shape of starting and lighting equipment, wiring, ignition apparatus, etc. If we assume that the average automobile radiator has in the neighborhood of 30 pounds of copper and that the average starting and lighting sustem, together with wiring, etc., includes another 10 pounds, giving us 40 pounds of copper per car, and taking into consideration the annual repairs, etc., necessitating replacements with copper, we find that the industry uses at leas 70,000,000 pounds per year, or 35,000 tons of the yellow metal.

The automobilist little realizes how much in weight of gasoline he consumes in a year. Gasoline weighs about six pounds to the gallon, and at an average consumption rate of 500 gallons per year, the average motorist will consume a ton and a half of gasoline annually.

One of the biggest problems that automobile engineers are encountering is that of reducing weight. The purpose of the introduction of the fine alloys steel, the refinement of engine, transmissions, axles and every part of the car progresses exactly as weight is reduced. Ninety per cent. of the experimental work going on in the country is devoted to weight reduction, either in the materials entering into the car or in the weight of fuel used to travel a given distance or a given time. A notable example of this is given in the engine. For instance, it is of great interest to note that a new six-cylinder engine weighs exactly the same as the six of the same make of nearly a decade ago, and yet it develops twice the horsepower. In other words, the weight per horsepower has been cut in half. This has been done by refined design and by the use of better materials.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

ENGINES ARE FASTER GEAR RATIOS LOWER.

With Adequate Oiling Speed Makes Little Difference.

There is no distinct line of demarcation between low and high speed engines. Engine speeds have been increasing gradually and final gear ratios have been growing lower for the past ten years. Nearly all recently designed cars carry engines that may properly be classed as of high speed. Such engines were mostly of small bore, with very light pistons and connecting rods and well balanced crank shafts and can be operated with at least as low wear and tear, at the higher speeds they are designed for, as the older, heavier, lower speeded engines can be at the speed for which they were intended. You need not worry as to the durability of any of the modern high speed engines so long as adequate lubrication is always provided. Experience shows that, in general, other parts of a car fail before the engine and that the majority of cars become obsolete before their engines are worn out.

HAVE LEAKING VALVES GROUND.

Imperfect Fit Causes Trouble For Engine.

For the first few thousand miles probably need no attention aside from the periodical oiling they will require if they are of the overhead type. In motors of the L or T-head type, this oiling is generally taken care of automatically.

Then it is likely that misfiring will develop when the engine is idling or when the car is running very slowly, though the spark plugs and the carburetor be in perfect condition. The car owner may then consistently look for a leaky valve, usually caused by carbon being burned irregularly on the valvo or its seat; by the valve or its seat being pitted, or by a slight warping of the valve, due to the excessive heat of the exhaust gases after explosions.

In any case, the valve must be made to fit perfectly on its seat, and this is generally done by what is known as valve grinding. The valve spring is disconnected, the valve is removed, the seating surface is covered with some form of grinding compound, the valve is replaced and then turned first in one direction and then in the other until the surfaces of both valve and seat are smoothly polished.

This is an operation which had best be left by the amateur to an experienced man. In grinding valves, care should be exercised so the grinding compound does not get into the cylinder or on the piston or it is liable to damage the cylinder walls.

After the valves have been ground, the tappets require adjustment as the grinding generally causes the valves to drop down farther than they did before. Hence the push rods will not be of the correct length. On most engines there should be about two-thousandths of an inch space between the push rod and the stem of the inlet valve and three to four-thousandths on the exhaust valve. The correct distances for these adjustments of the motor are generally given in the instruction book which comes with the car.

If too much space is allowed, the valve tappets will be noisy; if not enough, the valve stem will ride and will not permit the valve to seat properly. Quiet and proper operation of a motor depends much on the adjustment of the valve tappets.

PALATIAL AUTO BUNGALOW NOW.

Popular For Use in Extended Tours.

A palatial auto-bungalow which can be used on a travelling tour as bedroom, dining hall, library, reception roomand kitchen is the latest idea in transportation. It has an over-all length of thirty feet, which, while necessitating an abnormal overhang in the rear, is a positive advantage, balancing most of the weight over the rear axle, thus relieving the front wheels and making steering easier. Sleeping accommodations are provided by three folding cots, and by combination couches extending along each side of the compartment, the kitchenette is equipped with a gas stove, fireless cooker, refrigerator, and hot-water tank. There is a stationary washbowl, with hot and cold running water, and a shower bath. A special storage battery and generator installation supplies power to operate 22 incandescent lights of small size but great brilliance. The complete cost of such a vehicle recently built by order was $16,000.

DUNLOP CORD TIRES

DUNLOP MEANS "MORE MILEAGE"

"Dunlop Cord Tires on my car have gone 13,500 miles over all kinds of roads and in every kind of weather, and are still in good condition."—From a Calgary Car Owner.

"The Dunlop Cord Tires being used on our Truck have run 8,000 miles and are still going."—From a Hamilton Car Owner.

Just a few words from two letters, but these excerpts represent what thousands of motorists are obtaining from Dunlop Cord Tires in actual service.

There is no getting away from the fact that in Cord tire quality we had the jump on the field in 1920. As a matter of fact, the comparison of any other Cord is always with "DUNLOP."

Why Dunlop if it is not the one to beat? Dunlop is out there in front simply because in Cord tire construction we put out our very best at the very first.

THOMAS TOOMS.

Editor of Examiner, ...

Sir: As Prohibitionists, we commend the attitude of the Examiner in repeatedly and consistently calling attention to the fact that the real issue in this campaign is not so-called Government control, but the prohibition of importation of liquor for beverage purposes, and that the Liberty League has no right to befog the issue.

We however take friendly exception to your editorial in Monday's issue which perhaps inadvertently places "Pussy'fot" Johnston and Mr. Windle in the same class as undesirable foreign agitators. Mr. Windle's remarks suit the tastes of a small minority, to whom argument, reason or the claims of humanity, make no appeal.

Mr. Johnston is the oposite. Windle is a defamer of the Empire; Johnston an exalter of her world leadership in the interests of humanity. I quote an extract from his speech in yesterday's Globe:

"It was England in the last century that led the world in the abolition of slavery. Thank God she did. It was England that led the world in the abolition of commercialized vice; that led the world in the abolition of public gambling.

"It was the British fleet that made the seas safe for commerce and the world. (Cheers.) And, my friends, we are engaged in a world wide struggle now, and Canada and the United States, the two eldest daughters of that Mother Country, are leading a fight which is being waged throughout the whole world against the greatest curse that has existed in the whole history of the world."

We must keep in mind the fact that the great social, moral and economic forces of Canada and the United States are engaged in in a united struggle against a common enemy.

We have outgrown local provincialism. Do we not invite eminent Americans to address and even advise us on great topics of mutual interest? Have not the Americans repeatedly invited eminent Canadians in a similar manner?

We have invited through our Boards of Trade, Boards of Education, Boards of Commerce, Medical, Judicial, Social, Religious, Philanthropic Societies and Associations, and even the press, Americans, eminent in their respective spheres, and we have listened to some of them in Peterboro with pleasure and profit.

We have been proud to read of our Canadian leaders invited similarily to address American audiences and of their hearty reception.

We have passed the embryo stage of local provincialism in these matters, and the Prohibition Committee is in line with progressive intelligence in inviting Mr. Johnston, even if a pitiable and unfortunate element, the product of a degrading traffic, is opposed to free speech, in a free country.

We are glad to see Mr. Johnston standing to his guns, just as Sir Phillips Gibbs has so recently done under similar conditions, in the United States.

We are sorry such elements exist in both countries, but it calls out in greater strength and united determination the better elements of the community, that a traffic that leaves such dregs in its train shall be completely prohibited, and we are glad the great papers of our province for the most part have thrown their influence with us.

A. B. CUNNINGHAM.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Permit a few lines for publication from a resident among many who have the same complaint to make with reference to the lighting of the streets in the East City-Auburn district. We have sent in petitions and requests, and scarcely any attention is paid to them. We are heartily in accord with Ald. Crowe's sentiments, that the lighting system as applied is a makeshift pure and simple. What lights that are placed are out very often and remain so for weeks before being replaced. This is due no doubt to being in the outskirts, and are not seen. It is a common practice to carry lanterns when going about here. Ald. Crowe's suggestion that porch or verandah lights should be adopted would surely go a long way in lighting our streets.

Thanking you, I am, yours truly,

VOice of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name as well as the address of the writer for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

Dear Sir: Please allow me space in your paper to make a reply to some of the statements made by Mr. J. J. O'Brien, in his speech at St. Paul's Church, on Wednesday night. As I did not hear Mr. O'Brien speak I have to refer to the speech as reported in Thursday's Examiner. In my mind the gentleman has made several remarks which cannot be well passed unchallenged.

The first of these is the statement that "in the province of Quebec we have a papulation of over a million and a half with practically no knowledge of the English language." This statement is not the truth as Mr. O'Brien must know if he has taken any pains to study Quebec. On the contrary a great number of the inhabitants of that province speak both English and French. On the other hand, how many people in Ontario speak both these languages? For instance take the members of Parliament at Ottawa and compare the number of Quebec members who can speak English with the number of Ontario members who can speak French. I think the result would be greatly in favor of Quebec. And even if this were not the case, Mr. O'Brien would have to look elsewhere for the causes of estrangement between these two provinces. This unfriendliness is certainly not the fault of our peaceable neighbor, but rather of the unscrupulous politicians who make use of the "No Popery" cry during election times, to gain their own selfish ends.

In regard to the abolition of the Separate schools, I can only say that this is a too old and worn-out cry to make much impression these days. The Separate School is here to stay, and is doing excellent work, whatever Mr. O'Brien may think or say to the contrary. As to having the text books of our schools translated into French for the use of the schools of Quebec, I think the people of that province have too much sense to use such books where Britain and the Empire is idolized while our own Canada is placed in the background as an inferior colony, unable to take care of herself. That this is the view taken by Mr. O'Brien of Canada's status I infer from his appeal for the continuance of the Privy Council. If Canada is as we are told, on a level with England herself why are we not cable of making decisions in those cases that are now taken all the way to England for Englishmen to decide for us. To anyone with any bride in the honour of his country this sort of thing must necessarily be humiliating.

Passing several other topic in his speech such as the marriage question where the Diivorce problem is adroitly dodged, and the Irish question where the Divorce problem is zens are slandered by branding as disloyal the Self-Determination for Ireland League, we come to the point where Mr. O'Brien caps all his former remarks by the statement that the Orangemen are the best friends the Catholics have and that "if anyone attempted to deprive our Roman Catholic brethren of the great civil and religious liberties they enjoy the Orangemen would be the first to take up their rifles and fight on behalf of their Roman Catholic friends." And all this after agitating to deprive the Catholics of Quebec of their language and the Catholics of all Canada of their Separate schools! We however, are very glad to hear that we have friends who are willing to fight in our behalf, although we were left entirely alone in our combat against the divorce evil. If the Orangemen want to prove the truth of Mr. O'Brien's statement let them join the ranks of those who are opto the greatest of all evils which threatens the morality of the Canadian nation. Yours truly,

J. T. FOLEY.

TO THE CHURCH.

The Editor:

Sir.—Believing that the church and labor should ultimately join forces to bring about the great religious and social evolution that the world is longing for to-day, many are crying out for the light; the light of a world brotherhood. We have to face facts as they really are; the truth cannot be side-tracked—it is omnipitent. Therefore, to show a great deal of public opinion on this matter should be of interest.

The church can belong to no class or privilege, but we find that the rich support the church. The confidence of the people is lost to our modern business system; it is claimed that the rich are getting richer and the poor more poor. A selfish pride and respectability has become paramount. The truth seems to be the last thing the pillars of the church expect to hear, and if a minister does offend in this matter his resigation is asked for. Then the great trial for the minister to decide between Christ and manmon. How many ministers will get up and say to the congregation, unless you welcome these working men, this is no place for you. I regret to say that the hatred can be seen in the eyes of a great many of the people at the mention of the church. They feel that the minister cannot be a friend of the supporters of his church at present and of the people. These supporters of the church today often claim that business and sentiment cannot be combined, yet they pray, "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors."

Then they forget their method of business during the week, and remember the Sabbath to keep it holy. The truth must be faced squarely, and realize that the miserable Pharisee is the greatest enemy of the cross of Christ. "Woe unto you Pharisees full of extortion and wrong, owners of saloons and brothals paying starvation wages, receiving millions in selfishness, while you drive your victims to suicide." It is claimed that until these men are out of control of the church the worthy cannot enter. The patience of the people is exhausted—the lack of the kindly word, the lack of facing the truth squarely. I mean by this, the denunciation of the evergrowing economic sin, which is daily making the minister of Christ the victim of the privileged class. We should all remember that the love of our fellowman is all we can take

Which Shall It Be?

Total Prohibition

PROHIBITION cannot be enforced, because it does not appeal to the conscience of the people. Enforcement has failed in every country.

Prohibition in the United States and Canada has produced perjury, hypocrisy, contempt of the law, illicit stills, social unrest, and the use of poisonous drugs and alcohols. Drunkenness is rife.

Prohibition prevents temperate people from obtaining good liquor and drives others to poisonous alcohol and drugs. Without prohibition the bootlegger cannot live.

Prohibition causes employment of stool pigeons, informers and armed inspectors.

Prohibition affects the poor man only. Those who can afford it have already filled their cellars.

Prohibition is radical legislation, and all radicalism is dangerous.

Government Control

GOVERNMENT Control will enable the temperate man to exercise his undoubted rights and provide security for individual rights properly used.

Government Control will put the bootleggers, the drug pedlars, the keepers of illicit stills, out of business. Any criminal lawyer, having to do with the police courts, will tell you that.

Government Control will adequately protect the future of the boys and girls of this Province.

Government Control places the onus of proper use of liquor on the individual. If it is abused, Government Control will check the offender.

Government Control will enable people to have on hand a sufficient supply of spirituous liquor for an emergency in sickness or accident without being forced to lie to a doctor.

Government Control will not allow the return of the open bar.

Are Features of Modern Life Which Hinder Students.

TORONTO, April 13—Among the features of modern life which hinder students in their studies, G. A. Smith, senior principal of High Schools, severely scores the movies, motor cars, cigarette smoking, and early morning dances, in his report to the Board of Education here. All these, he declares, have a disastrous effect on the coming generation.

The report has a few pointers for parents to ponder over, for Principal Smith declares that in many cases parents seem to have lost control of their offspring. His report was made on the motion of Trustee Wanless in regard to interferences with the school routine. Says Mr. Smith:

Frequently the Church.

"Outside activities: Under this heading may be classified anything that interferes seriously with regular home work, such as evening parties, movies, too frequent church or Y.M.C.A. functions. Going to school is a business which should be the chief daily concern of the pupil for at least five days in the week. Other affairs should be of secondary importance and should not be allowed lightly to usurp the place of the school duties. Here is where the parent should co-operate with the teacher to secure results. Unfortunately parental control seems in many cases to be almost a zero quantity."

"Dances and the consequent late hours interfere greatly with serious study. A generation ago 12 o'clock was considered rather a late hour for evening parties to break up. The parents of the school boys and the school girls of the present day tolerate the use of the latch key at one and two o'clock in the morning.

"The insistent demands of the Y.M.C.A., and of church functions, contribute their quota toward the retardation problem in the high schools.

"The movie devotees, a numerous class unfortunately, are soon known by their distaste for serious study and their lack of appreciation of good literature. The movie and the automobile have made serious inroads on the complete family circle conductive to study and good reading characteristic of thirty years ago.

Down on Cigarettes.

"Cigarette smoking: The effects of the cigarette are too evident in our schools. The word 'failure' can almost certainly be written after the name of the youthful cigarette smoker. A restlessness, a lack of decision, and an inability to apply themselves with any degree of continuity to an allotted task characterise those who have acquired the habit."

CANADIAN CLUB TO BRING THOUSANDS OF SETTLERS OUT.

Governments of the Day Might Well Be Expected to Co-operate—Boost for Prairie Country.

BRANDON, Man., April 13. — (Canadian Press.) — In addressing the Canadian Club here recently M. A. Brown, vice-president of the Western Canada Colonization Association, said that organization would bring thousands of settlers to the prairie country and that the governments of the day might well be expected to cooperate heartily in the great task. Just as a wide-awake merchant spent money in attracting new business to his store, so governments should spend reasonable sums in promoting agricultural colonization, he said. Without more people on the land Canada could not carry its huge national debt, elminate the deficit on the national railways, or get back to a prosperous business basis. If the national railways would expend 2 per cent. of their annual deficit for the next five years on the settlement of vacant lands along their lines, the serious transportation problem, which now confronts the country, would soon be solved. If the National and Western Provincial governments would expend ½ of 1% of their annual budgets on the encouragement of land settlement the country would speedily overcome its grave financial difficulties, he declared.

There was no difference between selling merchandise and selling the resources of the country. He was thankful to say that the Association was now assured of the fullest cooperation from both the governments and the railways. The speaker said that under the driving force of Major-General McRae's personality, the Western Canada Colonization Association was certain of achieving the object for which it was organized.

POPULATION IS CANADA'S NEED

WINNIPEG, April 13. (Canadian Press.) — "What Canada needs is population," declared General Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, here recently on his way home after an extended tour of Canada and the United States. "Thousands of men in the west have no opportunity of marrying, men who need good wives to help them make homes. Canada needs more than anything else, women who are willing to marry and raise families, to be brought up with a full understanding of Canadian ideals."

So for the thousands of men who are lonely, the Salvation Army has plans afoot to bring thousands of British girls to western Canada to become "prairie housewives."

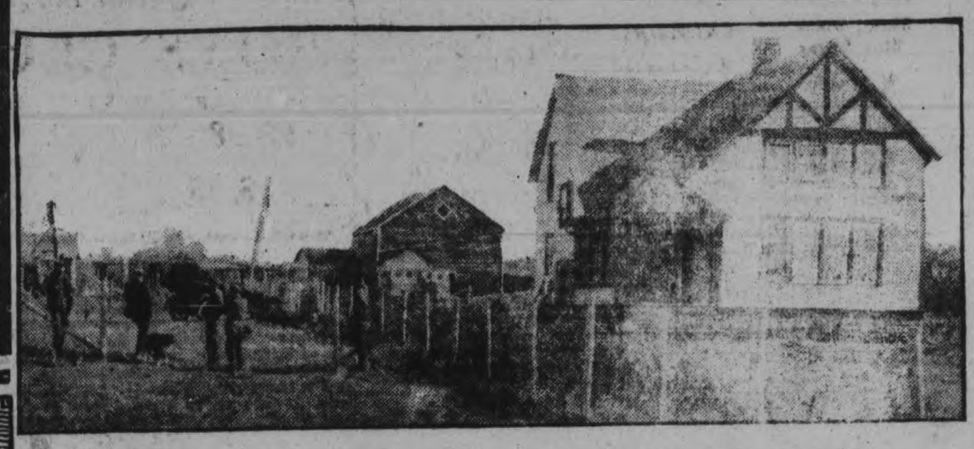
Eighteen Years of Progress



View of the Laurence Home and Farm at North Battleford, Sask.

The nature of the experiences of pioneer farmers in Western Canada twenty years ago is exemplified in the story of Job Laurence, a farmer who has found success in Central Saskatchewan. He and his family left their home in England in 1908. Saskatoon was their "jumping off" place. On arriving here they invested the greater part of their capital of $600 in a milk cow, a yoke of oxen, a wagon, a plow, drag harrows and a few small tools. But as their capital dwindled their hopes grew. After all, as Mr. Laurence says: "Hope is the best capital any newcomer to a new country can have." They were now ready for their three hundred mile trek across country. With bag and baggage and their newly acquired outfit they left Saskatoon on May 1, 1903, and made for that part of the country of which the enterprising town of Lloydminster is now the centre.

But here they did not stay. The great distance from the railway and the poor prospects of their obtaining any work in this district, which at that time was very sparsely settled, was not very encouraging. They, therefore, came east again as far as Battleford and looked for land in the surrounding country. It was near Battleford that they finally located about the middle of 1903 on the farm they now occupy.

They built a sod stable, which proved to be so shady and cool after living two or three months in tents that they moved into it themselves. Haying time now having arrived they cut with a scythe, or an "armstrong mower" as Mr. Laurence puts it, twenty-two tons of hay. By this time it was necessary to think about winter quarters. Logs were cut and a house sixteen by twenty-four was built. The roof of this house was made of "prairie shingles" (sod from the prairie) and proved to be comfortable and warm in the winter and cool in summer. But no land was broken that summer.

In the winter that followed they lost one of their oxen. The other was sold in the spring and a team of light horses bought. These proved however, to be too light for the breaking plow and it was possible to break only ten acres of land on the Laurence farm the second summer. "I would strongly advise all those who want to farm in Western Canada to put everything aside during the breaking season, and break every possible acre in May and June," Mr. Laurence says. "If the breaking season is allowed to slip by a year is practically lost."

For two years Saskatoon, a hundred miles away was their nearest point, and "to keep the pot boiling" the Laurences did considerable "freighting" between Battleford and Saskatoon. In 1905 the railway came.

At the beginning of the fourth year in the country of their adoption they had seventy-five acres of land ready for seeding. Sixty acres were seeded to wheat and fifteen to oats. With a sample of the wheat they grew that year they won the first prize at the first seed grain fair held at North Battleford.

With one hundred and fifty acres in crop the following year, the Laurences felt that they were now real farmers. Their pioneering days were over and they could face the future with confidence. Since that time they have broken more land each year and have summer-fallowed when needed. Prosperity has come to them slowly but surely and they have been able to add to the size of their farm by the purchase of adjoining land. From the beginning they have always had some livestock, and practically their first investment on their arrival at Saskatoon was in a milk cow and a calf. In fact, they are still milking a cow that is the off-spring of the calf bought during those early days. For a number of years the Laurences raised on their farm all their heavy work-horses, and have had a few heavy colts to sell besides. Since 1911 they have threshed their grain with their own machine and have also contracted to do threshing for other people, thus adding considerably to their income.

Before coming to Canada neither of the Laurences had ever worked on a farm.

They have now a home that compares favorably with city dwellings of the same size. With a hot and cold water system up and downstairs, electric light and local and long distance telephones in the house and their automobile ready to take them wherever they want to go, they feel that the city dweller has no advantage over them.

MOTOR TRUCK FINDS ITS PLACE IN FREIGHT TRANSPORTATION

FLEXIBILITY OF COMMERCIAL VEHICLES IMPORTANT FACTOR IN DEVELOPING CARRIER LINES—NEW AND BETTER HIGHWAYS NEEDED TO MEET REQUIREMENTS.

Almost every day brings new examples of the dependence upon motor trucks for the transportation of goods. Much of this business is of the short-haul variety, but a not inconsiderable portion is long-distance hauling. In the United States regular routes of 500 or 600 miles no longer attract attention, while in Britain motor trucking is still farther advanced as a factor in goods transportation than it is in the neighboring republic. These conditions in the United States and England of today will be duplicated in Canada as industrial expansion continues and road programmes now in hand are carried to completion. Already foodstuffs are being hauled from farms to markets, lumber is brought out of the forests, raw materials and fuels are supplied to factories, and manufactured articles are delivered to wholesalers and retailers by the ubiquitious truck. Around the larger cities, commercial travellers in certain lines, instead of covering their territory by train and selling from samples, leaving the goods ordered to be delivered later by freight, now carry supplies in light delivery trucks and fill many orders on the spot.

The economy, the adaptability, the flexibility and the convenience of motor truck service all assure for it a growth beyond even the most sanguine expectations of either manufacturers or users in the formative stages of its development, and the designers and builders of main roads today must provide foundations and wearing surfaces that will stand up under the gruelling impact of vehicles weighing one, two or more tons each and carrying loads or two or three times their own weight.

Strengthen Bridges.

The heavier roads and greatly increased mileage of the commercial motor vehicles demand a corresponding increase in the strength of road foundations, bridges and crossings, and greater resistance and permanence in the wearing surfaces. Expert advice of the highest and most disinterested quality, a accurate census of the existing and the immediate prospective traffic, and an imaginative but practical vision of road transportation conditions as they will be ten and twenty years hence, based upon the experiences of the past two decades—all these are necessary if the main roads to be constructed in 1921 and the succeeding years are to prove adequate to the purposes for which they are being provided. More money should be put into the foundations, for it is false economy to skimp on this most important portion of the road, and many a splendid wearing surface has been ruined by an insubstantial foundation. The builders must choose between a high initial cost of construction and low maintenance charges or cheap construction and a constant and always increasing outlay for upkeep, which at best cannot give satisfaction. Little consideration is needed to decide which is the wiser choice.

Wider Highway Travel.

Extensive truck traffic requires wider highway surfaces than the ordinary travel of the past, which found roadways of fourteen to sixteen feet, exclusive of the the shoulders, ample for ordinary needs. The ideal main road would permit of four uninterrupted lines of evhicles, two slow-moving and two fast-moving in each direction, but this ideal must wait for a future of more generous appropriations and larger public enlightenment as to the importance of road transportation. But certainly the increased width of trucks and their loads demand a wider roadway and the provision of shoulders more substantial than those of earth, which at certain seasons and under heavy burdens are a source of trouble and positive danger.

Safety as well as serviceability must be a desideratum. Before the automobile became the predominating factor in highway traffic, safety was a minor consideration. The road builder of today must flatten and bank his curves, keep his grades down to the minimum, provide sturdy guard rails and see that his bridges are at least equal to the rest of the road in power to sustain loads. One important thing in the design of roads for modern traffic is the alignment. Formerly a sight-line of 100 feet or less was not uncommon, and there are still many such roads. That distance is more than sufficient for horse-drawn traffic, but quite inadequate for self-propelled vehicles. Two motors driven at a speed of twenty-five miles around a turn having a sight-line of only 100 feet would be visible to each other for but two seconds before meeting. It is possible to lengthen the sight-line on almost any road without undue expense. Bushes and other obstructions can be removed, and it will often pay to take out a considerable quantity of earth or even rock on the inside of a curve.

Railroad Crossings.

Another hazard that is increased under modern traffic conditions is that of the railroad grade crossing. The only sure way of preventing accidents is by grade separation, but this has often to be deferred because of the cost. Until an underpass or overpass can be provided, however, thaere are ways by which danger can be reduced to a minimum, and these should be adopted.

In most sections of Canada heavy snows are to be expected in winter, and unless advantage is taken of the economical and practical methods now being adopted for keeping the roads open for both motor and horse-drawn traffic, the heavy investment in roads and motors is temporarily worthless. Modern transportation demands a road which is passable every day in the year.

No road is permanent, but by scientific construction, the use of tood materials and close inspection to ensure honest work, the builders of modern highways can earn the gratitude of their fellow-citizens and of all who come from afar to use the vitally important arteries of travel.

TO FACILITATE REMOVAL OF TIRE.

Although tire removal is one of the most common occurrences of motoring life, comparatively few owners know of a little trick which not only saves time and motions but actually facilitates the job of taking off the rim. This consists in loosening without removing the two lugs nearest the valve stem. After shaking the tire to and fro slightly it will lift off very easily. When putting on the spare tire, the valve stem is rotated around to the bottom, the weight of the car is allowed to rest on the tire, and it will be found that the rim is in the best position with respect to the felloe for inserting and tightening the other lugs.

HOW TO PAINT YOUR OWN CAR

(By Merle Shepard.)

Mystery has been wrapped about repainting an automobile; but any man with a little time and the space can do the job. The job he does will not be a "botch" either, but will rival the work of any professional if a little care and a little intelligence are used. The following directions give a step-by-step story of how to do the work and also tell the principles involved.

The paint of a car is composed of three principal parts. First, the priming, or foundation; second, the color, and the third, the covering or protective coating. The foundation merely gives a smooth base for the application of the following coats. The color is composed of a number of thin coats rubbed smooth aad gives the body of the job. The protective coat is a thin, hard coat of transparent varnish, which protects the softer coloring material from the inroads of the weather. If the protective coat is kept intact the color coats will maintain their original brilliancy.

The amateur who does his own work will not have to start fresh, because a large part of the work is already done for him. It is only when the paint on the car is very badly damaged that the foundation or primary work has to be done over. But, assuming that this is the case, the entire surface should be gone over and rubbed smooth by means of fine sandpaper. Before the sandpapering is done all the grease should be washed off the car with a good scouring soap, followed by a thorough washing in cold water, leaving the surface clear of grease and from all trace of the soap. All breaks in the surface of the former paint should be coated with paint and then filled with putty, allowing this to dry for a full day before touching it again.

To Level Surface.

All the retouching spots, and in fact, the whole body, should be gone over again to see that the surface is level. Fine sandpaper can be used for this, and to be absolutely safe, the body should again be washed with cool water to remove all trace of dust and dirt from the surface. You are now ready to apply the color paint.

The color coats should be mixed very thin. The thinner the coats and the greater the number the better the job will be when you are through, and, of course, the longer it will take to do it. After each coat you should let it dry thoroughly and then go over it with pumice, rubbing down all the rough spots that you can find. The pumice comes in powdered form and you can get it in any paint store. After the last color coat is applied it should be allowed to dry extra well. The coats number anywhere from three to thirty, depending on how well you want to do the job.

A coat of color varnish, explained later, is now laid over the color coats of paint and allowed to dry, after which this is rubbed down to absolute smoothness and any striping desired is applied. The striping should be covered with a couple of coats of rubbing varnish, and rubbed down when dry with the pumice and water paste, after which two coats of finish varnish are carefully and smoothly laid on. The body is now finished. Be sure that all this work is carried on in a dustproof room, and it is better to have the room dark.

Preparing the chassis is a matter of getting rid of all grease. Unless this is all off the painting job will be useless, as the paint will only adhere in the clean spots and a very bad job will result. First scour with warm water and grease-cutting soap. Then go over it again with turpentine, and finally with a strong solution of washing soda, finishing with a good rinsing with cold water. It is really better to lift the body off for this work, but you can do without that.

When this is done, proceed with painting exactly the same as with the body, except that you can get along with two thicker color coats instead of a large number of thin coats. Be sure that you prepare the chassis with a smooth foundation before applying the color coats. This is done with putty, as with the body.

Color Varnishing.

The other metal parts about the car (such as the fenders, windshield, lamps, radiator, etc.) are all handled in the same way as the body and the chassis, care being used to first secure a smooth surface to work upon, and after that the paint and finally the finish varnish are laid on in the paint with a gasoline torch he stands a very good chance of destroying the entire body. Unless you are an expert in the use of the torch, do not try it. You will have to scrape in addition to using the paint removing chemical. After the paint is scraped off, before the first coat is given it will be necessary to bring everything to a fine finish with sand paper.

When the surface is thus prepared you are ready to give it a priming coat of metal primer. This can be bought in any paint shop ready to use, and is applied evenly over the whole surface with a broad scraping knife. This is allowed to dry for at least two days before it is sand-papered down smooth.

A coat of rough stuff filler is applied over the primer by mixing two pounds of keg oil ground lead with a half and half mixture of coach japan and rubbing varnish. These are mixed to a stiff paste and applied evenly. Four coats of this should be applied, with at least a day between each. After allowing this to dry a week rub it down to a smooth surface with a pumice cake and water.

Before applying the first coat slightly roughen the body with No. 0 sandpaper; apply a good ground color depending on the color you are going to use, then go ahead in the way previously directed, taking good care to keep dust off the job.

The materials used will vary with the size of the car, but for the average job the following will suffice: For body, 2 qt. primer, 5 lb. glazing putty, dozen sheets sandpaper, 1 lb. rubbing brick, ½ pt. coach japan, 1 qt. rubbing varnish, 2 qt. color varnish, 1 pt. color, ½ pt. foundation color, 1½ gal. rough stuff.

For chassis, dozen sheets sandpaper, 2 qt. primer, 2 qt. priming paint, 1 lb. putty, ½ pt. color, 2 qt. color varnish, 2 qt. rubbing varnish, 2 qt. finishing varnish. The paint shop will advise you on brushes.

CARE OF TIRES SAVES TROUBLE.

Test Once a Week With Gauge.

The average motorist, while he enjoys doing certain work around his machine such as adjusting his motor, seldom pays any attention to his tires, which may cause just as much trouble as the motor if not properly taken care of.

At least once a week test your tires with a gauge. Learn from your tire dealer the exact pressure your particular tire should hold and follow his advice implicitly. Bear in mind that the tire tread or rubber covering, which is visible is merely a means of protecting the fabric underneatyh. When the casing is new the tread effectively prevents water and dirt from attacking the fabric and small cuts should be immediately plugged.

All good accessorh firms carry vulcanizing outfits complete with directions. The main thing is to have the outfit on hand. An error often made in doing your own vulcanizing is in making the patch too small and by not vulcanizing thoroughly enough. A patch not thoroughly vulcanized will creep away from the puncture and you will have the trouble all over again. Another error often made when patching on the road is to allow the wind to blow the flame to one side. Usually the work is done on the running board and the car can be turned that one side is protected from the wind.

TAKE YOUR WORN TIRES TO SHOP.

Use of One Chain of Little Value.

Many motorists have observed that tires on the right side of the car wear faster than those on the other side. This is due to the pitch of the road, which throws the weight of the car onto these tires, particularly the rear one. The left rear tire, however, receives a driving pull, while the right front tire does not, the former usually shows more wear than the latter. Under average conditions the right rear tire wears out first, and the left front last. To secure uniform wear on tires, many automobile owners change them around once a month.

This is a good time to start this rotation of the tires, if you are not in the habit of doing it. It is particularly important to reverse rear tires. After they have worn down somewhat, they may be shifted to the front.

In using tire chains as the spring rains come on, remember that a chain on only one rear wheel is of little value in preventing skidding because the other rear wheel is free to spin on slippery ground. This throws an additional burden on the differential.

Should your tires show signs of rut wear, due to being driven all winter in frozen ruts and car tracks, it is wise at this time to take them to a reliable repair man. Neglect of a tire so afflicted will soon cause it to become unserviceable.

POINTERS FOR NEW OWNERS OF MOTOR CARS.

Should Study Book of Rules.

If the new car owner has never driven a car, he should take sufficient lessons from a competent and capable driver, so that he can candle the car under any and all conditions. Then, before he takes the wheel for any driving on his own account, he should get a copy of the traffic rules and regulations and study these until they are thoroughly understood.

If the new owner is to care for the car himself, the next best thing to do is to learn about the gasoline devices, the oiling and the cooling systems and the general care of the battery. He should receive careful instructions for starting on cold mornings, otherwise he will discharge his battery and that particular car will be called "worthless junk" because it cannot be started.

He should learn to watch the oil gauge, the ammeter and especially the speedometer, as all amateurs drive faster than they realize unless they hold themselves in constant check. New owners should, furthermore, be instructed about the anti-freezing solution. The new owner generally wishes to keep his car looking nice for some time. Hence, it is necessary that he learn how properly to wash the car from the start. It is during the first few weeks, often, that the lustre of the car is ruined entirely through disregard of its appearance and operation.

GENIUS INVENTS NOVEL SPEEDSTER.

Car Odds and Ends Used in Construction.

An automotive genius, residing in Florida, has assembled a serviceable, though diminutive, automobile speedster from various odds and ends of parts from different makes of cars and motorcycles.

The engine, a four-cylinder, air-cooled type, originally constituted the power plant of a popular make of motor cycle. The sliding gear transmission is integral with the engine, as a bevel-gear rear axle was not available in the very narrow tread desired, 33 in., a straight dead axle and chain final drive was substituted. The jackshaft, carrying the front sprockets and brake, once served the same purpose on a light friction-drive car. The problem of a narrow-tread front axle was solved by cutting a section from the center of a standard-tread stock-axle and welding the resulting short halves together. This also supplied steering knuckles and spring saddles. The radiator is not entirely camouflage, as it contains an oil reservoir, a fuel tank of five gallons capacity is located in the cowl. Other specifications are: length over all, 9 feet; wheelbase, 72 ins.; speed, 55 miles per hour. The tiny car is a good advertisement for the auto dealer who built it.

Fifty million citizens are made healthier, wealthier, happier and better by the automobile.

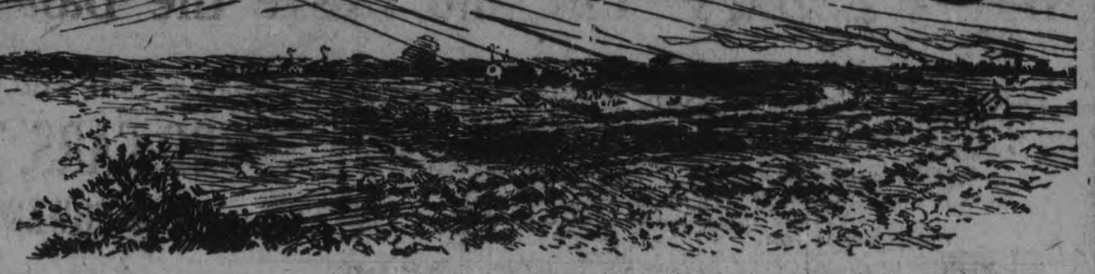
SERVING THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO



THE purpose of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is to assist the greatest possible number of Ontario people to realize, in the fullest possible measure, benefits from Ontario's splendid water power.

Into thousands of communities throughout the province, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is directing lines of electrical energy that turn the wheels of industry- - -illuminate the streets of cities and towns- - -draw town and country together, both socially and commercially.

To completely fulfill this purpose, it is necessary not only to develop and distribute electrical power, but also to secure a wider use of this power by encouraging the people of Ontario to more extensively use electrical equipment in their homes,

Hydro Power is owned and operated by the people, needed by the people and backed by the people. Every citizen of Ontario has a share in its progress.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

To encourage and develope a wider use of power in the home, thereby increasing the health, comfort and happiness of the people, the Commission is extending their service to include facilities for the Display Demonstration and Sale on reasonable terms of Household Appliances.

LAKEFIELD PERSONALS

LAKEFIELD, April 13.—Mr. J. W. Stuart, of Peterborough, was in the village on Monday.

Miss Jean Thomson, of Peterborough, was a week-end visitor in the village.

Mrs. and Miss Daubuz were in Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp returned on Monday from a visit to friends in Bowmanville.

Mr. Walter Chappell was in Peterborough on Monday.

Miss McKibbin was in Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. Percy Watson was a visitor to Peterborough on Monday.

Mrs. F. J. Tate and Mrs. E. R. Tate were in Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. F. X. Fortier was a visitor to Peterborough on Monday.

Rev. Frank Vipond motored to Peterborough on Monday afternoon.

Surprise Party.

A number of the lady members of the A.Y.P.A. gave Mr. and Mrs. Percy Watson a surprise party on Monday, and presented them with a handsome cut-glass vase on behalf of the members of the Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson, who were married last month, were both popular members of the A.Y.P.A.

The Housing Problem.

With the advance of spring, the householder begins his spring pastime of house-hunting, and this season the problem has been more difficult than ever before. Houses are in great demand, and there are more families than there are homes for them.

While the housing problem is acute, there stands on Albert Street, east of Regent Street, a storey and a half frame dwelling, capable of accommodating an average-sized family. This house is vacant, and has been for years, but owing to some legal technicality it is impossible to rent it.

If there is any way the residents could combine to make the situation easier for families who have to move it would be a benefit to the village, for if something is not done soon, families who are a valuable asset to the village will have to seek homes elsewhere.

LAKFEIELD NEWS

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

MILK SUPPLY FOR APSLEY FACTORY

ELECTION OF OFFICERS POSTPONED—APSLEY NEWS.

APSLEY, April 13.—The meeting to elect officers for the Cheese Factory was held in the Town Hall, on Wednesday, but ended without this important matter being settled, there being a feeling that the number of patrons and the amount of milk likely to be delivered should first be ascertained. Mr. James was asked to obtain this information and no doubt enough patrons will be secured to open the foctory on a profitable basis.

Music and Drama.

On Friday night a play entitled "Home Ties" (abridged) was given in the Orange Hall under the auspices of the Methodist Church. The performers acquitted themselves creditably considering the disadvantages they were under owing to the lack of stage room and setting, the cramped quarters being a great handicap to the successful presentation of a play. The audience, however, thoroughly enjoyed the performance as evidenced by the frequent hearty applause, the honours going to Mrs. W. Staples who as Mrs. Popham, the lady with "symptoms" both remembered and acted her part the best of all the characters.

The cast was as follows:—
Mr. Wynn—Will Earnshaw
Mr. Vincent—Tom Lean
Len Everett—Roy Brown.
Joe Tizzard —Arch Downing.
Miss Wynn—Mrs. W. Lean.
Mrs. Popham—Mrs. W Staples.
Alma Vesey—May Hales.
Ruth Wynn—Luiu Knox.
Lindy Jan—Charlotte Tucker.

The play was followed by a new and startling feature in Basket Socials, the ladies, or rather, their shadows being auctioned off instead of their baskets. Mr. Herb Tucker acted as auctioneer and procured good prices, the whole proceeds for the evening amounted to about $80. The evening entertainment wound up with a dance at Mr Roy Brown's new garage which lasted till 2 a.m.

Returned Home

Mr. Robert Scott, Reeve of Chandos, has returned from Toronto, accompanied by his bride, (nee Miss May Kilburn), who formerly resided at Chandos.

Open up Claim.

Mr. George Shaver has been spending a few days with friends, and is proceeding to Bancroft to open up a granite claim in that vicinity.

Has Returned

Mr. George Ellerton, who sold his farm at Chandos, about three months ago, and moved to near Norwood, has come back and with his wife and family will remain this summer on the homstead

Mr. Robert Ellerton and family are moving from the homestead to the farm formery occupied by Mr. Elley.

Held Reecption

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott gave a reception at their home on Loon Lake on Monday evening April 11th which was very largely attended. A very enjoyable time was spent in dancing.

A fur buyer was in the village last week and bought up the season's catch from the local trappers.

SWEET CLOVER EXCELLENT SILAGE

But There is a Right and a Wrong Way to Handle Crop.

In anticipation of reaping a fortune from seed, quite a number of farmers in Ontario have many acres under sweet clover. But as the seed outlet is apparently gone, the problem is what to do with the crop where it is not needed or cannot be used for pasture or hay Many have been wondering how it would do for the silo. Here is the answer from the collective experience of several farmers, says A. Hutchinson Agricultural Representative for Simcoe county.

Sweet clover makes excellent silage. This can be stated without any shadow of excuse or doubt, but there is a right way to handle this crop. The yield may be considered the equal of an average crop of corn.

Cut in Blossom Time.

Cut the clover when the first blossoms appear, if possible, with the binder, and put in the silo just as you would with corn. If there does not seem to be plenty of sap add water so that the cut clover may pack into a solid mass, entirely excluding the air. If this is not done much of your silage will spoil or lose its fresh appearance and palatability. In Simcoe county cutting should be done around June 15, but the time will vary with the locality.

The advantages of sweet clover for the silo are many.

(1) A very heavy crop is assured.

(2) It comes at a season which while busy, is not so much so as the ordinary silo-filling time.

(3) It divides the work.

(4) The land is actually benefitted rather than depleted, as in the case of corn, and so manure is required.

(5) A minimum of labor is necessary.

(6) The clover sod left is an excellent preparation for fall wheat, or in some sections, potatoes.

(7) Weeds will be largely smothered.

Food Value.

While no actual figures are available as to the exact value of sweet clover silage, from observation with milk cows it gives equal results with good corn silage and is easily twice as good as silage made from green oats (an actual test). In the cases observed the sweet clover has been fed late in the season, commencing about March 1, the top of the silo being filled with corn.

The only objection noted was in one silo, where about 40 tons of corn silage had been placed on top of the clover. It has packed very hard and was a little difficult to dig out.

From first-hand observation and actual practise, sweet clover as a silage crop is entirely successful. While it should not displace corn entirely, it can be used to supplement the corn crop, thereby saving labor and improving land Farmers having sweet clover and silos will be well advised to at least partially fil them with this valuable crop thus assuring themselves of plenty of feed for next winter should the corn be a failure. Where labor is difficult to secure substitute sweet clover for corn this season and give it a trial.

COST OF LIVING IS GOING DOWN.

Advancing Rents have Removed the Benefit of Cheaper Food.

OTTAWA, April 12. — The cost of living is going down slowly but steadily and the March figures will indicate a decline of five per cent. over February, according to the statisticians of the Labour Department. This decline refers wholly to foodstuffs though coal has slightly receded. Rents or either stationary or going up in many cities thus absorbing much of the benefits of cheaper foods. The department has no late figures on clothing.

Everywhere, Everyone Is Brightening Up the Home!

Our Third Floor Departments Lend Their Assistance with a Multitude of Goods

For Numerous Purposes

Bright thoughts are blooming in the minds of tasteful and ambitious housekeepers. They have determined that their homes shall blossom forth as never before.—in brightness, beauty and comfortableness.

We are prepared to play a big and useful part in this "Brightening Up" that is going on. We have laid in stores of paints, wall papers, rugs, linoleums, furniture, etc. It is all good to see, and best of all, the prices are not nearly so high as in former years.

Such Wall Paper Is Worth Coming to See

A particular handsome Paper for a living-room is a light grey, Vista pattern, showing trees with dense foliage and a lily pond in the distance. It is printed on a heavy quality stock. The rolls sell at 90c, and the width is 22 inches.

For a living-room or hall we can recommend a grass cloth effect in blue or brown. Their is a beautiful cut-out border and strapping to match. The rolls are twenty-two inches wide and the price 75c.

The daintiness of a bed-room is assured with a pattern like this on the walls: Satin stripes underprinted with blue birds and strawberry colored flowers on a white ground result in wonderfully bright and pleasing effect. The price is 45c a roll.

We are very fortunate to have a fine assortment of Tile Papers to sell at 45c and 50c a roll. The price is very little, if any, in advance of those of many years ago.

"Sani-Tile," a waterproof Paper for bath-rooms, is printed on cloth, and can be washed off without harmful results to it. The width is 45 inches and the price 75c yard.

Oak Fibre for wainscotings can be had in fine imitations of the natural grain of the wood. 8-yard rolls 75c.

Colored Scotch Madras

An attractive pattern of birds and flowers on a black ground is shown in green, brown and two shades of blue. There is really nothing that hangs so softly, with every fold in place, as Madras. This pattern and quality is superior to the ordinary. The width is 50 inches and the price $2.00 and $2.50 a yard.

Chintz and Shadow Cloths in the Better Patterns

People in search of material for upholstering, window drapes, slip covers, etc., will do well to inspect this assemblage of English Chintz and Linen Shadow Cloths. There is much that is unusual in color and pattern. All are fifty inches wide, and the prices range from $1.85 to $4.50.

Chintz in 30 and 36-inch widths sells anywhere from 45c to $1.25 yard. Just at present we can show an unusually wide assortment.

The Weather Never Interferes with Your House-Cleaning Plans when You Have A "Hoover!"

so far as the cleaning of your carpets, draperies and upholstered furniture is concerned. You can clean any of these articles indoors. You'll raise a tremendous dust, but it will all go into the "Hoover."

IT BEATS—AS IT SWEEPS—AS IT CLEANS

No other machine performs these three operations, no other machine performs any one of them so thoroughly. We will gladly demonstrate the three processes in your home any time you desire.

Floor Wax, 90c lb.

"Johnson's" or "Old English" Floor Wax. Either cannot be surpassed for polishing hardwood floors. They give prominence and richness to the grain and color of the wood.

O-Cedar Mops, $2

These Mops can be used in any position for sweeping, dusting all varnished woodwork, like wainscoting, and any places where dust accumulates, under radiators, etc.

O-Cedar Polish, 30c and 60c bottle

Restores the varnish to its original brilliancy, bringing out the grain of the wood so as to give it that beautiful effect so much desired.

Reflex Furniture Polish, 25c and 50c Bottle

It is unexcelled for cleaning and polishing furniture and highly finished surfaces. It leaves a hard finish absolutely free from oil or grease. Besides being useful for furniture, it is suitable for carriages, automobiles and launches, because it is waterproof.

Tarbox Mops, 65c, 85c, $1.25, $2 and $2.25

This is an excellent Mop for dry dusting. It contains no oil, but is chemically treated so as to absorb and pick up the dust and dirt. To clean it you beat it gently and all the dust is removed. This does away with the distasteful task of washing it out.

Bissels Carpet Sweepers, $6 and $7.75

The same reliable Bissels that has been supreme for so long. Many people who own an electric vacuum cleaner also own a Carpet Sweeper and find it useful to pick up crumbs after meal time and other surface dirt when their rugs do not require a thorough cleaning.

$12.50 Keystone Vacuum Sweepers, $8.50

These Sweepers make use of a vacuum and do very thorough work. They are built in the same style as carpet sweepers and operate the same way, but the mechanism is different.

"Silva Puts" Is a Silver Polish, 30c jar

It is a Polish specially prepared for solid and plated silver or gold and fine glassware. It gives the article a wonderful finish that will last for a considerable period.

ADDRESS ON KING SOLOMON'S TEMPLE AT CAMPBELLFORD

REV C. E. CLARKE TALKS TO THE HIGH SCHOOL LITERARY SOCIETY ON INTEREST-HOLDING SUBJECT—THREE STAGES OF WORSHIP.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13.—A meeting of the High School Literary Society was held in the Assembly Room at the High School on Monday afternoon, when Rev. C. E. Clarke gave a very interesting address on "King Solomon's Temple" He had a large plan of the temple which he used to illustrate his points throughout his speech. He said the name 'temple' originated from the old Latin word "templum" the name applied to an open space marked off by the augurers for the purpose of observing the flight of birds and other ceremonies. The flight of the birds was very important to the ancients because by watching them they determined what was about to happen and the birds also played an important part in their religious life. In the early Hebrew worship there were three stages; first, the worship of trees, medicinal springs, etc., which worship was entirely in the open; second, the worship of stone pillars and sacreds posts which were generally the stumps of sacred trees These posts in time came to be beautifully carved and to protect them shelters were built.

The third stage was when people commenced to carve images and build arks, where in the gods dwelt, and to worship them. As these works were often very beautiful they built temples over them for protection. The people were by this time becoming more and more wealthy, and as they considered it an insult to their various gods to live insult to their various gods to live in homes more beautiful than the home of the gods, they built beautiful temples.

Terrible Wars.

But the time of the Judges were troubled with terrible wars so that few temples were built, conditions were not settled again and until Saul's time or David's There were rude temples built at Shiloh and Nob, but the wealth and peace of Solomon's time led to more ornate building. The number employed at the building of Solomon's Temple was 150,000 slaves, 30,000 Israelites and 3,300 overseers, in all a total of 183,00 men, and they worked seven and one half years at the task. We would naturaly expect something immense, but we are astounded at the actual measurements of the completed temple. There were two rooms, if which the larger was sixty feet long, thirty feet wide and forty-five feet high, while the smaller was thirty foot square. Compare this building with a modern building and it will look very small. The outside overall length was 141 feet, including the porch and chambers. This whole building might find room inside of Saint Paul's Cathedral London, several times over.

The Reasons.

Why was the building so small when it cost so much labour. There are many reasons. Consider the distance the materials were brought The timber was transported one hundred miles by water and fifty miles by land. The methods of transportation in those days were not such as we enjoy to-day, and hence it took a long time to bring the timber to Jerusalem. The forced labour was cheap but inefficient, the tools were poor, and hence it took a long time because every piece of material had to be perfect before being used. The temple faced the sacred rock and in order to obtain room excavations had to be made.

It is hard to find the exact dimensions of the Temple because the texts have been corrupted and changed .There are many conflicting measurements, but those given above are the most apt to be correct as determined by late excavations and unearthed coins, etc. The plans of the temple came from Syria and as Syria was the meeting place of Egyptian and Babylonian and Mycenean ideas the work resembled them all.

Series of Courts.

There was a series of courts, each higher than the other and separated from each other by walls of stone and cedar. The outer court was for the people, that is the worshipper, and the inner one for the priests. One of the main differences between the temples and the churches of today is that the worshippers never entered the temple. They stood in the open always, no matter whether it rained, snowed or was unbearably hot. They did not enter because they looked upon the temple as the house of their god, and hence they worshipped toward it and not under its roof.

The outside court was for the worshippers and the second for the priests; both were in the open. In the open was the altar of burnt offering, 15 feet high and 30 feet square on top. It was approached by an inclined plane, because the priests could not climb steps. The main worship at this altar consisted in the complete or partial destruction of animals as a sacrifice. In the case of burnt offerings, only a part was burned and the remainder of the carcass used as food. Hence it may be easily seen that the priest was necessarily a competent butcher. When Solomon dedicated the temple 22,000 oxen and 120,000 sheep were offered in sacrifice. It will be readily seen that it would be difficult to keep the court sanitary under these conditions, and to do so a large permanent laver was built near by, which was seven and a half feet high and contained 16,000 gallons, besides two permanent layers, which contained 300 gallons each.

At the entrance to the temple proper were two huge pillars eighteen cubits high. These were originally worshipped, but soon came to be symbolical of a temple or house of God, as our steeples, etc., of today.

Altar Lamps.

The dimentions of the porch-way are confused, but it was probably about ninety feet high and had no door, hence the sunlight poured in. The porch-way was, therefore, absolutely light, but the large room was lit only by latticed windows high up in the wall, while the holy of holies was absolutely dark. The Hehal, or large room, was only open to the priests, and was filled with altar lamps, incense and tables of altar bread. The inner rooms, or Debir, was entered through a pendagonal (five sided) door and was absolutely dark. The walls were of hammered gold, and the main objects in the room were the Cherebum, in an attitude of adoration, and the Ark. This room was entered only once a year by the High Priest, and when he did so you may easily imagine the effect the shadowy figures would have upon him in the small room lighted only by his censer.

All around the temple was a series of chambers where the priests stored the supplies, etc. There were three stories, which were connected by a winding stair at the south. There were 30 of these chambers and all were in charge of the priests.

Mr. Clarke here closed his address with a few passing remarks, after which Miss Helen Cairns moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Clarke and Helen Carnahan seconded her motion.

THE CITY MANAGER

Fortunately, the city manager plan has a background of real experience, in the course of which cities have learned a number of important lessons about applying the idea of simplified government. In the light of advances which have been made in the past five years, the first steps toward simplicity now seem crude and inadequate. But they had to be taken.

The beginnings were made quite by accident at Galveston, in 1901. The city had been devastated by a tidal wave. The old cumbersome government with its numerous ward councilmen and sundry ingenious devices to prevent action, was simply unequal to the situation.

Immediate action being imperative, the governor appointed a commission of five men to get busy and straighten out the town.

The people of Galveston were so pleased with the result that they let the commission be made permanent, but elective.

In the Galveston commission, each member of the commission was constituted a committee of one in charge of a group of functions such as finance or public works. The whole group constituted a board of directors.

And that was all there was to it! No "checks and balances." The real check which was set up under this new system arose out of the publicity which attached to every elective officer, in the limelight, subject to constant criticism.

There were so few to be chosen at one time it was perfectly easy for the voters to know exactly what they were doing.

Galveston thrived. Other Texas cities copies the system. In the course of about five years, the Greater Des Moines Committee, looking about for a new deal in municipal government, discovered the Galveston plan and adopted it, adding the initiative, referendum and recall and non-partisan elections. Other Iowa cities followed.

In another six years, nearly four hundred cities from coast to coast had come under the Galveston-Des Moines plan.

This old commission-government movement, nation-wide in scope, smashed a lot of pet political illusions. It became known that the safest form of government was the one that was most easily and quickly held accountable to public sentiment.

There was only one little group of men for the citizens to watch. And the sense of being watched meant much to the man in the office, coupled with the fact that he could not so easily pass the buck to some one else.

This principle, which has been popularized under the name of the short ballot, is the lasting contribution of the commission-government movement to political practice in this country. The commission plan, however, had its defects, serious ones.

SAID ITALY WILL REMAIN SOLVENT.

But Wealth Is Terribly Undermined.

ROME, April 13 (Associated Press).—There is no longer any doubt that Italy will remain solvent, even though her wealth has been terribly undermined by the expenses of the war, says the Marquis de Johannes, editor of the Economista, the most important financial weekly here. The editor pointed out that if the Italian Government could avoid adding to the paper currency, this would create confidence which would improve the rates, and that if the next two or three seasons were favourable, the Italian treasury might hope for an early return of annual surpluses.

The necessity for further emissions of paper money has been eliminated by the new law authorising an increase in the price of bread. This also has reduced the annual deficit in the state budget to less than 4,000,000,000 of lire instead of the 14,000,000,000 fo last year.

Many new taxes also will be applied this year, and these are expected to provide a continued increase in the national receipts, since the Italian taxpayer seems inexhaustible in his contributions to the restoration of his country's finances.

Other numerous signs of economic revival in Italy are pointed out by Italian economists. These include a decrease in the number and extent of strikes, increased railway earnings, and an increase in the amount of capital invested in hydro-electric plants.

Imports of manufactured articles from abroad are slowly decreasing, while Italian exports, chiefly to Mediterranean countries and South America are increasing.

The national savings now exceed 17,000,000,000 of lire, as compared to about 7,000,000,000 before the war.

Observers say that even the most excitable and ignorant of the Italian people have finally come to realise the impossibility of instituting the Soviet system in Italy. The recent deliberations of the Italian Socilist Party and of the General Confederation of Labour decided in favour of evolutionary action and excluded the possibility of a revolution by violence.

MILLIONS OF PROTESTANTS WILL CELEBRATE MONDAY, APRIL 18

FOUR HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY OF MARTIN LUTHER'S TRIAL BEFORE THE DIET OF WORMS —CHANGED THE HISTORY OF WORLD.

NEW YORK, April 13.— (Associated Press.)—Four hundred years ago, on April 18, 1521, Martin Luther, the German monk and religious reformer, faced the German Diet at Worms (a German village) and, refusing to recant his principles of religious freedom, brought about a mighty intellectual and religious revolution.

Throughout the world, millions of Protestants will celebrate on April 18, the 400th anniverasry of Luther's trial before that Diet. For that reason, the proceedings at Worms, are of timely interest to Protestants of the United Staes.

The fact that Luther's stand brought about a tremendous change in the history of the world is emphasized by Professor J. H. C. Fritz, Dean of Concordia Seminary, of St. Louis, in a narrative of Luther's actions and his trial. Dean Fritz writes:

The Year 1521.

"The eighteenth day of April in the year 1521 marks the end of the Middle Ages and the beginning of the Modern Era in the history of the world. On that day the emancipation of man from a long period of spiritual, intellectual, and political serfdom took place, and there was given to the world that liberty of conscience, that freedom of thought, and that modern civilization which we now enjoy, we trust, shall remain in our inheritance until the end of days.

A Crucial Test.

"On the eighteenth day of April, 1521, Luther was on trial before the Diet at Worms; the man and his work were put to crucial test. Shall the Bible be an open book for all, or must man submit to that authority of the church as it has been exercised by popes and councils; shall the right of private judgment be granted or denied; shall the yoke laid upon the intellect by the medieval system remain and become more burdensome, or shall the intellect be freed and enter upon an era of new development; shall nations and peoples be tyrannized by religious and civil rulers; or shall the right of civil and religious liberty be granted?

"These were the great issues which Luther's answer to the question, whether or not he would recant what he had spoken and written, should decide.

"All historians agree that Luther's firm stand at Worms in 1521 brought about a mighty revolution and a tremendous change in the history of the world.

"In 1520, the year prior to the Diet at Worms, Luther had written three epoch-making works: 'To the Christian Nobility of the German Nation,' 'The Babylonian Captivity of the Church,' and 'On Christian Liberty.' In these writings Luther gave a clear outline of his theology.

"In the meantime Eck and Alexander, the papal nuncios, brought the bull of excommunication to Germany. Luther burned it publicly on December 10. Leo X urged Charles V (German Emperor(to put Luther under the ban of the empire. Charles was willing to comply, but the German princes insisted that Luther must not be condemned unheard. Accordingly, Luther was summoned to appear before the Diet and answer for himself.

Friends Uneasy.

"Luther's friends were uneasy; they feared for his very life; they reminded him of the fate of Huss; they had little confidence in the Emeror's safe-conduct. To say that Luther was undisturbed, would almost mean to deny that he was human, but his fear was overcome by trust in Him whose battle he was convinced that he was fighting. 'I will go,' he said, 'thought there be as many devils in Worms as there are tiles on the roofs of the houses.'

"The trial had been set for April 17. At six o'clock in the evening Luther was called before the Diet. What was the poor monk to be tried for? What had he done? He had written 95 theses against the abuse of indulgences; he had taught that in the church the Bible is the only authority; he had insisted upon faith in Jesus Christ and a life of good works; he had attacked the doctrines of the papacy. He was not to be tried, he was simply to be called upon to say one word, 'Revoco,' that is, I recant.

"On the following day, Luther appeared again before the Diet and gave his answer.

Luther's Answer.

"Wilt thou defend all the books acknowledged to be thine' (Luther had acknowledged the books to be his on the day before) 'or at least recant in part'? That was the questioin which was put to Luther in German and Latin.

"Luther replied at some length. He said that he was willing to recant and cast his books into the fire, if he could be convinced by the Scriptures that he had taught error. His reply displeased Eck. He asked Luther to say wrether he would say 'Revoco' or not. Luther then replied in these words.

"Since your Imperial Majesty, Electoral and Princely Graces demand a simple, artless, true answer, I will give one which shall have neither horns nor teeth. Unless I be overcome and convinced by proofs of the Holy Scriptures or by manifestly clear grounds and reasons—for I believe neither the Pope nor the councils alone, because it is an open and known fact that they have often erred and opposed each other—and I am convinced by those passages adduced and introduced by me, and my conscience is bound in God's Word, I can or will recant nothing, since it is neither safe nor advisable to do aught against conscience. God held me! Amen!

A Firm Stand.

"Luther maintained his firm stand. He said, 'Rather will I lose life and limb than surrender God's true and clear word.'

"On his homeward journey friends 'took him captive' and, for safety's sake, removed him to the Castle Wartburg. It was there that Luther, in December 1521, began his translations of the Bible into that German which became the German in literature and speech and which is still spoken and written to-day.

Under the Ban.

"Luther was put under the ban of the empire and remained under the condemnation the rest of his life. He nevertheless lived on and continued his work until his peaceful death in February, 1546.

"State and Church alike are reaping the blessings of Luther's firm stand at Worms in 1521. Humanly speaking, the Liberty Bell, with its inscription, 'Proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof,' would never have rung out the signing of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress, July 4, 1776, and our Charter of Liberty, the Constitution of the United States, would never have been written, if Luther at Worms in 1521 had spoken that one word, 'Revoco.'

"The religious and civil liberty, which we Americans prize very highly, is the result of that independence which Luther maintained at Worms as the birthright of man."

"IS WITHOUT AN EQUAL," SHE SAYS

BOTH HERSELF AND DAUGHTER THINK TANLAC IS GRAND, DECLARES HAMILTON WOMAN.

"Tanlac is certainly the best medicine I ever saw or heard of, for it has done my daughter and myself both a world of good," was the statement made by Mrs. Alice Young of 158 Catherine street south, Hamilton, Ont.

"Before I began taking it I had suffered from stomach trouble until I was in such a weak and run-down condition I scarcely had any strength at all. I had no appetite, and what little I did eat caused awful pains and gas, which pressed up around my heart and almost cut off my breath. What little sleep I got was in cat-naps, and mornings I got up feeling as bad as if I hadn't been as leep at all and was often so weak and dizzy I just had to sit down for a time. I had awful headaches and the back of my neck hurt terribly at times.

"But the first bottle of Tanlac I took got me well started on the road to recovery, and now my appetite is simply fine and everything I eat agrees with me perfectly. I sleep like a child nights and mornings I feel refreshed and ready for my housework. In fact, I feel fine, and my daughter and I both think Tanlac is just grand."

FIRE ESCAPES FOR CHILDREN'S SHELTER

REGULAR MEETING OF THE SOCIETY HELD YESTERDAY.

A meeting of the Children's Aid Society took place yesterday afternon, with the following members present: Rev. C. J. Phelan, Dr. D. C. King, Messrs. C. S. Cummer, H. B. Cowan, G. W. Powell, R. H. Parsons, G. H. Popham, J. Edgar, E. A. Peck, F. H. Dobbin, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Fanning, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Kimberley and Mrs. Welsh.

The minutes of the previous meeting weer read and reports received from the Purchasing committee, the Agent and the Matron.

A communication was read from the superintendent in Toronto, Mr. Kelso, regarding the proper method dealing with delinquent boys, and the advantages of other methods as compared with summarily dismissing them to a reform school.

A committee with Dr. King as chairman, and Messrs. F. H. Dobbin, F. E. Malott, R. H. Parsons, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Welsh as members, was appointed to wait on the City Trust, with regard to fire escapes and sundry other matters requiring attention at the Shelter.

The reports showed the number in the Shelter for March as 21, with 5 children admitted, and 6 who were out. The Agent's report gave application for children 6; wards placed out 5; and wards returned to the Shelter 4.

The report of the Purchasing committee was as follows:

ONLY COPPER CAMP.

ANYOX, April 13 (Canadian Press).—It is claimed here that Anyox is the only copper camp on the entire western hemisphere operating at anything like full capacity. More than eleven hundred men are employed. Wages have been decreased in accordance with a sliding scale agreement. Fluctuation of copper prices determine the rise and fall of wages.

AN APOLOGY

Lt. Col. William Hendrie of Hamilton, has made an apology through the press for introducing Hon. Charles A. Windle in Hamilton, recently. Of Hon. Windle's alleged published attacks upon England he says "this cannot be overlooked and those behind the Citizens' Liberty League would sooner go down to defeat than support a cause by such methods.

"I therefore offer an apology to our citizens for an error of judgment in taking Mr. Windle on his Scottish tour reputation and introducing him to our people. At the same time, I extend a like apology to those who sat on the platform with me at the meeting, their action no doubt being influenced by the sponsorship that was given by myself, as an officer of the Citizens' Liberty League."

OUCH! RUB BACKACHE, STIFFNESS, LUMBAGO

RUB PAIN FROM BACK WITH SMALL TRIAL BOTTLE OF OLD "ST. JACOBS OIL."

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains and sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica, or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment that you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on the back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and does not burn the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs' Oil" from any drugstore, and after using it just once you will forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints, and has been recommended for 60 years.

BUBONIC PLAGUE CREEPING SOUTH.

Threatens China's Main Grain Supply.

NEW YORK, April 13. — Bubonic plague, which some months ago appeared in Northern Manchuria, has crept southward until it now threatens the main grain supply of China, according to a letter received by G. D. Gold, of the Young Men's Christian Association, from Harbin, Manchuria, where Mr. Gold was stationed during the latter part of the war. Unless the plague can be checked, Mr. Gold asserts, the granary relied upon for the relief of milions of famine victims in North China, will be cut off.

"The situation is rendered more serious," said Mr. Gold, to-day, "by the fact that Manchuria is literally crowded with foreign exiles. There are not fewer than 600,000 Russians, who fled before the Bolshevik executioners, 250,000 Koreans, and thousands of Chinese who formerly lived in Siberia, but who have been driven into Manchuria by the Red armies.

"Concerted efforts are being made in cities and towns along the Chinese Eastern Railway to combat the plague, hospitals being established, and the victims isolated. Efforts also are under way to fight the source of the disease—the rats that carry the germ. Thousands of persons already have died, and been given hasty burial. Strict regulations have been put into effect to prevent affected persons getting beyond Harbin, and the officials at Mukden, the next big centre to the South, are on the watch for the first appearance of the plague.

"If the grain supply of Manchuria is cut off, the famine victims in Shangtung, Chihli, Honan, Shensi and Shansi will be doomed. Manchuria representatives of the American Red Cross, the Chinese Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A., have informed the Peking authorities of the danger and urged that grain buying and shipments be hastened.

How Auto's Demand For Rubber Was Met By Astute Britisher

SECURED FIRST BATCH OF SEEDS WHICH LAID FOUNDATION FOE EASTERN INDUSTRY—TOUGH PROBLEM SOLVED—TREES WERR TRANSPLANTED.

Through one of those mysterious coincidences so nicely timed that they are regarded as many as a distinct act of Providence, there were set in motion in the early seventies two separate activities which were to coalesce more than a generation later and make possible the great automobile industry and the attendant tremendous expansion of the rubber and petroleum industries.

One of these activities was the effort of Selden to produce an automobile engine. As if the unseen forces that guide human affairs were fully cognizant that within a brief period this effort of Selden's was to blossom fully in the great automobile industry of today, another mr in another quarter of the globe, and with no thought of the automobile in mind, took at abrn tMe same time, the steps which have made it possible to furnish for that industry the large supplies of rubber on which automobiles are so vitally dependent.

Until ten years ago, rubber meant rubber from Brazil. There were some other sources of supply of inferior grades, but practically all the prime rubber came from Brazil. Today Brazil's supremacy is gone. In less than a decade, the Far East has jumped to the front, and is now producing nine-etuths of the rubber of the world.

Quite a Romance.

The history of the passing of the glory of Brazil in this particular, has a touch of romance in it. In the sixties an Englishman named H. A. Wickman spent much time in Brazil in the rubber field. He conceived the idea that the rubber trees which grow wild in Brazil could be cultivated and grown on plantations. But he was ahead of his time, and found little encouragement.

Wickham finally enlisted the interests of Sir Joseph Hooker, of Kew Gardens, London, who had been considering the possibility of introducing the trees to India. Hooker in turn interested the Government of India in the project, with the result that Wickham was given a commission by the Indian Government for the introduction of the Brazilian tree into India

A Problem.

How to fulfill the commission was the problem. Hooker had already tried to effect it, but without result in spite of the resources of Kew. Wickham was in Brazil when the solution of the problem suddenly presented itself. A large British steamer which had sailed up the Amazon on her first trip with a cargo of goods to be sold, it being the intention to load her from the proceeds with rubber for her return trip, found herself without funds and without a cargo, when the super-cargoes, after disposing of the goods she had brought, decamped with the money. Wickham promptly chartered her in the name of the Indian Government, and placed aboard her at a port a third of the way up the river, several thousands of the seeds of the Hevea Braziliensis, the rubber tree, carefully packed.

"For my part," says Wickham in his memories, "as the fine ship sped on her way with my previous Hevea, so far aboard, slung up fore and aft in their crates, I became more and more exercised and concerned with a new anxiety.

Conceal Purpose.

"We were bound to call in at the city of Para as the port of entry, in order to obtain clearance papers for the ship before we could go to sea. It was perfectly certain in my mind that if the authorities guessed the purpose of what I had on board, we should be detained on a plea for instructions from the central government at Rio, if not indicted altogether, I had heard of the difficulties encountered in the Clements Markham introduction of quinine trees into India in getting them out from the montana of Peru. Any such delay would have rendered my precious freight quite valueless and useless.

"But again fortune favored. I had a 'friend at court' in the person of Consul Green. He quite entered into the spirit of the thing, went himself with me on a call to the proper officials, and backed me up as I presented His Excellency 'my difficulty and anxiety being in charge of, and having on board a ship anchored out in the stream,' exceedingly delicate botanical specimens especially designated for delivery to Her Britannic Majesty's Own Royal Garden of Kew.' "

Kept Up Steam.

Even while doing myself the honor of thus calling on His Excellency, I had given orders to the captain of the ship to keep up steam, having ventured to trust His Excellency would see his way clear to furnishing me with immediate dispatch. An interview most polite, full of mutual compliments in the best Portuguese manner, enabled us to get under way as soon as the captain had got the dinghey hauled aboard.

"I got the captain to put me ashore at Havre, and then posted over to Kew and saw Sir Joseph Hooker, so as to dispatch a night goods-train to meet the ship on arrival at the Liverpool docks."

Precious Seeds.

Sir William Thiselton-Dyer speaks interestingly of the next step.

"I can assure you that on that 14th of June, 1876, when Mr. Wickham arrived at Kew in a handsome cab with his precious box of seeds not even the wildest imagination could have contemplated its result. I saw Mr. Wickham's seeds planted. We knew it was touch and go, because it was likely the seeds would not germinate. I remember well going into the propagating house on the third day they were planted, and seeing that by good luck the seed was germinating. So rapidly did the plants grow—several thousand of them—that we had to have special cases made. On August 12, thirty-eight cases went out to Ceylon on a P. and O. steamer, in charge of a gardener. The whole expense of initiation and the whole burden of finance from the first to last was borne by the Indian Office."

The seedlings were sent to Ceylon because it was decided that the climate of the island was better suited than that of India for the rearing of the precious trees. The gardens at Heneratgoda, sixteen miles from Colombo, were opened as their permanent resting place.

First Tree in 1881.

The first tree flowered at Heneratgoda in 1881, and in that year the first experiments in tapping began. The plantation was thinned out in 1882, and in 1883 260 seedling plants were raised, most of which were distributed in Ceylon. In 1884 there were over 1,000 trees at Heneratgoda, but it was found necessary to thin the plantation again in 1885, and we read of 457 fine trees existing in 1887. In 1893 about 90,000 seeds were distributed to planters in Ceylon, and similar numbers were disposed of in the years immediately succeeding, the seeds being eagerly taken up at a price of 10 rupees—about $3.20—a thousand.

From the few plants thus cared for in their youth, many of which have now grown to be monster trees, has sprung the whole of the Ceylon industry, as well as a great part of that existing further east.

Twenty-two Reared.

In 1877 twenty-two trees reared in Ceylon, were sent to Singapore in Malaya. Some were planted in the Singapore Gardens, and the rest taken to Perak. Some of these original trees are still standing, and one of them is believed to be the biggest tree in girth yet recorded among the plantations. The trees fruited in Singapore first in 1881, and the seed was sent to Borneo and elsewhere. In 1891 samples of Malay rubber were sent to London and pronounced good, and in 1899 some sheets were sold in London.

A Few Pioneers.

It was very difficult at first to induce planters in Malaya to look with favor on cultivation. Trees were planted wherever possible. At length the sudden rise in the price of rubber, mainly due to the development of the automobile industry, forced the idea of cultivation on the attention of the planters and the investigating public, especially that of Great Britain. A few pioneers began to cultivate their trees, and in a few years there arose a boom in cultivation such as has never occurred in any other industry.

The plantation product first attracted serious attention in the manufacturing world about 1898, but it was not until 1905 and the two following years that the rush into rubber took place, which forms the most striking episode of this story.

Some Figures.

To show how lightly the plantation product was regarded by rubber manufacturers, it is only necessary to state that it took from 1900 to 1904 for the annual production of plantation rubber to grow from four tons to forty-three tons. In 1907 the output reached 1,000 tons; in 1911, 14,500 tons; in 1915, 107,800 tons, and in 1919, 285,225 tons. In comparison, the Brazilian output grew from 27,136 tons in 1900 until it reached its maximum of 42,410 tons in 1912, since which time the annual output has averaged about 35,000 tons.

CONVENTION ON GOOD ROADS IN MAY 10, 11, 12.

HALIFAX.—The eighth annual Canadian Good Roads Convention will be held at the Technical College here on May 10, 11 and 12 next. The Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. McCallum Grant, has accepted the invitation to reopen this event.

He will be supported by the Hon. W. Pugsley, P. C. Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick, Premier C. H. Murray and most of the Nova Scotia Cabinet, as well as by President R. H. Murray of the Nova Scotia Good Roads Association, President F. A. Gillis of the Nova Scotia Motor League, President T. J. Mayony of the Ontario Good Roads Association, President S. R. Henderson of the Manitoba Good Roads Association, and President Michael J. Faherty of the American Road Builders Association, Chicago, and many other prominent men interested in the good road movement. President E. M. Desaulniers, M.L.A., of Chambly, will preside over the first session, and strong reception and entertainment committees have been formed in Halifax to ensure a record convention for the delegates who will come from all over the Dominion. An inter-provincial conference of highway officials will be among the special features of the convention.

GOLDEN RULE OF COURTESY IN MOTORING

INCREASING NUMBER OF AUTOMOBILES CALLS FOR EXERCISE OF GOOD MANNERS. USE OF THE HORN.

As the number of automobiles increases, so does the opportunity for good manners in motoring.

After all, the streets and highways belong to everybody and no one who is at all considerate of others' rights will forget this.

Most lapses from the golden rule of courtesy are due to thoughtlessness—but thoughtlessness and automobile driving are a bad combination.

The man whose car waits at an unpoliced intersection for a chance to cut across the traffic, wonders why none of the scores of cars will hesitate long enough to make a gap for him, but this same man, were he in the stream of traffic, probably would not stop for another.

Those who expect courtesy should themselves be courteous. Every day every motorist has at least one occasion upon which he could courteously slow down and allow a fellow motorist to turn his car or could steer to the right or left a little to make it easier for the other man to turn into the main highway from an intersection.

In almost every city there are some streets so frequented during the morning and evening rush hours that the people who live on these streets and own cars can hardly get into or out of their own driveways—because the passing motorist is so supremely indifferent.

The courteous motorist will not weave in and out of traffic on narrow roads and force other motorists to give ground to avoid collision or slip in between two cars so as to compel the man behind to use his brakes for safety.

It isn't courteous to take the corners swiftly and swing wide so that approaching drivers, especially women, are forced to slow down in alarm.

Where cars are parked and space is limited, the considerate motorist will give a thought to those who will come after him and will not park carelessly so as to waste space.

A special chapter might be written on the courtesy of the horn. The horn is a safety signal—not a medium for the expression of impatience when traffic is delayed by a stalled motor a few cars ahead. The horn is not a door-bell to summon friends whom one is picking up to go out to dinner or for a drive. In every block there are sensitive, nervous and sick people who have a right to more consideration than is shown by repeated full-strength, prolonged sounding of the horn.

The merit of the modern automobile horn is its carrying power and distinct tone. A very gentle touch on the horn button will warn pedestrians quite as effectively as a blast that paralyzes them with fright. Pedestrians have rights, too, the right to cross at the intersections without waiting five or 10 minutes, the right to be warned courteously, if warning is needed at all.

Some people contend that automobile horns should be prohibited and the burden of caution placed on the motorist. This is an extreme view—but the reasons that lead to it are plain enough, the abuse of the horn.

PORT HOPE:—At the time of the flood it was stated that the road near the old elecric ligt dam had been wased away to such an extent that a house could be buried in the opening. Mr. F. H. Brown, chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, is of the opinion that three houses could have been buried without the slightest trouble. Te corporation men have been working industriously, and up to the present have used four hundred wagon loads of large boulders and more than two hundred loads of sand and gravel in repairing this damage.

Work of Ontario Motor League

(By W. F. Gofarth, President Ontario Motor League.)

The useful and necessary character of the work being carried on by the Ontario Motor League and its numerous affiliated clubs is evidenced by the growing support which the organization is receiving from the motorists of the Province. A year ago the total membership of the League was 6,607; today the total number of members in good standing is over 13,000, with additions being made more rapidly than in any previous year.

The motor car every day is becoming more and more an integral part jof the business and social life of the Province. It is not overstating the facts to say that the automobile is gradually effecting a revolution both in city and country life, making possible a new mode of living. The number of cars in use in Ontario is steadily increasing, this increase being most noticeable recently in the country districts. The need for organized effort, therefore, to maintain the present enthusiasm for the improvement of the roads of the Province; to provide road signs and touring information for motorists, and to serve the interests of automobile owners in various other necessary ways, becomes more apparent than ever before.

The number of passenger cars registered in Ontario last year was 155,861, and the number of motor trucks or commercial vehicles,—16,204, a total of 172,065 motor vehicles, (exclusive of motor cycles, tractors and aeroplanes) representing an investment of approximately $110,000,000.00 in passenger cars and $15,000,000.00 in trucks, or a total investment of $125,000,000.00 It is the aim of the Ontario Motor League to secure the largest possible return on this investment for the car owners in dividends of service and pleasure. The work of the League in securing improvement of roads, fair motor vehicle laws and regulations, reciprocity in licenses with the United States, in gathering and distributing touring information and erecting road signs, has undoubtedly been of great benefit to every car owner in the Province.

Every motorist profits by the work of the League, but there are many tangible advantages of membership in which non-members do not share. Free legal advice is one of the special inducements to membership which the League offers. Every member receives monthly, this, Canada's greatest automotive magazine. A handsome badge is provided for the member's car without extra charge.

Automobile Clubs have headquarters in practically every city and large town in the United States and Canada. By By reciprocal arrangements, membership in any club is recognized in all others. A member of the Ontario Motor League therefore might tour anywhere in the North America and enjoy the privileges of club membership on presentation of his O.M.L. card. Motorists who may not make a great deal of use of their club facilities at home, find such services of the greatest value when on a tour. The Touring Bureau of the League has listed many hotels and garages in the United States which have agreed to accept Canadian money without discount from touring members on presentation of the O.M.L. membership card. At prevailing rates of exchange, this service on a single trip will leave members in pocket many times the amount of the annual membership fee.

Automobile licenses are issued direct to members at the O.M.L. office, the affidavits required being taken free of charge.

A Chauffeurs' Employment Bureau is maintained to provide members with capable and reliable drivers.

A Motor Truck Section has been established to foster the development of road transport and protect the interests of owners and users of commercial motor vehicles.

Complaints of reckless driving are investigated and letters written to the owners of cars concerned.

Assistance is given members in recovering stolen cars.

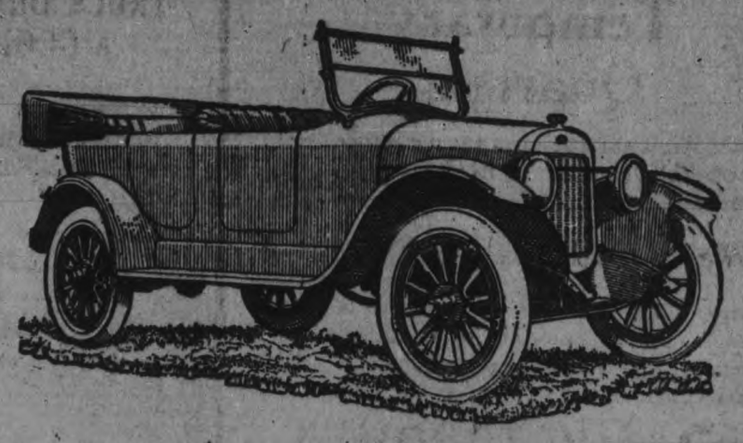
Members are encouraged to seek advice and information from the League on any subject relating to the use of motor vehicles.

Since its organization, the Ontario Motor League has never had before it such possibilities of usefulness as are opening up today. The League has kept pace with the growth of motoring in Ontario and if it is properly to fulfil its work, must continue to do so. The co-operation of its members is required in order to effect satisfactory results. The organization, as its name implies, is a league of individual automobile owners, and upon the goodwill and assistance of these members, future development largely depends. In the words of John Stuart Mill:

"Almost all the advantages the average man possesses arise from his power of acting in combination with his fellows, and obtaining through the united efforts of numbers, what he cannot obtain through the detached efforts of individuals."

This will be the League's motto for the year. Every member who appreciates the benefits of the League's work to motorists at large, should see to it that none of his motoring friends are standing aside and letting the others, who are members of the League, do the work of which all share the benefit.

For the first time six-wheeled motor omnibuses have recently been placed on the highways of Paris for passenger traffic.



Two Ideal Motor Cars You Can't Forget--

MAXWELL
— AND —
CHALMERS

At the Motor Show
APRIL 14th, 15th, 16th

For "MOTOR WEEK" you are offered a Specially Fine Display of the 1921 Models: The MAXWELL and the CHALMERS Motor Cars.

Prospective buyers can be referred to many pleased and satisfied owners in and around Peterborough "who know." Avail yourself of their knowledge and experience in making your Motor Car purchase.

THE MAXWELL
Has Won Its Following Through Its Quality

The metals used in the Maxwell Chassis compare favourably, pound for pound, with those in the best Cars that the world has produced, according to metallurgists.

The fundamental purpose of the Maxwell is to carry the same passenger load over the same roads and at the same speeds as larger and more expensive Cars.

But it must perform this mission in an extremely economical way.

Therefore the Maxwell has to be light. But to make it strong as well as light, only the very best of materials can be employed.

Hence the quality metals.

And it is through the quality of its metals that Maxwell has developed its following.

Over 300,000 Maxwells now on the highways of two continents are a daily endorsement of the merit of this Great Car.

THE CHALMERS

The ease of the Chalmers Engine has a story. When you sit behind the wheel of a present-day Chalmers you will long remember the rare ease of its engine.

It responds to the slightest call without effort. At high speed you are conscious of no great activity under the bonnet. When you lag along at slow speed you note no "breaking," no "missing," no jerky action—but a quickness, a silence that is smooth and expressive of high efficiency.

Most troubles in a car come from vibration. In a Chalmers there is so little vibration as to be negligible.

Farmers Are Invited to Come and See
THE CLETRAC
Tank Type Tractor

Only the name is new. The Cletrac Tank-Type Tractor is, except for some late improvements, exactly the same as the old Cleveland Tractor.

The wonderful growth and remarkable popularity of this tractor has made the name "Cleveland" one of our most valuable assets.

All the name "Cleveland" has come to mean in tractor construction and performance the "Cletrac" stands for, and more. It's a happy combination, suggesting not only the old name but as well the distinctive track.

See the Cletrac at the Motor Show during April 14, 15 and 16, and at our Show-Rooms any time after.

BEST OIL FOR YOUR MOTOR IS INSURANCE

DON'T STINT THE USE OF OIL, WATER AND AIR—KEEP THE TIRES FULLY INFLATED.

When an automobile is built the engine has been run but little, and every part is fitted tight to make them snug after the roughness has worn off. Consequently the car is very stiff and will not show much speed until those parts wear in. So don't exceed 25 miles an hour until your speedometer registers 500 miles. By so doing each part will "find itself."

If you force a car before it has obtained the 1,000 miles it will result in a noisy engine and premature repairs.

Drain Off Oil.

Drain off the oil every 500 miles and replace it with fresh. You will be surprised at the quantity of grit and dirt that comes from the crank-case.

Perhaps your motor shows a tendency to overheat when new. Don't let this worry you, for it's merely the friction caused in wearing off the rough surfaces of the engine. Drive intelligently and just give her plenty of oil and water and soon this trouble will disappear.

Be careful of your gasoline adjustment on the dash. Do not leave it "rich" any longer than is necessary for this results in an extra amount of gasoline getting into the engine, which will, of course, thin the oil.

Keep the tires fully inflated—soft tires consume power as well as destroy themselves

Reduces Carbon.

Keep the carburetor adjusted at the leanest possible mixture—a lean mixture reduces carbon deposits.

Don't try to economize by purchasing the "just as good" oil. Buy the right, best grade, and change the supply about every 500 miles. You will find this the most economical in the long run.

If you follow the car driven by an expert, you will notice that he maintains a constant speed; that he does not loaf along and then suddenly jump to 40 miles an hour. You use more gasoline when you accelerate. Select a safe driving speed, making only gradual speed changes when it is necessary. Observe how the other fellow does it and profit by his experience

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

SWOLLEN GLANDS

Wens, Cysts, Soft Bunches Reduced by "ABSORBINE JR."

"ABSORBINE JR." is a vegetable germicide and antiseptic liniment. It is opposed to unhealthy, unnatural growths. Enlarged glands, wens, cysts, soft bunches are unnatural conditions that "ABSORBINE JR." will materially benefit.

A prominent physician writes: "I have used ABSORBINE JR. on stiff joints and found it all right. Does the work nicely and I cheerfully recommend it."

"ABSORBINE JR." should be in every home in case of accidents—heals cuts, burns, lacerations—eases sprains, strains and bruises—relieves pain and reduces inflammation.

$1.25 a bottle—at most druggists or sent postpaid by W. F. YOUNG, INC. Lyman Building, Montreal.

HINTS ON USE OF YOUR CHAINS.

Only Keep On When Streets Wet.

It is always advisable to use tire chains whenever pavements and roads are in such condition as to make skidding likely to happen in turning corners, stopping and starting. But, the driver should bear in mind that chains should be removed as soon as it is safe to drive without them.

In putting chains on the rear tires, they should be fixed to the wheels with the hooks to the rear so that the forward motion of the wheels will have a tendency to pull the chains tighter in the locks. If at any time it is necessary to reverse the wheels in order to get out of a bad hole the chains should be inspected, to make certain that they have not become unhooked by the backward motion of the wheels.

Small wire wrapped around the hook locks often prevent chains from loosening and becoming lost.

PISTON RINGS MUST BE PROPERLY FITTED

Much Trouble By Oil and Gas Due to This Neglect.

Mention has been repeatedly made that most of the trouble caused by oil and gas mixture passing the pistons is due as much to proper fitting of the rings themselves as to the type and quality of the ring used.

No one knows all there is to know about this important subject, namely, creating an abundance of power at the minimum expense of gas, oil and repairs.

Shops as well as car owners would do well to spend a little more time and thought in selecting a strong, simple and safe ring, and then in fitting same, never put a piston ring on a piston ready for use until you know it fits into the piston groove so that it does not bind at any point. If the grooves are free and clean from carbon a well-made reputable ring will, in most every case, fit just right.

Next, take the ring, insert it into the cylinder in which it is to work; together; a little difference in opening is necessary in different motors, although it is safe to allow a minimum of from ten to fifteen one-thousandths of an inch—about the thickness of a heavy business card. This provides for the expansion of the ring when it is working under the high temperatures of the internal combustion motor. Nor should one forget that at the time of the explosion in a cylinder the heat runs up to about 2,200 degrees Fahrenheit.

This heat is the expanded and ignited gas charge and must be confined where it belongs—within the combustion chambers—and not allowed to pass the pistons down into the crank case, whereby wasting power and ruining expensive lubricating oil without which your motor would burn up. The ring being perhaps the hardest working, yet most indispensable part of the motor, should be installed in a manner that will permit it to work to its full efficiency and actually perform the important function of a true seal or packing.

In the city of Stockholm, Sweden, there are 2,135 automobiles and 1,015 motorcycles.

BONUSES TO TRUCK DRIVERS A GOOD PLAN

MACHINES ARE KEPT IN BETTER CONDITIONS AND FEWER ACCIDENTS HAPPEN--FULL RECORDS KEPT.

A problem with which the motor truck owner is confronted is that of keeping his drivers interested in their work. Of the many plans in operation that of the bonus system, by which the driver receives extra compensation based on the results he produces is the most effective method of stimulating and maintaining interest. This system is being used by many firms operating from three to fifty trucks, and has successfully reduced operating expenses to a minimum. The initial procedure is to instal a proper cost keeping system for keeping the itemized costs and detailed daily performances of each truck. It gives a clear picture of truck operation daily. There is no guesswork as to what the trucks are doing and costing. With an accurate cost system and a definite plan of inspecting the trucks, the installation of a bonus system is a comparatively simple matter.

Merits and demerits are allotted each week under the following divisions: Condition of trucks, accidents, personal efficiency and general efficiency, under the following scale:

	Maximum No. of Demerits.
Condition of truck to include:
Lubrication	25
Cleanliness	5
Minor repairs which can be made	15
Condition of tires as to inflation.	20
Accidents:
To be graded according to damage done and responsibility	50
Personal efficiency to include:
Willingness to perform extra duty	5
Immediate compliance with orders and instructions	5
Loss or damage to goods while in transit	25
General efficiency:
Making out of truck records and material requisitions	5
Care in operation of truck	15
Speeding	10
Excess tire trouble	5
Any other conditions which may warrant	50
Extra merits	1 to 10

Awarded for:

Truck records for each day correctly made out;

Material requisition for all gas and oil used to balance with truck records, and gasoline consumption reports;

Extra duty performed or any other conditions which may warrant.

Reduction in Repairs.

Extra merits will be granted any chauffeur making any suggestions for the improvement of delivery system, after they have been approved and put into effect.

A 100 per cent. bonus equals 10 per cent. of the average wages paid to the driver during the period of time covered—bonus is figured and paid every two months.

Inspections of the trucks are made at irregular intervals and demerits given the drivers whose trucks are not in proper condition. However, each driver is notified upon receiving a demerit and if he thinks it not justified, the matter is taken before a board established for the purpose of deciding such questions.

If a driver has no demerits for the bonus period, his record is 100 per cent.—and he receives 10 per cent. of his salary in addition to the regular salary.

For every dollar a company pays out in bonuses it should save three or four in the reduction of maintenance and repair charges. No matter when the trucks are inspected they will usually be found in good condition, clean, well-oiled and tires properly inflated, etc. It will also be found that the number of accidents is less. And, finally, it provides complete truck records. Each driver carefully and accurately fills in a daily service card and turns it into the office when it is posted in the daily record in the cost system.

A NEW USE FOR OLD TIRE TUBES.

A tube that has outlived its usefulness as an air container can be reincarnated as a tool case in which to carry all small tool equipment such as wrenches, screwdrivers, pliers, files, etc. From an old tube a piece is cut of sufficient length to serve the purpose, and, after being split lengthwise, is slit along the center to make loops for holding the tools. The sides of the rubber case will curl up over the tools and the whole can be rolled into a neat bundle, which can be held securely by wide rubber bands cut from sections of the tube.

France has adopted the motorcycle side car. The vehicle was introduced by the American Expeditionary Force.

Hydro Power Commission Buys a Fleet of Canadian-Made RUGGLES TRUCKS

Hydro Buys London-Made Trucks.

(Special Dispatch to The Globe)

London, Ont., April 3.—The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, after making exhaustive investigations, has purchased a fleet of motor trucks from the Ruggles Company, of this city. Wherever it is possible the H. E. P. C. is buying Canadian-made goods, but not until it is proven, as was the case with the Ruggles purchase, that Canadian-manufactured articles are as good as the best of the American offerings.

Hydro Decides to Purchase Fleet of Canadian Trucks.

Special to The Mail and Empire.

London, Ont., April 3.—A practical move to encourage Canadian industry and relieve unemployment and exchange difficulties that is most favorably regarded by London businessmen, is revealed in the announcement that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has decided to purchase a fleet of Canadian-made motor trucks for use on the Queenston-Chippawa power canal. The experts of the H. E. P. C., before making the purchase, subjected the Canadian-made trucks available to direct comparison with United States machines and determined that the trucks produced by Canadian workmen are equal to the best available from the United States. The contract for a large fleet of trucks was awarded to the Ruggles Company, of this city. It is understood that the H. E. P. C. is purchasing all possible Chippawa equipment from Canadian companies.

Why did the Hydro Power Commission buy Ruggles Trucks?

The answer is to be found in the fact that Mr. Frank W. Ruggles and his associates in the Ruggles organization have built and sold more than 70,000 motor trucks during the past eight years.

NOW DON'T

A little thought will show in many ways how an automobile driver may avoid giving offense although unintentional, and thereby help to overcome the prejudice against automobilists:

Don't neglect to read the law of the Province in which you are driving your car, particularly as to speed, number tags and lights.

Don't insist in passing every vehicle ahead of you without regard to the narrowness of the road and do not cut under the hose of a horse in passing a horse-drawn rig.

Don't wait until you are close upon an approaching waggon or automobile before turning out.

Give half of the road and do it in season.

Don't allow vast quantities of smoke to be emitted from your exhaust.

Don't use your muffled cut-off on every occasion, regardless of the proximity of nervous horses.

Don't blind the eyes of drivers and pedestrians by using your lights unnecessary.

Don't blow your horn and expect every one to get out of your way.

Don't imagine you own the whole highway.

Don't forget to moderate your light glare in conformity with the new regulations.

The influence of the automobile is felt in every industry.

COOL, DAMP AIR HELPS EXPLOSIONS.

Heat rarefies air, and the charge which an engine can breathe in is smaller in weight than it would be on a cold day. Night air is almost always cooler than day air, so at night the engine can get a heavier charge and so produce a more powerful impulse at each explosion.

Not only is the air taken into the engine cooler, and so heavier, but the presence of a cooler atmosphere means that the water cooling will be more effective; that the motor will in itself be cooler.

This helps to make the charge drawn in still better because the air comes into the carburetor cooler and is heated less on its way through the manifolds and within the cylinder itself. Also the oil will be cooler, its lubricating properties, therefore better, and so there will be less friction in the motor.

Yet another thing is that night air often is damper than day air.

Kangaroo hunting by automobile is the latest form of exciting sport in Australia.

According to foreign trade reports the total value of motor vehicles and accessories exported from the United States is the calendar year 1920 approximates $365,000,000.

Outside the larger cities there are no existing speed limits for automobiles in Argentina.

The capacity of production of motor vehicles in the United States is estimated at 2,200,000 cars a year.

The number of motor vehicles in the United States is said to be five times as great as it was at the beginning of the World War.

Throughout the United States there are over 10,000 motor haulage lines, some of which have invested as high as $2,000,000 in the trucking equipment.

All the national roads in France, to the extent of 24,000 miles, are lined with trees planted and cared for by the Government. The Ministry of Public Works has more than 3,000,000 trees under its control.

Motor car racing in Europe is to be revived in 1921, when at least six important events on the Continent and in England will be held during the season. The races of note will be the French Grand Prix, a 500-mile race in the Brooklands track in England, and a road race at Le Mans, France.

CALENDAR REFORM. A WORLD WIDE EFFORT TO IMPROVE THE CALENDAR.

The Swiss Plan v. The American Plan.

LIBERTY CALENDAR FORM VERY CONVENIENT.

The need for an improvement in our cumbersome time calendar has long been recognized. The particular difficulty with the calendar is that the weeks do not fit the months and the months are of several different lengths. One cannot tell, without consulting a printed form, on what day of the week a future day of the month will fall. Neither can he tell on what day of the month a future day of the week will fall. One cannot tell how many days there are between two distant dates without first saying over a foolish little rhyme so as to know how many days there are in each month and then carefully figuring it out. "Thirty days hath September!" One never even knows on what day of the week his next birthday will come. Nor does he know the day of the week on which the very next month will commence unless it is close at hand.

A hundred million people ask every year, on what day of the week will Christmas come, but nobody knows.

Millions of people work by the month, and yet we have no such thing as a standard month. We have standardized everything else except our measure of time—the very thing we use the most.

The need for an improvement in the calendar is so generally recognized that in recent years several plans for an improvement have been proposed. Only two of these plans have received serious consideration. These are the "Swiss" plan, and the "American," or Liberty Calendar plan.

THE SWISS PLAN

The Swiss plan was proposed first. It originated in Switzerland and was for a time so well thought of that it was approved by several of the leading Chambers of Commerce of Europe. In fact, a bill for the adoption of this plan was introduced in the British Parliament just before the war.

This plan sets aside one independent day in every year, which is not included in any week or month, and divides the remaining 364 days so that there are thirty days in each of the first two months of every quarter and thirty-one days in the last.

The advantages of this plan lie in the fact that the first month of every quarter would always commence on the same day of the week; the second month of every quarter would always commence on a certain other day of the week; and the third month of every quarter would always commence on another certain day of the week. Consequently, under this plan, one could figure out the location in the week of any future date, and he could do so without the use of a printed calendar.

It is acknowledged that this plan would be a great improvement over our present atrocious form, but a very serious weakness lies in the fact that the weeks do not fit the months and the months are still of two different lengths. These two serious defects are entirely overcome in the "American," or Liberty Calendar plan.

LIBERTY CALENDAR PLAN

Both plans set aside New Year Day as an independent legal holiday. It stands between the last day of December and the first day of January and is not included in any week or month. Another independent day, called "Leap Year Day," is provided for leap years. It is placed between June and July and is not included in any week or month. In the American plan the remaining 364 days are divided into thirteen months of exactly four weeks each.

Thus the weeks are made to exactly fit the months and the months are all of the same length. Every month commences with Monday and there are exactly 24 work days in every month. This number—24—is very easily subdivided, which is important to both employers and employees. Under this calendar, every month for a million years would always be just like this.

THE LIBERTY CALENDAR

Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa	Su
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28

Every month like this to the end of time

In order to retain exactly one-seventh of the time for Sundays, each seventh New Year Day becomes "New Year Sunday," and each seventh Leap Year Day becomes "Leap Year Sunday."

The added month is named "Liberty," and it is placed next after February. Thus the months are January, February, Liberty, March, etc. Four months are placed in the summer season and three in each of the others. Liberty is very fittingly the first month of spring. The selection of this name for the additional month had much to do with naming the new calendar, and yet the name "Liberty Calendar" is also especially appropriate because it was chosen in November, 1918, right after the armistice was signed.

It is claimed by experts that the advantages of this form cannot be overestimated. The saving of time and mental effort would be immense.

Every day of the month would always fall on a certain day of the week. In every month the 1st, 8th, 15th and 22nd would always be Monday; the 2nd, 9th, 16th and 23rd would always be Tuesday; the 3rd, 10th, 17th and 24th always Wednesday; the 4th, 11th, 18th and 25th always Thursday; the 5th, 12th, 19th and 26th always Friday; the 6th, 13th, 20th and 27th always Saturday; and the 7th, 14th, 21st and 28th always Sunday. One would always know the day of the month as easily as he now knows the day of the week and printed calendars would soon be unknown.

Good Friday and Easter Sunday are set for the 12th and 14th of March in every year, which correspond with our present 7th and 9th days of April. Under this calendar, every holiday and every anniversary would always fall on some certain day of the week. Armistice Day and Christmas would always fall on Thursday. A promissory note given for any number of weeks, months and years would always come due on the same day of the week it was given.

YEAR EASILY DIVIDED INTO QUARTERS

The year can be more easily divided into quarters under this Liberty Calendar than under the present form. Under this new form, each quarter will contain exactly thirteen weeks and each quarter will always commence with Monday. Under our present form the quarters are of three different lengths and commence on different days of the week. Moreover, the new and real quarters will be far better for large business concerns. Every quarter will start with Monday, but as a rule the quarters will not start on the first day of the month, and this will relieve congestion of office work.

While the new number of months, 13, is not easily divisible, the number of work days in a month, 24, the weeks in a month, 4, and the weeks in a year, 52, are all easily divisible. This is important, as fully 99 per cent of all settlements involving time, are by the hour, day, week, or month, and not by the year.

The objection to the number thirteen is foolish superstition. The United States flag contains thirteen stripes, but this fact does not detract from the respect given it, nor interfere with its success. While the new calendar has thirteen months, it never has any "Friday the 13th."

This plan of calendar provides, as does our present form, that only such century years as can be divided by 400 shall be leap years. This is necessary because the mean calendar year is thirty-four seconds longer than the solar year.

Twenty days are added to the accepted summer season—ten days before and ten days after the summer solstice. The other seasons are shortened a trifle.

This liberty calendar would prove very convenient for both employers and employees. All pay days, whether weekly, semi-monthly, monthly or quarterly, would always come at the end of the week. All notes and contracts would be so drawn that none would ever mature on Sunday. All semi-annual payments would come due on Monday, January 1st, and on Monday, June 18th.

£30,000,000 SAVED ANNUALLY

The adoption of this new calendar would cause a saving of £8,000,000 a year in cost of printed and lithographed calendars, while the combined saving of time and money would equal fully £20,000,000 a year.

A bill which provides for the adoption of this new form has already been introduced in the United States Congress. As soon as the United States joins the League, or an association of nations, a Joint Resolution will be introduced in both Houses of the United States Congress, requesting the League of Nations to call an international convention at Washington, D. C., to consider the whole subject of calendar reform.

A corporation known as The Liberty Calendar Association of America was organized in the fall of 1918 to work for the adoption of this new form. The officers of this association claim this new calendar is absolutely the most scientific, the most convenient, and beyond question the best form of calendar that can possibly be devised. They claim it could be adopted to take effect, and with scarcely any friction or inconvenience whatever, on the first of any year commencing with Sunday or Monday. They also claim that if this plan prevails it will be used for all time to come, and that the change will prove one of the greatest economic reforms in all history.

TO PURCHASE CAR NOT EVIDENCE OF ABILITY TO DRIVE

RESPONSIBLE PERSONS MUST BE IN CHARGE TO AVOID ACCIDENTS—SIR JOHN GIBSON MAKES STATEMENT.

TORONTO, April 13.— Immediately after the meeting of the Executive committee of the Ontario Safety League at the King Edward Hotel here yesterday, Sir John Gibson, President of the League, authorized the following statement: 'The Executive committee find that many people think the Safety League was created to tackle the problem of traffic accidents only and we occasionally have to state that the League is conducting a general campaign against accidents of all kinds, in factories, stores, warehouses, schools and homes as well as on the streets. The traffic accident has, however, loomed large in the public mind and it is about that I want particularly to speak to-day. We have found that some comprehension of causes of street accidents is necessary before attempting to make decisions. In the first place, the enormous increase in automobiles throughout the Province is a basic cause for the increase in automobile accidents, that is simply a problem in arithmetic. We next have the fact that the ability to purchase a car is taken as evidence of ability to drive and, until we have a form of license to drive, we shall continue to have irresponsible persons in charge of motor cars and last, we have the question of educating all users of the highway The Safety League is covering the Province in a very efficient manner, as far as its funds go, but it is impossible to teach safety without sufficient money to supply that education. It is a fact that safety is purchasable like any commodity or like good health, and we believe the League has done wonder with the comparatively small amounts we have had.

"It is interesting to note that the Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Massachusetts gives a "black eye" to the claim that high speed has little or no effect on automobile accidents. In speaking of the motor accidents in that State, he says, 'Study of "these accidents (fatal and non-fat-"al) has brought out the fact that "the vast majority of them are caus-"ed by driving at excessive rates of "speed, and also by indulgence in li-"quor on the part of the operators.'

"Everyone in the community is asked," said Sir John in closing, "for the good of all to co-operate in reducing the awful toll of accidents."

CAR TURNED TURTLE ON RICE LAKE ROAD

OCCUPANTS INJURED, BUT MIRACULOUSLY ESCAPE DEATH.

PORT HOPE, April 13.—A new Chevrolet car, driven by Mr. Fletcher of Cobourg, turned turtle on the Rice Lake road, just south of Mr. Noble Brown's, yesterday morning. In the car, besides the driver, were Mr. and Mrs. Slott, Darsel street. Mrs. Slott was thrown against the windshield and badly cut about her face and head, but Mr. Slott miraculously escaped without a scratch. The driver, Mr. Fletcher, suffered severe cuts and bruises, while the car was severely damaged. The road to Bewdley is in splendid condition, and it is thought the car must have ran off the end of a culvert and turned completely over. Two cars happened along just after the accident and conveyed the party to Port Hope.

N EDS 7 ROOMS AND GYMNASIUM

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON ACCOMMODATIONS AT COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

MATTER LEFT OVER

The Board of Education held a meeting last evening for the purpose of discussing the proposed additions to the Collegiate Institute. Mrs. W. R. Morris, Messrs. J. M. Greene, E. G. Patterson, R. Denne, G. O. Cameron, G. H. Thompson, F. C. Neal, A. A. Fowler, Jos. J. Duffus, J. A. McKone and J. W. Worth were present, and Mr. H. R. H. Kenner attended the meeting in the interests of the Collegiate Institute.

The special committee submitted their report on the extensions required to accommodate the increasing attendance at the Collegiate Institute, as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Your special committee re extensions to Collegiate Institute begs to report as follows:

The members of the committee—Mrs. Morris, Mr. McKone, Mr. Worth, and Mr. Duffus — met the Principal of the Collegiate Institute and Mr. Lavin, Inspector, in consultation.

To meet present requirements, the following additional space is necessary:

2 Class-rooms.
1 Art room (25 feet x 30 feet).
1 Gymnasium (preferably two, one for boys and one for girls).
1 Manual training room.
1 Domestic science room.
1 Typewriting room (at least size of ordinary class-room).
1 Lunch room.

In estimating additional accommodation likely to be required in the near future, the coming into force of the Adolescent Act, and the possibility of full first-year University work being undertaken in Collegiate Institutes, were taken into consideration.

Four class-rooms, in addition to those already mentioned, would probably provide adequate accommodation for several years to come.

A point to consider is whether commercial classes would be transferred to a Technical School, in the event of such a school being established. If such transferrence were made, three rooms of the proposed extension would then be available for future growth of attendance.

After some discussion by the members, it was finally decided, on a motion made by Mrs. Morris, and seconded by Mr. Denne, to provide each member with a copy of the foregoing report, to ensure careful consideration, the matter to come up for a final settlement at the next regular monthly meeting.

AUTO GOGGLES AND EYEGLASS COMBIN D.

An American inventor has developed a device which solves the problem of wearing eyeglasses and goggles at the same time. A pair of spectacle frames, hinged so that glasses or goggles may be swung out for cleaning purposes, is attached to the metal frame of motoring or aviation goggles. The combination is sold without eyeglass lenses, which are fitted in by an oculist.

C. R. BANKS, RETIRING PRES.

A discussion of the various ways of increasing the membership, took place. Mr. Bradburn's advocacy of monthly meeting admission not confined solely to the membership was supported. This would have a salutary effect on the growth of the association.

Mr. Fisk with Mr. R. J. Sutherland, was in favor of an active campaign participated in by every member to increase the numbers and boost the organization and he felt that only by personal contact could much be accomplished. He explained what the membership of $3.00 was worth in special accommodation while in the United States. $1 of this money went to the local association, $1 to the O.M.L. and $1 to the Canadian Motorist." The money was well spent. Mr. Fisk said. Since its inception the O.M.L. has placed between 10,000 and 12,000 signs on the Ontario roads, and this is only one phase of its work.

In vain did the retiring president seek for someone to take his place. Mr. Fisk, Mr. R. Lees, Mr. W. H. Bradburn, Mr. J. J. Duffus, Mr. R. J. Sutherland and Mr. J. T. Braund, all refused the nomination and it was then on the sugestion of Mr. Duffus adjournment was made for a fortnight.

A RED LIGHT SHOWS RISING TEMPERATURE.

A new automobile accessory recently introduced to the market is a device by which rising automobile engine temperatures are detected and indicated. A green light burns continuously at normal engine temperature, but if for any reason, such as low water, a broken fan belt, insufficient oil, etc., the engine begins to overheat, the thermostatic switch which is the active element of the device, will expand, turning a red danger signal on immediately.

INVALID MOTOR CHAIR INVENTED.

An English concern has lately motorized an invalid's wheel chair. The only exertion necessary in driving the vehicle is that of manipulating the controller and steering lever. The drive is by a small electric motor built integrally with the front axle, which transmits the power to the two pneumatic-tired front wheels. Storage batteries, which may be quickly exchanged for fresh ones, supply the power. These are encased in a box like the hood of an automobile, mounted over the front axle. A victoria top surmounts a conventional wheel-chair body.

AUTO BUSINESS IS BIGGEST IN WORLD.

One Car For Approximately Every 13 Persons in U. S.

The automobile business is the largest manufacturing business of finished goods in the world, says Machinery, in a recent issue. This year the total volume of the automobile, accessory and supply business in the United States alone will reach $4,400,000,000, of which over $2,000,000,000 will represent passenger cars and trucks. There is one car in use for approximately every 13 persons in the United States, as compared with one for every 2,182 persons in the rest of the world—268 in England, 402 in France, 684 in Germany, and 5,300 in Russia. Europe has 449,000,000 people and only 437,000 automobiles. It is estimated that 45 per cent. of the automobiles sold in the United States are bought by farmers and the inhabitants of small towns. The average life of a car is estimated at five years. There are about 800,000 trucks in operation in the United States, hauling an average of 4½ tons per day each, which amounts to a total of 3,600,000 tons per day, or 360,000,000 tons per year. Figures show that the average ton-mile cost of motor truck haulage is 18 cents, as against 0.96 cent by railroad locomotive; but the railroad terminal charges are large, and time is saved by the motor truck.

Haulage by horse is estimated to cost 24 cents per ton-mile, and it is said that truck haulage has released 3,600,000 horses for various other purposes in the United States. The automobile accessory and supply business, including tires, gasoline and oil, has reached a volume greater than that of the automobile business itself.

TEST AUTO TIRES FOR POWER LOSS.

To test auto tires for frictional power losses, the American rubber-testing section of the Bureau of Standards has installed an apparatus consisting of a powerful high-speed electric motor and a dynamo. The tire to be tested is mounted on a standard auto wheel which is attached to the shaft of the motor. The tire tread is pressed forcibly against a large pulley attached to the dynamo shaft. Thus the latter is driven through the medium of the test tire. The normal power loss between the motor and the dynamo being a known constant value, any additional losses, shown by the test, must be charged to the internal and tread friction of the tire. Conditions of rates of road speeds up to a maximum of 50 miles per hour can be duplicated with the apparatus.

TO RECLAIM DIRTY OILS, BOIL THEM.

A lubrication engineer is authority for the statement that automobile, tractor, stationary-engine and airplane crankcase oils, which have become black and dirty through use, may be reclaimed by boiling the oil with an equal, or greater volume of water made up into a saturated solution by the addition of common laundry powders. The oil thus treated is claimed to be much better than the new, and, after being cleaned several times, more closely approaches the significations of the ideally perfect cylinder lubricant. A saving of approximately 78 per cent. is credited to the process. As the gases liberated by this treatment are inflammable, the boiling is more safely done out of doors

BY-ELECTIONS MAY BE MAY 28

WRITS FOR YORK-SUNBURY, YAMASKA, ST. ANTOINE EXPECTED TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, April 13.—Writs for by-elections for York-Sunbury, Yamaska and St. Antoine will probably be issued to-day. The date of these by-elections is expected to fall on May 28. This is a Saturday, a change from the usual practice, which has been to have by-elections on Mondays.

Yamaska was rendered vacant by the death of that fighting Liberal member, Oscar Gladu. It is understood that the Government candidate will be A. A. Mondon, a former Conservative, who has, however, said bitter words against Premier Meighen on occasion. Bygones are to be bygones in this case.

St. Antoine was vacated by the elevation of Sir Herbert Ames to the Secretariat of the League of Nations. Herbert Molson was asked by the Conservatives of that district to run for the Government, but he is understood to be in England now. The report still persists that the Government wants Sir Hermisdas Laports to be accepted and to run as Government candidate there.

In York-Sunbury there is a Farmer candidate, and the Liberals have announced they would support the Farmers. The Government candidate is Colonel Hanson.

MAYOR ANDERSON GAVE AN ADDRESS ON THE REFERENDUM

The Referendum meeting in Mark Street Church last night was a real "hit." The meeting was opened by the pastor of the church announcing a hymn and offering prayer. The chair was occupied by Mr. A. B. Cunningham, chairman of the City Referendum Committee, who gave a clear and pointed explanation of the present Prohibition issue, and clearly pointed out the duty of every law-abiding and law-loving citizen.

Mayor Anderson, of Orillia, abundantly justified the most sanguine expectations of the local Referendum Committee, and the splendid audience. In a forceful, logical, and most convincing address, he dealt with every phase of the subject, proving and clinching every argument, and leaving absolutely no room for honest cotnradiction. He calmly tore into shreds and patches every contention that has been presented by the Liberty League, while the argument for Government Control simply dissolved into air under his withering logic. Personal Liberty also received its full share of attention, and Mr. Anderson proved that absolute personal liberty could be enjoyed by no man but a Robinson Crusoe. It speaks volumes for the cause of Prohibition when a public leader like the Mayor throws himself into this game.

The choir under the leadership of Mr. Boorman gave two excellent selections during the evening, and the meeting closed with a rally of the local committee called by Mr. J. Speer, the chairman.

SPRING SEEDING WELL UNDER WAY IN THIS COUNTY

FALL WHEAT HAS BEEN PARTLY KILLED OUT IN SOME SECTIONS

From various sections of the country comes the report that the fall wheat has suffered from recent frosts. A farmer told the Examiner to-day that in South Monaghan, near Rice Lake, the fall wheat has been practically killed out and the clover has suffered likewise. Two weeks ago the wheat and clover looked splendid, but the recent sharp frosts, and, in the opinion of some, the unusually strong sun have destroyed generally about fifty per cent. of the crop. This is according to information received by the Examiner.

Ploughing and seeding is being done throughout the county, and the farmers are making good progress in the spring work, it is stated.

Nova Scotia Coal Was Sent to Europe While Ont. Pleaded With U.S.

EASTERN MINES SHIPPING TO HOLLAND AND DENMARK WHILE COUNTRY FACED COAL FAMINE, PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE IS TOLD.

FEARS ANOTHER FAMINE

OTTAWA, April 13. —(Canadian Press.)—While the Provincial Fuel Controllers, especially in Ontario, pleaded with the United States Fuel Administration for an adequate supply of coal for domestic and industrial use in Canada, Nova Scotia, operators were shipping to European countries, particularly Holland and Denmark, according to evidence heard this morning by the Parliamentary Fuel committee.

Bituminous coal, however, was shipped from Pennsylvania and West Virginia to Quebec. S. J. Cook, chief of the mining and metallourgical and chemical division of the Railway Commission told the committee that a possible repitition of the fuel famine in Canada similar to that which preceded the appointment of a fuel controller three years ago, demands that some definite constructive action be taken to ensure continuity of the fuel supply for commercial and domestic uses in this country.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—To-day's stock market opened with a renewal of yesterday's pressure against steel and equipment shares. The over-night announcement of a cut in prices by the United States Steel Corporation failed to stabilize those issues. The first few transactions resulted in losses, extending from fractions to one point in Crucible, Bethlehem, Republic and United States Steels, and also American and Baldwin Locomotives. Rails and shippings, especially Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Mercantile Marine preferred, registered similar declines, and foreign oils, notably Royal Dutch, were heavy. Firmness was shown by International Paper, Utah Copper and a few specialties.

Shorts, continuing to attack steels and equipments during the morning, effected additional losses. Transcontinental Rails were subjected to further depression, and Tobaccos were the heaviest of the specialties, Sumatra forfeiting two points on its reduced dividend. The outstanding features of strength were confined largely to inconspicuous issues. National Biscuit, Remington Typewriter, Coco Cola, National Lead Preferred and Harvester were among the various specialties to show gains of 1½ to 5 points. International Paper added to yesterday's belated rise on the favorable statement of its earnings. Call money opened at 7 per cent., despite the increase of the supply.

Dividend paying rails, particularly Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Great Northern, made further price concessions at mid-day, Grangers, Coalers and Cotton Carriers also losing ground. The reaction extended to Popular Oils, Mexican Petroleum losing two points. Specialties became heavy, International Paper cancelling its early advance.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange weak; demand, 3.89 3-8. Canadian dollar, 11 3-4 per cent. discount.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 13.—(Canadian Press). — Receipts medium; trade weaker. Heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10; butcher steers, choice, $8.50 to $9.50; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7; calves, $10 to $12.50; lambs, $12 to $13.50; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $13.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—C.P.R. was under pressure during this morning's dull session of the Toronto Stock Exchange, the issue forfeiting Monday's gain and closing at 127, a loss of 1 3-8. Laurentide was another weak stock, selling off 1¼ points to 91. Fractional recessions were made by Canada Steamships at 22 7-8, Toronto Railway at 62, and National Brewers at 40. Brompton registered a gain of 5-8 at 33½.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—With crop, economic and financial conditions all continuing bearish, the wheat market to-day developed fresh weakness. Selling was led by a house with south-western connections, and it was inferred that considerable of the selling must be against purchases to arrive. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 1 lower, were followed by additional set-backs, although transient rallies intervened.

In corn, there was much buying of May and selling of July, but all months tended downward with wheat. After opening 5-8 to 3-4 off to a shade advance, the market worked irregularly lower. Oats were relatively steady, starting unchanged to 1-8 down, and holding close to the initial range. High quotations on hogs helped to sustain provisions.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—The local market closed dull, with the opening prices being maintained for the most part. Laurentide was the most active of the stocks, opening at 92, going to 23 and closing at the opening figure, which is a fractional advance on yesterday's closing.

ACCOUNTANT DETAILS ITEMS TO PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE.

TORONTO, April 13.—(Canadian Press)—Testifying before the public accounts committee this morning, J. F. Mowat, accountant to the Board of License Commissioners, stated that a Paige car had been purchased for the use of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, in law enforcement work in Western Ontario. Prior to that pastor-Inspector had been paid $1.50 and $2.00 an hour for the use of his Ford car and had hired taxi cabs at $3 per hour. A boat had been purchased for Mr Spracklin at a cost of $3,500, said Mr. Mowat. With regard to authority to engage extra constables the accountant said, "Mr. Spracklin had authority to engage any help he needed."

STABILITY—BEAUTY—LUXURY

It is the product of the soundest engineering skill and the ripest experience. It has been as thoroughly tried and proven as it is humanly possible to do.

Made in four types—5-Passenger Touring Car and Sedan, 3 Passenger Roadster, and 4-Passenger Coupe—still this model may not be fairly designated in the trade terms of the time.

It is not a Light "Six."

For stability is in direct ratio to the amount of material in a machine.

Reo is the recognised schoolmaster of the industry.

We maintain, therefore, that no car of equal passenger capacity but lighter in weight than a Reo, can possibly last as long, withstand as hard usage, and show as low an upkeep cost as a Reo.

Our idol is endurance, if we may be permitted the figure

Not stunt power, but lugging capacity.

It possesses all those qualities the experienced motorist desires in his car—a clean, easy get-away, rapid yet wonderfully smooth acceleration and speed sufficient to satisfy any reasonable owner.

This Reo "Six," like all former Reos, is built for endurance—not for racing speed nor for sensational stunts—nor for more "talking points," but for service.

The "REO" Speed Wagon

The "Reo" truck user, with his rugged "Reo" Motor, can climb the steepest grades on high at full speed, on pneumatic tires. "Reo" management never experiments with its customers' money. The "Reo" Truck was tested and tried until the Company's engineers themselves were absolutely certain of its superiority over any other type.

Salesmen in charge of our Exhibit will give all further information necessary. Please look them up. Demonstrations arranged for, to suit your convenience. Glad to have you call at our Place of Business.

By-law No. 782, appointing roadmasters, fence viewers and sheep valuators for the year 1921 received its several readings.

Auditors' Report.

The auditors, Messrs. Young and Edminson, were present and reported that they had gone carefully over the accounts of the treasurer, finding everything correct, with a cash balance on hand at the end of the year of $1,624.99, and an excess of assets over liabilities of $3,000.

Moved by Deputy Reeve Middleton, seconded by Councillor Brown, that the auditors' report be received, and that the Clerk be instructed to have 200 copies printed for distribution.

Abatements Allowed.

Mr. Jas. Middleton, the Collector, was present, and, on motion, was allowed $209.32 as abatements from the roll, and the Treasurer was instructed to return $176.04 of this amount to the County Treasurer, chargeable against lands.

Taxes Were Paid.

On motion, the County Treasurer was instructed to remove 1920 taxes from Island 29A, Stoney Lake, such taxes having been paid the Township Treasurer.

The Clerk was instructed to call for tenders to operate the township grader for the year 1921. Such tenders to be opened on Saturday, May the 7th, at the County Council Chambers, Peterborough.

To Pay Accounts.

The Treasurer was instructed to pay the following accounts:

Dr. W. D. Scott, per Miss Giles, $10; Kelly Bros., for gravel, $21; R. J. Edminson, auditor's fees, $10; Jas. A. Young, auditor's fees, $10; W. A. Bell, work on road, $6.30; Jas. Middleton, salary and collector and postage, $165; T. H. Graham, work on road, $4.

Court of Revision.

The Council adjourned to meet again on Saturday, May the 28th, at the County Council Chamber, at 2 o'clock, as a Court of Revision of the assessment roll for the year 1921.

SAYS SOCIALISM RIDES ON BACK OF PROHIBITION.

Mr. J. H. Burnham said to The Examiner to-day:

"Yes, I am working on a little treatise or brochure upon the immense change that is now coming over us. I am trying to make my treatment of the subject without bias, and a simple statement of facts.

"Few will deny that Socialism is here. But no great movement ever came in while its enemies were in front waiting with horse, foot and artillery to receive it, but always by the unexpected gate of some other movement or opportunity and when it appeared full grown upon the walls of the city it was a surprise.

"Socialism is the doctrine of the good of all for the benefit of all, as its name implies. Socialism is the ism of Society as against Individualism, the ism of the individual. It proclaims the fact there is no such thing as the right of the individual to anything any more; the individual, and of course, what he owns, is merged in society as a whole, that is to say the State. The State is what the majority say it is, so that in future there are to be no rights at all but those of the majority. This is the principle upon which Prohibition works, viz., the good of all regardless of the rights or possessions of the individual. This principle of course will apply to one thing as much as to another. It will apply to all things. It is the coming in of the order of Socialism as a substitute for the disorder of groups or individuals. There will be no such thing anymore as constitutional or legal rights. Rights give way to benefits. Nobody will own anything. What the majority now wants is ITS rights. It says that the individual has ruled long enough. For example, Separate schools, whether Protestant, as in Quebec, or Catholic, as in Ontario, will disappear, since they are the privilege of a minority. Of course the danger of the new movement will be in the attempt to seize control in the name of the majority. It may lead to war, it is true. If there are no longer such things as the rights of the individual, but only the present benefit to the greatest number, then there may be constant attempts to substitute force for numbers. But I am going into every phase of the question (in a mild way) in the little treatise I am now at work upon. Socialism is here for good or ill, and for good and all, and it has in on the back of Prohibitoin. And the sooner we recognize the fact, the sooner shall we get rid of the dreadful confusion brought about by the struggle, and by the throes of change. We must bow to the inevitable."

RESCUES INDIAN WITH BELL ROPE OFF ENGINE

QUICK-THINKING FIREMAN DRAGS TRAPPER FROM BRINK OF FALLS.

KAPUSKASING, April 13.—Quick thinking, followed by quick action, resulted in the saving of an Indian trapper from death and the putting of $480 into the pocket of Fireman Fetterly of the C.N.R.

As his engien was crossing the bridge over the river just east of Kapuskasing, Sunday, Fetterly saw an Indian, with a heavy pack-sack on his shoulders, struggling to make a crossing on the floating ice cakes. He was in a perilous position and was being carried slowly but surely toward the falls immediately beneath the railway bridge.

Feterly acted swiftly. Cutting the 25 feet of bell rope from the engine, he leaped to the ground and ran back to the centre of the bridge. One end of the rope he secured to the rail, and by means of a loop in the other end he succeeded in lassooing the Indian just as he tottered on the brink of the falls.

With the aid of a section hand the Indian was hailed to the bridge, where he opened his pack and presented Fetterly with a black fox skin. This Fetterly later exchanged for $480 cash.

BANDITS' BULLET REMOVED AND VICTIM RECOVERING.

BRANTFORD, April 13. — With the split bullet removed, Joseph Howard, Hartford, general storekeeper there, who was shot in the shoulder by three bandits, now under arrest at Simcoe, is resting easily, and it is expected that he will be out in two weeks.

In Stockholm, Sweden, there are four motorcycle "speed cops" to regulate and enforce traffic laws.

ALARMED AT THE SPREAD DRUG EVIL.

Authorities Redoubling Efforts to End Traffic.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 13.—(Canadian Press).—Alarmed by the spread of the drug evil, federal, provincial and civic forces are redoubling their efforts to put an end to the traffic. Special precautions have been taken to prevent smuggling of the various forms of "dope" into this port. Airplanes have taken a prominent part in this work, accompanying liners from Victoria to Vancouver so that any dropping of packages to be picked up by small craft will not go unobserved.

Lieutenant-Colonel A. R. Carey, collector of customs, in an interview, said: "The drug traffic has been engaging the closest attention of the department for a number of months. It is being made progressively harder to smuggle drugs ashore from the boats which come directly to Vancouver harbor, but we have found that members of the crews of boats, longshoremen, women relatives of water front employees, and visitors to the boats, are all attempting to profit by the opportuity to make large sums and until such time as those who are proven guilty are adequately punished, no real headway in the suppression of this traffic will be made.

Initial Step.

"An initial effective step that must be taken in a campaign against drug importations is the close scrutiny of the past records of the various police magistrates who deal with these cases, and where they are shown to have been erratic in their sentences, unduly influenced by pleas for sympathy from clever lawyers, or where they are shown to have no real appreciation of the tragic results of permitting offenders who are making large sums to escape with nominal fines, they should be removed.

"Another step would be to attempt to create in the minds of certain clever lawyers who regularly defend these criminals a sense of shame for resorting to every legal technicality possible to protect those who they know are engaged in this loathsome business."

By abandoning trains and using automobiles, salesmen cover more than twice as much territory.

LUMBER PRICES CUT BY LOWER FREIGHT RATES

TORONTO DEALERS ANNOUNCE AVERAGE REDUCTION OF $2 A THOUSAND FEET—REDUCE BUILDING COST.

TORONTO, April 13. — The lumber dealers here assert that on or about May 1st the public may look for a general four per cent. reduction for all classes of lumber or undressed timber. This will be the first effect of the decreased freight rates put into effect on April 21 by the railroads when the rate on lumber from British Columbia to Toronto will drop to 90 cents a hundredweight and to 95c a hundredweight on Montreal shipments. The former rate to Toronto was $1.03½ a hundredweight.

The effect will be that the new rate will reduce the price of timber about $2.25 the thousand feet, and figuring generally it is estimated that the decrease in prices on all kinds of timber will touch the four per cent. mark, which reduction might be expected to materialize in about three weeks from the date on which railroads put their lower rates into effect. This will vary considerably because he B.C. dressed timber of the thinner grades is dressed so fine that it might run to only 1,800 pounds a thousand feet, while other timber might go as high 3,200 pounds. On the first class the rate reduction a thousand feet will run to only about $1.25 a hundred.

Toronto lumber dealers are prediction a reduced cost of housebuilding following the rate reduction above cited.

6 AIRPLANES TO FIGHT FOREST FIRES.

Executive to Control Air Board's Work.

CALGARY, Alta., April 13 (Canadian Press.) — Six airplanes will be used in this district by the Dominion Forestry Branch to fight forest fires during the year. The planes will be operated from the aerodrome at High River and two main flights in ordinary weather are to be made daily, one north and the other south. There will also be a sufficient staff and equipment to make extra flights when there is any great danger. A minimum fire loss on the reserves is expected to follow the inauguration of this air service.

WORK OF AIR BOARD.

REGINA Sask., April 13. — An executive of seven, comprising three civilian and four military aviators, has been formed to carry on the work of the air board in this province for the ensuing year.

The first term of the provincial board, which covered a period from July, 1920, to March 31, of this year, was very successful. During the term 80 mechanics and 33 officers were sent from Saskatchewan to Camp Borden. Something in the nature of a record was made during this period as the board was able to purchase its own office equipment out of the balance of the government grant. It is believed that this is the only provincial organization in the Dominion which has been able to handle its finances with that degree of success.

Various resolutions dealing with aviation regulations and administration have been forwarded to Ottawa. One of them asks for a general convention representative of aviation over the entire Dominion, to discuss the question of securing further improvements in the administration of the Canadian air forces, and also the matter of securing increased grants from the Federal government.

MARK STREET MISSION BAND HELD A CONCERT

The concert held in Mark street church last Friday evening was an unqualified success from every point of view, notwithstanding the downpour of rain, the church being filled.

The opening numbers consisted of a "Welcome Song' and "Mission Band Chorus." Recitations were rendered by Douglas Mowry, Earl Record, Ruth Ellis, Percy Allison, Lily Ellis, Helen Haliday, Jimmy Ellis and Pierson Mowry.

A vocal quartette entitled "Be Kind," was given by four little girls, Ruth King, Lily Ellis, Margaret Bethune and Francis Wand. "Little Light Bearers" was an exercise presented by ten small boys with lighted candles, the circle consisting of Ralph Agnew, Edwin Wand, Albert Thorn, Russel Brand, Ray Allison, Jackey Burnham, Johnnie Hill, Charles Glover, Johnnie Bettes, and Billy Ellis, with their leader, Miss Florence Record.

"Helping Mother," was presented by five junior girls, who were busy on the platform with broom, ironing board, darning needle, cradle and shopper's outfit, the work having for its accompaniment the jingle of Easter pennies into the missionary box. This number was carried out by Minnie Burnham, Myrtle Ketcheson, Dora Marshall, Bernie Doxsee and Jean King. This was followed by "Junior Citizens," being a representation of different countries calling for the help of the missionary and was preesnted by Clara Coward, Lillian Simmons, Violet Little Jimmy Ellis, Douglas Bethune, Ronald Mowry and George Record, which was led by little Miss Oake in costume representing China. The litle lady made a real hit.

The dialogue entitled, "Aunt Elizabeth's Missionary Tea" was a most excellent presentation of the subject by Misses Jean Thorne, Alta Stenton and Edna Simmons.

The lily selection was most effective, the recitation being taken by Miss Beatrice Castle, while the motion and song was rendered by Eva Manly, Lillian Grierson, Mable Betes, Ruth Agnew, Isabel Girvin and Winnifred Bethune.

The song entitled "Praise Him," with humming chorus, was a number given by eight girls.

A pantomime entitled, "Lead Kindly Light" was then presented by Miss Throop, Miss Helen Throop and Miss Agnew and under the glow of the red light the effect was very touching and beautiful, the solo being taken by Mr. Harry Nellist.

This excellent programme was interspersed during the evening by instrumental music, contributed by Miss Susee and Miss Champion and was closed with a "flag exercise," furnished by Masters Bethune, Mowry, Ellis, Throop. Those taking part acquitted themselves most efficiently and the large audience was delighted with the programme, expressing their pleasure by a unanimous vote of thanks to Mrs. Ross and her helpers, the Band making her a life member of the Mission Band Society. Mrs. Ross made an appropriate reply to this expression of appreciation.

SLAY MEMBERS PUBLIC DEFENCE.

Attempts at Assassination in Spain Continue.

LISBON, April 13. — (Canadain Press.)— Attempts to assassinate thee judges and members of the Tribunal of Public Defense continue. Several of the members of the court alerady have been killed or wounded. The latest attempt was made on the life of Dr. Ferreira de Sousa, one of the judges, who was shot three times as he entered the gate of his own garden.

His life was saved by the fact that one of the bullets aimed at his heart pierced a pocketbook and was stopped by his fountain pen, the bullet falling harmlessly into his pocket, where it was found.

The police attribute these attacks to members of the Young Syndicalists's Association.

Dr. Ramos Preto, formerly of the cabinet and author of the law creating the Tribunal of Public Defense, has received a letter threatening him with death and signed by "The Red Committee."

ARTIFICIAL ISLAND.

BOSTON, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—Recommendation for a World's Fair on an artificial island suggested for the Charles River basis here in 1925 which would net the State $10,000,000 above an estimated cost of $28,000,000, is contained in a report to the State Legislature by the Special Commission.

CLAIM EDMONTON STRIKE OF TEACHERS BREAKING.

EDMONTON, April 13.—(Canadian Press). — Students attending grades seven and eight are expected to return to school, as enough school teachers are now available to reopen these classes, according to an announcement made by Superintendent Carpenter. As sufficient teachers present themselves the whole of the High Schools system will be re-opened, he said. The teachers are holding daily meetings at the Labor Hall, but so far none have shown an inclination to return to duty.

GET MOST SERVICE FROM YOUR CAR TIRES WITH A LITTLE CARE

MONEY-SAVING PAINLESS BY AN AUTHORITY--FEW MOTORISTS GET MAXIMUM MILEAGE, DUE TO ABUSE AND NEGLECT.

REDUCE TIRE TROUBLE

(By Gordeon Spencer.)

We are all suffering lessened convenience and comfort. The services which had come to be such an unnoticed part of our life, are crippled.

Central no longer answers promptly, hotel rooms are often unobtainable, the food in most of the restaurants and clubs is expensive and poor, passenger trains are crowded and oftenn slow, and freight sometimes arrives after our need for it has passed away.

We are put to daily, hourly annoyance. But why?

If we follow this breakdown in service and comfort through to its cause we shall find—a failure to provide for the future. Material civilization depends for an extent which few realize, upon far-sighted provision for future needs.

Every business enterprise, with far-seeing leadership, looks to the future; but the consumer blandly accepts instant telephone communication and a luxuriously appointed express train running on the dot as his natural rights—like air and sunshine.

The upset of the last five years put a crimp into provision for future needs.

The effect was not felt at once, but we are right up against it now.

A city can live for a few days after a blizzard has cut off its supplies, but not for very much longer. I might go on with many like similies, but spilt milk has long been considered poor cause for a grown man's grief, therefore, the comforts and the smooth service of tomorrow are what ought to concern us now. What can we do to assure these? The answer to this question can be given in two words—economy and conservation.

The motor world can use them, maybe, with greater success than anyone.

Economy and conservation do not deprive us of one jot of comfort or service, but, on the contrary, give us the maximum of both.

Let us speak of that part of the motor world on which so much depends—the tire.

The manufacturer of the tire must necessity look to the future, and fro the cultiaation of long staple cotton, Sarivad—if you will—to the rubber plantation of Sumatra, and on thru the various factory processes, he is ever seeking, and providing that the finished tire may not only meet the consumers' need, but in the long mileage he has built into it, completely meet that need.

The consumer may no longer expect all that the manufacturer's product offers him, unless he does his part, unless he looks to the future—unless he conserves.

High prices alone make it imperative for the consumer to get all the tire mileage he buys.

It is not inopportune, therrfore, to consider this matter a little and to offer a few hints which may help the tire user and dealer in looking to the future.

Here are four simple rules which the car or truck owner can observe with profit:

1. Air.—Under-inflated tires are unable to resist road punishment because they present a broad, flat surface to the road, which with reduced pressure offers low resistance to injurious blows. They cannot react to shocks like tires that are inflated to the right pressure and so easily become stone bruised. They may become rim-cut, or the fabric of the shoulder may be weakened and cracked, and heat generated to such an extent that the rubber in the piles weakens and is unable to hold them together. Finally s tube is pinched and a blowout alway results. To provide for the future, listen to the voice of your tires and give them air—and regularly.

2. Alighment.—Bumping into curves and hitting bujps in the road, and similar strains, shocks and jolts, are very likely to throw your wheels out of alignment; they then travel with the skidding action which wears down treads very rapidly, because they greatly increase friction with the road. You have the grip of the tread on the road plus the grinding tof the road at an angle to the wheel.

Probably as many as one car in three has one or more misaligned wheels that are robbing their tires of thousands of miles. You can provide for the future by testing your wheels frequently.

3. Fabric breaks.—Have you ever had a blow-out when your car was standing still? Or have you been to the garage and found a perfectly flat tire?

You removed tire and tube, and found the tube torn and a clean break on the inside fabric of the tire. What caused the fabric break?

It is very probable that it was started a week or even a month previous, when you ran over a stone or struck a brick, or when you allowed the wheels of the car to bang into the curb-stone. There was no indication of it in on the outside of the tire, for the tread rubber is tough and will stretch, but the fabric can only stretch to a certain limit and when taxed beyond that point it will break. The broken threads of the fabric at the injury chafe each other while the tire is in use. This sets up internal friction, the other plies soon break down, the tube is pinched and a blow-out results.

You can provide for the future by examining the inside of your tires at regular intervals, in the same way you do your gear box.

4. Thread cuts.—Every stone-chip, piece of glass, piece of iron or tin, switch point and the like, inflicts cuts on the toughest tread when fairly hit by the tire; and it may cost you thousands of miles if you neglect these. A tread cut is very like a wound on the sole of a runner's foot. If he runs wirh it, the pressure of his weight will extend the cut. Dirt and grit will be crushed into the flesh, and the wound will fester and spread infection until it is thoroughly cleansed and properly dressed. In a tread-cut the results of inattention are very similar—even a small cut in a new tire enlarges rapidly.

At the same time dirt, sand and even small stones are forced into the wound until they go entirely through the tread and into the canvass—water of course also enters—frutthers tread separation—and rots and weakens the canvass.

Eventually a stone or even a bump in the pavement, hit at a fair speed, will bring a bad blow-out.

So ouce again provide for the future by inspecting your tires every day—and have all tread cuts taken care of promptly.

The conservation in Canada is more than an ordinary factor. Canada is becoming more motorized every day, and tire mileage will more and more bear an important part in the price of commodities as good roads increase and the number of motor-driven pneumatic-tired vehicles grow. It behooves, therefore, every car and truck owner to give serious thought and attention to this conservation proposition.

By so doing tire cost per mile can be reduced, and, what is equally important, valuable time may be saved for costly tire trouble can often be avoided.

Dealers Looking Ahead.

The dealers throughout the land—for the most part—are long-headed, farseeing business men, and they know that their business will be increased manyfold by good-will.

Customers go to dealers with tires that are damaged and would be quite willing to pay for new tires to replace them; in fact, they go to the dealer for that purpose

The dealer, however, recognizes that oftentimes a good reliner or other tire-saver, or perhaps a repair, will give the customer many more miles, and so suggests one of these instead of a new tire.

Prima facie, the dealer is losing the price of a new tire to get the small amount charged for the repair, but he knows, of course, that, far from losing anything, he has gained everything, because the customer goes away satisfied.

For satisfied customers mean more customers.

The dealer who is wise knows that the important thing for him to figure out is not what his business is today, but what it will be in one, two or five years' time, and the amount of service that he gives will largely decide this, and so he teaches conservation and gains goodwill. Motorists wmight well have the same viewpoint, only from their own angle, and will be well advised to consult their dealer on all these matters. Economy is not spending less, but spending better, and the value of a tire is not necessarly the price you pay for it. Conservation is necessary in everything, and the lesson is not yet well learned.

There is no industry in the world that for all its youthfulness, has played so important a part in the world's history as the rubber industry, and what it will be, and do, who can tell?

One thing is certain, that foresight and vision will play fundamental parts in the future uses of rubber.

In other words—the value of a thing, the utility of a thing depends on its ability to serve

Motorists will not only benefit themselves and get back in great measure service and comfort by studying tire conservation, but will be playing their part in making the rubber industry a valuable factor in the world's progress.

To all this add more good roads and plenty of them, greater care in driving and less overloading, and the results will speak for themselves.

Most men have their own doctor whom they consult on question so f health. The doctor, in his turn, gladly gives valuable advice.

Why not have your own tire doctor. That is, a permanent dealer and consult him regularly as to the health of your tires. A tire dealer would be only too glad to give tire medicine and advice if he knew you were a regular customer. —Cnaadian Motorist.

BEWARE OF BRONCHITIS

Bronchitis is generally caused by neglecting a cold, or exposure to wet and inclement weather. It begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty in breathing, and a wheezing sound comes from the lungs. There is a raising of phlegm especially the first thing in the morning. This is at first white, but later becomes of a greenish or yellowish color and is occasionally streaked with blood.

On the first sign of bronchitis you should check it immediately by using Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup thereby prevent it becoming chronic and perhaps developing into some more serious lung trouble.

Mrs. Brice Culham, Sheffield, Ont., writes:—"In December, 1919, I was very sick with bronchitis, and had to stay in the house all winter. One day I saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised, so I got a small bottle which helped me very much; I then got a 60c. size, and it completely relieved me. I cannot praise "Dr. Wood's" enough for what it did. Two of my neighbours are now using it for colds."

Don't accept a substitute for Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, price 35c and 60c., manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Announcing Oldsmobile 4

Built to Extend the Fame of a Good Name

Oldsmobile popularity receives a new impetus among motorists who want Oldsmobile sturdiness, reliability and beauty in a four-cylinder car.

In spite of present conditions, Oldsmobile dealers who have seen and tested the new model have ordered enough new Oldsmobile Fours to keep our plant busy for months to come.

They recognize in the new Oldsmobile Four "the car of the day" when buyers want dollar-for-dollar value for their investment in an automobile.

See this car. Observe its evident virtues of permanent style, sane design and sturdier construction. Note how it retains the same pleasing lines, the same close attention to body details that have always emphasized Oldsmobile beauty and comfort.

Ride in the car. Drive it yourself. Because when you actually drive the car yourself or ride in it, you will appreciate that these surface excellences are but outward signs of its unseen virtues.

In looking over the Oldsmobile "4" we purposely ask you to forget any preconceived standard you have had of value, because we believe the Oldsmobile "4" is going to sweep aside every precedent of four-cylinder goodness that you may have had of any car of like class.

TIRES—Straight side, 32 x 4. Non-skid on rear wheels. Tire rack on rear for spare rim and tire.
FINISH—Best coach work, applied by brush and rubbed down by hand.

COOLING AN AID TO EFFICIENCY.

Installation of a Small Radiator and Pump System Good Plan.

After twenty years of automobile engine building it appears that the engineers and designers still fail to realize that proper cooling depends as much upon the lubricating oil as it does on the water circulation system, says the Los Angeles Sunday Times. Yet to come right down to facts, "internal cooling" by the action of the oil thrown up on the piston and cylinder walls may be more important than "external cooling" of the water jackets.

In recent years the power developed by engines of a given size has been constantly increased with consequent increase in the amount of heat which must be carried away by the cooling system. Yet in practically all cases the only thing that has been done to meet this increase has been to use more efficient radiators and better designed water jackets. The fact that the temperature of the oil is much higher than formerly has been ignored, or at least the only attempt made to meet it has been the use of a heavier oil.

The increase in the oil temperature is due primarily to the use of higher compression in the attempt to gain greater efficiency. Other contributing factors are the fuels of high heat value, the use of aluminum pistons of great heat conductivity and the general tendency toward higher engine speed

To try and meet this problem of oil temperature merely by increasing the viscosity of the oil is a poor expedient, even if the specifications concerning "flash" and "fire" are improved at the same time. Too viscous an oil means the absorption of some power in friction, and greatly adds to the difficulty in starting when cold, and although a heavier and better grade of oil may stand up and do the work, it does not help internal cooling.

The water is cooled by a scientifically constructed radiator—why not cool the oil in the same way, instead of letting it lay in the hot crank case? The arrangement could be simple indeed. A dry pump system, such as has been used in racing engines, with two pumps, a small oil radiator and a two gallon tank would be all the equipment necessary. Here the hot oil would be taken from the sump by the return pump and sent through the oil radiator and into the tank. A filter might also be installed in the system and thus clean, cool oil, with practically no waste could always be going into the engine.

The oil radiator need not be bulky or heavy, for it can be constructed of flat copper tubes, and placed behind the water radiator, fastened to its shell, where it can get the full benefit of the air blast from the fan. And so we have a simple outfit. The tremendous advantages which are unquestionable, and yet its possibilities have so far been entirely overlooked by our vast army of automobile engineers. The nearest they have come to anything of the sort has been to cast cooling fins on the bottom of the crank case, which is certainly not sufficient to meet the conditions prevailing. A real oil cooling and filtering system is badly needed, and the gain in efficiency econonomy and durability of the power plant will more than make up for the slight additional expense involved.

AMERICAN AUTOS FOR GRAND PRIX.

Duesenberg Cars to Contest French Classic July Next.

NEW YORK.—When the French Grand Prix automobile race is revived in July, America will be represented for the first time in the history of the famous speed classic.

Four Duesenberg cars will go to the starting line to meet the cream of the French, English, Italian and Belgian racing creations. The American entries are sponsored by Albert Champion, of Flint, Michigan, president of the Old Timers' Club, and head of the Champion Ignition Company.

Ralph Mulford, a veteran road race driver, and Jimmy Murphy, who rose from comparative obscurity to stardom during the 1920 speedway racing season, have been selected to drive two of the Duesenbergs, while the other American entries will be handled by Frenchmen—Albert Guyot, who has been seen in action at Indianapolis, and Inghibert.

In addition to Mr. Champion, who is making the entries, Barney Oldfield, the oldest American race driver, has contributed a substantial sum to defray the expenses of the American team.

The Duesenbergs were selected to represent America in the Grand Prix because they were the only cars ready for such a strenuous race. They have already proved their superior speed and stamina, and have dominated American racing for the past two seasons, winning eight of the nine speedway and road racing events on the 1920 schedule.

This automobile classic has not been run since the outbreak of the world war, the 1914 Grand Prix being staged on July 4 and won by Lautenschlager in a German Mercedes.

We have voted out the poor man's bar. Next Monday let us vote out the rich man's cellar.

WILL SELL CO-OPERATIVELY

Another factory in Peterborough county has arranged to sell their cheese this season at the co-operative sales in Montreal. It is the Rush Point Factory, 5 miles north of Havelock. Last year only three factories in Peterborough County sold co-operatively. So far this year, six factories have arranged to do so, with the prospect that more may do so.

HEARTBURN LIVER TROUBLE

When the liver becomes torpid and inflamed, it cannot furnish sufficient bile to the bowels, thus causing them to become constipated.

The stomach is also affected. In the case of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach, attended by disturbed appetite, caused by great acidity. Whenever too much food is taken, it is liable to ferment, and become extremely sour, vomiting often occurs; and what is thrown up, is sour and sometimes bitter.

Other liver troubles symptoms are pain under the right shoulder, yellowness of the skin and eyes, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, foul breath, water brash, jaundice, constipation, etc.

Keep your liver active by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles. Being purely vegetable they do not gripe, weaken or sicken like the old-fashioned purgatives generally do.

Mrs. Mary Strome, Glasnevin, Sask., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of heartburn and liver trouble. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine and I can highly recommend them."

SPORT COMMENT

Syracuse promoters are trying to induce Rocky Kansas to meet Mixer Mitchell in a bout there. Mitchell is the lad who knocked out Battling Johnson on Friday night, and is but 19 years of age. It would be wise on the part of his manager to keep him away from Rocky for a few months yet, for a defeat at this stage of his promising career might mean the end of his success.

There's many a grandmother going to pop off unexpectedly on Wednesday. Many a youthful orb is going to be glued to convenient knotholes in major league parks where they have no concrete stands when the baseball season is inaugurated. The game is still undergoing purging, and presents more possibilities this year than ever before.

The Yankees may win in the American, and some experts figure the St. Louis Browns have a chance. The dope, however, favours the Indians to repeat. In the National, keep your eyes trimmed on Pittsburg. With Maranville to aid them, they have agreat team. New York is expected to be the contender.

Ty Cobb is trying the "soft answer" in managing baseball teams. If he is successful, one may see an era that will usher in the suave and smooth manager and relegate the Simon Legree type out in favour of the Georges Carpentier model. Here is his creed. It reads well, but how will it work out in practice?

Loyalty begets loyalty. Be loyal to your players, be square with them, and they will be square with you.

Confide in your players, and they will confide in you. That means harmony, and it usually wins.

The use of the iron hand and mailed fist on a ball field is sheer folly. Each player having different peculiarities, must be handled differently. All must be handled humanly. A manager should advise and encourage his players. They get enough criticism from the fans and in the newspapers. A hustling team is always a dangerous team in any flag race, so get the boys hustling, and keep them at it.

Now that Carpentier are going to fight in New Jersey, it is hoped no mosquito stabs them and causes a postponement. Perhaps both will wear netting in the engagement to keep themselves from getting stung. Will the public be prevented from getting stung even if they have the netting?

A startling fact in crowd psychology is revealed through the fact that fighters who look the part don't generally get the favour of the fans. Carpentier may be a wonder or a press agented bubble, but he will always retain their enthusiasm. Corbett, one of the neatest and cleverest of fighters, is still a popular idol. Leonard hardly ever gets his hair mussed. Wilson is unpopular, and he looks like a pug. Joe Beckett looks like a grizzly, and Jack Dempsey, who is nearly as unpopular as Willard was, is a swarthy, forbidding looking fighter.

FAST RACE HORSE CHANGES HANDS

PLATFORD OF PICTON PURCHASES "ROBERT PATCH" FROM W. J. ORR OF BELLEVILLE.

BELLEVILLE, April 13.—Mr. Platford of Picton has purchased "Robert Patch" from Wm. J. Orr of Belleville, who has owned this well-known horse in Ontario the past nine years. This stallion's record at Picton last fall was 2.14½.

The sire of "Robert Patch" was the great "Dan Patch," at one time the fastest harness horse in the world, whose record was 1.55. 'Dan Patch" was owned by the International Stock Food Company of Minneapolis. "Robert Patch's" dam was "Cassandra," in her time the fastest of unhobbled racers. She was owned in Carson City, Iowa. "Robert Patch" would have been one of the fastest pacers in the world if he had stood training.

The racing blood of the "Patch" family shows itself in "Robert Patch's" offspring. He is the sire of "Sandy Patch," who made 2.09¼ over a half-mile track, and sire of "Dolly Patch," who made 2.18¼ on a half-mile track and 2.12¼ on trial. He is also the sire of several other standard record horses (2.25 and better).

GOLF FOR ARNPRIOR.

ARNPRIOR, April 13.—Prospects for the organisation of a golf club here this summer are bright. Negotiations are under way for laying out a six-hole course, and there are a great many devotees of the game who are anxious that it be introduced. LACROSSE NOT ROUGH BUT HAS BEEN UNDESERVEDLY MALIGNED

A REAL "HE-MAN'S" GAME WORTHY OF THE SUPPORT OF ALL CANADIANS--RESTRICTIONS ON CROSS CHECKING WOULD ELIMINATE SOME OBJECTIONABLE FEATURES.

(By Observer in The Sunday World.)

This is the season when the "expert advice givers" are a busy lot. They have suggestions galore for the improvement of the summer sports. Entering into the spirit of the thing, the Observer has been "infected" with the disease. Lacrosse, being the national summer pastime —and the favorite of the Observer— it is only natural that the suggestions should be along these lines. One often hears the remark that "lacrosse is a good game, but is awfully rough." This comes from those who attend perhaps an odd game or perhaps have never attended one, but have earned their opinion from hearsay. They are wrong, of course. But if they could be convinced that lacrosse is a real he-man's game and is not rough, they would become supporters of the great game. And every supporter added is another boost, and boosts are needed to bring the sport back. It is coming back, but there is still a lot of room for improvement.

Some Room For Improvement.

The Observer does not think that lacrosse is a rough game. There are incidents of rough play, and it always seems that such incidents are featured more or less, while in other games they are allowed to pass. And there is much in this. There is some room for improvement to be made in cleaning up the play, though it is not desired to make it a parlor game. Good man-to-man checking of the clean variety is enjoyed. But when methods that are not necessary are injected, then some steps are needed. Most of the trouble is on the defence. Of that there is no question. Too often a defence man jabs and slashes a home player who has the ball when such jabbing and slashing accomplishes no purpose. He does not reach the home player's stick; he only reaches the body. This should not be. Jabs at the body do not relieve the player of the ball. All they do is to raise the ire of the home player, and then bad feeling creeps up.

Eliminate Jab Checking.

The Observer understands that in the West a movement is on foot, and it has also been taken up by the Eastern Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, to eliminate this jab checking. The Observer is in perfect accord with the suggestion. It is agreed that the move is a ticklish one, and good strict officials will be needed to punish the offenders. The jab check is that known as "poking" at a man with the end of the stick. There is no objection to a man jabbing out to reach an opponent's stick and relieve him of the ball. That is perfectly good lacrosse and part of a defence man's privilege. But too often is seen a home man circling around in front of the net with the ball and the defence man following him. The latter cannot reach his opponent's stick, so instead jabs at his body. Often a player has been cut in the face when the jab comes high. The Observer is of the opinion that such jabbing, when not made for the stick of the ball carrier, should be eliminated. It would do away with much of the play that creates bad feeling.

Define Legitimate Cross Checking.

Another rule that is a joke is that of the cross check. The O.A.L.A. book says that the "use of the check commonly known as the 'square' or or 'cross' check, which consists of one player charging into another with both hands on the lacrosse, so as to make the stick meet the body of his opponent," is not permitted. But not one defence man in a hundred is there who does not use the cross check method to keep an opponent out. They do not charge at their man, of course, but still they use both hands on the lacrosse and prevent the ball carrier from going around them. The Observer thinks that the jab check should be eliminated and a certain amount of cross checking permitted. But it is suggested that cross checking only below the shoulders be permitted and only when the ball carrier is coming at an opponent. If a man charges into an opponent and at the same time cross checks he should be penalized. But there is no hurt or injury to be sustained by the ball carrier if while manoeuvring around and checked by a defence man the latter uses his stick with both hands in the "cross" fashion to keep the ball carrier from getting around.

One Step at a Time.

As stated before, there are few defence men who do not use the "cross" method of keeping an opponent out. The writer does not believe in cross checking, but feels that if the jab check is eliminated that it would be asking too much to eliminate also the "cross" method of defence. That would take an advantage away from the defence and make the task of the attack easier. That is not desired. Plenty of goals are scored now and nothing is better to witness than a strong defence attacked up against a tricky home. It makes for clever lacrosse and brings out the best in the players. There are perhaps other suggestions to be made for the betterment of lacrosse, but the Observer firmly believes that too many changes are not wanted. A step at a time will bring about the desired result. Experiment would prove the weaknesses and the strength of the suggestions.

ADVICE TO LOCAL FOOTBALL CAPTAINS

INTERESTING AND HELPFUL HINST TO THE MAN IN COMMAND BY AN INTERNATIONALIST.

(By Jesse Pennington.)

If your club have elected you to the proud position of captain, and it is a proud position for any youth or man to occupy, a great responsibility devolves upon you. In the ordinary club, the captain and the secretary are the all-important officials.

A good committee is very useful, of course, but if you have the right man as secretary and the right man as captain, there will be a great chance of the club flourishing. The secretary sees to everything off the field, and makes things work smoothly and satisfactorily, while the captain has it in his power to make things go equally smoothly on the field of play.

I am not saying for a moment that you don't want a good president and a long list of vice-presidents, all of them men who are willing to manifest their generosity for the benefit of your club. They will never do anything more harmful than make short speeches—and, occasionally, long ones—at your meetings, and they always mean well. And you would be well advised if you got as many of them on your club card as possible, for donations are very, very useful to football clubs, more especially in these days, when grounds have reached almost prohibitive prices, even if they are always obtainable.

I can assure you I know a lot about this business, for I was at junior football a long time before I was an international player, and I have not forgotten anything about my early days, either. I don't want to forget anything about those early days; I don't think much of men who are disposed to turn their backs upon what they did when they were young. A man wants to feel proud of his club, no matter what the standing of that club may be.

The Importance of Choosing a Captain.

But, having got a good secretary and a good committee and a long list of vice-presidents, who are prepared to get their hands down, as the saying goes, see that you get the right man as captain. It is the captain who has a great deal to do with setting the general tone of the team. A captain who has plenty of personality is the man you want—one who will not hesitate to speak his mind, and exert to the full the influence that he possesses. It is not much use having a captain who is flabby, and who has no personality.

You must have a leader, and you want a leader to whom you can look up to, a leader who will exercise a healthy moral influence on your team, for you may take it for granted that the other fellows will take their tone from the skipper, and it will largely depend upon you, as captain, whether they become known as a good sportsman-like set of players, or whether they get a reputation as being a set of wranglers. Personally, I should not like to be captain of a team of wranglers. But I have met such teams, and, as I say, they very often take their cue from their leader.

I can assure you that I have played against teams whom it was never at all pleasurable to meet, simply because they did not go out of their way to make things happy for their opponents. Having arranged a match with them on a given Saturday, and being due at their field, you had to find it as best you could, for they never sent your serretary a postcard, earlier in the week, telling you exactly how to get to it. There was no one representing that club to meet you at the tram terminus or railway-station, and, when you found their ground, you went and got dressed without seeing them; and sometimes it happened that you kicked the ball aimlessly about in the cold for twenty minutes or half an hour before they made their appearance.

Then they spent plenty of time changing, with the result that you had to play half an hour each way instead of forty-five minutes. And then they contrived to wrangle perpetually through the match—and wrote off the return fixture before you had a chance of doing it! You see, I know the game all through. Don't think that, because I happen to have got up in the world, in a football sense, that I don't know as much about these things as any of you, because I do.

It is the Captain's Fault.

But it would be surprising indeed if such a team had a good captain, for the simple reason that if he had been elected captain he would not have stopped with them long. There are good captains and bad captains, and I don't think that you can be a good captain unless you have the genius for captaincy. Some young fellows, and some fellows who are no longer quite young, have that genius, and they manage to let others feel the benefit of it throughout their lives.

The good captain will always be thinking of the next match, and, unless he has a secretary who can be thoroughly trusted, he will probably see that that secretary advises the visiting team in good time as to the precise venue and the time of the kick-off and the best way of reaching the ground. When the strangers arrive, he makes them welcome and shows them to their dressing-room, whether it be an elaborate one or an unpretentious one.

He shows them every little courtesy that he can think of before the game and during the game, and also when the game is over. Football clubs remember a man like that. And then, if occasion serves—sometimes it does, and sometimes it does not—he invites them round to the headquarters of his club, and there they have a little social meeting. And if the game has left any legacy of friction or ill-will, it is rapidly forgotten in the joviality that prevails at this festive meeting. It is much nicer to begin a match like that, and play a match like that, and end a match like that, than to find yourself pitted against a set of wranglers.

The Moral Side.

A good moral character stands for a good deal in a matter of this kind. I dare say you have met men whom no one in the side would venture to offend, simply and solely because they were afraid to offend such a man? I don't mean to say that they were afraid of offending him because he might retaliate physically; they were afraid of offending him because you don't like to offend a man of really good moral character, a man who exercises a healthy influence over those around him.

It is very fine indeed, to meet a youth who is destined to be a leader. When such a one is present, into his work. Let that man be away occasionally, and it is remarkable how slackness shddenly develops. You don't know why it is, or his team are all keenness, every man is alert, and put his whole soul how it comes about, or where it begins, but you know that when he is not there things have a habit of going awry.

There is a great deal in personal magnetism. Some men have it, and other men have not, and if you don't possess it you never will have it. You may train and practise as much as you like, but you cannot get personal magnetism unless Nature has endowed you with it. Of course, you can improve everything by practice, but there are certain gifts which a man has—and they are gifts, because they cannot be acquired. The ability to become a good captain is one of those gifts.

My Advice.

You would like to be a good captain, I take it? Well, then, the best advice I can give you is that you study your men. You must study them all; you must make a special study of each one individually. You have to consider their strong points and their weaknesses, you have to get them to give you all that they are capable of giving, and you have to keep their weak points out of evidence.

If you have that sort of control over men, if you can make your personality and influence felt, you will be a good captain, whether you chance to lead a big team or a minor team, I don't think it makes much difference.

I have known many men who have seemed to be captains all their lives. They were captain of their school team, they were captain of a boys' club, they were captain of a youths' club, and then they became captain of a big national club. I think you will find that true of a considerable number of men, because I can assure you that in an ordinary club fellows don't elect a captain in any haphazard way; they pretty well know what they are doing.

I have often thought that the question of captaincy does not obtain the recognition it should in connection with big clubs. It should be regarded as a matter of vital moment, but in some League clubs, years ago, you used to see a different captain every week.

Now that is a mistake; I am quite sure of that. You want the best possible man for captain, but when you have the best man there is no advantage whatever in changing him and letting the honour go round. That is quite useless as a policy.

No one knows where the influence of a good captain begins and where that influence ends, and if any clubs that you know do not attach as much importance to the question of captaincy as you think they should, tell them about it, because a good captain is one of the finest assets that any club can possess.

BIG FIGHT WILL BE IN NEW JERSEY STATE

Carpentier-Dempsey Bout In One of Three Cities—Governor Satisfied.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Tex Rickard has announced that New Jersey will be the site for the world heavyweight boxing championship bout between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier on July 2.

Rickard said the match would be held either in Jersey City, Newark, or Atlantic City, and that the choice between these places would be definitely made "in a few days," or as soon as negotiations with the State Boxing Commission are completed.

Rickard will inspect sites in all three cities during the next few days and decide on the one which offers the greatest advantages for handling what is expected to be the largest assembly of boxing enthusiasts which ever witnessed a titular bout in any weight class. Wherever located, the arena, which will cost $100,000, will seat at least 50,000 spectators, and will be within a short distance of New York and accessible by all means of transportation. The seats will range from $5 to $50.

Dempsey, as heavyweight champion of the world, and Carpentier, in the role of challenger and European title holder, will compete for sixty per cent. of the gross gate receipts, which will be divided on a basis of sixty per cent. to Dempsey and forty per cent. to Carpentier.

Twelve Round Limit.

The fight will be for twelve rounds, with no decision, to conform with the State law.

A referee, yet to be selected will be in the ring with the principals, but his sole duty will be to see that the rules governing such glove contests are strictly observed. He will have no authority to indicate the winner, except in case of a foul or a knockout.

Dempsey will leave Seattle tonight for the East to begin training, Rickard said. Rickard declared that all arrangements are satisfactory to Dempsey and Carpentier. Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, corroborated this for Dempsey.

Governor Consents.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 13.—"As long as the bout is conducted in an orderly manner, according to the boxing law, it will be a good thing for New Jersey. It has my approval," Governor Edward I. Edwards said to-day when notified that Tex Ricgard had selected New Jersey grounds for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

SOAP BOX ORATOR IS FINED $100.

First Case Under London's New Rules.

LONDON, April 13.—(Associated Press).—The first case in London under the new emergency regulations promulgated by the Government was heard in Police Court when James Matthews was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty pounds or to serve two months in prison. He was charged with committing an attack calculated to cause disaffection among the civil population.

Matthews, speaking from a Bolshevist platform in Hyde Park, was alleged to have declared: "Now is the time to overthrow the rotten government system and the capitalistic class."

The prosecution of the man was unusual, because of the customary tolerance of the authorities toward radicals, including Bolshevists, who use Hyde Park for their violent oratory.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

"THE SILVER KING."

The first appearance of Trans-Canada's English Players, a specially selected company of London artists brought to Canada to tour the Dominion in a repertoire of the most popular romantic dramas and other well-known plays, will be made at the Grand Opera House in this city on Wednesday, April 20th, matinee and night.

For this occasion, the world-famous drama, "East Lynne," has been selected, and Henry Arthur Jones' powerful drama, "The Silver King."

Among the cast are such noted actors as Mr. Henry Lonsdale, Mr. Frederick Ross, Mr. Vernon Fortescue, Mr. Norman B. Cannon, Mr. Edward Cooper, Mr. Hilliard Vox, Mr. Bert Randall, Mr. F. Joynsen-Powell, Mr. Godfrey Ward, Mr. Tom Wilson, and such actresses as Miss Winifred James, Miss Dorothy Reeve and Miss Peggy Bryett.

"WAY DOWN EAST."

Reserved seats have been placed on sale for the engagement of D. W. Griffith's wonder spectacle "Way Down East," which will be seen for the first time in this city at the Grand Theatre for a stay of three days, commencing to-morrow.

This picturization of a famous play has been pronounced by substantial authorities the greatest work of this genius of the screen. The producer has combined drama, artistic motion photography, color and humor with a musical embellishment that spells a genuine departure in the art of the theatre. He has vivified the people of Lottie Blair Parker's original play and brought them forth from the land of make-believe far more charmingly than they were originally introduced. Mr. Griffith has also taken a step forward in this presentation by employing a new idea in color schemes, whereby he brings forth the richness of gowns and surroundings in scenes he has builded to contrast the pastoral background of the main story. He shifts his audiences from country to town and back again; gives them news of landscape splendor never before equalled on the screen, and ends it all in a compelling series of snow-storm and ice-gorge scenes, the like of which have until now remained unattempted. The most notable cast of players ever assembled for a screen production interpret the various roles of this remarkable production.

AT THE ALLEN.

PUZZLING PROBLEM FOR GIRL IN LOVE TO TRY AND SOLVE

A young girl, unsophisticated and with a joyous sort of innocence, is confronted with a problem which would puzzle one much more versed in affairs of the heart than she, in "The Vice of Fools," an Alice Joyce special Vitagraph production, which will be seen at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

As Marion Rogers, daughter of a wealthy financier, Miss Joyce reaches a dividing of the ways in her own existence—a point from which she must either proceed blindly with Fate, or at which she might conspire with that cynic to bring happiness into the lives of her dearest and best friends. The situation is skillfully and delicately handled in the unfolding of the story, but, even then, it was a topic of considerable discussion in the studio while the various scenes were being filmed.

Should a young girl who loves a man, who loves her in return, sit idly by while another seeks to win that man by means beyond the power of the girl to curb? Should an infatuation started in that manner be ignored by the girl, or should she take steps to protect herself and her happiness, as well as that of the man, from an affair the rosiness of which would soon turn dead? The picture gives one solution.

AT THE REGENT.

WILLIAM RUSSELL STAR IN STORY OF REDWOODS

The California Redwoods are the setting for a powerful story of love and adventure, entitled "The Man Who Dared," a new Fox photoplay starring William Russell, which is open at the Regent Theatre on Thursday.

Advance reports indicate that Russell here has a starring vehicle well suited to him. He plays the part of a lumberjack boss who commits a sin in order to hold the love of a girl, and is led to repentance and atonement.

The story and scenario are by Julius G. Furthman, and Emmett J. Flynn directed the production. Supporting Mr. Russell are Eileen Percy—since made a Fox star—as leading woman; Frank Brownlee, whom all film fans know; Fred Warren, Lon Poff and a sqaud of Californian lumberjacks—the real article. The chief of the lumberjacks is Jack King, who has been in the forests since early boyhood.

WILL BE AVAILABLE FROM MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE AT EMPRESS HOTEL—BIG RECEPTION FOR CHAMPIONS.

A few days ago Toronto went wild in a reception to the University of Toronto hockey team, winners of the Allan Cup. At Ottawa big preparations are being made to receive the Ottawa Senators, returning from the West, victors in the Stanley Cup games. Peterborough, likewise, will turn out to-night to honor the boys who in a game that calls for a combination of everything required in all other branches of sports, have proved to be Ontario's best.

A limited number of tickets for the banquet to the champions, at the Empress Hotel this evening, will be available from members of the committee who will be at the hotel. Dinner is announced for 7.30 o'clock.

Amateur sport will receive a big boost from the banquet to-night. Those who are behind the movement to improve sports in this city, seized upon the present occasion to bring the citizens together, to have the local situation reviewed, and suggestions made to bring about a better order of things.

It is fitting that the Caledonian Club should have a part in the celebration. The club has accomplished great things for amateur sport, and is advancing rapidly. The pipe band of the club will play the champions from the Y.M.C.A. to the Empress Hotel, leaving the Y.M.C.A. at 7.15 o'clock. The citizens should be out to give the champions a reception worthy of the occasion.

Dr. A. W. McPherson will be Chairman at the banquet. The speakers will be ex-Mayor J. J. Duffus, President of the Board of Trade; Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Principal of the Collegiate Institute; Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, General Manager of De Laval Co., Ltd.; Rev. Father Costello, representing the Athletic Association of the Holy Name Society, and Mr. R. M. Glover, Past-President of the Ontario Hockey Association. Mr. Clare Stuart, Captain of the champions, will reply to the toast of "Our Guests." Mr. John Crane and Mr. Walter Evans will entertain the gathering.

MISS ZARA CLINTON COLLAPSES ON STAGE

FAVOURITE ENTERTAINER SUFFERING FROM BREAKDOWN AND UNABLE TO APPEAR—"THE GIRL FROM NOWHERE."

Peterborough play-goers learned with regret last night that Miss Zara Clinton, one of the most popular artists who visit this city, had suffered a severe nervous breakdown, collapsing on the stage at Halifax, and has had to go to the West Indies, accompanied by her husband, Mr. F. Stuart Whyte, in the hope that a change of climate will bring her back to health. "The Girl From Nowhere," in which Miss Clinton was seen here a month ago, paid a return visit to the Grand last night, and the title role was very acceptably filled by Miss Mona Warren, the dainty little Vancouver girl who was seen here early in the season as the principal "boy" in "Babes in the Wood." Miss Warren had a difficult task in accepting this important role at short notice, but she rose to the occasion in splendid style. "The Girl From Nowhere" confirmed the hit it made on its earlier appearance here, and was heartily enjoyed by the big audience. Billy Oswald and J. V. Barrett-Lennard, the two popular comedians, were as successful as usual in their fun-making, keeping the crowd convulsed, the musical numbers were artistically rendered, and the whole performance was up to the Stuart-Whyte standard. His attractions have given Peterborough audiences many happy evenings, and "The Girl From Nowhere" will rank high in the list that Mr. Stuart-Whyte has given us.

BRITAIN SEEKS MATERIAL FOR HER CHAMPIONS.

British Boxing Fans in Bad Way For Good Men.

LONDON, April 9.—"Oh, where, where are our champions gone?" wail the old country boxing authorities in their latest sport publications. Where? is right. Their one and only world's champion is world-famed James Wilde, and he is likely to retire soon, and then the old land, who has always prided herself as being the home of boxing, will be like the dog that belonged to Old Mother Hubbard.

Outside of Wilde, the old country has no other world's title, and the prospects certainly do not seem very bright this season.

They point to such men as Ben. Jordan, Joe Bowker and Jim Driscoll, all of whom, in their day, could play havoc with any other of their weight, and wonder why there are no successors to these champions.

The question is a hard one to explain, although there is room for a lot of discussion. The war certainly hit the old country sportsmen very hard, and at the same time, left the States untouched, so that it will take a few years to overcome the great handicap caused by the war. Another thing that the old country boxers will have to learn is that the foreign boxers, especially the Americans, are no longer a bunch of husky sluggers, but very scientific exponents in the art of boxing.

A few years ago there were understood to be two classes of boxers. The first was a speedy and quick, light-hitting type, and the second, a slow, heavy-hitting fighter. Today we find the two combined, and it is the heavy-hitting combined with dazzling footwork, that is upsetting the old country boys.

I notice, says a correspondent, that the fans are likely to have the privilege of paying three dollars to see Mr. Dempsey spar a couple of rounds, or should there not be enough in it to make it Jack's while to undress, he may referee the semi-wind up as per Pat Brennan.

What is to be the drawing card? Is it to see a man who paid a small fortune to get out of a charge of being a slacker, or is it a couple of rounds of shadow fighting by the world's champion? Either is dear at fifty cents.

The bout suggested between Soldier Jones and Bob Roper should be a good one, as it would certainly please the fans to see Mr. Jones matched against a real boxer. Bob Roper is a gentleman that Mr. Jones has the greatest respect for. In fact, in their last contest, Roper got so far ahead on points, and bit so blamed hard, that Jones didn't see the use of prolonging the agony after eight rounds.

Jack Dempsey was to sail for England, and, as there were no likely opponents, he was to tour the music halls. Sad to relate, however, the music hall profession objects to boxers being placed on the bill as a star turn, so Jack will bask in the sun at Atlantic City, and perhaps take a trip to Toronto to cover the expenses.

Burns and Beckett.

Tommy Burns and Joe Beckett have been matched again prior to Beckett coming to the States. The clash is to occur in May, and is the outcome of a little fracas, at which Becket slammed Tommy on the nose. Tommy had been writing for the papers, and his remarks concerning Joe disturbed the champ's equilibrium, and before Tommy could get his hands out of his pockets, where he usually carries them, Joe had let loose.

I suppose if Burns wins Canada will have a heavyweight champion of the British empire, but I don't fancy Tommy's chances. I wonder does he know they are finding oil back near his home town in the west? Somebody ought to tell him. Beckett has wagered £2000 to £1000 that he wins, and Burns has accepted.

CLUB HAS BALANCE.

OSHAWA, April 13.— The financial statement of the hockey club here, issued by Secretary B. Lowe, shows a balance on hand of $32.18. This is considered especially satisfactory in view of the fact that last season complete new outfits and other equipment had to be purchased for both teams, which only received fifty percent. of the gate receipts. Port Hope gave the largest gate, amounting to $308.75.

BEST GAME GROUND ON THIS CONTINENT

SASKATOON, Sask., April 13.—(Canadian Press.)—The claim that the province of Sasaktchewan is one of the best big game countries on this continent is well established by the chief game guardian's report for the season of 1920. The report shows a total of 2,170 big game animals secured by the 3,000 licensed hunters last season. The varieties taken include 70 caribou, 870 deer and 1,200 moose.

The value of game resources is not generally recognized. It is estimated that half a million dollars is annually spent in this province on big game hunting.

The first of the season's horse shows in the East will be staged by the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, April 20-23.

CAN. ROTARIANS IN MISSION TO AUSTRALIA

It was announced at the Halifax Rotary Club luncheon recently that Rotarian Col. J. Layton Ralston of Halifax had been elected with Rotarian Walter Davidson of Calgary, formerly of Peterborough, to visit Australia in the interests of the establishment there of Rotary Clubs. Rotary is but sixteen years old, but has already achieved international significance and is established in many South African Republics, England, and some European countries. Australia has heard of the Rotary idea. The work of promoting Rotary in Australia is being done by the Canadian clubs. The Rotarians felt in choosing Colonel Ralston that his personality which found so effective a vent in his overseas service would be equally efficacious in this Rotary service, which is likewise of a voluntary and not professional character.

REFERENDUM INFORMATION

NEXT Monday, April 18, the electors of Ontario will be expected to vote on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

The reason so much liquor is being consumed in Ontario is because the law permits liquor to be imported into the province. At present it is perfectly legal to import car loads of intoxicating liquor into Ontario. Under these conditions it is difficult and almost impossible to properly enforce the laws.

Next Monday, electors, on entering the polling booths, will be handed ballots reading as follows:

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? NO

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? YES X

People who are in favor of temperance should mark an X opposite the word YES as shown on the ballot above.

When To Vote

This year the polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m,

The law allows employees one hour, in addition to the noon hour, without loss of time, in which to vote.

People who find it impossible to vote before 5 p.m. will be able to vote between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

MEETINGS THIS WEEK

This week meetings will be held as follows:

WEDDING BELLS

FOWLIE—TUCKER.

At All Saints' Church yesterday, at 12 o'clock noon, Miss Violet Tucker and Mr. John Fowlie were united by the Rev. R. B. Grobb in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bride looked charming in a suit of navy broadcloth with picture hat. Her sister, Miss Grace Tucker, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. R. Metcalfe supported the groom. Miss Tucker was given away by her father, Mr. E. Tucker. Miss Muriel Bridge played the Wedding March and sang "Until" very sweetly during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony a lunch was served at the home of the bride's parents, the table beautifully decorated with carnations and daffodils. Mr. and Mrs. Fowlie left on the 3.20 train for Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

IS BEAUTY SKIN DEEP?

"Silk stockings in summer are cool, see;
In winter they're as warm as they can be."
The Missy who spoke was neat and sweet
And many gazed as she tripped the street.
Her arms were full but she waltzed along,
And withal she hummed such a tuneful song;
We could not catch all the words she phrased,
But "Nelson's Records" she emphatically praised.

THE VALUE OF HUMAN LIFE

What is the value of human life? It cannot be measured by any medium which is in common use. There are so many things that enter into the consideration that we find ourselves lost in a maze of conflicting thoughts when we consider the problem. One may say that the loss of the eyesight is a damage which is considered by the average man and covered by his accident insurance policy to the extent of ten thousand dollars. A like valuation may be put upon other organs, yet in the face of this we see the spectacle of a fifty thousand dollar heart balm being granted by our Courts, and so our basis of computation is entirely changed. The final conclusion is, that human life is a thing which cannot be valued. It is not on the market. No one would sell it for the most fabulous sum because as soon as it is sold, the capacity for appreciating the remuneration would be lost.

Do you realize that disease is a partial loss of life? Do you know that when an organ functions abnormally, it is expressing only a part of the life which it should enjoy? Have you ever considered that this loss of the full expression of life is a thing upon which no value can be placed? When we think of the matter seriously, this is our conclusion, yet daily we jeopardize our lives and place ourselves in conditions where we cannot possibly enjoy the maximum expression of vitality. This condition wherein life is only partly expressed is due to an inability of the nervous system to properly function. It cannot express the maximum vitality because pressure exists on some of its nerve trunks. Isn't it logical to remove the pressure existing on nerve trunks, thus permitting the full expression of life in the tissue cells?

With an inestimable value upon life, you cannot afford to neglect your body, to continue to suffer, when your Chiropractor can release this nerve pressure and thus permit your enjoying the maximum health.

CANNING FACTORIES WILL NOT OPERATE

The Port Milford Canning Co., the Waupoos Canning Co., and the Quinte Canning Co. will not operate their factories this year, they have announced. A large proportion of last year's pack is still on hand, and the future market outlook is decidedly unfavourable. Their operating costs last year were abnormally heavy, both labor and material making production costs away above the average year. These factors are responsible for the closing down policy of the above named companies.

The annual meeting of St. Luke's Y.P.A. took place last evening, with an attendance of about 30 of the young people of the society. The reports for the previous year were read and the election of officers for 1921 took place, as follows: Patron, Rev. Mr. Bousfield; President, Mr. Cockran; Vice-President, Mr. Heber Rogers; Secretary, Miss Flossie Pammett; Treasurer, Mr. Gordon Maniece. At the conclusion of the routine business a social hour was spent, with refreshments served by the young ladies.

Miss I. V. Sarginson spent Monday and Tuesday in Buffalo.

Miss Sara G. Robinson, 525 Weller street, left Saturday morning for New York, where she will spend a couple of weeks with her sister, Miss Abbie Robinson, of the New York Hospital, and with her friend, Mrs. Cameron, (nee Bessie Connell).

The Boethian Club of George street Methodist Church presented a very bright little play entitled 'Aunt Susan's Visit", last evening in the Sunday School hall, which was filled to capacity. Much credit is due Mrs. E. Gardner, the teacher of the Sunday School class which undertook the production, and to Mrs. E. E. Harvey, who directed it so successfully, and to whom the class presented a bouquet of beautiful roses as a token of their appreciation of her efforts.

The play is a humorous setting of a splendid moral, and deals with the adventures of an old fashioned, but whole-hearted lady with money who visits relations with social aspirations. Her arrival on the scene with a feather bed is very embarrassing to the "climbers", and her reception of various callers is most entertaining. When her nephew becomes ill, however, Aunt Susan proves a tower of strength to the entire family, and her return to her village home is accompanied by the sincere wishes of many newly made city friends. All taking part in this amusing little production were well grounded in their several parts. Miss Marjorie E. Bridge made a splendid "Aunt Susan" in hoops and old-fashioned bonnet. Horace Coon was the father. John Thomas Tibbs who likes a simple, unassuming life, and whose daughter, Mary Alice played by Miss Elsie E. Taylor, a charming curly-haired girl, shares his characteristics. Miss Mae McKim, as Rebecca Jane, gave a good portrayal of the aspiring, stylish young lady who followed her mother's climbing propensities, enacted by Miss Eva Outram as Mrs. Tibbs. Senator Sam Smith, played by Charles Telford, is a suitor for the hand of Mary Alice, and Chas. E. Smalley as Mr. Guy de Marchmont Coggs, is the fashionable lover of Rebecca Jane. Mrs. Johnston Highborn, played by Myrna Baird, is a wealthy and snobbish visitor to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tibbs, while Alice Stevens, as Mrs. Linda Tuggs, is a quaint old character after Aunt Susan's own heart, with her homely speech and basket of cabbages. Madame Pauline Wizer, taken by Gladys Hunter, is an extremely cultured lady, who has come to consult Mr. Tibbs about a proposal. Mrs. E. Gardner as Mrs. Weakly, Evelyn McKim as Mrs. Jenkins, Vivian Waram as Miss Redlip, Hazel Waram as Mrs. Sadden, Louise James as Miss Violet Twilight, Leta Brownscombe as Miss Harriet Mayflower and Amy McFarlane as Caroline, the maid, all took their parts in a very creditabe manner.

A fine programme was given between acts by local artists. Miss Myrtle Succee, Mr. Harold Jones, Miss Doris Rathbone and Mr. Clarence McKee rendered a vocal quartette, Miss Dorothy Stilson and Miss Katharine Lewis gave instrumental solos, Miss Rathbone and Miss Succee a duet, and Miss Maizie Cunningham acted as accompanist. Readings were given by Miss Hazel Davidson, Miss Eva Outram and by two little boys, Maxwell Parnell and Gordon Cunsolus.

The recital given by the pupils of Mr. W. McKee Bingham in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. last evening was, as one who attended expressed it, "more like a concert of professional musicians." The outstanding feature of the different numbers was an air of finished technique which placed this recital far above the average. Mr. Bingham, who has been in the city only since last October, has been able in so short a time to impart this quality to his pupils who sang last night, and the opinion of all present was expressed in the utterance of Judge Huycke at the conclusion of the programme when he remarked on his astonishment at the progress made in the few months the performers have been taking instruction from their teacher. Mrs. Garnet Greer of Kingston, a former pupil of Mr. Bingham's, and Mrs. Percy Hooper, violinist, assisted with the recital, and the accompanists were the Misses Muriel Bridge Jean Herbison, and Agnes Logan. The programme was as follows: "As Through the Street," from La Boheme, Miss Florence Harrison, soprano; "A Dream" and "The Rosary," Mr. Sam Whitehouse, bass; "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," Miss Trucie Pearson, soprano and Mr. Walter Evans tenor; "Autumn Sadness" and "The Barley Sheaves," Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, contralto. 'O Sea, Dreadful Sea" and "At Twilight," Miss Trucie Pearson; violin solo, "Meditation," from Thais, Mrs. Percy Hooper; "La Donna e Mobile," from Rigoletto, Mr. Walter Evans; "Happy Song" and "When Song is Sweet," Mrs. Garnet Greer, soprano; duet, "Home to our Mountains," Mrs. Bingham and Mr. Evans; "Tired Hands" and "Invocation," Miss Harrison, with violin obligato by Mrs. Hooper; "Silent as Night," Mr. Sam Whitehouse; 'What's in the Air?" Mrs. Greer; Prelude from Cycle of Life, Mrs. Bingham; "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," Miss Pearson; "I Would That My Love," Miss Harrison and Mr. Whitehouse.

At the conclusion of the programme, light refreshments were served by Mrs. Bingham and Mrs. F. Whitehouse.

Amongst those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Bridge, Dr. and Mrs. Greer, Mrs. R. Denne, Mr. and Mrs. Fessenden, Judge Huycke Mrs. and Miss Huycke, Dr. and Mrs. E. V. Frederick, Mr. McBride, Mr. Elliott, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Whitehouse, Mrs. Jamieson, Mr. and Mrs. Howson, Miss Edith Pryce, Miss Layton, Mrs. Hopwood, and Mrs. Sutherland.

Miss Charlotte Simmers and Miss Hilda Blaisdell, of Toronto, are the guests of the later's sister, Mrs. Sutton, 543 Park street.

VOL. XLIX. NO 87 — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1921 — PRICE THREE CENTS

Has Ambrose J. Small, Missing Millionaire, Been Found at Last?

MAN WANDERING IN WOODS AROUND KINGSTON ANSWERS THE DESCRIPTION OF THE THEATRE OWNER WHO STEPPED FROM TORONTO OPERA HOUSE INTO OBLIVION SIXTEEN MONTHS AGO.

AUTHORITIES ARE INVESTIGATING

KINGSTON, April 14. — (Special to the Examiner.) — Is the man who has been wandering around the vilage of Verona and the surrounding district, for the past three weeks, Ambrose J. Small, the missing millionaire theatrical man.

This is the question that G. R. Hornbeck, Provincial police constable, located in Kingston, is endeavoring to solve.

He has been notified that a man answering the description of the missing millionaire, has been in the Verona district and is putting forth every effort possble to locate the man and ascertain if he is the one sought. People who have met the man state that the description tallies with that given of Mr. Small.

It appears that the man has been around the district for three weeks moving in and out of the village in a mysterious manner. The man acts very queerly and it is believed that he is of unsound mind. It is stated that he is wearing a heavy overcoat with a furlined collar, a slouch Fedora hat and a suit of clothes which are almost threadbare. It is stated that he has been carrying a large sum of money and also has a gold watch and chain, and some who have met the man state that he has a habit when looking at his watch of rubbing the chain, a habit which it is stated Mr. Small had, and of which reference has been made in the newspaeprs from time to time. The man of mystery has been spending a great deal of his time around the mines at Verona but has very little to say. In fact he has refused to talk to the people about himself, and from time to time has wandered away into the bushes giving the people the impression that he does not want them to know who he is.

It is stated that one night he was noticed around the mines with a lantern and that when asked what he was doing there he replied "I am waiting here for my prospectors."

One lady who resides at Verona, was shown a picture of Mr. Small and she felt sure that the "man of mystery" was the missing Toronto millionaire.

A RIOT OF COLOUR AT THE ARMOURIES FOR MOTOR SHOW

DECORATIONS PRESENT A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE—THE SHOW OPENS TO-NIGHT.

The Armouries this morning, even with arrangements for all the booths not quite completed, presented a very brilliant spectacle. The decorators have surpassed themselves this year in their harmonious blending of many bright colours and simulated flower effects. An immense wooden flag, studded with dozen of electric lights of different colours, blazes above the entrance, flags and banners of all sorts decorate the windows and walls, pennants stream from the ceiling, and a long line of upright wooden staves on either side of the hall bears aloft the flags of many different nations. The name-cards above each exhibit are most artisically done and add pleasing note to the general decorative effect. The first object that strikes the eye upon entering is an immense basket with broad green paper strips woven in and out between the staves, and a handle entertwined with pink blossoms. These same cheerful blossoms with their wonderfully natural look, decorate many of the booths, and the ice cream will come from the daintiest mingling of mauve and white decorations, with pink blossoms and pussy willows for garniture.

The Coleman Lamp Company, of Toronto, with a whirling gasoline lamp device, is done in black and orange, and the Kingan Hardware Company have a rich brown effect. The booth presided over by the Catholic Women's League is very attractively decorated in a latticework of yellow and white, with yellow flowers, and the Canadian Oil Company's stand, done in black and yellow, is very striking. Pale blue is the fancy of the Heintzman decorators, and the Massey bicycles have a bright exhibit trimmed with red, white and blue. The candy booth, under the charge of the Business Girls' Club, is most gorgeous. Green and white checking forms the base, and immense bouquets of wonderful huge flowers in startling blues and yellows make this corner a centre of beautiful color. The Canadian Packing Compuany have a neatly arranged exhibit, and the North British Rubber Company of Edinburgh has a display of sporting and golf goods on a brilliant red background with Mr. W. J. Hopwood in charge.

There are all sorts of cars, immaculate and glistening, in colours of black, and green and blue, in all sizes, from a wonderful affair in grey and maroon with luxurious upholstering and cut glass flower vases to a neat little black coupe.

There is a special room for "everything electrical" with a model kitchen erected by the Utilities Commission, containing all the modern electric household conveniences, with a demonstration of washing-machines and small appliances on the side, and a dignified table in black and orange bearing all sorts of comfortable looking things worked by electricity.

The tea-room, in charge of the Otonabee Chapter, is most attractive with green and white paper festoons, and white-clothed tables bearing real spring blooms of pansies and carnations. Here tea is served, with salads and cold meats, if one desires them, at a very moderate price. The fashion parade, which will be held upstairs in the lecture room this year, has a conven ient stage, with beautiful background of black and silver and elaborate chairs and floor lamp.

The dance hall is in the very best condition for the merry trippers, the black-face comedians will have their minstrel show in the recreation room, and there is a good-sized fish-pond for the children, right beside the entrance.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION CALLED IN SASKATCHEWAN.

REGINA, April 14.—At a meeting of the executive of the Provincial Conservative Association here, it was decided to call a Provincial convention to be held in Regina on Wednesday, 27th April.

At this convention the course of action the party will follow, in view of the fact that a Provincial election appears to be imminent, will be decided on.

PETERBORO BOYS WHO WON IN RIFLE SHOOT

Nineteen hunnred and seventy six boys and girls won medals for accurate shooting in the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps competition during the month of March. Of this number 922 won the pro-marksman medal, 501 the marksman, 210 the sharpshooter, 320 won bars, 14 won the expert medal and 9 captured the instructor's medal. With 100 medals won in January, 1447 in February, and the 1976 in March, a total of 4523 medals have been awarded to the youth of America in the first three months of this year. This organization is growing at the rate of 3000 members a month and on an average of 75 maches are being conducted monthly. The highest award that any member of the W. J. R. C. can win is the expert medal. The following Peterborough names are listed among the Canadian winners in March: B. Copping, William N. Miller, Donald Fleming, C. Crawford, A. MacFarlane, Orville Martin, Farron Stevens, S. Watson, Clarence Watt, Chester Crawford.

BANDIT "PAT" IS STILL AT LARGE AND BELIEVED HE ESCAPED POSSES AND BOARDED TRAIN NEAR CARODAC

LONDON, Ont., April 14 (Canadian Press).—Bandit "Pat," the fourth man in the Melbourne murder and attempted bank robbery, is saill at large, despite a most vigorous search in all parts of Western Ontario.

It is presumed that he managed to catch a freight train near Caradoc on Monday night, and in this way eluded capture.

An inquest into the circumstances surrounding the murder of Russell Campbell is being held at Melbourne this afternoon.

Urge Transfer of the Power System Here to Municipal Ownership

DEPUTATION FROM PETERBORO AND OTHER CENTRAL ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES INTERVIEWS PREMIER.

WILL CONSIDER IT

TORONTO, April 14.—(Special to The Examiner.) —A deputation from Peterborough, Belleville, Deseronto, Lindsay, Oshawa and other places urged upon Premier Drury to-day the advisability of the government transferring the Central Power system to the Hydro Commission to be held in trust for the municipalities on the same basis as the systems in Western Ontario and elsewhere. The system is now owned by the Government and operated by the Commission. The request is to have the proeprty transferred to the municipalities on fair terms.

Sir Adam Beck said at the time the Central Ontario system was taken over by the government, the Minister made a statement that is was the intention of the Government to operate it as a provincial undertaking until such time as it might be sub-divided amongst the municipalities. It was their purpose from the beginning that the affairs of the undertaking should be carried on in such a way that it would really represent municipal ownership in the end.

G. H. Kilmer, K.C., counsel to the Hydro Commission, said there was absolute and full authority under the Act for the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to transfer this property to the Hydro Commission in trust for the municipalities on whatever terms that may be arranged between the Commission for the municipalities and the Government as special Act was unnecessary.

Premier Drury promised that the Government would give the matter consideration as soon as they could get an opportunity. There were several aspects that would have to be discussed.

DAIRY SCHOOL DEAN URGES ADVERTISING

That the time has come for dairy men and milk products dealers to start an educative advertising campaign is very evident to H. E. Van Norman, dean of the University of California, and president of the National Dairy Association. At an address before the Northwestern Milk Dealers at Boise, Idaho, Mr. Van Norman stated that through paper advertising the consumption of oranges had been doubled several times. Why then, could not milk, a necessity, be increased through the same medium.

DELAY BURIAL OF EX-EMPRESS

REMAINS WILL NOT LEAVE DOORN UNTIL MONDAY, FOLLOWING ORDER OF GERMAN AUTHORITIES.

TO CONCEAL TRAIN

DOORN, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—The German Government authorities have insisted that the taking of the body of the late former Empress Augusta Victoria from Doorn to Potsdam for burial be delayed and the remains will not leave here until Monday morning, it is announced.

Former Emperor William frequently visits the room where reposes the coffin of the former Empress.

Preparations are being made at Maarn Station to keep from the view of the public the train which will transport the body of Augusta Victoria to Germany. Large tubs containing palms, laurels and other plants will be placed along the side track over which the train will pass.

Court Chaplain von Dryander had a long talk with former Emperor William in the park surrounding Doorn Castle. After the conversation, William apparently was more composed than he previously had been. Later, the chaplain prayed over the body. He had known the former Empress since her childhood.

There was an almost continuous file of automobiles and private carriages before Doorn Castle yesterday. They brought prominent Germans and Dutchmen who signed the condolence register. Only relatives and the most intimate friends of the family were admitted to the castle. Large numbers of wreaths and floral crosses were delivered at the castle yesterday.

Lloyd George Again Attempts to Effect a Settlement But Effort Appears to Have Been a Failure

CONFERRED WITH STRIKE LEADERS FOR TWO HOURS THIS MORNING WITHOUT MAKING ANY PROGRESS.

OFFICIALS DUBIOUS

LONDON, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—A conference held this morning between Lloyd George and a delegation of officials of the Triple Alliance, which has called a strike for Friday night, in support of the striking miners, was concluded within two hours without any progress apparently having been made toward the adjustment of the grave labor situation.

It was reported that the Prime Minister made a long statement appealing strongly to the railwaymen and transport workers, asking them to exercise restraint and not to precipitate a crisis. This plea, however, does not appear to have had any effect.

J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, declared after the conference that he could see no prospect of a reopening of negotiations for adjustment of the strike situation. On the Government side it was said the Labor men were unable to present new arguments giving the Government any different view of their case, while the Government, it was understood, did not indicate that it was prepared to make any further concessions. Thus the situation early this afternoon appeared unchanged and the outlook gloomy.

During the conference, it developed that Lloyd George made a plea to the labod men that they resort to a ballot, suggesting that they put their case to the nation, and saying that the Government would do likewise with its case and let the nation decide the issue.

SANITARY INSPECTOR AND M.O.H. PLAN TO LAUNCH AN EARLY DRIVE ON THE BACK YARDS AND CELLARS

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton is preparing to stage his spring drive on uncleaned and untidy back yards in advance of other years, and he, with the M.O.H., are getting flashlights for a close inspection of alleged unsanitary cellars.

Mr. Stapleton says the 1st of May idea of cleaning out the back yard debris is antiquated, and with an early spring as this year, the yards should be entirely presentable now.

Dr. Young stated to-day that the fly nuisance was caused to a considerable extent by filthy basements, and he was prepared to go any length to have the source of the nuisance cleaned up.

When the plan of action is completed, he and the Sanitary Inspector will stage an attack on downtown shops, and carry the war against the unclean, germ-infected, fire-inviting cellar to the bitter end, which will likely be in the Police Court.

SCARLET FEVER SPREADS HERE

M.O.H. BLAMES CATS FOR RAPIDITY WITH WHICH NUMBER OF CASES INCREASE.

IS A MILD FORM

A mild form of scarlet fever has found its way into Peterborough and the quarantine signs on many a verandah and the number of patients in Queen Mary Hospital testify to how effectively it has spread. The Queen Mary hospital has about 14 scarlet fever patients and there are 5 houses quarantined at present.

The disease, while not of a malicious type, has the usual characteristics of hanging on. Scarlet fever is spread in different ways. A doctor told the Examiner this morning that he believed the contagion was propogated by the feline family. Many of the sick children have a pet pussy and parents seeing amusement provided for the weary hours in bed and seeing no harm, allow their children to fondle the cat. The result is that the cat becomes a carrier of scarlet fever germs and while the felines seemingly themselves suffer no ill, in their long fur the germs thrive and develop and one cat carries the germs to another and eventually the scarlet fever reaches some other child with a favorite "kitty." Dr. Young fastened the responsibility of spreading much of the scarlet fever upon the cat family and declared that there should be a "no admittance" sign on the door of every sick room for the family cat.

The period of quarantine is 10 days if the patient is sent to the hospital, if cared for at home six weeks. This lattter period can be moderated if there are extenuating circumstances, however.

Dr. Young said the disease found most of its victims in childhood and he warned parents to not delay a doctor's examination and treatment if the slightest symtoms were noticed.

DUST NUISANCE IN EAST CITY

The transition from deep mud to fine dust has been rapid to the citiz ens of East City. A few weeks ago the residents of the East Ward were ploughing their way through the mud that enveloped the roadway and sidewalk area of Peterborough's half million dollar bridge. To-day the same citizens are groaning under the burden of the dust nisance. Some of them have suggested that the Board of Works Department dispatch its five thousand dollar water waggon in the general direction of the new bridge at least twice a day.

NEW THEATRE TO OPEN ON MONDAY

Mr. J. C. Green, the district manager for Paramount Theatres, is in the city getting the new Capitol Theatre ready for the opening, which takes place next Monday night. Mr. Charles Dentleck, the company's electrical expert, and Mr. Edward Abby, who will act as local manager, are also in the city.

EIGHT KILLED AND OVER FIFTY INJURED IN TEXAS STORM, LATER REPORTS SAY—FEW MAY DIE.

MANY ARE HOMELESS

MELISSA, Texas, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—Citizens of Melissa to-day set about affording relief to the large number of families made homeless yesterday by the tornado and storm which swept this little town, causing the death of eight persons and the injury of many more. Five of the eight dead are negroes. Five persons are injured, possibly fatally, while more than fifty received less serious injuries. A number of the injured are in hospitals at McKinney.

PRINGLE FAMILY BECOMES HEIRS TO $3,362,263

MILWAUKEE.— The family of James Pringle, 605 Prospect avenue, president of the Milwaukee Casket Co., will receive $3,361,263 as its share of a fortune of $7,562,842 left by his only brother, Robert, Chicago grain dealer, who died in February, 1919, according to Chicago press despatches. One ninth of the estate will go to Mr. Pringle and one-ninth to each of his three children, T. J., Milwaukee; Morton, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and Margaret, a student at Columbia university.

Mr. Pringle left for Chicago to assist in the settlement of the estate.

Estate is Settled.

The Pringle estate, which has been in the Cook county probate courts since the death of Robert Pringle, was settled Tuesday and the executors were discharged and the assets divided among the heirs.

Another brother, Thomas J. Pringle, one-time candidate for mayor of Milwaukee, died several years ago. Mrs. Thomas J. Pringle, his widow, was mentioned in the will of the bachelor grain operator.

Made Fortune in Grain.

Robert Pringle had a spectacular financail career. He went to Chicago with his family when a youth and before he was 24 had made more than $1,000,000 on the Chicago board of trade. He lost this fortune before he was 30, but continued in the grain business and succeeded in piling up several additional millions. He organized the Pringle, Fitch & Rankin Grain Co., which went out of business when he died.

Regarding the above news item, taken from a Milwaukee paper, the Pringle family referred to originally lived in Peterborough, and are connected with the Swansons living in East City. Mr. Jas. Swanson's mother was a Pringle, and closely related to the families above referred to.

MALE VOICE CHORUS ANNUAL MEETING

WILL BE HELD AT GREENE'S MUSIC STORE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

The first annual meeting of the Peterborough Male Voice Chorus will be held on Friday night in the auditorium at Greene's store. Reports of the recent concert will be presented, together with a general review of the first year's efforts and success. It is likely that the members will survey the future, of which it is already said there are promises of a membership increased to seventy-five when next season's rehearsals begin.

The Chorus have an engagement in Port Hope on May 3rd. They will sing in the Methodist church, which has accommodation for 1200 persons. All members are requested to attend the annual meeting to-morrow night at 8 o'clock sharp.

PROFITEERING IN GERMANY STILL.

Enormous Gains in Coal and Iron.

DUSELDORF, April 1 (by mail, Associated Press).—Enormous and still increasing profits compared with those made in 1914 are being made in the German coal, iron, machinery, textile paper, glass, and electrical industries, according to an article in the Dusseldorf Lokal Zeitung.

The paper quotes the reports of numerous companies, among them being one manufacturing copper and brass tubing and plate at Duisburg, which paid a dividend of 24 per cent. and a bonus of 20 per cent. Its shares, which were quoted in Berlin at 157 at the end of 1919, are now 630.

A 12 per cent. dividend declared by the Kammgarn Spinning Works of Dusseldorf was only 10 per cent. of the profits earned, says the German newspaper. In the ten years previous, this company had regularly declared a dividend of only 8 per cent.

A similar company declared in 1920 a dividend of 40 per cent., as compared with one of 11 per cent. in the three preceding years.

The writer of the article points out that but for the evidence of such figures Germany could more effectively have resisted the demands of her opponents that she make full reparation to the Allies.

Transfer of Power at Campbellford First a Provincial Question

HON. DR. J. D. REID, MINISTER OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS, TELLS CAMPBELLFORD DEPUTATION THAT THE MATTER MUST FIRST BE DEALT WITH BY THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT THROUGH THE HYDRO.

DOMINION WILLING IF THE HYDRO IS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, April 14. — If the Campbellford municipal power company wants to arrange for the transfer of certain water powers to the Dominion Government, it will be first of all necessary for them to take the question up with the Ontario Government, through the Hydro Commission.

This, substantially, was the rejoinder of the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, to a deputation of six Campbellford civic officials, who interviewed the Minister at his office this morning.

The question which the delegation submitted to the Minister was in the form of a request that the Department of Railways and Canals should transfer an order for power to the Campbellford municipal power company, which now rests with the Hydro Commission.

At present the arrangement is that the Government must supply certain industries at Campbellford with power, who were deprived of it through the building of the Trent Canal at Campbellford. The delegation requested that the Department of Railways and Canals cancel this order, which calls for the supply of about 1,500 horse-power, and turn it over to the Campbellford plant.

The result, however, as stated, was that the Minister briefly but plainly informed the delegation that it was a question entirely for the delegation to arrange with the Ontario Government, and that their best plan would be to get into communication with the Government through the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario.

Hon. Mr. Reid stated that the Government would not place any obstacle in the way of the Campbellford officials, should they be able to come to an agreement with the Hydro Commission and the Ontario Government. It was, to his way of thinking, a matter to be settled entirely between the municipality and the Commission or the Provincial Government.

The members of the delegation were introduced to the Hon. Mr. Reid by Mr. C. A. Munson, member for Northumberland, who in a few words, explained to the Minister the nature of the errand upon which the deputation was in Ottawa.

Ex-Mayor Armstrong, of Campbellford, was the principal spokesman for the delegation. Mayor A. J. Meyers and the town engineer also briefly informed the Minister of the situation at Campbellford regarding power, and what they were seeking.

Mr. H. I. Humphrey and Mr. Nelson Stone also spoke in support of the request, chiefly supplementing the remarks of the others

Mayor A. J. Meyers, ex-Mayor Armstrong, Reeve C. Davidson, B. A. MacLean, manager of the Utilities Commission, I. A. Humphries, solicitor were members of the deputation.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 14. — A meeting of the Lacrosse Club was held on Wednesday evening, with the following men present: Charles Nadoo, James Kerr, H. Townsend, R. Cole, James Blute, Wm. Sarginson, V. Tarrel, B. Abernethy, P. Sarginson, and A. Wood.

The obtaining and placing of the men was thorough discussed and a committee was appointed to take charge of this work.

Campbellford has excellent prospects of having a winning team.

Social and Personal.

Mr. W. J. Hall, Sepastopol Street, was in Peterobrough yesterday.

Miss Nellie Hoover, teller in the Standard Bank, leaves on Friday for two weks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Church, in Orillia.

Mr. Thomas MacMannus was a business vistor in Peterborough yesterday.

Mrs. Glenn Thompson held a progressive euchre party on Tuesday evening, at which she entertained five tables. Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Wigins won the prizes. After the euchre a very dainty lunch was served.

Rev. and Mrs. Hinton of Hastings were in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Coxwell and family are now living on Grand Road, in the house recently occupied by Mr. William Clark.

The Kimberley Cheese Factory, English Line, commenced operations to-day, and a good supply of milk was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Johnston left yesterday to spend some time visting their daughter, Mrs. Marvin McComb, Morganston.

Nuptials.

Begg — Petherick.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnised yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the Seymour East parsonage, Rear Street, when Miss Jessie Pearl Petherick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Petherick, of Stanwood, became the bride of Mr. William Heard Begg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Begg, English Line. The hapy couple left, amid showers of good wishes and confetti, on the evening train for a short honeymoon in Peterborough, and upon their return will reside on the groom's farm, English Line. The bride and groom have a host of friends, who unite in wishing them a long and prosperous wedded life.

THIS IS A PHOTOGRAPH OF THE GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAM OF CAMPBELLFORD HIGH SCHOOL TAKEN BY THE BONNYCASTLE STUDIO, CAMPBELLFORD.

Peterborough will recall the visit of the Campbellford team to Peterborough this winter, when the visitors whitewashed the local aggregation by a score of 9-0. That is a sample of what they did all over the district. They lost only one game during the season. They played one game against the ladies' team of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Belleville, and returned to Campbellford with the big end of a 8-1 score. The next game was played in Belleville, where the Campbellford girls were defeated by one goal. The team then went to Trenton and defeated the Trenton High School team by a score of 4-1. The last game was played in Peterborough. Soft weather prevented the Campbellford girls from winning any more games, and they laid away their sticks for the season.

Lloyd George Opens Way to the Renewal of Strike Parleys

ASKS LABOR LEADERS THEIR GROUNDS FOR REFUSING OFFERS AND NEW CONFERENCE CALLED.

MEETING TO-NIGHT

LONDON, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Lloyd George has provided the leaders of the Triple Alliance with another opening for the renewal of negotiations in the miners' strike and the general strike of the railway men and transport workers in support of it, by asking for the grounds of their refusal of the government's offer.

A conference of all labour elements has been called for Thursday night in a final effort to effect peace in the coal strike. The conference will be attended by executives of the Labor party, Trade Union Congress and leaders of the Triple Alliance.

EMULATING FAMOUS BOSTON TEA PARTY

HATFIELD, April 14.—Declaring that in so doing they are emulating the spirit of the Boston Tea Party, more than one hundred citizens of this town, in a special town meeting last night, passed a resolution pledging themselves to ignore the State Daylight Savings Law.

This is the fourth town in the Connecticut Valley officially to take such action.

SEEK SONS OF NEGRO SLAYER

NATION-WIDE SEARCH INSTITUTED FOR TWO SONS OF J. S. WILLIAMS, CONVICTED RECENTLY.

BOTH ARE INDICTED

MONTICELLO, Ga., April 14. — A nation wide search was instituted here to-day for Roland Marvin and Leroy Williams, sons of John S. Williams, proprietor of the Jasper County "death farm," following their indictment by the Jasper county grand jury in conection with the wholesale slayig of negroes on and near their father's plantation.

Governor Drosey will be asked to offer a reward for their arrest, Solicitor General Doyle Campbell announced to-day.

The three have been missing since the arrest of their father. They did not attend Wiliams trial at Cobington last week where he was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

A total of 12 indictments were returned by the Grand Jury late yesterday afternoon. Williams and Manning, the negro "boss," whose confession resulted in the former's conviction, were jointly indicted for the death of eight negroes.

Roland Williams was indicted for the death of a negro known as "Black Strap" in the fall of 1920.

Joint indictments were returned against Marvin and Leroy Williams, charging them with the murder of a negro named "Iron Jaw," in the summer of 1920. Marvin Williams was indicted for the murder of John Singleton in April, 1918. This brings the total number of murders on and near Williams' place revealed to date to thirteen.

The Grand Jury to-day started investigation into alleged murders by other individuals.

MAJOR LEAGUE SEASON OPENS

TWO SUPPOSEDLY CLEANSED MAJOR BALL LEAGUES BEGAN NEW SEASON YESTERDAY.

FRESH FROM CAMPS

NEW YORK, April 14. — Fresh from the spring training camps, the National and American Leagues opened yesterday. Only one game was postponed, that of Chicago and Detroit in the American League.

That the National League pennant race would resolve itself into a three-cornered fight between New York, Brooklyn and Pittsburg was the prediction of President John A. Heydler.

Each game was marked by auspicious opening ceremonies, particularly in Washington, where President Warren G. Harding pitched the first ball and General Pershing headed the procession to the grounds.

Following are the results of yesterday's battles:

American League.

St. Louis 4, Cleveland 2.
New York 11, Philadelphia 1.
Boston 6, Washington 3.

National League.

New York 10, Philadelphia 8.
Chicago 5, St. Louis 2.
Cincinnati 5, Pittsburg 3.
Brooklyn 5, Boston 4.

SAY STRIKERS NOW MUST VACATE COMPANY HOUSES

SYDNEY, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)—After being allowed to remain in possession all winter, the striking railroaders of the Dominion Steel Company have been ordered to vacate the company's houses within a few days. Unless they comply eviction proceedings will be instituted. Of the 130 switchmen who went out on strike November 23 last, about 30 occupy company houses, the remainder owning their own homes in Sydney.

SENT TO HOME, BOY ABSCONDER NOW SENTENCED

19-YEAR-OLD BANK CLERK, WHO STOLE $96,000 AND WAS ALLOWED TO GO, GIVEN ONE YEAR.

WAS A NOVEL CASE

CHICAGO, April 14.— Francis J. Carey, the 19-year-old bank cashier of Ottawa, Ill., whose theit of $96,000 last November was followed by criticism of Judge Landis when the latter permitted the youthful culprit to return home pending sentence, was senenced by Judge Landis to serve one year in the National Training School for Boys at Washington, D.C.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Landis made no comment on the case nor did he give Carey any advice as to future conduct. The boy accompanied by his mother, appeared unmoved, although Mrs. Carey seemed to be struggling to suppress her emotions.

Carey's case aroused considerable interest even before his appearance in court had led to the criticism of Judge Landiss procedure. He disappeared from the bank and officials of the institution at first believed he had been the victim of robbers. Securities amounting to $40,000 found in an alley in the rear of the bank building strengthened this theory and led to the belief that he had been imprisoned in the vault.

Baffled by a time lock, the bank officials had the doors burned open. Carey was not found. The search finally led to a farm seven miles from Ottawa, where he was arrested. Carey made a full confession and restored $56,000 in money and securities which, with the $40,000 found in the alley, accounted for all missing funds.

The fact that the bank lost nothing was commented on by Judge Landis when he allowed Carey to go back to Ottawa while he was deciding what sentence to impose.

THE CITY MANAGER

Though the commission plan marked a revolutionary advance over the traditional mayor-and-council form of city government in the matter of popular control, experience with it in a large number of cities revealed important defects in its internal organization.

In the first place, it often happened that none of the five men elected to the commission was personally qualified to take active charge of, say, the department of public works or the department of finance. Popular elections proved to be the wrong way to select men for technical tasks; the electorate is interested first of all, and quite rightly, in representation—in voting for one of "our kind of people."

Some very excellent and truly representative commissioners fell down badly because they were misfits as executives.

To this extent, the plan tended to become unrepresentative and undemocratic. There was, for example, no commissionership in which a labor representative would be appropriate. And no high-grade business man could afford to interrupt his private career for a short term on a salary.

There was often, also, too much inclination on the part of individual commissioners to set the needs of their particular departments above those of the city as a whole and to form combinations for "log-rolling" purposes.

"Vote for what I want in my department and I let you have your way in your department," they said, and five-headed government was the result, each commissioner grabbing appropriations for his own department and nobody watching the tax rate.

Another important defect in the system lay in the lack of a single executive head. Five men, deriving their authority all from the same source, were on a par with each other. The commission as a whole might issue orders to its individual members, but who could compel willing, loyal obedience?

How, then, should the good in commission governments be conserved and these defects avoided?

The city-manager plan has proven the answer to this important question; otherwise this most hopeful movement toward democracy might have been discredited.

In the manager plan, commissioners (councilmen) are not elected with the idea that they will have to run a technical department. Their sole function is to represent, to be a jury, fair samples of the people, to know all about local public sentiments and to express it in the form of directions to a technical non-political administrative force at city hall.

Labor men are among the most successful of commissioners in the manager cities. And women are available for these posts.

Moreover, the demands upon a commissioner's time, when his duties are limited to weekly meetings, are lighter. The job of commissioner becomes something to which any citizen may aspire.

Thus the field of available material for these responsible offices is greatly widened. The choice need not and does not drfit toward professional politicians who find the salary attractive, since city-manager towns give only nominal compensation to their commissioners (councilmen).

A striking feature of the city-manager movement is the appearance as high-grade councilmen of men who never were willing to go into politics before.

Nor is there any temptation in the

RECIPROCITY RESURRECTED AND BEATEN

HON. W. S. FIELDING MOVES RATIFICATION OF MEASURE —DEFEATED BY 100 TO 79.

CLOSURE IS APPLIED

OTTAWA, April 14. — (Canadian Press). — Reciprocity came up for discussion in the House of Commons again for the first time since 1911 yesterday on motion of Hon. W. S. Fielding, that the Canadian Government approve and confirm the agreement still on the statute books of the United States.

Discussion to-day was not lengthy. The Liberal and Progressive forces were united in support of reciprocity. On division the amendment was defeated by 100 to 79, a Government majority of 21.

The closure was worked successfully last night. By adopting this Parliamentary device which was framed originally in the naval debate eight years ago, the Minister of Marine got his estimate of $8,330,000 for shipbuilding through the Committee of the Whole. Talk kept up right to 2 o'clock, the time at which the discussion stopped automatically under the rules of closure. A vote followed, in which the Government was sustained by 103 to 79.

Wm. Duff, who made a four-hour speech on the estimates, and was one of the main actors in the all-night session, closed the discussion, quitting at 2 o'clock. He protested against the closure. As it drew near 2 o'clock the House became noisy and Mr. Duff was interrupted frequently. The Chairman was obliged to call for order several times.

A BRIGHTON GIRL FOUND DEAD, SHOT BY AN ACCIDENT

EMPLOYEE OF BANK IS FOUND DEAD ON PREMISES.

BRIGHTON, Ont., April 14. — (Canadian Press.)—Miss Mae Morgan, an employee of the local branch of the Standard Bank, was found dead yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock on the premises of the bank, having met death from a revolver shot. No person witnessed the tragedy, but it is supposed that while Miss Morgan was handling the revolver it accidently discharged.

BRUSSELS April 14 (Associated Press).—"Mr. Former Managing Editor," it will be, when President Harding greets Burgomaster Adolphe Max of Brussels, who has been designated by the Council of Ministers to head the Belgian delegation to Washington to congratulate the President upon his election.

Burgomaster Max's courageous stand against the Germans in Brussels during the first months of the occupation is known the world over, for his long imprisonment was the subject of much comment; but what is less known is that, previous to being elected Burgomaster of Brussels, he was in charge of a newspaper as managing editor, and also honorary president of the Belgian Press Association. Le Soir, the paper which Burgomaster Max edited and directed during several years, now has the largest circulation of any newspaper in Belgium. Burgomaster Max speaks English fluently.

WEDDING BELLS

ALLEN--MOHER.

St. Joseph's church, Douro, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday, April 12th, when Mary Moher and Joseph Allen were united in the holy bonds o matfrimony.

The bride was charmingly attired in a navy blue suit with at to match and carried a ouquet of roses.

Florence Allen, sister of the groom, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a navy blue suit with hat to match. John oMher, brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

After the nuptial mass the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents where their many friends had assembled. The bride and groom received many beautiful presents showing the high esteem in which the young couple were held.

PROBABILITIES.

THE ONE ISSUE.

'Vote 'no' in the coming referendum and sign the Ontario temperance memorial for Government control." So concludes an advertisement of the Liberty League, and the citizens who think will smile at the absurdity of the advice. In the name of common sense why should any man who really believes in Government control vote for something that would definitely kill all chance of the introduction of the system he advocates? Does any sane man or woman believe that so long as the importation of liquor is permitted that Government control could be obtained, or, if obtained, could be carried out successfully? The first logical step towards Government control would be to cut off importation by the individual; until that is done it is folly to talk about such a system. The electors must keep their eyes on the real issue—the only issue—that is before them next Monday, and that is, are you in favour of prohibiting the importation of liquor for beverage purposes. That is the question to be decided; arguments about the relative merits of Government control and total prohibition are a sheer waste of time when they are not a smoke screen to try to becloud the real issue.

IMPORTED ORATORS.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham in a letter to The Examiner complains that in our references to the importation of campaign speakers from the United States we "perhaps inadvertently" placed "Pussyfoot" Johnson and Mr. Windle in the same class as "undesirable foreign agitators." The Examiner sees no reason to change its opinion as to the lack of judgment shown in bringing either of these orators into the fight in Ontario. They were not needed; they had nothing new to offer us, and, from all appearances, they could find plenty of opportunity to be of service in their own home cities. But, so far as the personality of the two men is concerned, it must be admitted in fairness to Mr. Johnson that his attitude towards the British Empire has been as commendable as that of his opponent has been deplorable. Various branches of the Citizens' Liberty League who introduced Mr. Windle to Ontario have felt compelled to apologize for doing so when they learned something about the career of their spell-binder. There is no need on that ground for apologizing for the appearance of "Pussyfoot" Johnson; he has been a friend of the British Empire and he offers on that score no opportunity for attack. The wisdom of his introduction into the campaign is another matter. While other "dry" speakers throughout the Province are being given an attentive hearing Mr. Johnson in the short time he was in Ontario was the centre of stormy scenes in Kingston, Toronto and Windsor, which indicates a special resentment on the part of many people to his part in the fight.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

The Examiner has received from the Ontario Fire Prevention League one of the "Home Inspection" blanks, of which the League is sending 250,000 copies to the Principals of the various schools throughout Ontario for distribution among their pupils. This is a Province-wide campaign for the purpose of conserving the homes of Ontario, as well as the lives of the people. The primary object, of course, is by means of these blanks to call the attention of householders to the necessity of cleaning up attics, cellars and back yards and of the removal of hazardous conditions. The League announces that inquisitiveness is not responsible for the inspection that is to be made, nor will the information obtained in this way be used for the purpose of putting householders to any unnecessary inconvenience, expense or trouble. The parents of Peterborough's school children are asked to do their part in the campaign by answering the questions on the blanks when they are brought home by the children.

The high cost of building material, the rapidly increasing population and the enormous annual destruction of dwelling houses—there were 5,644 fires in private houses in Ontario last year—have combined to make the housing problem one of most serious and acute proportions. Ontario is noted for its extravagance through unnecessary fire waste, which, through the careless habits and the indifference of our people, has become nothing short of an economic crime. Statistics show that practically two out of every three fires occur in the home of the Province and eight per cent. of them are preventable. It is in the realization of this state of affairs that the Fire Prevention League has adopted its home inspection plan, which is heartily commended to the people of Peterborough.

THE RURAL VOTE.

Residents of the rural sections of West Peterborough who do not happen to be on the voters' lists are in a more fortunate position than their city friends. The latter, if their names are not already listed, will be without a vote on Monday; not so with residents of the rural districts. The Dominion Elections Act provides that at a rural polling division a person whose name is not on the list but who is qualified to vote and who is vouched for by an elector whose name is on the list may after taking the proper oath, be allowed to vote. The applicant must swear to the following affidavit:

"(1) That he (or she) is a British subject, and not an Indian ordinarily resident on an Indian reservation.

"(2) That he is of the full age of 21 years.

"(3) That he ordinarily resided in Canada for at least 12 months and in the particular electoral district for at least two months immediately preceding the 1st of February, 1921.

"(4) That he is now resident in the particular polling division.

"(5) That he is not disqualified in respect of race by the laws of the Province from voting for a member of the Legislative Assembly, or that, although disqualified in respect of race, he is entitled to vote because he has served in the late war. (Such person must produce his discharge certificate.)"

The elector who vouches for the applicant must swear that:

"(1) He is a qualified eletor for a member in the House of Commons for the particular electoral district.

"(2) He resides in the particular polling division.

"(3) He knows the applicant.

"(4) The applicant is a duly qualified elector within the meaning of the Dominion Elections Act."

Many people in the country districts who have changed their place of residence or who have come of age since the last lists were compiled, should bear this fact in mind on Monday and make sure that they are given the opportunity to exercise the franchise.

ONE MAN POWER.

The Province is undergoing a curious experience in government, and presents the spectacle of a Government in power without a majority, made up of two parties. The experience is one which so far at least cannot fairly be said to have been satisfactory to the Farmers, Labor, and the people of Ontario. The Cabinet consists mainly of men who have had no experience, and apparently very little training, in the difficult art of government, and one consequence is that matters which men who had had this experience and training could have dealt with, and formed definite policies upon, have been referred to commissions. We believe we are correct in saying that up to the present time there have been no less than fourteen such commissions. What the cost of them will amount to we cannot undertake to say, but that it will be very large can be safely predicted from the statement made, apparently on good authority, that what has been commonly called the timber probe has cost up to two or three weeks ago $68,000. The results of this so far would appear to be this cost, the stirring up of no end of bad feeling, lengthy debates of an angry description in the House, and, so far as can be judged, the right of certain people to demand the return of the money which they had paid the Government under a ruling which was based apparently on incomplete data. The whole matter has had even to be taken into the courts, and its end is a long way off.

Then there is the Hydro Commission over which the amount of money spent must be very large and nothing yet has come of it. The same thing applies to the Universities' Commission, though a definite discussion may be expected on this during the present week. We need only refer to one other commission, as it leads directly up to the point we specially wish to draw attention to. The question of the outside Civil Service has been dealt with and a recommendation has been made which is objected to on the ground that it places too much power in one man's hands, that is in the hands of the Attorney-General. It does not follow that he is either seeking or wanting this. The same tendency is observable in other matters, and it is as well that attention should be drawn to it before it is allowed to grow.

The people of the Province should, therefore, carefully study their present Government; how in the first place it rose from the group system leading to a Cabinet with no decided policies, and with no majority in the House; then to costly, ineffective Commissions, and lastly to the fear of one man power. On thinking this over, the people may come to the conclusion that the old British two-party system is the best after all.—Kingston Standard.

CELEBRATE DEATH OF NAPOLEON.

Marshal Foch Will Preside at Function.

PARIS, April 13. — (Associated Press.)—Marshal Foch will preside at the ceremony which will take place at the Arc de Triomphe on May 5 to celebratee the 100th anniversary of the death of Napoleon Bonaparte. Standing by the arch graven with the names of Napoleon's victories, the man whom many have come to consider as one of the greatest soldiers of all times, will make a fitting speech to honor a dead comrades.

It is emphasized that the centenary celebration is in no way political in chaarcter but is merely a tribute to one of the greatest of French generals.

President Millerand, and the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber, Bourgeois and Peret, are giving their support to the celebrations, which will include commemorative visits to Corsica, Elba, and to several battlefields where Napoleon gained his most famous victories.

By KATHERINE MOORE

THE DENOUEMENT.

Chapter 27

As Thierry told me of this wild experience he had had with Mrs. Gregg, his father's client, he seemed years older. I could hardly believe he was the boy of 19, winsome and loving. If only he had a mother. Yet I marveled at the dexterity he had displayed in handling this trying situation.

"I have often wondered," Thierry went on, "why she bothered with me at all. Sometimes I've thought perhaps she expected to get more money out of Dad in that way. Then, of course, I flattered her vanity—I saw to that all right, and I spent money on her—think. Some women would vamp a clothing store dummy if he had cash in his jeans, you know."

I laughed outright. This wise youth had not lived his 19 years for nothing.

"I wasn't flattered by her, don't get that thought," he said a trifle hotly. "Some nights after I had been with her I would come home and smoke two boxes of cigarettes and place the floor of my room for hours before I could get quited down. If I hadn't hated her so I'm afraid she might have been more than a task for me."

Just the hint of a wanton sneer touched his sensitive young mouth.

"After I had played my cards for about a couple of months I planned the grand climax," he went on. "The governor was going out of town for over Saturday and Sunday and it didn't take much coaxing to get Mrs. Gregg to spend that time with me. Dad was to leave on the 10 o'clock train Friday night and I planned to have her arrive about 10.30. That was just one side of the plan," he said smilingly. "At about 6 o'clock I wrote a telegram and then sent for Simpson, the chauffeur. I knew that Dad was in his den just beyond the library and I wanted him to hear what I was going to say."

Thierry's breath came quickly and he leaned forward—

"I handed Simpson the telegram and told him to go out and at once with it, and not to let my fatyer know that I had sent him. Then I hurried upstairs. Father must have done just what I wanted him to do. He must have demanded the telegram from Simpson. It was to Mrs. Gregg. In it I told her that I had been unable to get to the 'phone, but that everything was all right and not to be later than 11 o'clock as Dad left at 10. During dinner I sure was in a state of the jumps, and from then until 10 o'clock was worse than the actual row. Fact was, I enjoyed that part of it immensely," Thie said with satisfaction.

"At 9.45 Dad left for his train and I was almost fearful he was not going to block me. I hated to see the whole blamed thing fizzled. But I was not disappointed."

Thie smiled at the memory of it.

"Mrs. Gregg arrived at 11 o'clock sharp and I guess the governor was hanging around the corner, for he only gave her time to take off her wraps when I heard his key in the door. Oh yes, you bet I was listening for it!" he laughed. "She was standing in the library with her two arms on my shoulders when Dad walked in on us. I know how he must have felt, poor old Dad. But I shan't forget the expression on Mrs. Gregg's face as she heard his step and turned to face him."

FORMER PRINTER AND FAMILY IN A LONELY BERTH.

Husband Keeps Vigil in Lighthouse on British Columbia Coast—Happy. He Says, With Wife and Kiddies.

From foreman printer on a big daily newspaper in London, Eng., and later in Victoria, B.C., to lighthouse keeper on Green Island, off the far North Pacific coast of British Columbia, is some transition, and not to be welcomed by many comfort-seekers, but one man with his family did seek the change and are out-Robinsoning the Swiss Family Robinson on that bleak and lonely island. John Moran, his wife and two children, are living happily without the distractions of the H.C. of L. and election campaigns. The story of how they have solved the living problem up there since their arrival in 1916 is told by Francis Dickie in the New York World:

Above the high tide mark on the rock is not more than an acre of irregular plateau. Here, through the ages of time since first a vast upheaval sent the rock upward jutting, a little earth had formed—ground rock, rotted wood by the winter's storms, the droppings of millions on millions of gulls, richest of all formations, and the decayed stalks of grass and weeds, the seeds of these wonderfully wind blown to this lonely spot. So these modern adventurers made a garden and successfully grew potatoes, and the usual line of produce common to northern regions.

Import Belgian Hares.

Soon after their landing they had sent for some Belgian hares. Starting with two pairs of these, and importing occasionally new bucks, they had in two years' time so many rabbits that the pens they had built would not hold them; so they turned the most of them loose on the island. Despite the great toll the wet and frost of winter take, the island today is still overrun with the animals.

To protect their garden the settlers had to build a fence and run wire several feet into the ground. But building a fence is no difficult job on Green Island. Every tide brings in countless cords of wood to choose from. On a rocky ledge on the north side of the island the wood lodges, so they have firewood more than they can use. And, to show how kind nature sometimes can be, a great deal of this is small stuff, bark of fir, wondrous thick, broken branches and other wood just stove and furnace length, so the islanders are not even put to the trouble of cutting their supply.

As addition to the natural verdure, the Morans planted oats and timothy, and now a little herd of half-a-dozen goats find pasture. For the hens it is necessary to import some food. But here again nature has been kind; one end of the island is a shell beeach of finely ground clam shells, the same material that sells for 50 cents a bag in the city, and most necessary to hens.

Today from far along the Alaska coast to the great Canadian fishing town of Prince Rupert, the halibut and salmon fishermen know "Ma" Moran. Stout and cheery is "Ma." The huge range in her kitchen shines with a brightness and glory of the rising sun. Her kitchen is one of those perfect places of honimess and cleanly order to which many a fisherman, wet, chilled, out of food, out of luck, has come to get one of those meals that put life and hope and confidence in even the weariest one.

Through keeping hens the islanders have availed themselves of a novel egg supply. The island is the nesting place of hundreds of sea-gulls. Now, the seagull is a peculiar bird. It lays three eggs before it begins its setting, and unless it has three eggs in the nest it will not set. Of course, it was but natural that human ingenuity should take advantage of this bird's habit. The Morans mark a certain number of nests. Watching these carefully, the day the third egg is laid, it is removed. The gull, coming back, gazes asronished at the nest. In imagination one can hear the bird saying to itself: "Now, I was sure I had three eggs laid!" But the gull goes ahead and lays another egg. This the people remove on the following day. When you have several hundred gulls laying eggs for you, it does not take many days to put in a winter's supply. And the Morans are sensible, kindly people; they do not abuse the gulls' good nature. After they have taken two or three eggs from one bird they cease, and the bird proceeds with its setting. The eggs are about the size of a turkey's and taste like a duck's. They are a little strong for consumption in direct manner, such as fried or boiled, but are useful for cooking. Put up in "water-glass" preserver, they prove a valuable addition to the larder.

Deer Flee There.

What with their goats, their rabbits, their hens and their gulls' eggs, the islanders would be already fairly well provided with food. But, in addition, hundreds of wild ducks can be shot nearby, and deer run on the adjacent islands in winter. Here again an interesting phase of nature is displayed.

Upon the British Columbia mainland thousands of deer abound. When the winter comes, the wolves harry them sorely. The deer's only salvation lies in taking to the open water. Here the savage timber wolves are not brave enough to follow. Now, along the British Columbia northern coast thousands of islands, varying from a mere ledge, such as Green Island, to tracts half a dozen miles long, stretch in a continuous line forming a barrier to the open sea, creating the inland passage some seven hundred miles long, one of the finest ocean highways in the world. To some of these islands the deer swim from the mainland when the wolves are numerous.

A pneumatic tube which is of a greater cross-sectional diameter than that of its casing is a recent invention. The tube is moulded so that its sides collapse inward in four places over its diameter when deflated, thus allowing of its installation in the casing. The collapsed portions on each side of the tread which are identical with small depressions expand upon inflation, causing a thickening and pressure on the tube walls. Nails, glass, tacks, etc., are simply extracted, as it is claimed that the tube walls will instantly compress and close the hole so tightly that leakage is impossible.

HOUSING SHORTAGE EXTENDS TO SING SING 'DEATH HOUSE'

OSSINING, N.Y., April 13.—The housing shortage has extended to the "death house" at Sing Sing Prison.

Twenty-one men and one woman are now confined there. But two vacant cells remain and there are more than a score of murder cases in State courts, either on trial or about to start within the next few weeks.

SHIP GOES DOWN IN GULF OF MEXICO; 19 MISSING

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 13.—The Bowie Line steamship Colonel Bowie, with 22 men on board, foundered in the Gulf of Mexico Monday night, according to wireless advices received here. Three men were picked up by the British steamer Cissy. Nineteen men are still missing.

Long Distance Service Is Now Classified

THE Classifications on long distance telephone calls in effect from midnight, April 20th, are of interest to all users of that service.

Station-to-Station Service

Station-to-Station service should be used when you are willing to talk to ANYONE at a distant telephone — that is, when you do not need to get a particular person on the line.

Person-to-Person Service

When you make a call specifying that conversation is desired with a particular person at a given number, Person-to-Person service is used.

As this service requires greater operating labor and circuit time than a Station-to-Station call, the rate is about 25% greater.

Appointment and Messenger Service

Appointment calls and Messenger calls are special kinds of person-to-person calls.

An APPOINTMENT CALL rate, which is about 50 per cent higher than the station-to-station rate, is quoted for service when an appointment is made by the calling party to talk at a particular time.

When a person who does not have a telephone is called over long distance and a messenger must be sent to summon the party to the telephone, the MESSENGER CALL rate, which is about 50 per cent higher than the station-to-station rate, is charged, and to this is added the necessary messenger charges.

The Report Charge

When you place a call for a particular person or persons and for any reason they cannot be reached the same day at the address given, or will not talk, or if you make a call and you are not ready to talk when the other person is ready within an hour, a REPORT CHARGE is made. The report charge is about one-fourth the station-to-station rate. It is intended to cover part of our expense of handling the uncompleted call.

Special Evening and Night Rates

The EVENING rate, between 8.30 p.m. and 12 midnight, on station-to-station calls, is about one-half the day rate. The NIGHT rate, between midnight and 4.30 a.m., is about one-fourth the day station-to-station rate.

However, no evening or night rates are quoted on station-to-station calls where the day rate is less than 25 cents. On such short-haul calls the day rate applies. For longer distances special evening and night rates are quoted.

Because it is difficult to reach particular persons at night, when many are away from their homes and places of business, there are no special evening or night rates quoted for person-to-person calls. They apply only on station-to-station calls.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

MOVING WALK IN PARIS CITY.

PARIS, April 13 (Associated Press).—A moving sidewalk to relieve congestion is being considered by the city of Paris. The chances for adoption may not be great, but the idea is being seriously discussed, for Parisians have pleasant memories of the aerial sidewalk that was a feature of the 1900 World's Exposition here.

The proposal is to build such a rolling sidewalk under the principal boulevards, from the Madeleine to the Place de la Republique. A pedestrian not only would avoid dangerous, delaying crossings, and not be impeded by cross and counter currents of traffic.

Waist-high line of 3 feet 6 inches from the ground is the maximum height for automobile headlight rays in England.

Motor trucks heavier than three tons are restricted from travel on first-class roads in British Malaysia.

The Peterboro Motor Show and Peterboro Health Association

The Motor Show, with an optimistic outlook for fine weather, with all sorts of arrangements completed for sober and frivolous enjoyment, and with every available foot of space taken, promises to be a huge success.

A glance at the history of the Peterborough Health Association, which benefits most directly from the Show, is sufficient to indicate what cause one is furthering by attendance at it. Their motto might be summed up as giving help where most needed. Attendance and medicine for the sick, comforts for those afflicted with lingering disease, food and reconstructed modes of living for the undernourished and the neglected, supervised play and nourishment for half a hundred children during two months of hot weather in the summer camp. Here youngsters from the ages of five to eleven, whose mothers in many cases are working and who would otherwise be running wild on city streets, are brought, given a wholesome breakfast, and turned loose for the day in one of the prettiest places in pretty Peterborough, Jackson Park. They have a nurse to watch over them, they can play games and paddle in the creek to their hearts' content, they have a good mid-day meal with all sorts of nutritious things like stews and rice puddings, and a four o'clock lunch which always includes a johnnycake or a variety with lots of raisins and currants in it. Their own special cook is assisted daily in peeling potatoes, etc., by one of the ladies belonging to the Health Association, who take turns in helping to prepare the mid-day meal. It is not strange, after two months of this pleasant life, that children coming in "skin and bones" should improve immensely in appearance before the time is over.

If you come to the Motor Show, you will see all the latest makes of cars in the most immaculate and glistening condition, you can get an idea of the newest inventions in the motor car kingdom and in all sorts of electrical specialties, you will see many other interesting exhibits, and you may enjoy yourself in divers ways. There will be pies and cakes, home-made preserves and relishes by guaranteed cooks, hot coffee and doughnuts, candies galore, ice cream in cones or on a dignified plate, afternoon tea for the weary and supper for the hungry, flowers (fresh and fragrant), a dance hall for merry trippers with light refreshments on the side, fancy work for the hope chest and a fish pond for the kiddies, a fashion show where the very latest styles parade up and down, and a minstrel outfit with the very funniest of harmony quartettes, one member of which possesses a cold "worth a mint of money" which he will tell you all about.

Kindness and the City

He played the friend one happy morning when
A stranger chanced to pass along his way.
The mood was on him to be kind that day,
And what he did seemed, oh, so trifling then:
A cheerful word—the easiest gift of men—
A helping hand for which there is no pay,
But all it means no words can ever say.

Both these he gave and went his way again.
Then he forgot the stranger and hi sneed
Nor knew that he had helped his city's fame:
He could not guess that thousands share his deed,
Yet at the mention of his city's name,
One man there is who rises to declare,
"The finest man I've ever met lives there."

FAT FOLKS BECOME SLIM
EASILY, PLEASANTLY

Fat persons will be happy to learn that they might easily reduce their weight without starvation diet, drastic drugs, or strenuous exercise.

If you are overstout, are you lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden? Don't jeopardize your health or be a laughing stock any longer. Be happy!

Follow the simple directions of the Korein system. Safe and pleasant; recommended by many reliable women and men.

Surprising weight reduction reports come in—even after just a few days' treatment. With proper reduction the flesh becomes firm, the skin smooth and the general health improved; in fact, work seems easier and a lighter, more buoyant feeling takes possession of the whole being. It is a fine sensation—that of looking and feeling younger, supple, cheerful, active, alert and full of enthusiasm.

To reduce ten to sixty lbs. (whatever you need to) you should now give KOREIN system a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need. Start on the road to longer life and happiness today. Obtain a small box of Korein tabules (pronounced koreen) under money-back guarantee at any busy drug store or write for free brochure, with many testimonials, to Korein Co., Box 277-P, Toronto, Ont.

Before and After

Before and After

Growing Plants

An expert says that growing plants in a house are a pretty fair index of its air, light and moisture conditions, and may be regarded as a sort of meter for them. They will not grow and bloom without these three things, and a house in which plants will not thrive is probably a house where neither grown-ups nor children will thrive.

The future of greenhouse plants, usually in good condition on arrival, depends on our care of them. They should be placed in a sunny window, although ferns and begonias will do fairly well without much sunlight. They must not be allowed to freeze, and should have plenty of air. They must be watered regularly every day, but should not be allowed to stand in water, however. A little soapy, greasy dish-water is very good for them.

Cut off the dead leaves and flowers from time to time and turn the pot to insure even growth. Insects or disease growths should be promptly checked. Some antiseptic spray is necessary with many plants; diluted tobacco juice is very good for most of these troubles, and soapy water may be used to wipe off the under side of the leaves.

In London, there are motor ambulances equipped with X-ray outfits which can be carried to patients too ill to be moved from their homes.

Ladies Auxiliary Held a Meeting

A meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Great War Veterans' Association was held on Monday evening last with a good attendance. This society is composed of a number of energetic ladies, and a consideration of the report read by Mrs. Bugg reveals a great deal of real charitable work done by the organization in Peterborough. The ladies will take part with the men of the G.W.V.A. in the memorial services to be held in the Salvation Army Temple on April 24, and arrangements were made at this meeting for the Tag Day in aid of the G.W.V.A., to be held on St. Julien's Day, April 23. The President, Mrs. E. V. Frederick, was in the chair.

Quilt For The Caledonian Club

The Ladies' Caledonian Club, which has for its aim and object the furthering of friendly relations between all newcomers to the city who are of Scotch birth or blood, has recently completed a patchwork quilt, which is made in the Scotch style, and in which all the ladies of the committee had a hand in the fashioning. A drawing for this pleasant and comfortable accessory to any household will be held on April 20th, on the occasion of a whist drive in the Caledonian Club rooms on George street. The funds obtained will be used for the Pipe Band, and so this Scotch comforter, made by Scotch fingers of members of a Scotch society for the furtherance of Scottish interests, will be instrumental in the future production of Scotch music. It is to be hoped that the lucky number will be held by one possessing at least a few drops of Scotch blood.

Mission Fund For Labrador

The ladies in charge of the local branch of the Dr. Grenfell Mission Fund are busily engaged just now in collecting and making articles for the bale of goods shipped annually from Peterborough. This bale has a valuation of about $300, and contains all sorts of underwear and outer clothing for the wear of men, women and children on the icy coasts of Labrador and Newfoundland. Shoes, stockings, caps, mittens, vests, scarfs—everything necessary to make life more comfortable for these dwellers in the bleak northern lands. The ladies are considering giving an exhibit of the goods before sending away, which would be very interesting to many who were unaware of this good work.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

Ready-to-Wear

The attitude of the buying public towards an appeal based on quality as distinguished from the appeal based on price is a matter of speculation amongst representatives of the ready-to-wear trade just now. The sales which have had such a steady run since last autumn were mainly based on the comparative lowness of their prices to former conditions, but now another group feels that the time has come to subordinate price to quality. In some well-advertised lines quality with price is the point emphasized, which it would seem is the most popular method of procedure. If a woman can obtain a certain desired quality at a reasonable price, what more does she want? In older days, when a lady purchased one good dress annually, which was saved up for festive occasions, and only donned on Sundays and such-like momentous days, a dress that was bought with an eye to many future turnings and re-fashionings, quality was the thing most desired. Those were the times when silk that could stand alone and laces guaranteed to last for many years were purchased, in direct contract to the confections of to-day, which would receive a severe setback if advertised to last for any length of time. The frailer the better is the modern idea, so that a change will be forthcoming in the shortest possible space of time, and the twentieth century mode of feminine apparel is just as intangible when compared to the dress of long ago as the twentieth century damsel on the magazine cover is to the forgotten dame with her yards and yards of stiff material, her covered-up neck and her primly, lace-mitted folded hands.

"Dull Friday

"Dull Friday" used to be the bad day for business in the retail dry goods stores, and a concerted effort was made by the big city stores to banish this bad day by putting on special sales. In doing this, however, they have only injected the dullness into Thursday, which is now regarded as the "bad" day of the week, and store executives are wrestling with the problem of stimulating buying on that day without taking the snap from Friday again. The obvious solution of the problem—more sales—is not desirable, as "too many sales spoil the store."

System of Fines

The ancient Anglo-Saxons had a peculiar way of reckoning punishment for bodily injuries done by one man to another. A monetary value was the basis for their system of fines. "Every man," says Sharon Turner in his "History of the Anglo-Saxons," "was valued at a fixed sum, called his were and whosoever took his life was punished by having to pay this. In addition, there was a fine imposed, called the wite, and a person thus paying the forfeiture of all his worldly goods presents us with the original idea of a "felon"—one who was feolun or destitute of all property.

"Besides the were and the wite there was also a fine imposed for the infliction of any bodily injury whatsoever, based primarily upon the worthship. An eye or leg was valued at 50 shillings, a jaw at 12 shillings, the little finger at 11 shillings, the nose at 9 shillings, the thumb, the front teeth and the ribs at 3 shillings each and any other tooth or finger at one shilling each."

Coloured Cushions

Bright coloured cushions have a wonderful effect on a sombre room. It is surprising how a note of orange or old rose or blazing yellow will light up a dark corner. One of old rose poplin, denim or silk is particularly good in a dark room, provided it harmonizes with its surroundings. A stripe of white with old rose flowers printed on it sewed through the centre and a border of silk fringe make a finishing touch, and the popular style of round or oblong shape with a huge button in the middle may be fashioned from almost anything that one wishes. These cushions, while not at all comfortable and certainly not the style of pillow one would care to lay an aching head upon, are most ornamental, and it is very seldom in this world that one is able to combine comfort with ornament, anyway.

If you happen to be the possessor of rich old walnut furniture which has a gloomy appearance, do not discard the furniture. Tone up the rooms with gay hangings and curtains. In the living-room, buff paper, with copper-colour curtains and an Oriental rug with a medley of copper and blue tones is recommended. In the dining-room, with Jacobean oak, have delft blue walls, with subdued red and blue shades in your floor-covering. Pale mauve is supposed to be the thing for a bedroom, with curtains and valances of a mauve and white chintz with a good deal of deep pink. The writer who speaks of pale mauve must have forgotten a rule which says bed-room colourings should harmonize with one's complexion, or, perhaps, a pale mauve tint in skins is the very latest thing?

Boston fashions have decreed that pedigreed pups in that city shall wear goggles when they motor. These impart a very scholarly look to the canine faces.

Common Mistakes

Three types of mistakes are the most common among employees of department stores, according to a recent careful investigation. The most frequent is that of entering the amount of sale in the wrong column of the tally card, the next consists in forgetfulness of the sales number on the sales check and the third is the failure to print on the sales check the initials of customers and the capital letters in their names, as is required in some stores.

MOTHER GIVES OF OWN BODY TO LET BABE WALK.

Splinters From Shin Bone Transferred to Little One's Legs.

NEWARK, N.J., April 14.—Splinters from the shin bone of a mother were transplanted to the legs of an infant born without the fibula in the lower legs by surgeons of the Newark Memorial Hospital. The operation, which was declared a probable success, was one of the most delicate in the series of clinics held in connection with the annual session of the State session of the College of Surgeons. It took two hours.

A generation ago, doctors who attended the clinic said, such an operation was unheard of and the child probably would have had to go through life without the use of its legs. The child operated on will most likely have the full use of its limbs, it was said.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Selling of the general list was promptly resumed at the active opening of to-day's Stock Market. Discouraging advices dealing with the British labor upheaval gave an impetus to a further decline. Rails and steels continued to feature the re-action, Equipments and Oils also easing. Northern Pacific, yesterday's weakest stock, opened with a sale of 10,000 shares at a loss of 3-8 to ½, and other Transcontinentals were similarly depressed. Crucible, Republic and Sloss Sheffield averaged one point losses, with Baldwin Locomotive, General Electric, Studebaker, Atlantic Gulf and General Asphalt. Royal Dutch was the only conspicuous exception to the lower tendency, gaining two points. The preliminary exchange rates on London were firm.

Rails and Industrials suffered further losses on enlarged offerings during the morning. Delaware and Hudson dropped 5½ points and Norfolk and Western 1 3-8, other transportations falling 1 to 1½. Crucible and Sloss Sheffield showed extreme declines of about 2 points, and such equipments as Baldwin, Pullman, General Electric and Pressed Steel Car forfeited 1 to 3½. Oils and Motors yielded 1 to 2½ points, and Sugars, Tobaccos, Leathers and Textiles trailed along at recessions of 1 to 2 points. Heaviness was shown by various miscellaneous issues, including Sears Roebuck and Famous Players. Call money was unchanged at 7 per cent.

Stocks rallied 1 to 3 points at midday under the lead of Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum and Delaware and Hudson. Several of the low-priced oils were comparatively strong. The rebound was coincident with reports that the latest developments in the British labour situation justified hopes of a compromise.

The lowest prices of the session were made in the last hour. Canadian Pacific showed a loss of 3 1-2 points, Union Pacific and U. S. Steel and Sugars were especially heavy. The closing was weak.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Fresh low record prices for the season were reached in the wheat market to-day. Bearish reports regarding industrial and financial conditions were current, and rallies, based on assertions that such factors had been more than discounted, were of only a temporary effect. Crop prospectes continued to be against the bulls. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½ lower, were followed by a material set-back all around and then by irregular upturns.

Corn was comparatively firm in the absence of any urgent pressure to sell. After opening 1-8 to ¼ lower, the market recovered to about yesterday's finish. Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting unchanged to 3-8 lower, and later hardening all around. Provisions were dull and easier in line with hogs.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts light; trade steady. Heavy beef steers, $9 to $10; butcher steers, choice, $8.50 to $9.50; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7; calves, $10 to $12.50; lambs, $12 to $14; hogs, selects, $13 to $13.25.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange firm; demand, 3.90¼. Canadian dollars, 11 1-16 per cent. discount.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—A full recovery of its recent loss and the establishment of a new high market for the present movement was made by Duluth Superior in this morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Opening at a slight gain over last night's closing quotation, this stock soon moved up to 22½, a gain of 2½ points. Activity and decline of Brazilian to 30, a loss of 5-8, was again attributed to London selling. Seven hundred shares changed hands, the price declining gradually. Spanish River Preferred moved up 3-4 to 82¼, while Toronto Railway was also stronger by a half.

FLOUR PRICES SLASHED.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 14. — (Canadian Press.)— For the first time in almost seven years flour sold under eight dollars a barrel at the mills here to-day. One large mill reduced its quotations for family patents from $8.20 to $7.90. Not since July 1914, local millers said, has flour been quoted under $8 a barrel.

MONTREAL, April 14.— (Canadian Press.)—The Stock Exchange was quiet this morning. Atlantic Sugar was dull all morning and closed at 29 3-4. Brompton weakened a half point and closed at 33, while Brazilian, after a little activity, closed at 30. National Breweries remained the same all morning. Riordon did likewise. Wayagamack remained unchanged.

AN ADDRESS ON THE REFERENDUM

REV. DR, SPEER IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Last night in St. James' Methodist church in this city, Rev. Dr. Speer of Westmoreland Methodist church, Toronto, delivered an address on the Referendum, worthy of the largest audinece that could be convened in the city of Peterboro or a Massey Hall convention.

The doctor proved himself a master of public utterance and a prince of logicians. His address was clear, eloquent, logical and full of energy held in perfect control.

After clearing the decks for action by telling his audience that he knew this city well, having been born within 15 miles of its borders, and having been a clerk on George street in his early days, the Doctor fired a "broadside," and when the smoke cleared away, the "Windel farce" had been blown to atoms.

Then the Doctor used his small guns on the Liberty league, and picked off their arguments in three minutes, showing that where there was law and order there could be no absolute personal liberty. Only on some lonely island, where no foot but his own had trod, can a man be free to do as he pleases.

During the war, said Mr. Speer, we had Dominion prohibition for 18 months and during these few months the common people of Canada saved millions of dollars, as is shown by the Savings Banks.

During the war the people of England formed "bread lines" and "sugar lines," when they would stand for hours waiting for two ounces of sugar and a little bread. While this state of affairs was in vogue, the liquor interests were destroying millions of tons of sugar and grains for the production of strong drink. What cared the brutal traffic for the suffering people.

When the United States contemplated prohibition the liquor interests became frantic. They decided to secure the best lawyer to advocate whiskey. They came to Mr. William Taft with a cheque for $25,000.00, asking him to champion their cause, but he refused. They came back with what is called a "blank draft," signed by leading bankers. They gave Mr. Taft the priyilege of filling in the draft for any amount of money that he desired. Then the ex-President stood up with eyes flashing and cheeks aglow with wounded pride:

"Gentlemen," said he, "If you pile up all the gold that the surface of the United States could bear, William Taft would refuse it, and scorn to advocate the vile traffic."

The greatest minds in the world are against the cause of drink. The Liberty League is ashamed of Windle and all such pro-German ragtag. Anglican Bishops, Roman Catholic Bishops, ecclesiastical dignitaries of all denominations are lining up for prohibition. Vote "Yes." Mr. A. B. Cunningham ably filled the chair.

RUSH HEARING OF EVIDENCE BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON RE-ESTABLISHMENT WISHES TO REPORT IN MAY.

OTTAWA, April 14. —(Canadian Press.)— That an effort would be made to conclude the hearing of evidence by the special parliamentary committee on soldiers' civil re-establishment this week in order that the 1921 report might be placed before the House in May was stated by Chairman Cronyn this morning.

This statement was made during the discussion on the advisability of hearing eviednce on the practicability of establishing homes for soldiers in each province. Col. A. Thompson presented resolutions from the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada. Restrictions on Oriental immigration and immigration from Southern Europe were asked.

This Grill is made for Real Cooking

THE New Canadian Beauty Three-Heat Grill is perhaps more generally useful than any other electrical appliance.

With it you can boil, fry, broil, stew or toast—any two operations at the same time. For instance, while a steak is broiling to a delicious brown in the pans below the heat potatoes can be boiling above.

Note the economy. Two cooking operations at the cost in electric current of one.

This appliance has the distinctive finish that identifies all Canadian Beauty Appliances, rich and brilliant as silver in appearance.

It has a larger cooking surface than any other grill made, and has three heats—low, medium and high.

BIGGEST WATER POWER SCHEME EVER PLANNED.

Develop 4,000,000 H.P. By 1934 From Rivers in France.

PARIS, April 14. — (Associated Press).—Plans now in course of preparation by the French Government contemplate the development of a yearly average of 4,000,000 horsepower by 1934 through the utilization of the rivers of the country for the manufacture of electricity.

The creation of energy for the electrification of the railways and the big industries of France has received tremendous impetus since the armistice. Reports just completed show that within the last three years 450,000,000 francs have been invested in 49 power plants throughout France by French investors.

The recent visit of President Millerand to the valley of the Rhone revived interest in the famous Rhone water power project, plans for which have been completed, and now are before the Senate for ratification. The Chamber of Deputies approved the scheme in October, 1919.

Big Saving of Coal.

The Rhone project, as it is known in Europe, is one of the most comprehensive water - power developments ever conceived, and involves the expenditure of 3,000,000,000 francs. No fewer than 20 lesser projects have been launched in France, but the Rhone is further advanced than the others.

It has been estimated that the Rhone scheme, together with the other big projects, would effect an annual saving of 5,000,000 tons of coal, thus diverting this to other purposes and materially reducing the importation of coal by France.

The Rhone plan would make navigable between 400 and 500 kilometers of that river, would reclaim 650,000 acres of ground now useless, and probably place at the door of Paris electricity at a price within the reach of everyone.

The Government plans to make the Rhone, as well as all the other projects, a "creation of the people" through the issuance of six per cent. non-taxable bonds, the proceeds to be used in construction. The Finance Committee of the Senate now has the matter before it, but because of the financial depression and the already great burdens on the French treasury, the actual construction probably will not begin for several years.

The majority of the plants for hydro-electric development concern the rivers Rhone, Garonne, Rhine and Loire.

WHY CHILLY WEATHER BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says skin pores are closed and uric acid remains in blood.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed ,thus forcing the kidneys to double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twingeof rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to noraml action ,thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rehumatism.

HAPPENINGS IN NORWOOD

ORANGEMEN HAVE PURCHASED A NEW HOME—SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

NORWOOD, April 14.—The Orangemen have purchased the old historic building on Peterborough street from J. L. Squire and Sons, which they have been using as a store house for several years.

Over thirty years ago, when the new Methodist church was built, the building, which had been the first Methodist church and Sunday school, was sold to the Salvation Army and moved from the church property, to its present site.

The late Mr. J. L. Squire purchased it when the Salvation Army decided to leave Norwood.

Pleasant memories are connected with this old building by many who worshipped in it in the long ago, and who were taught their first Sunday school lessons within its then sacred walls.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Wm. Ivey is moving into the house on Spring street, which he recently purchased from Mr. Wm. Taylor.

M. and Mrs. Geo. Wheatley moved their household goods to Myersburg yesterday, where Mr. Wheatley has taken charge of the cheese factory.

Mr. Hugh Beckett and family are preparing to move into the house which has been recently occupied by Mr. Wm. Ivey.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR PURCHASE VIAMEDE

POPULAR STONEY LAKE RESORT MAY CHANGE HANDS SHORTLY.

LAKEFIELD, April 14.—Negotiations are in progress for leasing Viamede to Mr. E. M. Ianson, of Whitby, the lease involving the option of purchasing a little later.

Mrs. Graham converted Viamede into a summer resort about 25 years ago. In September, 1908, the original plant was entirely destroyed by fire, and in February, 1909, the present building was begun on the site of the old place. So determinedly did the work progress that the new Viamede received its first guest on June 19th of that year, and still holds its record as a summer home for select patronage. Owing to the death of her husband, Mrs. Graham feels unable to resume the entire responsibility of so great an undertaking. She and her daughter will continue to assist in the management.

BRIDGENORTH MAN WAS HEAVY BUYER OF MUSKRAT CATCH

Between 8,000 and 10,000 muskrats were bought by Harry Jopling of Bridgenorth this year. Most of these came from the productive marshes of Rice Lake, but many from Chemong Lake and the Kawartha group. Adam Humphreys of Birdsall, according to Harry Jopling, had the biggest catch of any of the trappers. About 300 rats were secured by Humphreys. These rats were worth a little over $600. From the Curve Lake reserve Mr. Jopling said he got about 1,500 rats, paying from $1.85 to $200 each.

INFORMATION FOR TELEPHONE USERS IN THIS DISTRICT

INTERESTING DATA BY MR. G. O. CAMERON, LOCAL MANAGER FOR BELL TELEPHONE CO

Manager G. O. Cameron of the Bell Telephone Company gave The Examiner some interesting data this morning concerning the new classifications of long distance telephone service, which, according to the decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners, become effective April 21st.

It is evident that users of "long distance" would be well repaid in making careful study of their business as related to the new classifications. Obviously such study will make possible many economies under the new plan.

Said Mr. Cameron:

"The principal changes in long distance practice deal with what are called 'Station-to-Station' and 'Person-to-Person' calls. Hitherto, the calling party who was content to speak to anyone at the distant telephone, paid the same rate as the caller for whom a particular person had to be located and summoned to the telephone. Now, when you make a long distance call without specifying that conversation is desired with a particular person, and the connection is established and conversation held, you have made a 'Station-to-Station' call, and a lower rate will apply than when you ask to speak to a particular person. The word 'Station' means simply telephone instrument.

'When you place a call specifying that you want to talk to a particular person and connection is established and you have your talk, you have made a 'Person-to-Person' call. As the operating service performed and the circuit time used are greater than with the 'Station-to-Station' call, the rate is about one-fourth greater.'

"You will observe," said Mr. Cameron, "that under this method the user who is content to use the type of long distance service requiring less operating labor and circuit time gets the benefit in the rate charged.

"Again, when a 'Person-to-Person' call is made and the person desired is not in or will not talk, or when an exact telephone address of the person wanted has not been given and he cannot be reached at a telephone within one hour, a 'Report Charge' applies. This charge is to make partial compensation for the operating work performed and the circuit time used, and is usually about one-fourth of the 'Station-to-Station' rate.

"There are also special rates for 'Apointment' and 'Messenger' calls, and for 'Evening and Night' service on the Station-to-Station' basis."

"There are other features of the new schedule," Mr. Cameron concluded, "that will repay study, but the above are the main points. We will be happy to give our patrons every assistance in adjusting this new plan to the special needs of their business. Careful study will mean economy in the use of 'Long Distance.'"

WILL BE NEAR EARTH IN JUNE

WINNECKE'S COMET IS SIGHTED BY YERKES OBSERVATORY, REPORT IS.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., April 13.—Winnecke's comet, the periodic comet which approaches earth at intervals of five years and eight months and will come "very near" to the earth in June, according to the prediction of Dr Crommelin, an English astronomer has been sighted by Prof. E. E. Barnard of the Yerkes Obsevatory, at Williams' Bay, Wis. Word to this effect was received to-day at the Harvard College Obeservatory.

Astronomers have been watching for Winnecke's comet for several weeks. It was originally discovered in 1858. It moves in an elliptic orbit around the sun, taking five years and eight months to complete the circuit. So far it has never come within several million miles of the earth on its periodic visits

How near it will approach this time, astronomers will probably soon be able to compute with accuracy. At preasent Winnecke's comet cannot be seen except through a large telescope.

Reid's comet, which was discovered at Cape Town, South Africa, on March 13, and is now steadily increasing in brightness, will make its nearest approach to the sun on May 1, according to word received at Harvard from Dr. Leuschner of the University of California. The orbit of Reid's comet has been computed says Dr. Leuschner in his message. On April 1 6t will be four and a quarter times brighter than when it On April 10 it will be four and a about seven and a half times brighter, according to a computation made elsewhere, its magnitude will be 6.1 on April 26.

If Reid's comet keeps on increasing in brightness at its present rate, the Harvard astronomers predict that it will be soon visible to the naked eye Hitherto it has been seen only through a telescope.

WOMEN IN PUBLIC LIFE ARE A GRAVE MENACE TO RACE.

Declares Mr. Noel Pemberton Billing, British M.P. —Women of the House Wanted to Save the World.

OTTAWA, April 14—The entry of women into public life in England is a grave menace to the race, opines Mr Noel Pemberton Billing British member of Parliament, who arrived here after an extensive tour of the United States, Panama and Cuba. "It is the woman of the home" he declares, "who is going to save the world, and not the woman in politics. He considers that as voters, women have rendered valuable service, having served to break up the crooked political parties. To him the growing demoralization of homes caused by the incautious enthusiasm of women who were tasting political enthusiasm for the first time was deplorable.

As an Imperialist Mr. Billing sees great possibilities toward the securing of universal harmony in the complete collaboration of all countries. A yearly Imperial conference at which all countries in the British Empire were invited, is strongly urged by him. Mr Billing, in his views on the Irish question is an Empire one, and that it should be submitted for decision to all countries of the British Empire.

Less Legislation.

Mr Billing strongly suggester a "general tour" of British politicians throughout the Empire in order to associate themselves with the general conditions that prevail therein. In England few statesmen realized the vastness of the British domains abroad. Every statesman he declared could find time to travel for that purpose. We need more administration and less legislation at this time in order to bring the country around," said he.

CONVICTS RUN STILL IN STATE PRISON.

Steal Molasses from Kitchen and Turn Out Half a Gallon Daily.

IONIA, Mich., April 14. — The great, unquenchable thirst must be appeased, and it does not seem to matter much where the drought is, for it always seems to obtain easement.

To-day Major Marsh, in charge of Ionia State Prison, discovered a liquor still in full operation in one of the cell-blocks of the prison. There was every indication that the still had been functioning for some time, and the stuff that it manufactured carried "a kick in each heel."

It was found that the convicts had stolen molasses from the prison kitchen and were distilling it in the cell. The outfit was a most complete one, according to the jail officers, and could turn out half a gallon of a most vile concoction every day.

Pa was reading about a fellow with a million dollars and no appetite.

MR. HOWARD VEALS WRITES TO LEAGUE

REPRESENTS LINDSAY DISTRICT IN CHINESE MISSION FIELD.

OMEMEE, April 14.—The following is a letter from Mr. Howard Veals who is the representative in China from the Lindsay district leagues.

CHENGTU, Szechwan,

Dear People:—As it is now nearly two months since I arrived in Chengtu, I think it is time I kept my promise and wrote to the leaguers of the Lindsay district. You will probably be somewhat interested in our trip out here so I shall outline it briefly, as best I can.

We sailed from Vancouver on Sept. 23rd, thirty-one strong (21 adults and 10 children) including men and women for all branches of the work, pastoral, medical dental, nursing and educational. Ten of the 21 were new recruits, like myself, the other eleven were returning for second, third and fourth terms. As our steamer (The Empress of Russia) was carrying many other missionaries and a number of delegates to the Tokio convention, we certainly had a fine company aboard Unfortunately for some of our party the Pacific was not always pacific. I managed to escape myself by a rather narrow margin. Nevertheless we had a good voyage and everyone was in good spirits when we arrived in Yokohoma (the seaport of Tokio), on the eleventh day out from Vancouver.

We had only eight hours to spend in Yokohama and Tokio and so did not see very much of Japan's metroplos but our Japan missionaries were on hand to show us what could be seen in such a limited space of time. We had a glimpse at the ill-fated Sunday School building, just a few hours before it was reduced to ashes and then after a little run around the city we had dinner with the Japan missionaries in the Central Tabernacle

The next day we docked at the port of Kobe and were able to get a look at Kwansei Gakuin, our Christian University, with its 1600 students. The next day after that we saw still another Japanese port, Nagasaki. That was our last glimpse of Japan, tht country which is just now an outcast among the nations. We left it with mixed feelings, having admired its beauty and the versatility of its people; but yet being quite aware of the thinness and superficiality of its civilization. The sad thing is that Japan has assimilated much of the worst in western civilization without much of the best perhaps it would be more correct to say that they have taken over the body without the soul.

Two days from Nagasaki brought us to Shanghai where we bade farewell to the Empress of Russia and landed on Chinese soil. But Shanghai is not really China— rather it is one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world for here are gathered people of every country, not mingled, but each in his own section and each living in his own particular way—coming together only for trade. According to the laws of this strange community each national section or concession is subject to its own laws except where certain municipal rights are deputed to are international council and an international court, appointed by the several communities—in the foreign concession of Shanghai the Chinese Government has no power. As might be expected, Shanghai is one of the greatest trading cities in the world—it is indeed a city of shops displaying goods from all parts of the globe. We tarried there almost a week purchasing necessary supplies before starting on our long journey inland. Two thousand miles is not a long journey in our land, but when taken (in all classes of boats and on foot or on the backs of men, it takes a considerable time.

From Shanghai to Luchow a distance of some 1800 miles we travelled by four different steam-boats each a little smaller than the one before. The first one carried us to Hankow the second on to Ichang the third one to Chungking while the fourth one carried us on to Luchow.

Of the first two stages there is little to relate, as they were taken on reasonably comfortable river steamers through quiet water. From Ichang to Chungking, however, the Yangtze becomes almost impassable, owing to rapids. Boats carrying specially constructed engines are needed on this route but our boat devloped engine trouble with the result that it was only with the greates difficulty that we got up some of the rapids at one time indeed we lost a whole day and broke three towing cables. It was while aboard this same boat that we were first introduced to Chinese civil warfare. The ancient fued between north and south has become intensified during the past few troublous years to such an extent that China is seldom free from civil strife in one part or another. The central government or so-called government at Peking has absolutely no power to stop this interprovincial warfare and so military adventures multiply freely, being a checkmated only by other military adventurers. Meanwhile the people suffer terribly both at the hands of the soldiers proper and also the hands of the disbanded soldiers whom usually become robbers—but to return to my story. We stopped one morning at the litte walled city of Kwei Fu (Kway fu), in order to take on some coal, but soon we found out that a battle was going on inside the city. We were safe enough as long as they remained inside, as only rifles were being used, but after a little, one side came tumbling out, making for the river. It was our move then as Chinese bullets have a habit of wandering where they should noe. We moved on at once but not before our boat had been hit several times and one Chinese passenger had been slightly wounded. We saw more soldiers farther up and heard a little more firing but nothing happened.

Before arriving at Chungking we passed through Wanshien our proposed new station as well as Chung chow and Fuchaw where we are already carrying on work We stopped over night ae Wanshien but did not stop it either of the other stations where our people are at work. We were welcomed at Chungking by our workers there and during the week that we stayed were able to get some idea of the work that they were doing.

We travelled from Chungking to Luchow on a very small Chinese-owned steamer taking four days to make the distance of perhaps 200 miles not of course travelling by night on the uper Yangtze. At Luchow we met three more of our families staying with them a day and a night before moving on up a smaller river a tributary of the Yangtze. It was on this journey that we first made use of the small native man-pulled boats, travelling about 20 miles a day .One afternoon while we were being pulled up a rapid another small boat, hving gotten out of control, crashed into the side of our boat We were close up to share and there was some scurrying to get our boxes off the fast filling boat. We got everything off all right but not before several of the trunks and boxes were wet. We got another boat and proceded on our way, drying our wet goods as best we could.

We left the water at Fushieu and proceeded overland to Cheugtu, On the way we passed through three more of our stations, Tzeliutsing (Zi lugin), Junghsiend (Yon in Shau) and Jenshow (ren Show). We men walked most of the way, roughly about 175 miles, in 6 days. The women of the party rode in sedan chairs borne on the backs of Chinese coolies. The men had a chair or two amongst the bunch but used them very little. We arrived at Chengtu, feeling quite fit, but glad to be at the end of our journey after two and a half months of almost continuous travel.

I have told you nothing of conditions this time but shall at another time. I have not forgotten the warm welcome I received from the leagues last summer, and I know that you are still remembering me.

Wishing you every success I am, your representative,

HOWARD J. VEALS,

SLAVE TRADING STILL IN MOROCCO.

White People Sold in Recent Years.

MELILLA, Morocco, April 14. — (By Associated Press.)—Slavery and trading in slaves still flourishes in the unconquered districts of both the French and Spanish zones of Morocco. There have been stories that some of the slaves are white people but these reports are not borne out by inquiry.

Threats by the turbulent Moors of the Riff coast to sell into slavery a Spanish sailor boy, Francisco Sallud, unless his father with whom he had been wrecked and captured, paid a ransom of 4,000 pesetas, led The Associated Press correspondent to make an inquiry into the question of the existence of enslaved white people in northern Africa.

The result of his inquiries shows that of recent years instances of white people being sold into slavery have been very rare, but there are slave markets for the sale and purchase of colored people in the districts to which French or Spanish rule have not reached.

The traffic varies according to the economic situation of the tribesmen who, when they are in funds, do not hesitate to give high prices for slaves to be used as servants. Slaves so purchased become personal property of the family into which they are bought and are disposed of by testament when the proprietor dies.

Formal Agreement.

However, it is customary for the purchaser to make a formal agreement before a competent legal authority to grant his slave his liberty on his master's death, when the heirs have to give up all claim and at the same time allow the liberated slave to live on and cultivate any portion of his dead master's land which may have been left to him as one of the family.

A slave owner may give his slave a wife from among his other slaves bought in the same way and the children of these marriages become slaves of the same owner unless he has signed the agreement already mentioned in connection with their parents.

The prices paid for slaves vary considerably. Generally the age is the chief consideration but, girl slaves, beauty calls for the highest prices. Seven hundred and fifty pesetas (about $100 at the present rate of exchange) is about the maximum figure ever paid—and this only in the case of a very young and handsome girl. Should the human merchandise have passed the age of 35 or 40, the price paid is round about 400 pesetas, never more.

Purchase Conditionally.

All purchases are made conditionally on the slaves proving satisfactory. A close examination is made of the slave's mouth to see whether he or she possesses a complete set of teeth. Proofs are required that the slave is neither weak-sighted nor deaf and dumb. While limbs are tested and muscles tried and every part of the body subjected to minute inspection in order to discover physical defects.

For women slaves three days' trial of their domestic aptitudes is demanded before the purchase is completed.

Such are the conditions of the slave trade in Morocco at the present day, and this is the fate from which Francisco Sallud escaped, probably by the payment of part of the ransom demanded, although exact information as to the transaction is unavailable.

council toward partiality toward particular departments, since each member is equally responsible with the others for the welfare of the city in all departments.

Twelve cities have changed over from the commission plan to the manager plan, among them Wichita, and Colorado Springs. Many others are debating it, Des Moines itself, being one, and there are numerous towns which would have changed long ago if they could have gotten away from legal restrictions.

URGING RECOGNITION OF IRISH REPUBLIC

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Identical resolutions declaring that the Republic of Ireland "ought to be recognized by the Government of the United States of America" were introduced in both Houses of Congress, where they were numbered respectively as Senate and House of Congress, where they were numbered respectively as Senate and House joint resolution number 1. The Senate resolution was introduced by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, and the House resolution by Representative William J. Burke, Congressman-at-large from Pennsylvania.

"I'm So Tired"

THERE is such a thing as being temporarily tired as a result of hard work. This condition is relieved by a good night's rest.

But when you are continuously tired at slight exertion and feel the ordinary daily tasks too much for you, it is time to consider the condition of the nervous system.

You find yourself easily irritated and worried, you have not the energy and strength to carry out your usual daily program, you do not sleep well and get up tired in the mornings, you may have headaches, and you feel down-hearted and discouraged.

Your nerves are tired, weak and exhausted, and you need the assistance which is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Amy L. Metcalf, R. R. No. 3, Arthur, Ont., writes:—

"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with the most favorable results. One spring I was very weak and run-down, and did not sleep well. I was very nervous and would cry for any little thing. My heart was weak and my head ached almost constantly. The doctor's medicine did me no good, and finally I began to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After using six boxes of this medicine I felt fine. I have never used anything which has done me as much good as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have also found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills an excellent remedy.

("This is to certify that I know Miss Amy Metcalf, and believe her statement with regard to Dr. Chase's medicines to be truthful and correct."—A. R. Springer, Methodist Minister, Arthur, Ont.)

APRIL IS MARSHALL MATTRESS MONTH

We Are the Sole Agents for This Celebrated Sanitary Coil-Spring Mattress for Peterborough and District.

During this month, "April," the Marshall Mattress Co. have decided to place their coil-springed ventilated mattresses on sale at very special prices, and these prices are the same all over the "Dominion" for this month only.

Therefore we urge upon you the necessity of making your purchase during April, and benefit by the great reductions. This drop in price is not permanent by any means; it is just as a stimulant for April business.

They are the last word in sleeping comfort, no other mattress can compare with it, in any way whatever. Note the special prices, then see the mattress itself on our Top Floor and be convinced of its superiority.

The Unique Feature of the 'Marshaldown'

The improvement that makes the "MARSHALDOWN" the best felt mattress made — that places it in a class by itself — that adds a long-needed want in mattress construction, is the utilization of a number of the same sensitive, highly-tempered springs as used in the Marshall Celebrated Ventilated Mattress. This row of springs is firmly embedded in the mass of felt along the edge, each is in its individual pocket and securely sewed in place. Then all edges containing a layer of felt are stitched, making a firm, strong roll edge all around.

The action of this row of springs keeps the whole mattress taut and working, as it does, in union with the roll edge feature prevents the mattress from sagging or spreading.

You may sit on the edge of the "MARSHALDOWN" all you want — it immediately assumes its original position as soon as the pressure is removed.

Date the "Gift of Sleep" from MARSHALL MONTH

"Bring us to our resting beds, weary and content, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep."

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

WHAT a blessing is the Marshall Mattress to those who cannot naturally sleep well, whose nights are restless until they are perfectly comfortable, till every nerve and muscle is relaxed, till a yielding support takes up every stress and strain, and the tired mind, relieved of bodily worries, drifts into the peace of dreamless oblivion. Sleep—the great restorer, deep, sound, revitalizing sleep! How it wipes away worry, rebuilds hope, rekindles energy and joy.

Marshall Mattress Prices are Reduced for April only

If you are a light sleeper, if you do not rest properly at night, if you toss and turn wakefully when all the house is still, you need the help and comfort of a Marshall Mattress. Don't think of a Marshall as a luxury. To you it is a necessity, for what pleasure is there in life by day if you cannot sleep at night?

Go to any of the leading furniture dealers this month and you'll find the cost of a Marshall Mattress is much less than you thought. Prices have been reduced for a great spring demonstration.

This is Marshall Month, and the first opportunity to buy the famous Marshall Mattress at reduced prices in the 20 years since they have been introduced. Every home will be a comfortable home when every bed has a Marshall Mattress.

Marshall Ventilated Mattress Co., Limited

Toronto - Ontario

Makers of the "Marshall Ventilated Mattress," the "Marshaldown" Mattress, the "Marshalfelt" Mattress, and Marshall "Shock-Absorbing" Cushions for Automobiles.

The Construction of the "Marshalfelt"

The "Marshalfelt" embodies the same unique features as our Marshaldown, being hand-built from soft white layer felt, constructed with spring edge, using the same sensitive highly-tempered spring as used in the Marshal Celebrated Ventilated Mattress. This row of springs is firmly embedded in the mass of felt along the edge. Each is in its individual pocket and securely sewn in place, then all edges containing a layer of felt are stitched, making a firm, strong roll edge all around.

The action of this row of springs keeps the whole mattress taut, and working as it does in union with the roll edge feature, prevents the mattress from sagging or spreading.

You may sit on the edge of the MARSHALFELT all you want — it immediately assumes its original position as soon as the pressure is removed.

GRANT A FURTHER INCREASE TO THE BELL TELEPHONE

ERROR IN COMPUTATION IN ORIGINAL JUDGMENT.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—A further increase of 2 per cent. on rates and charges for exchange service has been allowed the Bell Telephone Company by the Board of Railway Commissioners, in a supplementary judgment to that issued April 1. An error in computation for which Assistant Chief Commissioner J. McLean takes the responsibility and expresses regret, is the reason given for the increase from ten to twelve per cent.

Commissioner McLean states that by the orgiinal judgment it was found that there was a deficit in the necessary revenues of the Bell Telephone Company amounting to some $2,100.000. The sum of $1,150,000 would accrue to the company for increased long distance charges and service connection charges, leaving approximately one million to be obtained from exchange service charges. After the issuance of the original judgment, states Commissioner McLean, it was represented by the company that the necessary one million would not be produced by the ten per cent increase in exchange service charges.

The long distance increase allowed will go into effect on April 21 and the exchange rate increase on the same date or within two days afterwards.

WILLIAM SMITH IS MADE COUNCILLOR

MEMBER FOR SOUTH ONTARIO ELEVATED TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

OTTAWA, April 14.— (Canadian Press.)— William Smith, M.P. of South Ontario, veteran member of the Commons, has been elevated by the government to the rank of Privy Councillor. Hereafter he will be known as Hon. William Smith, although he is less formally and more affectionately addressed by his many friends in parliament and out of it. Hon. William Smith has been active in public life for forty years.

MADE A STIR IN THREE YEARS.

But Georgia Republic Has Ceased to Exist.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14— (Associated Press.)— The Georgian Republic, which ceased to exist as an independent, home-controlled government at the end of February, as a result of attacks directed from Moscow, made a considerable stir during the three years of its freedom.

Of all the states that have broken away from great Russia, such as Poland, Armenia and the Ukraine, none has won more real sympathy from visitors. In its capital of Tiflis, tidily nested in the Caucasian foothills, beside the little river Kura, there was always a hearty welcome to strangers. Like all the provincial capitals of old Russia, the life was delightfully democratic and free from the sober restraints of more highly oragnized and commercialized communities.

Tiflis had its opera, its music halls, its central club house, its picturesque drinkers, its old-fashioned national costumes and dancers, both men and women. It had its society of princes and princesses and counts and countesses, who lived in their town houses and extended hospitality almost to all comers, as in the south "before the war." Russians themselves, before and since the great war, loved to visit Georgia, because of its climate and its verdant richness. The Czar and hosts of Petrograd and Moscow nobles and wealthy people had their villas, their hunting lodges, and summer resort places scattered through Georgia.

One cause of the occupation of Georgia by the Bolsheviki was probably loot. This was the last portion of Russia which still retained some of old Russia's vast treasures of art, of paintings, of tapestries and rugs, of silver and gold ware, of arms inlaid with precious metals and jewels, of silver-ornamented harnesses, of diamonds and valuable oriental stones—the very name of which is hardly known in western countries.

A more general cause of the occupation by the Bolsheviki has been the systematic attempt of Moscow to reincorporate into Russia its old provinces.

During its three years of independence, Georgia had on paper 16 mobilizations of troops and 14 wars, all to protect frontiers. All of these newly-formed republics in Europe occupy some strategic transport position which their neghbors need.

ROCKCLIFFE AIRDROME OPENS IN TWO WEEKS.

OTTAWA, April 14. — Rockcliffe airdrome will be opened by April 25 by the Operations Branch of the Air Board. Four machines one Aro seaplane, two D. H.-4 land machines and one large H. L. flying boat will be ready for service by that date. A season of considerable civilian aerial activity is being looked forward to and the local station will be kept at a high state of efficiency. Survey and photography work of a general nature will be carried on. The personnel will consist of ten machines and airdrome workers under the command of Capt. H. Hammond, Operations Branch, Air Board.

We have voted out the poor man's bar. Next Monday let us vote out the rich man's cellar.

KINGSMILL CALLS IT NOT SPORTING

Admiral Thinks Windle Should Have Been Given Chance to Reply.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Admiral Sir Charles Kingsmill, who is the President of the Ottawa branch of the Citizens' Liberty League and Honorary President of the Provincial Committee, upon being interviewed this evening with reference to the statement of Lieut.-Colonel Hendrie concerning C. A. Windle, which appeared in the Press to-day, said he was unaware of the nature of the political views of Mr. Windle, other than those mentioned by Mr. Windle himself in his Ottawa address on Sunday night.

The Admiral observed that it would have been more sportsmanlike if the prohibitionists had published their charges concerning Mr. Windle's alleged anti-British writings on Saturday last, the day before he spoke in Ottawa, instead of on Monday, the day after he had left, and thus denying him any opportunity of answering his accusers face to face.

GUELPH, April 13.—The question of a new Collegiate Institute, which has been held over during the war, has been forced upon the Guelph Board of Education by the report of Inspector Houston, which on account of the overcrowded condition of the school, with its nearly 400 scholars, he refuses to grade or approve of, although speaking in the most admiring terms of the excellence of the staff and their loyalty under the adverse conditions under which they are employed.

ACCIDENTS

An automobile expert gives an idea of some of the contributory factors to the long list of constantly occurring motor accidents. The first is high speed, that modern mania which obsesses so many drivers, and which is responsible for so many delays in the way of tire troubles, and for the numerous notices in the daily papers like the following: "a party of young folks returning from some celebration and running at high speed, car overturned, skidded and crashed into telegraph pole—with perhaps three or four killed and remainder crippled for life." His idea of good driving with few accidents is that of the conservative man, who drives rapidly when the coast is clear, and carefully yet without timidity, when in heavy traffic or wet weather; in short, the men who are ready for an emergency and who know what to do if anything eunxpected happens. Women do not err so much in respect to high-speed mania, although once in a while, one observes a young girl flying around a corner at a breath-taking angle, and women are more likely to crumple up and "go cold" in an emergency, than a man will.

The second point is inattention, a characteristic of the man who stops his car suddenly in traffic without warning, turns right or left without signalling, bumps into somebody's fender, runs over a child and doesn't even know it because he wasn't looking where he was going; or smashes into another's tail-end for the same reason. Then blames the other fellow for stopping so suddenly. In wet weather he "won't bother" to put on the chains, and as a consequence skids into the curb or smashes a wheel.

Poor judgment, which often attacks otherwise good drivers, who become "rattled" in a crisis and do the wrong thing, ignorance of traffic rules, and right of way in different localities, forgetfulness of parking regulations, and the evils of blinding headlights are other contributing causes in motor accidents.

THE HIGHWAYS WEARING OUT.

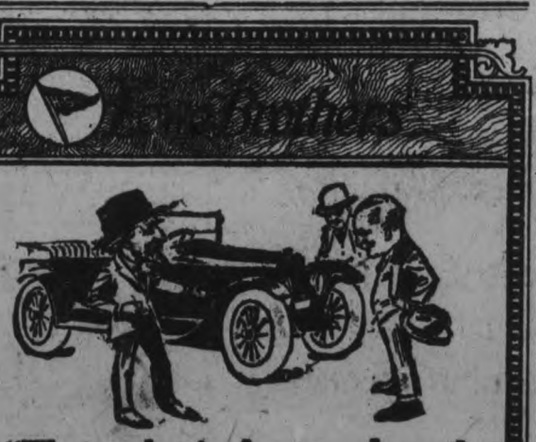
State Plans to Levy a Tax on Heavy Trucks.

"To make your candles last for ay,
Ye wives and maids give ear-o
To put them out's the only way,
Quoth honest John Baldero."

Back in the reign of Mother Goose this method was recommended to keep things from wearing out, and the same system has lately been applied with regard to roads in New York State. The disquieting discovery was made recently that their magnificent system of highways, on which the state has already expended over $100,000,000, is wearing out. So a bill has been passed imposing a tax of $500 per annum on motor trucks of five tons capacity, with $100 added for each additional ton. Such an impost will drive most of the large capacity motor vehicles, which obviously do a great deal of the damage, off the roads.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, recently reviewed a parade of cheese-makers in Alkmaar from her motor car. The illustration shows the Queen sitting in state while men in white suits and straw hats file past in couples, leaving between them a sort of curious-looking sled arrangement with upcurved ends, covered with immense round cheese balls.

We have voted out the poor man's bar. Next Monday let us vote out the rich man's cellar.



"There she is, boys, a brand new car for less than $4

"Guess I shouldn't kid you, though. Of course it's only the old car in a new dress. Yep, did it myself, with a brush and a can or two of Lowe Brothers Auto Varnish Colors."

Car owners like the easy way these Auto Varnish Colors have of spreading over the surface. They like the quick-drying feature, the good looks and the long lastingness. Made in eleven popular colors. Come in and ask us about it.

IMPROVEMENTS TO POLICE STATION

SPECIAL QUARTERS WILL BE FITTED UP FOR THE PLAINCLOTHES MEN.

Tenders for the construction of a long-contemplated addition to the Police Stations are being called for by the City Trust Commission. Tenders will be received up till noon Tuesday, April 19th. W. and W. R. L. Blackwell are the architects, and the plans and specifications have been prepared by them.

Chief Newhall told The Examiner yesterday that the improvements the City Trust plan to make had long been needed. A detectives' office is to be constructed above City Engineer Parsons' office, which is just west of the Police Station, according to direction. The City Engineer's office is jammed in between three walls and the contract for the detectives' office will only call for the building of one wall. The office will be easy of access. So ideal appears the situation in every respect that the Chief says the department might have built the office years ago. A door will be put through the present west wall of the building and the present stairway will serve both the detectives' office and retain its present usefulness. A store-room for the use of the department will be made at the head of the stairways leading to Police Court, and it is planned to have the entire station and court-room renovated. The walls have long called for brush or paper and the woodwork is in a similar state of disreputability.

Filing System.

The office of the Chief of Police is to be equipped with a filing system to care for the multitudes of communications and references. Such a system will facilitate the police work greatly, he told The Examiner, and with the filing system the Chief expects to secure a new flat-top desk. The single east window in this office provides totally inadequate lighting, and in securing the light and at the same time facing the door—for the Chief declares he would be taking a long chance in turning his back to some of the criminals received in the sanctum—the back of the roll-top now in use interferes with intelligent conversation, hence the desirability of a flat-top.

The detectives' office, in which Sergt. W. Meagher, Detective G. Cookman and Detective A. Thomas will be esconsed, will be fitted up in every way for the more efficient work of these officers, and when everything is completed the police headquarters will compare very favourably with other stations in cities of like population.

A New Car.

While plans are being made for polishing up the administrative side of the policing, the department has been put on a more efficient basis in the field, so to speak. The "Black Maria" of last year has departed and a Studebaker Six, that it is said can do 78 miles an hour, has replaced it. The delivery was made last Thursday, and so far the car has been driven 171 miles, last night alone the police covering 52 miles in the city inspecting beats and poking into every by-way within the city limits. Ten or twelve arrests have been made in the car, and the Chief said to-day that with this car they had a weapon by which they absolutely could smash crime in the city a greater blow than in any other way.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

MOTOR CAR LIFE ALMOST UNLIMITED

It Is a Matter of Taking of the Old 'Bus.

It is said that the potential life of almost any motor car is unlimited. What shortens it in most cases is simply ignorance. The average car owner knows very little about his automobile beyond being able to drive it. He knows little of the mechanism, the principles of operation, its needs, and the results that will follow neglect.

The following spring programme is recommended for a car that has been in storage during the cold weather: attention to lubrication, battery, tires and a good cleaning. For one that has been operated during the winter, divers operations are necessary; which include the following:

1. Take up on main and connecting rod bearings,
2. Remove carbon and grind valves,
3. Clean gasoline tank, line and vacuum tank,
4. Clean and adjust ignition, inspect wiring,
5. Inspect generator and starting motor and wiring,
6. Clean cooling system, supply new connections and belt, if necessary,
7. Tune and test motor.
8. Clean and adjust clutch,
9. Adjust all brakes,
10. Remove wheels, inspect, adjust and repack bearings.
11. Inspect steering, remove excess play from post and knuckles.
12. Tighten body bolts, fenders, remove rattles.
13. Tighten spring shackles,
14. Inspect drivings, pinion shaft and propeller shaft for play,
15. Change engine oil, transmission and rear axle oil.
16. Lubricate entire chassis.
17. Recharge battery.

The car operated all winter will need close inspection of the running gear, especially after being driven over rutted roads. Such roads increase side thrust on the wheels, thus upsetting steering wearing the knuckles excessively and also unduly wearing the wheel bearings.

WIFE CAN SEARCH HUBBY'S POCKETS

So Rules Chicago Court in Assault Case.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 14.—The inalienable right of Friend Wife to explore hubby's pockets while he sleeps appropriating to herself anything she desires in the way of loose change or other plunder, was upheld by Judge Howard Hayes. His Honor made certain allowances for the husband under such conditions. He agreed that a good scolding might be permissable or that the husband might take any ordinary precautions such as putting his trousers under his pillow or hiding them, but he made it very clear that Friend Wife should not be locked out in the cold back porch, attired only in her nightie because of making an inventory of her husband's trousers.

The case was that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stern. "He threw me out of the house in my nightgown at 5 o'clock on Sunday morning," Mrs. Stern testified. "I begged in vain for two hours for him to let me in and then I crawled through a window. He threw me out again and threw my trunk after me."

"I caught her searching my pants for money," interrupted Stern.

"She had as much right in the house as you did,' said the judge "Fifty dolars and costs."

To Free Your Arms of Hair or Fuzz

(Boudoir Secrets.)

No toilet table is complete without a small package of delatone, for with it hair or fuzz can be quickly banished from the skin. To remove hairs you merely mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the objectionable hairs. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when it will be found free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.

GOLD FLOWING INTO THE STATES.

$150,000,000 Since Beginning of Year.

NEW YORK, April 14—(By Canadian Press).—Gold appears to be flowing into the United States from all quarters of the world, especially Europe. Since the beginning of the year net imports are calculated at about $150,000,000, and bankers expect a continuation of the movement. Scarcely a day passes without the arrival of some shipment.

According to the Federal Reserve Board's figures $28,795,000 was imported in the ten days ended March 20 and $133,000,000 between January 1 and March 30. Against this there was an outflow of only $4,349,000 in the longer period and $338,000 in the shorter.

Since March 20 shipments of over $22,000,000 have been reported as en route. Thus the total import since January 1 are over $155,000,000. The bulk of the shipments are from Great Britain but France makes a close second. The board figures give $43,588,000 as from London between Jan. 1 and March 20 and $37,060,000 as from Paris. Since March 20 reports indicate a further $9,433,000 from London and a further $7,000,000 from Paris.

By continental divisions Europe accounts to date for nearly $112,000,000, North America for $14,600,000 including $10,000,000 from Canada, South America for $5,300,000, and Asia for nearly $22,000,000.

SERVING THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO

THE purpose of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is to assist the greatest possible number of Ontario people to realize, in the fullest possible measure, benefits from Ontario's splendid water power.

Into thousands of communities throughout the province, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is directing lines of electrical energy that turn the wheels of industry- - -illuminate the streets of cities and towns- - -draw town and country together, both socially and commercially.

To completely fulfill this purpose, it is necessary not only to develop and distribute electrical power, but also to secure a wider use of this power by encouraging the people of Ontario to more extensively use electrical equipment in their homes,

Hydro Power is owned and operated by the people, needed by the people and backed by the people. Every citizen of Ontario has a share in its progress.

HUNTING DOWN BOGUS MANAGERS.

British Actors' Association Launch Campaign.

LONDON, April 1 by mail, by Associated Press).—The Actors' Association of Great Britain has launched a campaign of boycott against bogus theatrical managers.

The kind of manager who is to be hunted down is the person who with little or no capital takes out a company on tour often pay scandalously low salaries. If the enterprise fails the bogus manager takes what he can from the receipts, and departs, leaving the company stranded and penniless.

The Actors' Association says that this kind of thing is far more common than the public knows, and cases of the kind are reported on an average two or three times a week.

GOLDEN RIFLE RED COMMANDER.

MOSCOW, April 14 (by Associated Press wireless).—The commander of the northern group of the Red Army, Comrade Kazanski, who distinguished himself in the capture of Kronstadt, the centre of the recent revolt, was a peasant from the village of Nikolskaya, in the Orloff district. He started his service in the Red Army as an ordinary machine-gunner, and was twice awarded the Order of the Red Flag.

He has now been awarded a Golden Rifle for "extraordinary gallantry and skill in the campaign for the liberation of Kronstadt."

U.F.W.O. HELD ANNUAL DANCE

The Peterborough branch of the United Farm Women of Ontario held their first annual dance last evening in Victoria Hall. There was a splendid attendance, more than anticipated by the ladies in charge. Tucker's three-piece orchestra provided excellent music, and the refreshments were exceptionally good. A considerable quantity of sandwiches and cake remaining at the conclusion of the dance were donated by the ladies to the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage. The gentlemen from Toronto who supplied music for the dance held last evening at the Conservatory of Music came down later to Victoria Hall and very kindly gave several selections for the dancers there, which were very much appreciated.

The proceeds from this affair will be applied to furnishing the rest-room recently opened by the ladies of this association on Simcoe Street, over the Farmers' Grocery, and an announcement was made last evening of an address to be given at 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 16th, by Miss M. R. Heeley, the Government nurse now visiting Peterborough, who will also give a practical demonstration of nursing work. All members of the society and any local ladies interested in this work are cordially invited to be present.

TEXAS CYCLONE WRECKS VILLAGE, SCATTERS TRAIN

FORTY KILLED AND SCORES INJURED IN PATH OF DISTURBANCE.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Fifty persons were reported killed and scores injured in a cyclone which struck Melissa in North Texas yesterday afternoon. Melissa had a population of one thousand. Every business house in the village was swept away, according to meagre reports. The storm covered a wide area, and swept as far south as Jacksonville, Texas. Two freight trains were scattered for a mile along the right of way. The injured are being brought to McKinney.

SAYS REFERENDUM WILL BE CARRIED

MR. BURNHAM'S VIEWS ON THE QUESTION—DRESS REFORM NEXT.

Several citizens have been asked to give an expression of opinion regarding the outcome of the referendum vote on Monday, but all declined, with the exception of Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., who had the following to say:

"There is no doubt that the Referendum will carry and the public mind will then devote itself to further improvements. The Rev. Wesley McGaw, of Ottawa, says that women's present style of dress must go next as it is immodest. No doubt Separate schools and all forms of division in the state such as sectarianism will be called upon next to depart. Of course Prohibition is Socialism pure and simple, and on its back is riding in he complete socialistic state. The conquest of individualism by socialism is the conquest which socialism has been striving to make. It is all very interesting."

CANADA UNIQUE AMONG NATIONS.

No Labor Troubles, Says New York Sun.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(By Canadian Press.)—In an editorial commenting on the labor situation in Canada, the New York Sun states:

"Canada is unique among the great nations, in that she has no serious labor troubles, and in that she appears to be effecting the difficult process of readjustment to the after-the-war conditions as painlessly as may be.

"The attitude of the Dominion and Provincial governments toward business has been helpful, but fundamentally such successful readjustment must be due to the exercise of plain common sense on the part of both capital and labor. It is not the first time that Canada has set an example worth studying.

"One thinks of Canada as primarily an agricultural nation and it is still true that her wheat and other grains outrun any other commodity. But the Dominion has turned more and more to manufacture and its industries grow at a tremendous pace. Doubtless the growth may continue as further water power is put to use and more resources in coal and minerals are opened up and her net-workof railroads extended."

The editorial continues by pointing out that where wage reductions have been necessary they have been made without friction and says, "This holds true of the Pacific coast and the Middle West as well as of the more industrial Ontario."

HEADACHES

Make Life Miserable

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom if ever free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part and sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head.

There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches, and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keeps the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will eliminate the cause of the headaches.

Mrs. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes "My system was out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to my friends who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy.

BIG PROHIBITION MEETING TORONTO

SIR GEORGE FOSTER, PREMIER DRURY AND HON. N. W. ROWELL AMONG SPEAKERS.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Twelve thousand people attended the meeting in the Arena last night under the auspices of the Ontario Referendum Committee to hear prominent speakers deliver addresses favoring the banning of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province. There was no heckling whatever, the great audience cheering repeatedly for a bone dry Ontario. The speakers were Hon. Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Hon. Newton W. Rowell, ex-President of the Privy Council, and Hon. E. C. Drury, Prime Minister of Ontario. His Lordship Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto, and Commissioner Richards of the Salvation Army led in the devotions.

MAYOR STILL ON WARPATH.

He is Bound that the Hydro Commission will Back Down.

KINGSTON, April 14. — Mayor Nickle is still after the Hydro-Electric Commission in regard to the insulting statements made here some time ago by its auditor, Mickler. The Utilities Commission demanded that the provincial official retract his statements, and several communications have passed between the two commissions regarding the matter.

On Monday afternoon the local commission passed another resolution to the effect that the Hydro communications of February 3rd and March 11th are unsatisfactory, and demanded a direct answer to the original request made.

Mayor Nickle declared that the Hydro officials were side-stepping, and that so far as he was concerned they must give a straight reply to the request of the local commission. If Sir Adam Beck's Commission would not do this, then it would be guilty of encouraging its officials to be offensive towards municipalities dealing with them.

THE TWO PLATOON SYSTEM BILL WAS PASSED BY 47-35

OPPOSITION WAS STRONG BUT A DIVISION WAS SUCCESSFUL.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)— One of the most unusual debates the House has had in many sessions was staged yesterday afternoon when a last minute effort was made to defeat the legislation providing for compulsory two platoon system in all permanent fire departments in centres of ten thousand population and over.

Yesterday when J. A. Calder, of North Oxford, moved a six months' hoist to W. A. Crockett's bill on behalf of the firemen the debate started that lasted for over an hour. This was more remarkable in that when the bill came up for a second reading and again was up in committee there was no attempt to stage anything more than a half-hearted debate. There was opposition to the bill but it did not appear to be important.

Since the committee stage, however, various municipalities which the bill will compel to spend money in increasing fire fighting staffs in order to put the two platoon system into effect have been making the wires warm with protests. That these protests were not unheeded was shown by the fact that when the matter was pressed to a vote and the calling of yeas and nays, itself an unusual proceeding in dealing with a public bill, it was found that 35 members were ready to throw the measure out. But there were 47 members on the other side and the bill went through.

MINIATURE TPOPHY CUPS FOR ONTARIO AMATEUR BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

CITIZENS HONOR INTERMEDIATE CHAMPIONS AND SPEAKERS UPHOLD AMATEUR SPORT FOR YOUNG PETERBORO—MAYOR M'INTYRE ASKED TO CALL A MEETING.

Amateur sport was heartily toasted, and the half-and-half article was just as heartily roasted, at the banquet in the Empress Hotel last night in honour of the Peterborough basketball team, Intermediate titleholders for Ontario.

Peterborough folks let loose a large quantity of enthusiasm not unlike the brand of a couple of decades ago, when the then town had the habit of winning championships. The citizens caught some of the "pep" that radiated from the banquet committee, and the 125 diners joined hands and voices and gave Ontario's best a splendid reception.

Coupled with the desire to do honour to those who had brought honour to the city was the expression of the hope that this city would have a live- wide-awake Amateur Athletic Association. Some suggestions were thrown out by several of the speakers, and these culminated in a resolution, moved by Dr. N. H. Sutton, that Mayor A. A. McIntyre call a meeting with a view to either re-organising the present amateur body, or taking action that would strengthen the hands of the officers of that Association, and let everybody join in a sincere and honest effort to accomplish something real. Officers of the Association who spoke at the banquet last night expressed their willingness to step aside.

Mr. J. J. Duffus, president of the Board of Trade, in seconding the resolution, said the Board of Trade Rooms were always wide open for the convenience of an amateur athletic association.

The dinner put the company in fine spirits, and from leaflets — for once not postmarked Montreal — they sang anything and everything, not forgetting "The Old Family Toothbrush." Mr. John Crane was at the piano and Mr. G. O. Cameron was chorus leader.

Somebody Told Tales.

The champions occupied seats of honour, with the speakers of the evening. About the walls were displayed a number of cards, which in a humorous way told of the fortunes and the misfortunes of the players in their championship tour.

Dr. A. W. McPherson was toastmaster, and gave the toast of The King, which was fittingly honoured.

Once the speeches were under way it was made evident that the banquet committee had made happy choices in securing speakers.

"Fighting" McPherson, catching the spirit of the occasion, paved the way well. He said Peterborough was to be congratulated on having a championship team, and also on the fact that on short notice so many busy and representative citizens had met together to honour the team. The true sporting spirit is not dead in Peterborough, declared Dr. McPherson, and the showing made in the present occasion augurs well for a return of the old times.

The toast of Canada was proposed by Mr. J. J. Duffus, who reminded the gathering of Canada's unsurpassed resources, one of which was the largest body of water in the world — some solace, he thought, should the Province vote "yes" on Monday. Mr. Duffus spoke of Canada's prominence among the world's champions, referring to the hockey honours won by the Falcons, and the great feat of Billy Sherring of Hamilton, who a few years ago won the world's Marathon at the Olympic Games. In natural resources, in sport, and it its manhood, Canada, declared the speaker, can hold its place with any country of the world.

Champions of Other Days.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, in responding to the toast, was in a reminiscent mood, and his remarks on the champions of former days was intensely interesting. He told of a rugby championship won twenty years ago—won in the snow at Montreal against Quebec City, when Peterborough, after winning the Ontario honours, went after and captured Dominion honours. He recalled the names of the players—those still living here being Dr. McPherson, Chris Graham, Sergt. John Deannard, and Detective William Meagher of the Police Force, Ed. Dillon, and J. L. Picard. Then the following year Peterborough won Intermediate honours in the O.H.A., with the famous team of Ernie Wasson, R. M. Glover, Harold Armstrong, Harry Morgan, Fred Whitcroft, Roy Armstrong, and Chris Graham.

Mr. Kenner reviewed other branches of sport mentioning some of the players, including Rev. Father Phelan, who played lacrosse with the old guard, and Mr. J. H. Burnham, one of Peterborough's cricketers of former days.

As a preliminary to the banquet, the champions were met at the Y.M.C.A. by a committee of citizens and with the Caledonian Pipe Band leading the way, they were conveyed in autos to the banquet hall, where their arrival was the signal for a great ovation.

A "Fan's" Tribute

Clean players and unselfish players, was the tribute paid to the champions by Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, in proposing the toast of "Our Guests". Mr. Breyfogle was among the 'fans" who saw the champions in the making. Discussing the play in one of the games, Mr. Breyfogle told of how the local boys refused to retaliate when the visiting team used rough tactics He was impressed with their spirit of co-operation and in this they exemplified the unselfish player. In the first of the final games with Woodstock, the team although getting away to a bad start, persisted and fought all the way, finaly winning the game. Characteristics such as these would win for them in the game of life. The speaker said a Toronto sportsman had given as his opinion that the Peterboro boy were made of the right stuff, and played the cleanest game of basketball he had ever seen.

After drinking this toast, the gathering gave three rousing cheers and a tiger for the champions.

Then followed the presentation of eleven miniature silver trophy cups, and the Ontario trophy to the champions.

Those honoured were: — D. R. Pogue, R. R. Pogue, C. H. Stuart, H. C. Seely, A .E. Darling, O. A. DeGraw, F. H. Jobbitt, R. H. Brownscombe, J. C. Nicholls, D. N. Sutherland, and Coach Loomis. Business called Mr. Harry Cressman from the city, and he was unable to be present.

He was Bumped.

Mr J. J. Turner made the presentation, assisted by Mr. Leon Fraser Mr. Turner related some of his experiences as a member of the Business Men's Class at the Y.M.C.A. Speaking as one who had tried the game, Mr. Turner avowed that basketball is no game for the aged and infirm.

Mr Clare Stuart, captain of the team, Mr. O. A. DeGraw, and Mr. G. H. Roper, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. replied, the players praising the efforts made on behalf of the team by Mr. Harry Cressman, and Mr. Doug. Loomis, manager and coach respectively. Mr. Roper thanked the citizens for their reception to the champions.

Mr Jack Smith was called on to entertain the gathering and he responded by contributing two vocal solos that pleased everybody.

Everybody Must Help.

Proposing the toast of Amateur Athletics, Rev. Father Costello upheld the amateur and denounced the player who while posing as a "simon-pure" looked for and received monetary consideration. Recalling the remarks on the champions of other days, the speaker declared that the successes of those days could be repeated. Ten years from now the city would be a sporting city second to none in the world if all would do their duty by the Amateur Athletic Association.

In responding to this toast, Mr. R M. Glover expressed the opinion that the absence of success herein recent years, lay not with the players, but with the method or lack of it in developing and handling the material. The participant in sports should play the game for the love of it, for the health he gets out of it, and for the honor of his town. He should realize that strength, stamina and ability, is a God-given gift, and that it should be used as such. The player who poses as an amateur, and, at the same time has his hand out, is not improving his morals or cultivating a character that will help him in life. Participants in sports, urged Mr. Glover, should look for the counsel of men who are willing to give their time to carry on the different branches of sport under proper auspices.

Speaking as an executive member of the Athletic Association, Mr. Glover said: We are willing to do anything the citizens wish us to do in developing the sports of our young men, and help to give the city the prominence it deserves in the sporting world In congratulating the champions, Mr. Glover expressed the hope that they would also be champions in their respective walks of life.

The meeting was thrown open for discussion. Dr. Sutton moved his resolution which was seconded and carried. The Mayor said he would be glad to act in his official capacity with a view to promoting the welfare of an Amateur Athletic Association.

The citizens are indebted to the following committee who arranged the banquet:—Messrs. R. G Langford, chairman, R. Jobbitt, J. J. Duffus, H. A. Cranfield, W. Jackson, J Batten, F. E. Convery, F. C. McBride, H. E. Raynor and H. Rose.

On behalf of the citizens, the chairman thanked the committee, Mr Crane and Mr. Smith, for their services, J. J. Turner and Sons for decorations and the local tobacconists who supplied the "smokes" for the banquet.

IRELAND IS FINE, BUT IN BAD SHAPE.

OTTAWA, April 14.—An amusing yet poignant letter has been received by the Dominion Command of the G. W. V. A. from Private John Muldoon, Longford, Ireland, a former member of the 2nd Depot Battalion in Eastern Ontario. Private Muldoon asks the G.W.V.A. to secure his "King's bounty" (gratuity) for him, in order that he may be able to come back to Canada and go on a farm. The letter ends up: "I have even had to sell my Sunday suit and as fine as the place is it's in a terrible state to-day." The local officials are looking into the matter.

NORTHLAND TO CANADA WHAT INDIA IS TO SPAIN

Will Be Much Activity in North Coming Season.

EDMONTON, Alta., April 14.—(Canadian Press.) —A new era is dawning, and before long Canadians will recognize the fact that the Northlands is to Canada what the Indies were to the Spaniards, is the belief of Colonel J. K. Cornwall, head of the Northern Trading Company. It is not a hot-house country for dainty luxury-loving people, states Col. Cornwall, but a territory in which a red-blooded white man will revel. North of the McMurray and Peace River tenderfeet are not held in much esteem, but the man who wants to go in, and is prepared to abide by the manner and customs of the country can get through, and transact his business.

There is going to be much activity in the north during the coming season and much more information regarding the valuable gold deposits which are known to exist in the neighborhood of Great Slave Lake and elsewhere should be available during the coming year. Many of the men from the placer mine country of the Yukon are going in for testing quartz more than for oil seeking, Colonel Cornwall asserts. Quite a number of the gold miners and others who are going in to stake, will remain for the winter, and the fur business as a consequence is expected to show an upward trend. Hitherto there have been no white trappers in the far north and the Indians and breeds have never turned in the quota of furs which might be expected of them had they but applied a little more "hustle" to their trap lines.

DEMPSEY SHUNS BROADWAY CAMP

LEARNS LESSON WITH BRENNAN — WILL TRAIN DILIGENTLY IN QUIET SPOT.

NEW YORK, April 14.—With Tex Rickard hopping about the State of New Jersey trying to settle definitely on the site for the Dempsey-Carpentier contest, and Georges Carpentier on his way to this country, it looks as though the machinery has been put in motion for the holding of the big international contest on 2nd July next.

Dempsey is shuffling along in vaudeville, but will soon leave the stage and repair to some quiet spot to prepare for his tussle with the Frenchman.

It will be remembered that the champion did his training adjacent to Broadway for his bout with Bill Brennan. And it will also be recalled that the same Brennan furnished Dempsey and the talent with a genuine surprise by staying for twelve long rounds.

Jack says that he has learned his lesson. For his own sake it is to be hoped that he has. Otherwise, that Frenchman will get him if he 'don't watch out."

SPENCER STARS FOR DOYLEMEN

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C., April 14.—Vernon Spencer, late of New York, was by way of being the salient slasher in the festivities here, in which the Tar Heels were again the "fall guys." as Mickey Devine would say. The marauder from Michigan plastered the sphere into safe territory on his first three attempts, scored one run, and incidentally drove in three more. He was not so succesful against the left-hander, who finished up the game for Rocky Mount, fanning once, and flying to right on the other occasion.

The Leafs won 10 to 3, and Gonzales was also in the limelight. The Cuban seems to have got the habit, and if he persists in performing as he has been doing of recent date, Larry will have to look to his laurels. The Havana citizen beat out a bunt in the most approved style, and then, with a brace of boarders on the gangway, tripled to deep right. Had he been less greedy he probably would have scored himself, but when he tried to stretch the hit he was called out, though he slid under the throw, but failed to touch the plate with his hook slide.

In the field Gonzales accepted three chances and, with Davis, worked a fine double play. It is a regular thing with these smooth infielders, and between them they should give Toronto fans many a thrill this season.

A roll of chicken wire of one-inch mesh and a width greater than the tread of the car makes it possible for a California motorist to drive his car over deep, shifting sand.

THE TIME IS RIPE

Last night's banquet in honour of the Y. M. C. A. Basketball team, intermediate champions of the O. B. A. A., must be classed as one of the most successful functions of the kind ever held in Peterborough. It was representative of every sporting organization in the city, bringing together men in all walks in life, and it was characterized not only by a genuine pride in the achievements of the guests of honour, but by an evident desire for a revival of sports in Peterborough, and for a re-organization of the city's athletic games that would produce better results, not only for the individual athlete, but for the whole community.

The speakers of the evening emphasized the need of a governing body to direct all amateur sport in Peterborough, and their arguments were so convincing that at the conclusion of the banquet the gathering unanimously voiced its approval of the idea by calling a public meeting for the purpose of discussing the re-organization of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, or the formation of a new body on similar lines. This, His Worship, readily consented to do, so that out of last night's remarkably successful banquet is likely to arise a representative body of sportsmen animated with the one idea of encouraging and stimulating the athletic development of Peterborough, and of instilling into the young men of the community the principles of real sport.

The enthusiasm shown by those around the tables, it is hoped will be transmitted to the new organization, and a splendid start towards better conditions in Peterborough would be assured if those who were present last night, will ally themselves with the work of organizing and developing a representative athletic association. Of the need of such an organization, on one who is familiar with athletics in Peterborough needs convincing; as to what can be accomplished the Galt Amateur Athletic Association is a striking example. Since its inception, Galt has won the Western Football Association championship, and followed up that victory by capturing the intermediate O. H. A. title last winter. The sporting enthusiasm of the town is centred in the Association, and remarkable results have been achieved in a short time.

Peterborough needs such a directing body. The young material in the various games has been neglected, and as a result there has not been that development there should have been in the city. What is required is an organization that will begin at the bottom and keep a fatherly eye over the youngsters, see that they are provided with grounds upon which to play, that they are supplied with the necessary facilities, and that their activities are being directed along proper lines. Too much must not be attempted at once. We are gven to that sort of thing in Petebrorough. We expend all our enthusiasm at the go-in, and have nothing left with which to carry on, just like the newlyweds who spent so much on their going away outfits that they could not afford to go away at all. That mistake should not be made in the launching of an athletic Association. Careful planning at the start, with a programme mapped out that can be taken step by step instead of being rushed through at one meeting, and then allowed to collapse, is necessary. The time is ripe. The enthusiasm of last night's gathering evoked by the splendid feat of the champion basketball team, shows that the sportsmen of the city are ready for the movement. It is to be hoped that the opportunity will not be lost.

Voice Of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name as well as the address of the writer for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

To the Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I wish to bring to the attention of the readers of your paper what, to my mind, is a very important subject. It is simply this, "the protection of frogs." I almost hear some of you city folk laugh and say how absurd! but if you were as dependent upon the frog as the farmer is, you wouldn't laugh.

The frog is a very industrious little fellow, and is one of the farmers' greatest beneficiaries. He destroys many injurious insects and grubs, which would spoil our crops if he didn't spoil them. Moreover, at the first approach of spring, the frogs form their orchestra and liven up the long, dull evenings of spring with their spirited music, and it isn't jazz either. Therefore, I ask you in the name of the common interests of all the people to refrain from killing a frog without necessity. One word more. Don't believe any of this "frog trickery business." There is nothing to it. They don't possess any super-natural powers at all. Such belief puts me in mind of an old saying, "Humanity deluded by demons." Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, yours truly,

J. G. Sullivan.

LACROSSE NOTES

The basketball banquet put a crimp in the weekly meeting of the lacrosse executive last night, but several of the promoters of a local junior series report encouraging progress. When a supply of sticks is delivered for the youngsters, it is believed that they will all be taken and used. The intermediates will practice at the usual hour on Saturday at the Exhibition grounds.

JERSEY STATE FOR BIG FIGHT SUITS CARPENTIER.

MADRID, April 14.—Georges Carpentier is pleased with the selection of New Jersey as the site for his meeting with Jack Dempsey for the world's championship, he said here to-day. He has booked passage for America on 7th May, and will start training as soon as he arrives in a place selected before he returned to France last fall.

Carpentier, who is on an exhibition tour, apperas in the best of condition, and expressed confidence that he would be able to win the world's title.

FOUR ROUNDS ENOUGH.

NEW YORK, April 14.—"Four round will be enough and a decision won't be needed for the winner."

So says Bill Brennan, the big Chicago heavyweight, about the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Brennan met Dempsey twice. Six rounds the first time and twelve rounds the second. He thinks he ought to know something about the champion.

"Carpentier is fast enough to keep away from Dempsey for about three rounds, but he'll get it no later than the fourth," Brennan said recently.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

"THE SILVER KING."

"The Silver King," made famous by the great Wilson Barrett, has been chosen as one of the offerings of the Trans-Canada English Players when they come to the Grand Opera House for one matinee and evening, commencing Wednesday, 20th April.

The plot of "The Silver King" concerns the murder of Geoffrey Ware, who fell into the hands of a band of crooks. To Mr. Henry Lonsdale, who portrays the title role, falls the bulk of the acting. The part calls for four distinct phases of character work. He appears first as Wilfred Denver, a dissipated idler, then in the guise of a seaman, where he is remorseful and repentant; and then again as the sorrowful silver king, who seeks to make amends to his wife by surrounding her with luxuries; and finally as Nicky, the half-witted fool, when he learns that he is not guilty of the murder of Geoffrey Ware.

Excellent work is also done by Mr. Norman Cannon as the Spider, chief of the band of crooks, and by Mr. Frederick Ross as the old servant. Miss Dorothy Reeve will be seen as Nellie Denver, Miss Peggy Bryatt as the Spider's wife, and Wee Dorothy Mackay has been specially engaged to play the part of Cissie.

The plays which will be presented here are: At the matinee, 2.30 p.m., "East Lynne"; evening, at 8.30 p.m., "TheSilver King."

"WAY DOWN EAST."

Seats are now on sale for the coming engagement of David W. Griffith's masterful motion picture elaboration of "Way Down East" at the box office of the Grand.

The presentation in this city will begin Thursday evening and continue twice daily thereafter, matinee and evening, for a period of three days only.

Again, as in the case of "The Birth of a Nation,' Griffith has turned to a success of the stage for his material. This time he has taken a play that has withstood the tides of time for more than a score of years and enjoyed an unusual appeal. The success that has crowned his efforts proved that nothing dies for this master of the silent drama; no art to him is lost. This great play lives again in greater scope and grandeur though his touch and vivification. When Lottie Blair Parker and Joseph Grismer brought forth this drama at a time before people were accustomed to think in or of the theatre it was referred to as a rural play; Griffith has utilized it to bring forth the story of a woman's soul and thus lay bare truths as urban as Broadway and as universal as the skies. In this picturization, spectators are transferred from pastoral solitudes to the glitter of city life, thus furnishing a series of contrasts that enhance the dramatic values of the offering. The delightful comedy scenes of simple country folk are retained and even amplified, while the finale brings forth the great snow storm scenes ending with the stupendous crashing ice-gorge, all of which are presented in a manner the public has come to expect in a Griffith production. The orchestral accompaniment is said to be the most pretenious yet attempted in connection with a photo-drama presentation.

The management of the Grand Theatre wishes to advise patrons that owing to the widespread appeal and vogue of this presentation it is quite prudent that seats be secured in advance and as early as possible. 'Way Down East' will positively not be seen in the vicinity of Peterborough. This company goes direct to New York from here. Last stand in Canada. Secure seats in advance. Easy to get locations.

AT THE ALLEN.

APPEALING STORY TOLD ON SCREEN.

Character of "Peep O'Day" in Irvin Cobb's "Boys will be Boys," a Novel One.

There are at least two things associated with childhood days that everyone knows about and remembers—little red wagons and brass-toed boots with tops. Hardly a small boy but has not proudly displayed his new shoes and every baby heart has hungered for a little red wagon. Will Rogers is no exception in "Boys will be Boys."which comes to the Allen Theatre for two days, commencing Friday.

The only difference here is that Rogers grew up without any childhood, and decided to go back and relive it after he had become a grown man. The familiar bright-colored leather topped boots will be quickly recognized by the grown-ups in the audience as the kind that they wore when they were little,and the young people will be interested in seeing just what sort of shoes mother and father wore in the days before "scuffers."

Will Rogers shows his most whimsical and delightful nature in "Boys will be Boys," a story by Irvin S. Cobb.

FOUR CORNERED LOVE AFFAIR ALL AT CROSS PURPOSES

Marion Rogers was in love, but not with the man who loved her. In a different way according to her nature, Diana Spaulding was in love though not with the man who was infatuated with her. Camerno West was smitten with Diana and the unruly passion of Granville Wingate was aroused by Marion.

The four were together almost constantly. Tense and extraordinary situations developed. The story is told in "The Vice of Fools," by Francis James, visualized by Vitagraph, which will be shown at the Allen theatre for the last time today., with Alice Joyce in the stellar role.

The four-cornered love affair gives the charming Vitagraph star unusual opportunities for the display of her powers of expression on the screen. Of the four involved in a strange coil of circumstances, three are swept along by impulse and desire, regardless of the consequences to themselves or anybody else. Marion alone consults her judgment and invokes her woman's intuition in deciding what course she shall pursue through difficult situations. Marion Rogesr provides a role admirably suited to the talent and ability of Alice Joyce.

AT THE EMPIRE

"Seven Years Bad Luck" is an idea, based on one of the funniest of human weaknesses—a weakness we all laugh at. The characters are all human people interpreting a logical story in the most human way, without the aid of exaggerated bulbous noses, ridiculous hairy adornment or any of those things that passed out of the realm of King Momus many years ago. Such comedy was relegated to the depths reached by the old fashioned "low" comedians who relied on "funny" make-up for their elemental humor.

If you don't believe that "Seven Years Bad Luck" is the funniest comedy ever made, see it yourself.

AT THE REGENT.

NEW WILLIAM RUSSELL PICTURE IS "BEST YET"

Heralded as the best feature in which William Russell has tarred, "The Man Who Dared,' a new William Fox production with the story laid in the California Redwoods, is coming to the Regent Theatre today.

William Russell has the role of Big Jim O'Kane, boss of a lumberjack camp. The story, which is by Julius G. Furthman, tells what happened to Big Jim and the girl he loved when he "got in wrong" with the sheriff. For the sheriff happened to be in love with the girl, too, and he was not exactly all that a sheriff should be.

The film is said to be notable for the beauty of its setting. Trees grow 200 feet high in the Redwoods, and to walk the forest paths is like walking in the naves of great cathedrals. Clyde de Vinna is responsible for the photography. Supporting Mr. Russell are Eileen Percy, a very attractive actress who has since become a Fox star; Frank Brownlee and Lon Poff. Emmett J. Flynn directed the picture.

SPORT NOTES

The East Peterborough Ball League will go to bat to-night. Bohunks and probably Cressman's ball clubs will be represented at the meeting to apply for admission to the League. The meeting is called for eight o'clock at the Windsor Hotel.

Chairman Bob Langford and his committee have very reason to be elated over the success of the banquet last night. The committee put it across in fine style.

The Church Baseball League is in the throes of re-organization. It will be affiliated with the O. B. A. A. and will enter the Juvenile series.

The field adjoining the north building of the Canadian General Electric Company's plant is being put in shape for baseball and other sports. The City League candidates from the big plant will have a workout on Saturday afternoon.

The Westclox entries in the Mercantile League are working out regularly. The Big Ben crowd will have a nifty team this season.

The committee appointed at the annual meeting of the Mercantile League to draft a constitution will meet within the next few days.

LINDSAY'S BOWLING CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

CANADIAN ACTRESS AND SINGER MAKE THEIR MARK IN N.Y.

Setting Forth on a Career That Gives Promise of Place in List of Noted Artists.

(By Ben Deacon)
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 14.—A Canadian actress of high attainments and wide reputation and a Canadian singer who is just setting forth on a career that gives promise of winning for her a place in the lengthy list of noted artists who have hailed from the Dominion were featured in the week's news. Margaret Anglin's performance of Clytomnestra in Euripides' "Iphigenia in Aulis" was undoubtedly the outstanding dramatic feature of the week, while a musical event which attracted considerable attention was the recital given at Aeolin Hall by Evelyn MacNevin, a young Canadian contralto.

"Iphigenia in Aulis" was given at the Manhattan Opera House. It was a revival of the production made in California in 1915 and was on a particularly elaborate scale —rather too elaborate in the opinion of several of the critics. A special musical setting had been composed for it by Walter Damroch and the famous conductor of the New York Symphony himself wielded the baton. The event marked the end of Mr. Damroch's service as conductor of the Oratorio Society.

Miss Anglin appears to have overshadowed Mr. Damroch despite the fact that it really was his party. The consensus of opinion was that her wonderful acting was the outstanding feature of the production. The Damroch music won only faint praise but Miss Anglin's Clytemestra was hailed by practically all of the critics as a thing that will long live in memory.

The chorus arrangements were in the hands of Maurice Brown who has fitted out several other big classic productions in like manner. He fills his stage with a weaving and writhing Delsrtian chorus that is like festooning a severe Greek temple with cheese cloth. . . . These goings on recalls many strange and unrelated things such as amateur tableaux out in Kansas City in the gilded age of strawberry ice cream soda and the cover of 'Hearts and Flowers'.

During the course of the evening Miss Anglin was badly shaken when the horses drawing a chariot into which she was about to step started too soon throwing her to the floor. Other members of the cash rushed to her assistance but she pluckily climbed into the chariot and continued the performance.

New York Debut.

Miss MacNevin's recital marked her New York debut She has sung here at a number of musicales given by the Canadian Club but this week's concert was her first appearance before the general public here. She posseses a remarkably fine voice, of beautiful quality, wide range, and fine dramatic power. Added to this she has remarkably clear diction and a high degree of intelligence and artistry which several of the local musical critics predict is certain to assure her a brilliant future. Her programme included airs by Handel Scarlatti and Marcelli, a group of French songs, a Rachmaninoff group, and a group by American composers. She was probably at her best in the more emotional numbers which gave opportunity for display of her splendidly flexible tone quality, notably in D'Indy's "Lied Maritime" and Rachmaninoff's "Floods of Spring" She was given a particularly encouraging reception by an audience which filled Aeolian Hall and was obliged to respond to frequent demands for encore numbers. Richard Hageman the noted teacher and conductor was her accompanist.

Miss MacNevin is a daughter of Dr. Malcolm MacNevin a vice-president of the Canadian Club, and born in Chatham, Ont. She has studied heres under Hageman and Julius I. Meyer. During the war she frequently gave her services to the Canadian Club for the purpose of assisting in raising funds for war purposes. She is contemplating a tour of Canada in the fall.

LEAFS BEAT PETERSBURG AFTER HARD BATTLE 4 TO 0.

PETERSBURG, Va., April 14. — Yesterday was a strenuous day for the Leafs, who travelled all morning, engaged in a ball game in the afternoon, which all but wound up in a free-for-all, and on top of that had enough spirit left to almost declare a strike over the quality, or rather lack of quality, of the "eats" which they had served up to them at the hotel where they stopped. They won both arguments at the ball park, the game by 4 to 0 and the wordy scrap by an unknown score, but they lost out in the dining-room ruction.

The trouble at the game occurred over a decision at second base, when Altenburg was declared out by the home umpire after he had apparently slid under the throw. Shortstop Martin, who made the play, waxed belligerent, and Altenburg tried not only to clean him up, but the "umps" as well, and was prevented from going through with the matter by his fellow-players, who were not slow to rush on the field when the crisis came. The affair would not have amounted to anything had Manager Martin, the "Roscoe Arbuckle" of baseball, shown any discretion. He called the Toronto player a few pet names, and even after the excitement had quieted down he fussed about and became so abusive that Anderson, on behalf of the Leafs, challenged him to mortal combat.

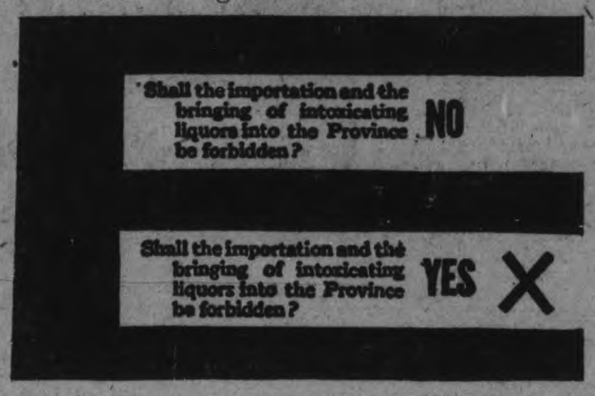
REFERENDUM INFORMATION

NEXT Monday, April 18, the electors of Ontario will be expected to vote on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

The reason so much liquor is being consumed in Ontario is because the law permits liquor to be imported into the province. At present it is perfectly legal to import car loads of intoxicating liquor into Ontario. If this Referendum carries this condition will cease.

Next Monday, electors, on entering the polling booths, will be handed ballots reading as follows:



People who are in favor of stopping the importation of liquor should mark an X opposite the word YES as shown on the ballots above.

When To Vote

This year the polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The law allows employees one hour, in addition to the noon hour, without loss of time, in which to vote.

People who find it impossible to vote before 5 p.m. will be able to vote between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

ON POLLING DAY

The headquarters of the Referendum Committee next Monday will be in the Y. M. C. A. 'Phone 246.

Citizens who will be willing to assist in getting out the voters, particularly of the women, are requested to 'phone their name and addresses to 246.

OTTAWA BUILDERS OFFER WAGE CUT

BUT SOME TRADES HAVE ASKED INCREASE OF FROM 15 TO 25 PER CENT.

OTTAWA, April 14. — George Cain, secretary of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Building and Construction Industries, has issued a general statement that in almost every department of the building trades here contractors are agreed to reduce wages. The wage reduction has been made known to the tradesmen, but the Building Trades Council has not yet discussed the matter.
Increases in wages averaging from 15 to 25 per cent. per hour were asked by some trades, in a schedule recently submitted to the contractors by the Building Trades Council. Other trades asked that last year's wage agreement be renewed, while no trade showed a willingness to accept a reduction.
In an announcement in the Ottawa press the builders assure the public that they may rest assured of a reduction this year in building costs of from 15to 20 per cent. "On the other hand," they declare, "we wish the men to understand that it is our policy as in the past to avoid all possible friction, and to adjust matters with that sense of reason and justice which will preserve the good feeling which has hitherto existed between the contractors and the employes in the building trades.
Bricklayers, masons and laborers are offered 10 cents an hour reduction; carpenters 5c. an hour, and a fall of from 15 to 20 per cent. in construction costs is promised.

DOGS CAUSE WAR ON RATS.

Barking Keeps Mt. Vernon Awake, So Health Officials Act.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 14.—The health authorities of Mount Vernon have declared war on rats at the city dump. Dogs turned loose on the dump were so far outnumbered by the rats that many returned home with their noses bleeding from bites inflicted by the rats.
Residents of Sixth Street have complained that the rats keep them awake nights, drawing half the dogs in town to the dump, where the dogs keep up a continual barking. So Dr. T. Harold Tallman, Health Officer, and Dr. Gustave Horstmann, bacteriologist, had a large quantity of strychnine sprinkled over the rubbish. The operation will be repeated until the nuisance is abated.

The second of the series of informal dances given at the Conservatory of Music last evening was a great success. The music supplied was excellent. Refreshments were served during the evening by the King's Daughters.
At the regular weekly "At Home" of the Holy Name Society of the Immaculate Conception Church held last evening in the Parish Hall, the prizes for cards, a bag of potatoes, was won by Mr. Michael Hickey of the Sacred Heart parish, and a teapot, by Mrs. Leo Cleary, of East City. The prize cake made by Mrs. McGrath was won by Mrs. Bruce Law, of Sherbrooke street.
The regular monthly meeting of the Central Home and School Association was held last evening, with a good attendance. A very interesting and encouraging talk on the work of the Associations was given by Mrs. Medd, and a report of the meetings in connection with Home and School work which tok place at the Ontario Educational Association Convention held in Toronto recently. Mrs. Medd attended this convention, and reported that representatives from over 200 Home and School Associations were present there, some coming from New Ontario and as far away as Vancouver, showing the strides which this new branch of educational endeavor is making all over Canada.
A pleasant little musical progarmme was given during the evening. Miss Maragret Denne rendered a piano solo, Mrs. Hughes a vocal number, and Miss Evelyn Miller recited.

SEVENTY-EIGHT TEACHERS AND NOT ONE MALE.

MILTON, Ont., April 14. — Inspector J. N. Denyes announces that the rural schools of the Halton and Wentworth Inspectorate have 78 teachers, and out of this number, not one is a man, which is a striking contrast to several years ago, when young men took up teaching as a stepping stone to the professions. He believes that boys should receive some of their teaching from men, and considers the absence of male teachers in the rural schools to be a very unfortunate state of affairs.

CHILDREN FORCED SUPPORT PARENTS

BILL PROVIDING THIS APPROVED BY LEGISLATTRE COMMITTEE.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—The legal bills committee of the Ontario Legislature today approved of the bill presented by Sergeant-Major McNamara, Riverdale, providing for the maintenance of dependent parents by their children.
Under this measure, which will probably be passed by the legislature, a parent is to be deemed dependent on adult children, if such parent is by reason of age or infirmity unable to maintain himself or herself. In case such children do not carry out this obligation they may be summoned before a magistrate or police justices and ordered to pay a sum not exceeding twenty dollars weekly for such maintenance.

STINNES OFFER TO DANES.

Would Buy Steel Plant to Escape Entente's Tariff.

COPENHAGEN, April 14.—It has been learned on good authority that Hugo Stinnes, the German capitalist, has approached the Danish steel works, known as the Roadvaddam Fabrikker, now facing liquidation, and offered to purchase the shares of the majority stockholders at 25 per cent. of their nominal value.
It is said that Herr Stinnes would continue the works as the Danish branch of his famous knife manufactory at Solingen, with the purpose of evading a retaliatory duty on his exports by Entente countries.

VOL. XLIX. NO 87 — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1921 — PRICE THREE CENTS

Has Ambrose J. Small, Missing Millionaire, Been Found at Last?

MAN WANDERING IN WOODS AROUND KINGSTON ANSWERS THE DESCRIPTION OF THE THEATRE OWNER WHO STEPPED FROM TORONTO OPERA HOUSE INTO OBLIVION SIXTEEN MONTHS AGO.

AUTHORITIES ARE INVESTIGATING

KINGSTON, April 14. — (Special to the Examiner.) — Is the man who has been wandering around the vilage of Verona and the surrounding district, for the past three weeks. Ambrose J. Small, the missing millionaire theatrical man.

This is the question that G. R. Hornbeck, Provincial police constable, located in Kingston, is endeavoring to solve.

He has been notified that a man answering the description of the missing millionaire, has been in the Verona district and is putting forth every effort possble to locate the man and ascertain if he is the one sought. People who have met the man state that the description tallies with that given of Mr. Small.

It appears that the man has been around the district for three weeks moving in and out of the village in a mysterious manner. The man acts very queerly and it is believed that he is of unsound mind. It is stated that he is wearing a heavy overcoat with a furlined collar, a slouch Fedora hat and a suit of clothes which are almost threadbare. It is stated that he has been carrying a large sum of money and also has a gold watch and chain, and some who have met the man state that he has a habit when looking at his watch of rubbing the chain, a habit which it is stated Mr. Small had, and of which reference has been made in the newspaeprs from time to time. The man of mystery has been spending a great deal of his time around the mines at Verona but has very little to say. In fact he has refused to talk to the people about himself, and from time to time has wandered away into the bushes giving the people the impression that he does not want them to know who he is.

It is stated that one night he was noticed around the mines with a lantern and that when asked what he was doing there he replied "I am waiting here for my prospectors."

One lady who resides at Verona, was shown a picture of Mr. Small and she felt sure that the "man of mystery" was the missing Toronto millionaire.

A RIOT OF COLOUR AT THE ARMOURIES FOR MOTOR SHOW

DECORATIONS PRESENT A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE—THE SHOW OPENS TO-NIGHT.

The Armouries this morning, even with arrangements for all the booths not quite completed, presented a very brilliant spectacle. The decorators have surpassed themselves this year in their harmonious blending of many bright colours and simulated flower effects. An immense wooden flag, studded with dozen of electric lights of different colours, blazes above the entrance, flags and banners of all sorts decorate the windows and walls, pennants stream from the ceiling, and a long line of upright wooden staves on either side of the hall bears aloft the flags of many different nations. The namecards above each exhibit are most artisically done and add pleasing note to the general decorative effect. The first object that strikes the eye upon entering is an immense basket with broad green paper strips woven in and out between the staves, and a handle entertwined with pink blossoms. These same cheerful blossoms with their wonderfully natural look, decorate many of the booths, and the ice cream will come from the daintiest mingling of mauve and white decorations, with pink blossoms and pussy willows for garniture.

The Coleman Lamp Company, of Toronto, with a whirling gasoline lamp device, is done in black and orange, and the Kingan Hardware Company have a rich brown effect. The booth presided over by the Catholic Women's League is very attractively decorated in a latticework of yellow and white, with yellow flowers, and the Canadian Oil Company's stand, done in black and yellow, is very striking. Pale blue is the fancy of the Heintzman decorators, and the Massey bicycles have a bright exhibit trimmed with red, white and blue. The candy booth, under the charge of the Business Girls' Club, is most gorgeous. Green and white checking forms the base, and immense bouquets of wonderlful huge flowers in startling blues and yellows make this corner a centre of beautiful color. The Canadian Packing Compuany have a neatly arranged exhibit, and the North British Rubber Company of Edinburgh has a display of sporting and golf goods on a brilliant red background with Mr. W. J. Hopwood in charge.

There are all sorts of cars, immaculate and glistening, in colours of black, and green and blue, in all sizes, from a wonderful affair in grey and maroon with luxurious upholstering and cut glass flower vases to a neat little black coupe.

There is a special room for "everything electrical" with a model kitchen erected by the Utilities Commission, containing all the modern electric household conveniences, with a demonstration of washing-machines and small appliances on the side, and a dignified table in black and orange bearing all sorts of comfortable looking things worked by electricity.

The tea-room, in charge of the Otonabee Chapter, is most attractive with green and white paper festoons, and white-clothed tables bearing real spring blooms of pansies and carnations. Here tea is served, with salads and cold meats, if one desires them, at a very moderate price. The fashion parade, which will be held upstairs in the lecture room this year, has a conven ient stage, with beautiful background of black and silver and elaborate chairs and floor lamp.

The dance hall is in the very best condition for the merry trippers, the black-face comedians will have their minstrel show in the recreation room ,and there is a good-sized fishpond for the children, right beside the entrance.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION CALLED IN SASKATCHEWAN.

REGINA, April 14.—At a meeting of the executive of the Provincial Conservative Association here, it was decided to call a Provincial convention to be held in Regina on Wednesday, 27th April.

At this convention the course of action the party will follow, in view of the fact that a Provincial election appears to be imminent, will be decided on.

PETERBORO BOYS WHO WON IN RIFLE SHOOT

Nineteen hunnred and seventy six boys and girls won medals for accurate shooting in the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps competition during the month of March. Of this number 922 won the pro-marksman medal, 501 the marksman, 210 the sharpshooter, 320 won bars, 14 won the expert medal and 9 captured the instructor's medal. With 100 medals won in January, 1447 in February, and the 1976 in March, a total of 4523 medals have been awarded to the youth of America in the first three months of this year. This organization is growing at the rate of 3000 members a month and on an average of 75 maches are being conducted monthly. The highest award that any member of the W. J. R. C. can win is the expert medal. The following Peterborough names are listed among the Canadian winners in March: B. Copping, William N. Miller, Donald Fleming, C. Crawford, A. MacFarlane, Orville Martin, Farron Stevens, S. Watson, Clarence Watt, Chester Crawford.

BANDIT "PAT" IS STILL AT LARGE AND BELIEVED HE ESCAPED POSSES AND BOARDED TRAIN NEAR CARODAC

LONDON, Ont., April 14 (Canadian Press).—Bandit "Pat," the fourth man in the Melbourne murder and attempted bank robbery, is saill at large, despite a most vigorous search in all parts of Western Ontario.

It is presumed that he managed to catch a freight train near Caradoc on Monday night, and in this way eluded capture.

An inquest into the circumstances surrounding the murder of Russell Campbell is being held at Melbourne this afternoon.

Urge Transfer of the Power System Here to Municipal Ownership

DEPUTATION FROM PETERBORO AND OTHER CENTRAL ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES INTERVIEWS PREMIER.

WILL CONSIDER IT.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Special to The Examiner.) —A deputation from Peterborough, Belleville, Deseronto, Lindsay, Oshawa and other places urged upon Premier Drury to-day the advisability of the government transferring the Central Power system to the Hydro Commission to be held in trust for the municipalities on the same basis as the systems in Western Ontario and elsewhere. The system is now owned by the Government and operated by the Commission. The request is to have the proeprty transferred to the municipalities on fair terms.

Sir Adam Beck said at the time the Central Ontario system was taken over by the government, the Minister made a statement that is was the intention of the Government to operate it as a provincial undertaking until such time as it might be sub-divided amongst the municipalities. It was their purpose from the beginning that the affairs of the undertaking should be carried on in such a way that it would really represent municipal ownership in the end.

G. H. Kilmer, K.C., counsel to the Hydro Commission, said there was absolute and full authority under the Act for the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to transfer this property to the Hydro Commission in trust for the municipalities on whatever terms that may be arranged between the Commission for the municipalities and the Government as special Act was unnecessary.

Premier Drury promised that the Government would give the mattas consideration as soon as they could get an opportunity. There were several aspects that would have to be discussed.

DAIRY SCHOOL DEAN URGES ADVERTISING

That the time has come for dairy men and milk products dealers to start an educative advertising campaign is very evident to H. E. Van Norman, dean of the University of California, and president of the National Dairy Association. At an address before the Northwestern Milk Dealers at Boise, Idaho, Mr. Van Norman stated that through paper advertising the consumption of oranges had been doubled several times. Why then, could not milk, a necessity, be increased through the same medium.

DELAY BURIAL OF EX-EMPRESS

REMAINS WILL NOT LEAVE DOORN UNTIL MONDAY, FOLLOWING ORDER OF GERMAN AUTHORITIES.

TO CONCEAL TRAIN

DOORN, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—The German Government authorities have insisted that the taking of the body of the late former Empress Augusta Victoria from Doorn to Potsdam for burial be delayed and the remains will not leave here until Monday morning, it is announced.

Former Emperor William frequently visits the room where reposes the coffin of the former Empress.

Preparations are being made at Maarn Station to keep from the view of the public the train which will transport the body of Augusta Victoria to Germany. Large tubs containing palms, laurels and other plants will be placed along the side track over which the train will pass.

Court Chaplain von Dryander had a long talk with former Emperor William in the park surrounding Doorn Castle. After the conversation, William apparently was more composed than he previously had been. Later, the chaplain prayed over the body. He had known the former Empress since her childhood.

There was an almost continuous file of automobiles and private carriages before Doorn Castle yesterday. They brought prominent Germans and Dutchmen who signed the condolence register. Only relatives and the most intimate friends of the family were admitted to the castle. Large numbers of wreaths and floral crosses were delivered at the castle yesterday.

Lloyd George Again Attempts to Effect a Settlement But Effort Appears to Have Been a Failure

CONFERRED WITH STRIKE LEADERS FOR TWO HOURS THIS MORNING WITHOUT MAKING ANY PROGRESS.

OFFICIALS DUBIOUS

LONDON, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—A conference held this morning between Lloyd George and a delegation of officials of the Triple Alliance, which has called a strike for Friday night, in support of the striking miners, was concluded within two hours without any progress apparently having been made toward the adjustment of the grave labor situation.

It was reported that the Prime Minister made a long statement appealing strongly to the railwaymen and transport workers, asking them to exercise restraint and not to precipitate a crisis. This plea, however, does not appear to have had any effect.

J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, declared after the conference that he could see no prospect of a reopening of negotiations for adjustment of the strike situation. On the Government side it was said the Labor men were unable to present new arguments giving the Government any different view of their case, while the Government, it was understood, did not indicate that it was prepared to make any further concessions. Thus the situation early this afternoon appeared unchanged and the outlook gloomy.

During the conference, it developed that Lloyd George made a plea to the labod men that they resort to a ballot, suggesting that they put their case to the nation, and saying that the Government would do likewise with its case and let the nation decide the issue.

SANITARY INSPECTOR AND M.O.H. PLAN TO LAUNCH AN EARLY DRIVE ON THE BACK YARDS AND CELLARS

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton is preparing to stage his spring drive on uncleaned and untidy back yards in advance of other years, and he, with the M.O.H., are getting flashlights for a close inspection of alleged unsanitary cellars.

Mr. Stapleton says the 1st of May idea of cleaning out the back yard debris is antiquated, and with an early spring as this year, the yards should be entirely presentable now.

Dr. Young stated to-day that the fly nuisance was caused to a considerable extent by filthy basements, and he was prepared to go any length to have the source of the nuisance cleaned up.

When the plan of action is completed, he and the Sanitary Inspector will stage an attack on downtown shops, and carry the war against the unclean, germ-infected, fire-inviting cellar to the bitter end, which will likely be in the Police Court.

SCARLET FEVER SPREADS HERE

M.O.H. BLAMES CATS FOR RAPIDITY WITH WHICH NUMBER OF CASES INCREASE.

IS A MILD FORM

A mild form of scarlet fever has found its way into Peterborough and the quarantine signs on many a verandah and the number of patients in Queen Mary Hospital testify to how effectively it has spread. The Queen Mary hospital has about 14 scarlet fever patients and there are 5 houses quarantined at present.

The disease, while not of a malicious type, has the usual characteristics of hanging on. Scarlet fever is spread in different ways. A doctor told the Examiner this morning that he believed the contagion was propogated by the feline family. Many of the sick children have a pet pussy and parents seeing amusement provided for the weary hours in bed and seeing no harm, allow their children to fondle the cat. The result is that the cat becomes a carrier of scarlet fever germs and while the felines seemingly themselves suffer no ill in their long fur the germs thrive and develop and one cat carries the germs to another and eventually the scarlet fever reaches some other child with a favorite "kitty." Dr. Young fastened the responsibility of spreading much of the scarlet fever upon the cat family and declared that there should be a "no admittance" sign on the door of every sick room for the family cat.

The period of quarantine is 10 days if the patient is sent to the hospital, if cared for at home six weeks. This lattter period can be moderated if there are extenuating circumstances, however.

Dr. Young said the disease found most of its victims in childhood and he warned parents to not delay a doctor's examination and treatment if the slightest symtoms were noticed.

DUST NUISANCE IN EAST CITY

The transition from deep mud to fine dust has been rapid to the citizens of East City. A few weeks ago the residents of the East Ward were ploughing their way through the mud that enveloped the roadway and sidewalk area of Peterborough's half million dollar bridge. To-day the same citizens are groaning under the burden of the dust nisance. Some of them have suggested that the Board of Works Department dispatch its five thousand dollar waterwaggon in the general direction of the new bridge at least twice a day.

EIGHT KILLED AND OVER FIFTY INJURED IN TEXAS STORM, LATER REPORTS SAY—FEW MAY DIE.

MANY ARE HOMELESS

MELISSA, Texas, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—Citizens of Melissa to-day set about affording relief to the large number of families made homeless yesterday by the tornado and storm which swept this little town, causing the death of eight persons and the injury of many more. Five of the eight dead are negroes. Five persons are injured, possibly fatally, while more than fifty received less serious injuries. A number of the injured are in hospitals at McKinney.

PRINGLE FAMILY BECOMES HEIRS TO $3,362,263

MILWAUKEE.— The family of James Pringle, 605 Prospect avenue, president of the Milwaukee Casket Co., will receive $3,361,263 as its share of a fortune of $7,562,842 left by his only brother, Robert, Chicago grain dealer, who died in February, 1919, according to Chicago press despatches. One ninth of the estate will go to Mr. Pringle and one-ninth to each of his three children, T. J., Milwaukee; Morton, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and Margaret, a student at Columbia university.

Mr. Pringle left for Chicago to assist in the settlement of the estate.

Estate is Settled.

The Pringle estate, which has been in the Cook county probate courts since the death of Robert Pringle, was settled Tuesday and the executors were discharged and the assets divided among the heirs.

Another brother, Thomas J. Pringle, one-time candidate for mayor of Milwaukee, died several years ago. Mrs. Thomas J. Pringle, his widow, was mentioned in the will of the bachelor grain operator.

Made Fortune in Grain.

Robert Pringle had a spectacular financail career. He went to Chicago with his family when a youth and before he was 24 had made more than $1,000,000 on the Chicago board of trade. He lost this fortune before he was 30, but continued in the grain business and succeeded in piling up several additional millions. He organized the Pringle, Fitch & Rankin Grain Co., which went out of business when he died.

Regarding the above news item, taken from a Milwaukee paper, the Pringle family referred to originally lived in Peterborough, and are connected with the Swansons living in East City. Mr. Jas. Swanson's mother was a Pringle, and closely related to the families above referred to.

MALE VOICE CHORUS ANNUAL MEETING

WILL BE HELD AT GREENE'S MUSIC STORE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

The first annual meeting of the Peterborough Male Voice Chorus will be held on Friday night in the auditorium at Greene's store. Reports of the recent concert will be presented, together with a general review of the first year's efforts and success. It is likely that the members will survey the future, of which it is already said there are promises of a membership increased to seventy-five when next season's rehearsals begin.

The Chorus have an engagement in Port Hope on May 3rd. They will sing in the Methodist church, which has accommodation for 1200 persons. All members are requested to attend the annual meeting to-morrow night at 8 o'clock sharp.

PROFITEERING IN GERMANY STILL.

Enormous Gains in Coal and Iron.

DUSELDORF, April 1 (by mail, Associated Press).—Enormous and still increasing profits compared with those made in 1914 are being made in the German coal, iron, machinery, textile paper, glass, and electrical industries, according to an article in the Dusseldorf Lokal Zeitung.

The paper quotes the reports of numerous companies, among them being one manufacturing copper and brass tubing and plate at Duisburg, which paid a dividend of 24 per cent. and a bonus of 20 per cent. Its shares, which were quoted in Berlin at 157 at the end of 1919, are now 630.

A 12 per cent. dividend declared by the Kammgarn Spinning Works of Dusseldorf was only 10 per cent. of the profits earned, says the German newspaper. In the ten years previous, this company had regularly declared a dividend of only 8 per cent.

A similar company declared in 1920 a dividend of 40 per cent., as compared with one of 11 per cent. in the three preceding years.

The writer of the article points out that but for the evidence of such figures Germany could more effectively have resisted the demands of her opponents that she make full reparation to the Allies.

Transfer of Power at Campbellford First a Provincial Question

HON. DR. J. D. REID, MINISTER OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS, TELLS CAMPBELLFORD DEPUTATION THAT THE MATTER MUST FIRST BE DEALT WITH BY THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT THROUGH THE HYDRO.

DOMINION WILLING IF THE HYDRO IS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, April 14. — If the Campbellford municipal power company wants to arrange for the transfer of certain water powers to the Dominion Government, it will be first of all necessary for them to take the question up with the Ontario Government, through the Hydro Commission.

This, substantially, was the rejoinder of the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, to a deputation of six Campbellford civic officials, who interviewed the Minister at his office this morning.

The question which the delegation submitted to the Minister was in the form of a request that the Department of Railways and Canals should transfer an order for power to the Campbellford municipal power company, which now rests with the Hydro Commission.

At present the arrangement is that the Government must supply certain industries at Campbellford with power, who were deprived of it through the building of the Trent Canal at Campbellford. The delegation requested that the Department of Railways and Canals cancel this order, which calls for the supply of about 1,500 horse-power, and turn it over to the Campbellford plant.

The result, however, as stated, was that the Minister briefly but plainly informed the delegation that it was a question entirely for the delegation to arrange with the Ontario Government, and that their best plan would be to get into communication with the Government through the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario.

Hon. Mr. Reid stated that the Government would not place any obstacle in the way of the Campbellford officials, should they be able to come to an agreement with the Hydro Commission and the Ontario Government. It was, to his way of thinking, a matter to be settled entirely between the municipality and the Commission or the Provincial Government.

The members of the delegation were introduced to the Hon. Mr. Reid by Mr. C. A. Munson, member for Northumberland, who in a few words, explained to the Minister the nature of the errand upon which the deputation was in Ottawa.

Ex-Mayor Armstrong, of Campbelford, was the principal spokesman for the delegation. Mayor A. J. Meyers and the town engineer also briefly informed the Minister of the situation at Campbellford regarding power, and what they were seeking.

Mr. H. I. Humphrey and Mr. Nelson Stone also spoke in support of the request, chiefly supplementing the remarks of the others

Mayor A. J. Meyers, ex-Mayor Armstrong, Reeve C. Davidson, B. A. MacLean, manager of the Utilities Commission, I. A. Humphries, solicitor were members of the deputation.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 14. — A meeting of the Lacrosse Club was held on Wednesday evening, with the following men present: Charles Nadoo, James Kerr, H. Townsend, R. Cole, James Blute, Wm. Sarginson, V. Tarrel, B. Abernethy, P. Sarginson, and A. Wood.

The obtaining and placing of the men was thorough discussed and a committee was appointed to take charge of this work.

Campbellford has excellent prospects of having a winning team.

Social and Personal.

Mr. W. J. Hall, Sepastopol Street, was in Peterobrough yesterday.

Miss Nellie Hoover, teller in the Standard Bank, leaves on Friday for two weks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Church, in Orillia.

Mr. Thomas MacMannus was a business vistor in Peterborough yesterday.

Mrs. Glenn Thompson held a progressive euchre party on Tuesday evening, at which she entertained five tables. Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Wigins won the prizes. After the euchre a very dainty lunch was served.

Rev. and Mrs. Hinton of Hastings were in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Coxwell and family are now living on Grand Road, in the house recently occupied by Mr. William Clark.

The Kimberley Cheese Factory, English Line, commenced operations to-day, and a good supply of milk was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Johnston left yesterday to spend some time visting their daughter, Mrs. Marvin McComb, Morganston.

Begg — Petherick.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnised yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the Seymour East parsonage, Rear Street, when Miss Jessie Pearl Petherick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Petherick, of Stanwood, became the bride of Mr. William Heard Begg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Begg, English Line. The hapy couple left, amid showers of good wishes and confetti, on the evening train for a short honeymoon in Peterborough, and upon their return will reside on the groom's farm, English Line. The bride and groom have a host of friends, who unite in wishing them a long and prosperous wedded life.

THIS IS A PHOTOGRAPH OF THE GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAM OF CAMPBELLFORD HIGH SCHOOL TAKEN BY THE BONNYCASTLE STUDIO, CAMPBELLFORD.

Peterborough will recall the visit of the Campbellford team to Peterborough this winter, when the visitors whitewashed the local aggregation by a score of 9-0. That is a sample of what they did all over the district. They lost only one game during the season. They played one game against the ladies' team of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Belleville, and returned to Campbellford with the big end of a 8-1 score. The next game was played in Belleville, where the Campbellford girls were defeated by one goal. The team then went to Trenton and defeated the Trenton High School team by a score of 4-1. The last game was played in Peterborough. Soft weather prevented the Campbellford girls from winning any more games, and they laid away their sticks for the season.

Lloyd George Opens Way to the Renewal of Strike Parleys

ASKS LABOR LEADERS THEIR GROUNDS FOR REFUSING OFFERS AND NEW CONFERENCE CALLED.

MEETING TO-NIGHT

LONDON, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Lloyd George has provided the leaders of the Triple Alliance with another opening for the renewal of negotiations in the miners' strike and the general strike of the railway men and transport workers in support of it, by asking for the grounds of their refusal of the government's offer.

A conference of all labour elements has been called for Thursday night in a final effort to effect peace in the coal strike. The conference will be attended by executives of the Labor party, Trade Union Congress and leaders of the Triple Alliance.

EMULATING FAMOUS BOSTON TEA PARTY

HATFIELD, April 14.—Declaring that in so doing they are emulating the spirit of the Boston Tea Party, more than one hundred citizens of this town, in a special town meeting last night, passed a resolution pledging themselves to ignore the State Daylight Savings Law.

This is the fourth town in the Connecticut Valley officially to take such action.

SEEK SONS OF NEGRO SLAYER

NATION-WIDE SEARCH INSTITUTED FOR TWO SONS OF J. S. WILLIAMS, CONVICTED RECENTLY.

BOTH ARE INDICTED

MONTICELLO, Ga., April 14. — A nation wide search was instituted here to-day for Roland Marvin and Leroy Williams, sons of John S. Williams, proprietor of the Jasper County "death farm," following their indictment by the Jasper county grand jury in conection with the wholesale slayig of negroes on and near their father's plantation.

Governor Drosey will be asked to offer a reward for their arrest, Solicitor General Doyle Campbell announced to-day.

The three have been missing since the arrest of their father. They did not attend Wiliams trial at Cobington last week where he was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

A total of 12 indictments were returned by the Grand Jury late yesterday afternoon. Williams and Manning, the negro "boss," whose confession resulted in the former's conviction, were jointly indicted for the death of eight negroes.

Roland Williams was indicted for the death of a negro known as "Black Strap" in the fall of 1920.

Joint indictments were returned against Marvin and Leroy Williams, charging them with the murder of a negro named "Iron Jaw," in the summer of 1920. Marvin Williams was indicted for the murder of John Singleton in April, 1918. This brings the total number of murders on and near Williams' place revealed to date to thirteen.

The Grand Jury to-day started investigation into alleged murders by other individuals.

MAJOR LEAGUE SEASON OPENS

TWO SUPPOSEDLY CLEANSED MAJOR BALL LEAGUES BEGAN NEW SEASON YESTERDAY.

FRESH FROM CAMPS

NEW YORK, April 14. — Fresh from the spring training camps, the National and American Leagues opened yesterday. Only one game was postponed, that of Chicago and Detroit in the American League.

That the National League pennant race would resolve itself into a three-cornered fight between New York, Brooklyn and Pittsburg was the prediction of President John A. Heydler.

Each game was marked by auspicious opening ceremonies, particularly in Washington, where President Warren G. Harding pitched the first ball and General Pershing headed the procession to the grounds.

Following are the results of yesterday's battles:

American League.

St. Louis 4, Cleveland 2.
New York 11, Philadelphia 1.
Boston 6, Washington 3.

National League.

New York 10, Philadelphia 8.
Chicago 5, St. Louis 2.
Cincinnati 5, Pittsburg 3.
Brooklyn 5, Boston 4.

SAY STRIKERS NOW MUST VACATE COMPANY HOUSES

SYDNEY, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)—After being allowed to remain in possession all winter, the striking railroaders of the Dominion Steel Company have been ordered to vacate the company's houses within a few days. Unless they comply, eviction proceedings will be instituted. Of the 130 switchmen who went out on strike November 23 last, about 30 occupy company houses, the remainder owning their own homes in Sydney.

SENT TO HOME, BOY ABSCONDER NOW SENTENCED

19-YEAR-OLD BANK CLERK, WHO STOLE $96,000 AND WAS ALLOWED TO GO, GIVEN ONE YEAR.

WAS A NOVEL CASE

CHICAGO, April 14.— Francis J. Carey, the 19-year-old bank cashier of Ottawa, Ill., whose theft of $96,000 last November was followed by criticism of Judge Landis when the latter permitted the youthful culprit to return home pending sentence, was senenced by Judge Landis to serve one year in the National Training School for Boys at Washington, D.C.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Landis made no comment on the case nor did he give Carey any advice as to future conduct. The boy accompanied by his mother, appeared unmoved, although Mrs. Carey seemed to be struggling to suppress her emotions.

Carey's case aroused considerable interest even before his appearance in court had led to the criticism of Judge Landiss procedure. He disappeared from the bank and officials of the institution at first believed he had been the victim of robbers. Securities amounting to $40,000 found in an alley in the rear of the bank building strengthened this theory and led to the belief that he had been imprisoned in the vault.

Baffled by a time lock, the bank officials had the doors burned open. Carey was not found. The search finally led to a farm seven miles from Ottawa, where he was arrested. Carey made a full confession and restored $56,000 in money and securities which, with the $40,000 found in the alley, accounted for all missing funds.

The fact that the bank lost nothing was commented on by Judge Landis when he allowed Carey to go back to Ottawa while he was deciding what sentence to impose.

THE CITY MANAGER

Though the commission plan marked a revolutionary advance over the traditional mayor-and-council form of city government in the matter of popular control, experience with it in a large number of cities revealed important defects in its internal organization.

In the first place, it often happened that none of the five men elected to the commission was personally qualified to take active charge of, say, the department of public works or the department of finance. Popular elections proved to be the wrong way to select men for technical tasks; the electorate is interested first of all, and quite rightly, in representation—in voting for one of "our kind of people."

Some very excellent and truly representative commissioners fell down badly because they were misfits as executives.

To this extent, the plan tended to become unrepresentative and undemocratic. There was, for example, no commissionership in which a labor representative would be appropriate. And no high-grade business man could afford to interrupt his private career for a short term on a salary.

There was often, also, too much inclination on the part of individual commissioners to set the needs of their particular departments above those of the city as a whole and to form combinations for "log-rolling" purposes.

"Vote for what I want in my department and I let you have your way in your department," they said, and five-headed government was the result, each commissioner grabbing appropriations for his own department and nobody watching the tax rate.

Another important defect in the system lay in the lack of a single executive head. Five men, deriving their authority all from the same source, were on a par with each other. The commission as a whole might issue orders to its individual members, but who could compel willing, loyal obedience?

How, then, should the good in commission governments be conserved and these defects avoided?

The city-manager plan has proven the answer to this important question; otherwise this most hopeful movement toward democracy might have been discredited.

In the manager plan, commissioners (councilmen) are not elected with the idea that they will have to run a technical department. Their sole function is to represent, to be a jury, fair samples of the people, to know all about local public sentiments and to express it in the form of directions to a technical non-political administrative force at city hall.

Labor men are among the most successful of commissioners in the manager cities. And women are available for these posts.

Moreover, the demands upon a commissioner's time, when his duties are limited to weekly meetings, are lighter. The job of commissioner becomes something to which any citizen may aspire.

Thus the field of available material for these responsible offices is greatly widened. The choice need not and does not drfit toward professional politicians who find the salary attractive, since city-manager towns give only nominal compensation to their commissioners (councilmen).

A striking feature of the city-manager movement is the appearance as high-grade councilmen of men who never were willing to go into politics before.

Nor is there any temptation in the

RECIPROCITY RESURRECTED AND BEATEN

HON. W. S. FIELDING MOVES RATIFICATION OF MEASURE —DEFEATED BY 100 TO 79.

CLOSURE IS APPLIED

OTTAWA, April 14. — (Canadian Press). — Reciprocity came up for discussion in the House of Commons again for the first time since 1911 yesterday on motion of Hon. W. S. Fielding, that the Canadian Government approve and confirm the agreement still on the statute books of the United States.

Discussion to-day was not lengthy. The Liberal and Progressive forces were united in support of reciprocity. On division the amendment was defeated by 100 to 79, a Government majority of 21.

The closure was worked successfully last night. By adopting this Parliamentary device which was framed originally in the naval debate eight years ago, the Minister of Marine got his estimate of $8,330,000 for shipbuilding through the Committee of the Whole. Talk kept up right to 2 o'clock, the time at which the discussion stopped automatically under the rules of closure. A vote followed, in which the Government was sustained by 103 to 79.

Wm. Duff, who made a four-hour speech on the estimates, and was one of the main actors in the all-night session, closed the discussion, quitting at 2 o'clock. He protested against the closure. As it drew near 2 o'clock the House became noisy and Mr. Duff was interrupted frequently. The Chairman was obliged to call for order several times.

A BRIGHTON GIRL FOUND DEAD, SHOT BY AN ACCIDENT

EMPLOYEE OF BANK IS FOUND DEAD ON PREMISES.

BRIGHTON, Ont., April 14. — (Canadian Press.)—Miss Mae Morgan, an employee of the local branch of the Standard Bank, was found dead yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock on the premises of the bank, having met death from a revolver shot. No person witnessed the tragedy, but it is supposed that while Miss Morgan was handling the revolver it accidently discharged.

BOTH BIG MEN FORMER EDITORS.

Burgomaster of Brussels and Pres. Wilson to Meet.

BRUSSELS April 14 (Associated Press).—"Mr. Former Managing Editor," it will be, when President Harding greets Burgomaster Adolphe Max of Brussels, who has been designated by the Council of Ministers to head the Belgian delegation to Washington to congratulate the President upon his election.

Burgomaster Max's courageous stand against the Germans in Brussels during the first months of the occupation is known the world over, for his long imprisonment was the subject of much comment; but what is less known is that, previous to being elected Burgomaster of Brussels, he was in charge of a newspaper as managing editor, and also honorary president of the Belgian Press Association. Le Soir, the paper which Burgomaster Max edited and directed during several years, now has the largest circulation of any newspaper in Belgium. Burgomaster Max speaks English fluently.

WEDDING BELLS

ALLEN--MOHER.

St. Joseph's church, Douro, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday, April 12th, when Mary Moher and Joseph Allen were united in the holy bonds o matfrimony.

The bride was charmingly attired in a navy blue suit with at to match and carried a ouquet of roses.

Florence Allen, sister of the groom, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a navy blue suit with hat to match. John oMher, brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

After the nuptial mass the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents where their many friends had assembled. The bride and groom received many beautiful presents showing the high esteem in which the young couple were held.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, APRIL 14TH, 1921.

THE ONE ISSUE.

"Vote 'no' in the coming referendum and sign the Ontario temperance memorial for Government control." So concludes an advertisement of the Liberty League, and the citizens who think will smile at the absurdity of the advice. In the name of common sense why should any man who really believes in Government control vote for something that would definitely kill all chance of the introduction of the system he advocates? Does any sane man or woman believe that so long as the importation of liquor is permitted that Government control could be obtained, or, if obtained, could be carried out successfully? The first logical step towards Government control would be to cut off importation by the individual; until that is done it is folly to talk about such a system. The electors must keep their eyes on the real issue—the only issue—that is before them next Monday, and that is, are you in favour of prohibiting the importation of liquor for beverage purposes. That is the question to be decided; arguments about the relative merits of Government control and total prohibition are a sheer waste of time when they are not a smoke screen to try to becloud the real issue.

IMPORTED ORATORS.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham in a letter to The Examiner complains that in our references to the importation of campaign speakers from the United States we "perhaps inadvertently" placed "Pussyfoot" Johnson and Mr. Windle in the same class as "undesirable foreign agitators." The Examiner sees no reason to change its opinion as to the lack of judgment shown in bringing either of these orators into the fight in Ontario. They were not needed; they had nothing new to offer us, and, from all appearances, they could find plenty of opportunity to be of service in their own home cities. But, so far as the personality of the two men is concerned, it must be admitted in fairness to Mr. Johnson that his attitude towards the British Empire has been as commendable as that of his opponent has been deplorable. Various branches of the Citizens' Liberty League who introduced Mr. Windle to Ontario have felt compelled to apologize for doing so when they learned something about the career of their spell-binder. There is no need on that ground for apologizing for the appearance of "Pussyfoot" Johnson; he has been a friend of the British Empire and he offers on that score no opportunity for attack. The wisdom of his introduction into the campaign is another matter. While other "dry" speakers throughout the Province are being given an attentive hearing Mr. Johnson in the short time he was in Ontario was the centre of stormy scenes in Kingston, Toronto and Windsor, which indicates a special resentment on the part of many people to his part in the fight.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

The Examiner has received from the Ontario Fire Prevention League one of the "Home Inspection" blanks, of which the League is sending 250,000 copies to the Principals of the various schools throughout Ontario for distribution among their pupils. This is a Province-wide campaign for the purpose of conserving the homes of Ontario, as well as the lives of the people. The primary object, of course, is by means of these blanks to call the attention of householders to the necessity of cleaning up attics, cellars and back yards and of the removal of hazardous conditions. The League announces that inquisitiveness is not responsible for the inspection that is to be made, nor will the information obtained in this way be used for the purpose of putting householders to any unnecessary inconvenience, expense or trouble. The parents of Peterborough's school children are asked to do their part in the campaign by answering the questions on the blanks when they are brought home by the children.

The high cost of building material, the rapidly increasing population and the enormous annual destruction of dwelling houses—there were 5,644 fires in private houses in Ontario last year—have combined to make the housing problem one of most serious and acute proportions. Ontario is noted for its extravagance through unnecessary fire waste, which, through the careless habits and the indifference of our people, has become nothing short of an economic crime. Statistics show that practically two out of every three fires occur in the home of the Province and eight per cent. of them are preventable. It is in the realization of this state of affairs that the Fire Prevention League has adopted its home inspection plan, which is heartily commended to the people of Peterborough.

THE RURAL VOTE.

Residents of the rural sections of West Peterborough who do not happen to be on the voters' lists are in a more fortunate position than their city friends. The latter, if their names are not already listed, will be without a vote on Monday; not so with residents of the rural districts. The Dominion Elections Act provides that at a rural polling division a person whose name is not on the list but who is qualified to vote and who is vouched for by an elector whose name is on the list may after taking the proper oath, be allowed to vote. The applicant must swear to the following affidavit:

"(1) That he (or she) is a British subject, and not an Indian ordinarily resident on an Indian reservation.

"(2) That he is of the full age of 21 years.

"(3) That he ordinarily resided in Canada for at least 12 months and in the particular electoral district for at least two months immediately preceding the 1st of February, 1921.

"(4) That he is now resident in the particular polling division.

"(5) That he is not disqualified in respect of race by the laws of the Province from voting for a member of the Legislative Assembly, or that, although disqualified in respect of race, he is entitled to vote because he has served in the late war. (Such person must produce his discharge certificate.)"

The elector who vouches for the applicant must swear that:

"(1) He is a qualified elector for a member in the House of Commons for the particular electoral district.

"(2) He resides in the particular polling division.

"(3) He knows the applicant.

"(4) The applicant is a duly qualified elector within the meaning of the Dominion Elections Act."

Many people in the country districts who have changed their place of residence or who have come of age since the last lists were compiled, should bear this fact in mind on Monday and make sure that they are given the opportunity to exercise the franchise.

ONE MAN POWER.

The Province is undergoing a curious experience in government, and presents the spectacle of a Government in power without a majority, made up of two parties. The experience is one which so far at least cannot fairly be said to have been satisfactory to the Farmers, Labor, and the people of Ontario. The Cabinet consists mainly of men who have had no experience, and apparently very little training, in the difficult art of government, and one consequence is that matters which men who had had this experience and training could have dealt with, and formed definite policies upon, have been referred to commissions. We believe we are correct in saying that up to the present time there have been no less than fourteen such commissions. What the cost of them will amount to we cannot undertake to say, but that it will be very large can be safely predicted from the statement made, apparently on good authority, that what has been commonly called the timber probe has cost up to two or three weeks ago $68,000. The results of this so far would appear to be this cost, the stirring up of no end of bad feeling, lengthy debates of an angry description in the House, and, so far as can be judged, the right of certain people to demand the return of the money which they had paid the Government under a ruling which was based apparently on incomplete data. The whole matter has had even to be taken into the courts, and its end is a long way off.

Then there is the Hydro Commission over which the amount of money spent must be very large and nothing yet has come of it. The same thing applies to the Universities' Commission, though a definite discussion may be expected on this during the present week. We need only refer to one other commission, as it leads directly up to the point we specially wish to draw attention to. The question of the outside Civil Service has been dealt with and a recommendation has been made which is objected to on the ground that it places too much power in one man's hands, that is in the hands of the Attorney-General. It does not follow that he is either seeking or wanting this. The same tendency is observable in other matters, and it is as well that attention should be drawn to it before it is allowed to grow.

The people of the Province should, therefore, carefully study their present Government; how in the first place it rose from the group system leading to a Cabinet with no decided policies, and with no majority in the House; then to costly, ineffective Commissions, and lastly to the fear of one man power. On thinking this over, the people may come to the conclusion that the old British two-party system is the best after all.—Kingston Standard.

PLEBISCITE ON LIQUOR, ALBERTA

Expected to be Taken in September.

SASKATOON, Sask., April 13. — (Canadian Press.) — That a pelbiscite on the liquor question will be held in Alberta, probably in the month of September, is the information received here by Lionel Moore, the organizer for the Moderation League in Saskatchewan, from the Secretary of the Alberta Moderation League. It is stated that a promise has been obtained from the Alberta government to take a plebiscite on the two questions of government control or bone dry laws.

CELEBRATE DEATH OF NAPOLEON.

Marshal Foch Will Preside at Function.

PARIS, April 13. — (Associated Press.)—Marshal Foch will preside at the ceremony which will take place at the Arc de Triomphe on May 5 to celebratee the 100th anniversary of the death of Napoleon Bonaparte. Standing by the arch graven with the names of Napoleon's victories, the man whom many have come to consider as one of the greatest soldiers of all times, will make a fitting speech to honor a dead comrades.

It is emphasized that the centenary celebration is in no way political in chaarcter but is merely a tribute to one of the greatest of French generals.

President Millerand, and the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber, Bourgeois and Peret, are giving their support to the celebrations, which will include commemorative visits to Corsica, Elba, and to several battlefields where Napoleon gained his most famous victories.

THE DENOUEMENT.

Chapter 27

As Thierry told me of this wild experience he had had with Mrs. Gregg, his father's client, he seemed years older. I could hardly believe he was the boy of 19, winsome and loving. If only he had a mother. Yet I marveled at the dexterity he had displayed in handling this trying situation.

"I have often wondered," Thierry went on, "why she bothered with me at all. Sometimes I've thought perhaps she expected to get more money out of Dad in that way. Then, of course, I flattered her vanity.—I saw to that all right, and I spent money on her—think. Some women would vamp a clothing store dummy if he had cash in his jeans, you know."

I laughed outright. This wise youth had not lived his 19 years for nothing.

"I wasn't flattered by her, don't get that thought," he said a trifle hotly. "Some nights after I had been with her I would come home and smoke two boxes of cigarettes and place the floor of my room for hours before I could get quited down. If I hadn't hated her so I'm afraid she might have been more than a task for me."

Just the hint of a wanton sneer touched his sensitive young mouth.

"After I had played my cards for about a couple of months I planned the grand climax," he went on. "The governor was going out of town for over Saturday and Sunday and it didn't take much coaxing to get Mrs. Gregg to spend that time with me. Dad was to leave on the 10 o'clock train Friday night and I planned to have her arrive about 10.30. That was just one side of the plan," he said smilingly. "At about 6 o'clock I wrote a telegram and then sent for Simpson, the chauffeur. I knew that Dad was in his den just beyond the library and I wanted him to hear what I was going to say."

Thierry's breath came quickly and he leaned forward—

"I handed Simpson the telegram and told him to go out and at once with it, and not to let my fatyer know that I had sent him. Then I hurried upstairs. Father must have done just what I wanted him to do. He must have demanded the telegram from Simpson. It was to Mrs. Gregg. In it I told her that I had been unable to get to the 'phone, but that everything was all right and not to be later than 11 o'clock as Dad left at 10. During dinner I sure was in a state of the jumps, and from then until 10 o'clock was worse than the actual row. Fact was, I enjoyed that part of it immensely," Thie said with satisfaction.

"At 9.45 Dad left for his train and I was almost fearful he was not going to block me. I hated to see the whole blamed thing fizzled. But I was not disappointed."

Thie smiled at the memory of it.

"Mrs. Gregg arrived at 11 o'clock sharp and I guess the governor was hanging around the corner, for he only gave her time to take off her wraps when I heard his key in the door. Oh yes, you bet I was listening for it!" he laughed. "She was standing in the library with her two arms on my shoulders when Dad walked in on us. I know how he must have felt, poor old Dad. But I shan't forget the expression on Mrs. Gregg's face as she heard his step and turned to face him."

Tomorrow—A Scandal Stopped—
A Comradeship Spoiled.

FORMER PRINTER AND FAMILY IN A LONELY BERTH.

Husband Keeps Vigil in Lighthouse on British Columbia Coast—Happy, He Says, With Wife and Kiddies.

From foreman printer on a big daily newspaper in London, Eng., and later in Victoria, B.C., to lighthouse keeper on Green Island, off the far North Pacific coast of British Columbia, is some transition, and not to be welcomed by many comfort-seekers, but one man with his family did seek the change and are out-Robinsoning the Swiss Family Robinson on that bleak and lonely island. John Moran, his wife and two children, are living happily without the distractions of the H.C. of L. and election campaigns. The story of how they have solved the living problem up there since their arrival in 1916 is told by Francis Dickie in the New York World:

Above the high tide mark on the rock is not more than an acre of irregular plateau. Here, through the ages of time since first a vast upheaval sent the rock upward jutting, a little earth had formed—ground rock, rotted wood by the winter's storms, the droppings of millions on millions of gulls, richest of all formations, and the decayed stalks of grass and weeds, the seeds of these wonderfully wind blown to this lonely spot. So these modern adventurers made a garden and successfully grew potatoes, and the usual line of produce common to northern regions.

Import Belgian Hares.

Soon after their landing they had sent for some Belgian hares. Starting with two pairs of these, and importing occasionally new bucks, they had in two years' time so many rabbits that the pens they had built would not hold them; so they turned the most of them loose on the island. Despite the great toll the wet and frost of winter take, the island today is still overrun with the animals.

To protect their garden the settlers had to build a fence and run wire several feet into the ground. But building a fence is no difficult job on Green Island. Every tide brings in countless cords of wood to choose from. On a rocky ledge on the north side of the island the wood lodges, so they have firewood more than they can use. And, to show how kind nature sometimes can be, a great deal of this is small stuff, bark of fir, wondrous thick, broken branches and other wood just stove and furnace length, so the islanders are not even put to the trouble of cutting their supply.

As addition to the natural verdure, the Morans planted oats and timothy, and now a little herd of half-a-dozen goats find pasture. For the hens it is necessary to import some food. But here again nature has been kind; one end of the island is a shell beeach of finely ground clam shells, the same material that sells for 50 cents a bag in the city, and most necessary to hens.

Today from far along the Alaska coast to the great Canadian fishing town of Prince Rupert, the halibut and salmon fishermen know "Ma" Moran. Stout and cheery is "Ma." The huge range in her kitchen shines with a brightness and glory of the rising sun. Her kitchen is one of those perfect places of honimess and cleanly order to which many a fisherman, wet, chilled, out of food, out of luck, has come to get one of those meals that put life and hope and confidence in even the weariest one.

Through keeping hens the islanders have availed themselves of a novel egg supply. The island is the nesting place of hundreds of sea-gulls. Now, the seagull is a peculiar bird. It lays three eggs before it begins its setting, and unless it has three eggs in the nest it will not set. Of course, it was but natural that human ingenuity should take advantage of this bird's habit. The Morans mark a certain number of nests. Watching these carefully, the day the third egg is laid, it is removed. The gull, coming back, gazes asronished at the nest. In imagination one can hear the bird saying to itself: "Now, I was sure I had three eggs laid!" But the gull goes ahead and lays another egg. This the people remove on the following day. When you have several hundred gulls laying eggs for you, it does not take many days to put in a winter's supply. And the Morans are sensible, kindly people; they do not abuse the gulls' good nature. After they have taken two or three eggs from one bird they cease, and the bird proceeds with its setting. The eggs are about the size of a turkey's and taste like a duck's. They are a little strong for consumption in direct manner, such as fried or boiled, but are useful for cooking. Put up in "water-glass" preserver, they prove a valuable addition to the larder.

Deer Flee There.

What with their goats, their rabbits, their hens and their gulls' eggs, the islanders would be already fairly well provided with food. But, in addition, hundreds of wild ducks can be shot nearby, and deer run on the adjacent islands in winter. Here again an interesting phase of nature is displayed.

Upon the British Columbia mainland thousands of deer abound. When the winter comes, the wolves harry them sorely. The deer's only salvation lies in taking to the open water. Here the savage timber wolves are not brave enough to follow. Now, along the British Columbia northern coast thousands of islands, varying from a mere ledge, such as Green Island, to tracts half a dozen miles long, stretch in a continuous line forming a barrier to the open sea, creating the inland passage some seven hundred miles long, one of the finest ocean highways in the world. To some of these islands the deer swim from the mainland when the wolves are numerous.

A pneumatic tube which is of a greater cross-sectional diameter than that of its casing is a recent invention. The tube is moulded so that its sides collapse inward in four places over its diameter when deflated, thus allowing of its installation in the casing. The collapsed portions on each side of the tread which are identical with small depressions expand upon inflation, causing a thickening and pressure on the tube walls. Nails, glass, tacks, etc., are simply extracted, as it is claimed that the tube walls will instantly compress and close the hole so tightly that leakage is impossible.

HOUSING SHORTAGE EXTENDS TO SING SING 'DEATH HOUSE'

OSSINING, N.Y., April 13.—The housing shortage has extended to the "death house" at Sing Sing Prison.

Twenty-one men and one woman are now confined there. But two vacant cells remain and there are more than a score of murder cases in State courts, either on trial or about to start within the next few weeks.

SHIP GOES DOWN IN GULF OF MEXICO; 19 MISSING

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 13.—The Bowie Line steamship Colonel Bowie, with 22 men on board, foundered in the Gulf of Mexico Monday night, according to wireless advices received here. Three men were picked up by the British steamer Cissy. Nineteen men are still missing.

Long Distance Service Is Now Classified

THE Classifications on long distance telephone calls in effect from midnight, April 20th, are of interest to all users of that service.

Station-to-Station Service

Station-to-Station service should be used when you are willing to talk to ANYONE at a distant telephone — that is, when you do not need to get a particular person on the line.

Person-to-Person Service

When you make a call specifying that conversation is desired with a particular person at a given number, Person-to-Person service is used.

As this service requires greater operating labor and circuit time than a Station-to-Station call, the rate is about 25% greater.

Appointment and Messenger Service

Appointment calls and Messenger calls are special kinds of person-to-person calls.

An APPOINTMENT CALL rate, which is about 50 per cent higher than the station-to-station rate, is quoted for service when an appointment is made by the calling party to talk at a particular time.

When a person who does not have a telephone is called over long distance and a messenger must be sent to summon the party to the telephone, the MESSENGER CALL rate, which is about 50 per cent higher than the station-to-station rate, is charged, and to this is added the necessary messenger charges.

The Report Charge

When you place a call for a particular person or persons and for any reason they cannot be reached the same day at the address given, or will not talk, or if you make a call and you are not ready to talk when the other person is ready within an hour, a REPORT CHARGE is made. The report charge is about one-fourth the station-to-station rate. It is intended to cover part of our expense of handling the uncompleted call.

Special Evening and Night Rates

The EVENING rate, between 8.30 p.m. and 12 midnight, on station-to-station calls, is about one-half the day rate. The NIGHT rate, between midnight and 4.30 a.m., is about one-fourth the day station-to-station rate.

However, no evening or night rates are quoted on station-to-station calls where the day rate is less than 25 cents. On such short-haul calls the day rate applies. For longer distances special evening and night rates are quoted.

Because it is difficult to reach particular persons at night, when many are away from their homes and places of business, there are no special evening or night rates quoted for person-to-person calls. They apply only on station-to-station calls.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

MOVING WALK IN PARIS CITY.

PARIS, April 13 (Associated Press).—A moving sidewalk to relieve congestion is being considered by the city of Paris. The chances for adoption may not be great, but the idea is being seriously discussed, for Parisians have pleasant memories of the aerial sidewalk that was a feature of the 1900 World's Exposition here.

The proposal is to build such a rolling sidewalk under the principal boulevards, from the Madeleine to the Place de la Republique. A pedestrian not only would avoid dangerous, delaying crossings, and not be impeded by cross and counter currents of traffic.

Waist-high line of 3 feet 6 inches from the ground is the maximum height for automobile headlight rays in England.

Motor trucks heavier than three tons are restricted from travel on first-class roads in British Malaysia.

The Peterboro Motor Show and Peterboro Health Association

The Motor Show, with an optimistic outlook for fine weather, with all sorts of arrangements completed for sober and frivolous enjoyment, and with every available foot of space taken, promises to be a huge success.

A glance at the history of the Peterborough Health Association, which benefits most directly from the Show, is sufficient to indicate what cause one is furthering by attendance at it. Their motto might be summed up as giving help where most needed. Attendance and medicine for the sick, comforts for those afflicted with lingering disease, food and reconstructed modes of living for the undernourished and the neglected, supervised play and nourishment for half a hundred children during two months of hot weather in the summer camp. Here youngsters from the ages of five to eleven, whose mothers in many cases are working and who would otherwise be running wild on city streets, are brought, given a wholesome breakfast, and turned loose for the day in one of the prettiest places in pretty Peterborough, Jackson Park. They have a nurse to watch over them, they can play games and paddle in the creek to their hearts' content, they have a good mid-day meal with all sorts of nutritious things like stews and rice puddings, and a four o'clock lunch which always includes a johnnycake or a variety with lots of raisins and currants in it. Their own special cook is assisted daily in peeling potatoes, etc., by one of the ladies belonging to the Health Association, who take turns in helping to prepare the mid-day meal. It is not strange, after two months of this pleasant life, that children coming in "skin and bones" should improve immensely in appearance before the time is over.

If you come to the Motor Show, you will see all the latest makes of cars in the most immaculate and glistening condition, you can get an idea of the newest inventions in the motor car kingdom and in all sorts of electrical specialties, you will see many other interesting exhibits, and you may enjoy yourself in divers ways. There will be pies and cakes, home-made preserves and relishes by guaranteed cooks, hot coffee and doughnuts, candies galore, ice cream in cones or on a dignified plate, afternoon tea for the weary and supper for the hungry, flowers (fresh and fragrant), a dance hall for merry trippers with light refreshments on the side, fancy work for the hope chest and a fish pond for the kiddies, a fashion show where the very latest styles parade up and down, and a minstrel outfit with the very funniest of harmony quartettes, one member of which possesses a cold "worth a mint of money" which he will tell you all about.

Kindness and the City

He played the friend one happy morning when
A stranger chanced to pass along his way.
The mood was on him to be kind that day,
And what he did seemed, oh, so trifling then:
A cheerful word—the easiest gift of men—
A helping hand for which there is no pay,
But all it means no words can ever say.

Both these he gave and went his way again.
Then he forgot the stranger and his need
Nor knew that he had helped his city's fame:
He could not guess that thousands share his deed.
Yet at the mention of his city's name,
One man there is who rises to declare,
"The finest man I've ever met lives there."

FAT FOLKS BECOME SLIM
EASILY, PLEASANTLY

Fat persons will be happy to learn that they might easily reduce their weight without starvation diet, drastic drugs, or strenuous exercise.

If you are overstout, are you lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden? Don't jeopardize your health or be a laughing stock any longer. Be happy!

Follow the simple directions of the Korein system. Safe and pleasant; recommended by many reliable women and men.

Surprising weight reduction reports come in—even after just a few days' treatment. With proper reduction the flesh becomes firm, the skin smooth and the general health improved; in fact, work seems easier and a lighter, more buoyant feeling takes possession of the whole being. It is a fine sensation—that of looking and feeling younger, supple, cheerful, active, alert and full of enthusiasm.

Before and After

Before and After

To reduce ten to sixty lbs. (whatever you need to) you should now give KOREIN system a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need. Start on the road to longer life and happiness today. Obtain a small box of Korein tabules (pronounced Koreen) under money-back guarantee at any busy drug store or write for free brochure, with many testimonials, to Korein Co., Box 277-P, Toronto, Ont.

Growing Plants

An expert says that growing plants in a house are a pretty fair index of its air, light and moisture conditions, and may be regarded as a sort of meter for them. They will not grow and bloom without these three things, and a house in which plants will not thrive is probably a house where neither grown-ups nor children will thrive.

The future of greenhouse plants, usually in good condition on arrival, depends on our care of them. They should be placed in a sunny window, although ferns and begonias will do fairly well without much sunlight. They must not be allowed to freeze, and should have plenty of air. They must be watered regularly every day, but should not be allowed to stand in water, however. A little soapy, greasy dish-water is very good for them.

Cut off the dead leaves and flowers from time to time and turn the pot to insure even growth. Insects or disease growths should be promptly checked. Some antiseptic spray is necessary with many plants; diluted tobacco juice is very good for most of these troubles, and soapy water may be used to wipe off the under side of the leaves.

In London, there are motor ambulances equipped with X-ray outfits which can be carried to patients too ill to be moved from their homes.

Ladies Auxiliary Held a Meeting

A meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Great War Veterans' Association was held on Monday evening last with a good attendance. This society is composed of a number of energetic ladies, and a consideration of the report read by Mrs. Bugg reveals a great deal of real charitable work done by the organization in Peterborough. The ladies will take part with the men of the G.W.V.A. in the memorial services to be held in the Salvation Army Temple on April 24, and arrangements were made at this meeting for the Tag Day in aid of the G.W.V.A., to be held on St. Julien's Day, April 23. The President, Mrs. E. V. Frederick, was in the chair.

Quilt For The Caledonian Club

The Ladies' Caledonian Club, which has for its aim and object the furthering of friendly relations between all newcomers to the city who are of Scotch birth or blood, has recently completed a patchwork quilt, which is made in the Scotch style, and in which all the ladies of the committee had a hand in the fashioning. A drawing for this pleasant and comfortable accessory to any household will be held on April 20th, on the occasion of a whist drive in the Caledonian Club rooms on George street. The funds obtained will be used for the Pipe Band, and so this Scotch comforter, made by Scotch fingers of members of a Scotch society for the furtherance of Scottish interests, will be instrumental in the future production of Scotch music. It is to be honed that the lucky number will be held by one possessing at least a few drops of Scotch blood.

Mission Fund For Labrador

The ladies in charge of the local branch of the Dr. Grenfell Mission Fund are busily engaged just now in collecting and making articles for the bale of goods shipped annually from Peterborough. This bale has a valuation of about $300, and contains all sorts of underwear and outer clothing for the wear of men, women and children on the icy coasts of Labrador and Newfoundland. Shoes, stockings, caps, mittens, vests, scarfs—everything necessary to make life more comfortable for these dwellers in the bleak northern lands. The ladies are considering giving an exhibit of the goods before sending away, which would be very interesting to many who were unaware of this good work.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

Ready-to-Wear

The attitude of the buying public towards an appeal based on quality as distinguished from the appeal based on price is a matter of speculation amongst representatives of the ready-to-wear trade just now. The sales which have had such a steady run since last autumn, were mainly based on the comparative lowness of their prices to former conditions, but now another group feels that the time has come to subordinate price to quality. In some well-advertised lines, quality with price is the point emphasized, which it would seem is the most popular method of procedure. If a woman can obtain a certain desired quality at a reasonable price, what more does she want? In older days, when a lady purchased one good dress annually, which was saved up for festive occasions, and only donned on Sundays and such-like momentous days, a dress that was bought with an eye to many future turnings and re-fashionings, quality was the thing most desired. Those were the times when silk that could stand alone and laces guaranteed to last for many years were purchased, in direct contract to the confections of to-day, which would receive a severe setback if advertised to last for any length of time. The frailer the better is the modern idea, so that a change will be forthcoming in the shortest possible space of time, and the twentieth century mode of feminine apparel is just as intangible when compared to the dress of long ago as the twentieth century damsel on the magazine cover is to the forgotten dame with her yards and yards of stiff material, her covered-up neck and her primly, lace-mitted folded hands.

A Man's Pie

Fresh—Delicious—Try it now

Just phone to your grocer or bake shop and say, "Send a Sun-Maid Raisin Pie," or make one at home according to the recipe below. You'll get the pie that men like best because of its flavor and nourishment.

The Raisins are Sun-Maids, plump and tender. The pie is baked so the juice forms a luscious sauce.

It's a man's pie—and a woman's, too, because it is delicious and easy to prepare. Healthful, too, for raisins are nutritious. Rich in assimilable organic iron, which brings the tint of roses to women's and children's cheeks. Eat raisins daily in some delicious form and you'll get all the iron you need.

"Dull Friday

"Dull Friday" used to be the bad day for business in the retail dry goods stores, and a concerted effort was made by the big city stores to banish this bad day by putting on special sales. In doing this, however, they have only injected the dullness into Thursday, which is now regarded as the "bad" day of the week, and store executives are wrestling with the problem of stimulating buying on that day without taking the snap from Friday again. The obvious solution of the problem—more sales—is not desirable, as "too many sales spoil the store."

System of Fines

The ancient Anglo-Saxons had a peculiar way of reckoning punishment for bodily injuries done by one man to another. A monetary value was the basis for their system of fines. "Every man," says Sharon Turner in his "History of the Anglo-Saxons," was valued at a fixed sum, called his were and whosoever took his life was punished by having to pay this. In addition, there was a fine imposed, called the wite, and a person thus paying the forfeiture of all his worldly goods presents us with the original idea of a "felon"—one who was feolun or destitute of all property.

"Besides the were and the wite there was also a fine imposed for the infliction of any bodily injury whatsoever, based primarily upon the worthship. An eye or leg was valued at 50 shillings, a jaw at 12 shillings, the little finger at 11 shillings, the nose at 9 shillings, the thumb, the front teeth and the ribs at 3 shillings each and any other tooth or finger at one shilling each."

Coloured Cushions

Bright coloured cushions have a wonderful effect on a sombre room. It is surprising how a note of orange or old rose or blazing yellow will light up a dark corner. One of old rose poplin, denim or silk is particularly good in a dark room, provided it harmonizes with its surroundings. A stripe of white with old rose flowers printed on it sewed through the centre and a border of silk fringe make a finishing touch, and the popular style of round or oblong shape with a huge button in the middle may be fashioned from almost anything that one wishes. These cushions, while not at all comfortable and certainly not the style of pillow one would care to lay an aching head upon, are most ornamental, and it is very seldom in this world that one is able to combine comfort with ornament, anyway.

If you happen to be the possessor of rich old walnut furniture which has a gloomy appearance, do not discard the furniture. Tone up the rooms with gay hangings and curtains. In the living-room, buff paper, with copper-colour curtains and an Oriental rug with a medley of copper and blue tones is recommended. In the dining-room, with Jacobean oak, have delft blue walls, with subdued red and blue shades in your floor-covering. Pale mauve is supposed to be the thing for a bedroom, with curtains and valances of a mauve and white chintz with a good deal of deep pink. The writer who speaks of pale mauve must have forgotten a rule which says bed-room colourings should harmonize with one's complexion, or, perhaps, a pale mauve tint in skins is the very latest thing?

Boston fashions have decreed that pedigreed pups in that city shall wear goggles when they motor. These impart a very scholarly look to the canine faces.

Common Mistakes

Three types of mistakes are the most common among employees of department stores, according to a recent careful investigation. The most frequent is that of entering the amount of sale in the wrong column of the tally card, the next consists in forgetfulness of the sales number on the sales check and the third is the failure to print on the sales check the initials of customers and the capital letters in their names, as is required in some stores.

Splinters From Shin Bone Transferred to Little One's Legs.

NEWARK, N.J., April 14.—Splinters from the shin bone of a mother were transplanted to the legs of an infant born without the fibula in the lower legs by surgeons of the Newark Memorial Hospital. The operation, which was declared a probable success, was one of the most delicate in the series of clinics held in connection with the annual session of the State session of the College of Surgeons. It took two hours.

A generation ago, doctors who attended the clinic said, such an operation was unheard of and the child probably would have had to go through life without the use of its legs. The child operated on will most likely have the full use of its limbs, it was said.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Selling of the general list was promptly resumed at the active opening of to-day's Stock Market. Discouraging advices dealing with the British labor upheaval gave an impetus to a further decline. Rails and steels continued to feature the re-action. Equipments and Oils also easing. Northern Pacific, yesterday's weakest stock, opened with a sale of 10,000 shares at a loss of 3-8 to ½, and other Transcontinentals were similarly depressed. Crucible, Republic and Sloss Sheffield averaged one point losses, with Baldwin Locomotive, General Electric, Studebaker, Atlantic Gulf and General Asphalt. Royal Dutch was the only conspicuous exception to the lower tendency, gaining two points. The preliminary exchange rates on London were firm.

Rails and Industrials suffered further losses on enlarged offerings during the morning. Delaware and Hudson dropped 5½ points and Norfolk and Western 1 3-8, other transportations falling 1 to 1½. Crucible and Sloss Sheffield showed extreme declines of about 2 points, and such equipments as Baldwin, Pullman, General Electric and Pressed Steel Car forfeited 1 to 3½. Oils and Motors yielded 1 to 2½ points, and Sugars, Tobaccos, Leathers and Textiles trailed along at recessions of 1 to 2 points. Heaviness was shown by various miscellaneous issues, including Sears Roebuck and Famous Players. Call money was unchanged at 7 per cent.

Stocks rallied 1 to 3 points at midday under the lead of Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum and Delaware and Hudson. Several of the low-priced oils were comparatively strong. The rebound was coincident with reports that the latest developments in the British labour situation justified hopes of a compromise.

The lowest prices of the session were made in the last hour. Canadian Pacific showed a loss of 3 1-2 points, Union Pacific and U. S. Steel and Sugars were especially heavy. The closing was weak.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Fresh low record prices for the season were reached in the wheat market to-day. Bearish reports regarding industrial and financial conditions were current, and rallies, based on assertions that such factors had been more than discounted, were of only a temporary effect. Crop prospectes continued to be against the bulls. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½ lower, were followed by a material set-back all around and then by irregular upturns.

Corn was comparatively firm in the absence of any urgent pressure to sell. After opening 1-8 to ¼ lower, the market recovered to about yesterday's finish. Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting unchanged to 3-8 lower, and later hardening all around. Provisions were dull and easier in line with hogs.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts light; trade steady. Heavy beef steers, $9 to $10; butcher steers, choice, $8.50 to $9.50; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7; calves, $10 to $12.50; lambs, $12 to $14; hogs, selects, $13 to $13.25.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange firm; demand, 3.90¼. Canadian dollars, 11 1-16 per cent. discount.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—A full recovery of its recent loss and the establishment of a new high market for the present movement was made by Duluth Superior in this morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Opening at a slight gain over last night's closing quotation, this stock soon moved up to 22½, a gain of 2½ points. Activity and decline of Brazilian to 30, a loss of 5-8, was again attributed to London selling. Seven hundred shares changed hands, the price declining gradually, Spanish River Preferred moved up 3-4 to 82¼, while Toronto Railway was also stronger by a half.

FLOUR PRICES SLASHED.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)— For the first time in almost seven years flour sold under eight dollars a barrel at the mills here to-day. One large mill reduced its quotations for family patents from $8.20 to $7.90. Not since July 1914, local millers said, has flour been quoted under $8 a barrel.

MONTREAL, April 14.— (Canadian Press.)—The Stock Exchange was quiet this morning. Atlantic Sugar was dull all morning and closed at 29 3-4. Brompton weakened a half point and closed at 33, while Brazilian, after a little activity, closed at 30. National Breweries remained the same all morning. Riordon did likewise. Wayagamack remained unchanged.

AN ADDRESS ON THE REFERENDUM

REV. DR, SPEER IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Last night in St. James' Methodist church in this city, Rev. Dr. Speer of Westmoreland Methodist church, Toronto, delivered an address on the Referendum, worthy of the largest audinece that could be convened in the city of Peterboro or a Massey Hall convention.

The doctor proved himself a master of public utterance and a prince of logicians. His address was clear, eloquent, logical and full of energy held in perfect control.

After clearing the decks for action by telling his audience that he knew this city well, having been born within 15 miles of its borders, and having been a clerk on George street in his early days, the Doctor fired a "broadside," and when the smoke cleared away, the "Windel farce" had been blown to atoms.

Then the Doctor used his small guns on the Liberty league, and picked off their arguments in three minutes, showing that where there was law and order there could be no absolute personal liberty. Only on some lonely island, where no foot but his own had trod, can a man be free to do as he pleases.

During the war, said Mr. Speer, we had Dominion prohibition for 18 months and during these few months the common people of Canada saved millions of dollars, as is shown by the Savings Banks.

During the war the people of England formed "bread lines" and "sugar lines," when they would stand for hours waiting for two ounces of sugar and a little bread. While this state of affairs was in vogue, the liquor interests were destroying millions of tons of sugar and grains for the production of strong drink. What cared the brutal traffic for the suffering people.

When the United States contemplated prohibition the liquor interests became frantic. They decided to secure the best lawyer to advocate whiskey. They came to Mr. William Taft with a cheque for $25,000.00, asking him to champion their cause, but he refused. They came back with what is called a "blank draft," signed by leading bankers. They gave Mr. Taft the privilege of filling in the draft for any amount of money that he desired. Then the ex-President stood up with eyes flashing and cheeks aglow with wounded pride:

"Gentlemen," said he, "If you pile up all the gold that the surface of the United States could bear, William Taft would refuse it, and scorn to advocate the vile traffic."

The greatest minds in the world are against the cause of drink. The Liberty League is ashamed of Windle and all such pro-German ragtag. Anglican Bishops, Roman Catholic Bishops, ecclesiastical dignitaries of all denominations are lining up for prohibition. Vote "Yes." Mr. A. B. Cunningham ably filled the chair.

RUSH HEARING OF EVIDENCE BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON RE-ESTABLISHMENT WISHES TO REPORT IN MAY.

OTTAWA, April 14. —(Canadian Press.)— That an effort would be made to conclude the hearing of evidence by the special parliamentary committee on soldiers' civil re-establishment this week in order that the 1921 report might be placed before the House in May was stated by Chairman Cronyn this morning.

This statement was made during the discussion on the advisability of hearing eviednce on the practicability of establishing homes for soldiers in each province. Col. A. Thompson presented resolutions from the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada. Restrictions on Oriental immigration and immigration from Southern Europe were asked.

This Grill is made for Real Cooking

THE New Canadian Beauty Three-Heat Grill is perhaps more generally useful than any other electrical appliance.

With it you can boil, fry, broil, stew or toast—any two operations at the same time. For instance, while a steak is broiling to a delicious brown in the pans below the heat potatoes can be boiling above.

Note the economy. Two cooking operations at the cost in electric current of one.

This appliance has the distinctive finish that identifies all Canadian Beauty Appliances, rich and brilliant as silver in appearance.

It has a larger cooking surface than any other grill made, and has three heats—low, medium and high.

BIGGEST WATER POWER SCHEME EVER PLANNED.

Develop 4,000,000 H.P. By 1934 From Rivers in France.

PARIS, April 14. — (Associated Press).—Plans now in course of preparation by the French Government contemplate the development of a yearly average of 4,000,000 horsepower by 1934 through the utilization of the rivers of the country for the manufacture of electricity.

The creation of energy for the electrification of the railways and the big industries of France has received tremendous impetus since the armistice. Reports just completed show that within the last three years 450,000,000 francs have been invested in 49 power plants throughout France by French investors.

The recent visit of President Millerand to the valley of the Rhone revived interest in the famous Rhone water power project, plans for which have been completed, and now are before the Senate for ratification. The Chamber of Deputies approved the scheme in October, 1919.

Big Saving of Coal.

The Rhone project, as it is known in Europe, is one of the most comprehensive water - power developments ever conceived, and involves the expenditure of 3,000,000,000 francs. No fewer than 20 lesser projects have been launched in France, but the Rhone is further advanced than the others.

It has been estimated that the Rhone scheme, together with the other big projects, would effect an annual saving of 5,000,000 tons of coal, thus diverting this to other purposes and materially reducing the importation of coal by France.

The Rhone plan would make navigable between 400 and 500 kilometers of that river, would reclaim 650,000 acres of ground now useless, and probably place at the door of Paris electricity at a price within the reach of everyone.

The Government plans to make the Rhone, as well as all the other projects, a "creation of the people" through the issuance of six per cent. non-taxable bonds, the proceeds to be used in construction. The Finance Committee of the Senate now has the matter before it, but because of the financial depression and the already great burdens on the French treasury, the actual construction probably will not begin for several years.

The majority of the plants for hydro-electric development concern the rivers Rhone, Garonne, Rhine and Loire.

WHY CHILLY WEATHER BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says skin pores are closed and uric acid remains in blood.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed ,thus forcing the kidneys to double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twingeof rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning fo ra week. This is said to elimmate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to noraml action ,thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rehumatism.

HAPPENINGS IN NORWOOD

ORANGEMEN HAVE PURCHASED A NEW HOME—SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

NORWOOD, April 14.—The Orangemen have purchased the old historic building on Peterborough street from J. L. Squire and Sons, which they have been using as a store house for several years.

Over thirty years ago, when the new Methodist church was built, the building, which had been the first Methodist church and Sunday school, was sold to the Salvation Army and moved from the church property, to its present site.

The late Mr. J. L. Squire purchased it when the Salvation Army decided to leave Norwood.

Pleasant memories are connected with this old building by many who worshipped in it in the long ago, and who were taught their first Sunday school lessons within its then sacred walls.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Wm. Ivey is moving into the house on Spring street, which he recently purchased from Mr. Wm. Taylor.

M. and Mrs. Geo. Wheatley moved their household goods to Myersburg yesterday, where Mr. Wheatley has taken charge of the cheese factory.

Mr. Hugh Beckett and family are preparing to move into the house which has been recently occupied by Mr. Wm. Ivey.

Mrs. John Weir was in Peterborough on Teusday afternoon.

Dr. N. F. Sutton was in Madoc on Tuesday.

Mr. Pielow, of Iroquois, was in town on Tuesday to take his young son, Master Harvey Pielow, who has spent the past nine years at the home of the late Daniel Kelly, home with him.

Mrs. Armar Weir is spending a few days in Peterborough with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Butcher.

Mrs. John Hendren has returned home from Trent Bridge, where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. J. Brown.

Mr. Hugh Robb was in Peterborough on Monday.

Mrs. Leo Haynes of Peterborough, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gollaher, Dummer.

Miss Ida Weir was in Madoc this week.

HASTINGS PERSONALS

HASTINGS, April 14.—The concert given by the choir of the Methodist church on Monday evening proved a great success and was much enjoyed by those present.

Mr. J. A. Cameron of Peterborough, was in town on Tuesday.

Mr. Wilfrid Knight of Kingston, spent a few days at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Beavis of Norwood, spent Tuesday visiting friends.

Mr. L. Stevens of Peterborough, was in town on Wednesday.

OMEMEE PERSONALS

OMEMEE, April 14.—Mr. Alfred Byers, of Toronto, was in town on a business trip on Tuesday, and called on his many friends.

Mr. Walter Reeds, of Cannington, was a business visitor in town this week.

Mrs. Rev.) Stillman entertained a number of her friends to afternoon tea at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bradburn and Mrs. Earl attended the Epworth League convention in Lindsay on Wednesday as delegates from the Sunday School.

Mr. Bert Courtney made a business trip to Bobcaygeon on Tuesday.

Mr. Arthur MaCrea returned to his home in Toronto on Monday after recuperating with his mother in town.

The stork called on Mr. and Mrs. George Bannan on Saturday, and left a baby girl.

BRIDGENORTH MAN WAS HEAVY BUYER OF MUSKRAT CATCH

Between 8,000 and 10,000 muskrats were bought by Harry Jopling of Bridgenorth this year. Most of these came from the productive marshes of Rice Lake, but many from Chemong Lake and the Kawartha group. Adam Humphreys of Birdsall, according to Harry Jopling, had the biggest catch of any of the trappers. About 300 rats were secured by Humphreys. These rats were worth a little over $600. From the Curve Lake reserve Mr. Jopling said he got about 1,500 rats, paying from $1.85 to $200 each.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR PURCHASE VIAMEDE

POPULAR STONEY LAKE RESORT MAY CHANGE HANDS SHORTLY.

LAKEFIELD, April 14.—Negotiations are in progress for leasing Viamede to Mr. E. M. Ianson, of Whitby, the lease involving the option of purchasing a little later.

Mrs. Graham converted Viamede into a summer resort about 25 years ago. In September, 1908, the original plant was entirely destroyed by fire, and in February, 1909, the present building was begun on the site of the old place. So determinedly did the work progress that the new Viamede received its first guest on June 19th of that year, and still holds its record as a summer home for select patronage. Owing to the death of her husband, Mrs. Graham feels unable to resume the entire responsibility of so great an undertaking. She and her daughter will continue to assist in the management.

SELL ADMIRAL'S SHIP.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 13 (Associated Press).—The Scorpion, veteran of the Spanish-American War, interned here when the United States joined the Allies, and now Admiral Bristol's flagship, has been ordered sold by the Navy Department.

The Scorpion has been stationed here much of the time since 1908, when she became a despatch boat for the American Embassy. She is a converted yacht.

INFORMATION FOR TELEPHONE USERS IN THIS DISTRICT

INTERESTING DATA BY MR. G. O. CAMERON, LOCAL MANAGER FOR BELL TELEPHONE CO

Manager G. O. Cameron of the Bell Telephone Company gave The Examiner some interesting data this morning concerning the new classifications of long distance telephone service, which, according to the decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners, become effective April 21st.

It is evident that users of "long distance" would be well repaid in making careful study of their business as related to the new classifications. Obviously such study will make possible many economies under the new plan.

Said Mr. Cameron:

"The principal changes in long distance practice deal with what are called 'Station-to-Station' and 'Person-to-Person' calls. Hitherto, the calling party who was content to speak to anyone at the distant telephone, paid the same rate as the caller for whom a particular person had to be located and summoned to the telephone. Now, when you make a long distance call without specifying that conversation is desired with a particular person, and the connection is established and conversation held, you have made a 'Station-to-Station' call, and a lower rate will apply than when you ask to speak to a particular person. The word 'Station' means simply telephone instrument.

'When you place a call specifying that you want to talk to a particular person and connection is established and you have your talk, you have made a 'Person-to-Person' call. As the operating service performed and the circuit time used are greater than with the 'Station-to-Station' call, the rate is about one-fourth greater."

"You will observe," said Mr. Cameron, "that under this method the user who is content to use the type of long distance service requiring less operating labor and circuit time gets the benefit in the rate charged.

"Again, when a 'Person-to-Person' call is made and the person desired is not in or will not talk, or when an exact telephone address of the person wanted has not been given and he cannot be reached at a telephone within one hour, a 'Report Charge' applies. This charge is to make partial compensation for the operating work performed and the circuit time used, and is usually about one-fourth of the 'Station-to-Station' rate.

"There are also special rates for 'Apointment' and 'Messenger' calls, and for 'Evening and Night' service on the 'Station-to-Station' basis."

"There are other features of the new schedule," Mr. Cameron concluded, "that will repay study, but the above are the main points. We will be happy to give our patrons every assistance in adjusting this new plan to the special needs of their business. Careful study will mean economy in the use of 'Long Distance.'"

WILL BE NEAR EARTH IN JUNE

WINNECKE'S COMET IS SIGHTED BY YERKES OBSERVATORY, REPORT IS.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., April 13.—Winnecke's comet, the periodic comet which approaches earth at intervals of five years and eight months and will come "very near" to the earth in June, according to the prediction of Dr Crommelin, an English astronomer has been sighted by Prof. E. E. Barnard of the Yerkes Obsevatory, at Williams' Bay, Wis. Word to this effect was received to-day at the Harvard College Obeservatory.

Astronomers have been watching for Winnecke's comet for several weeks. It was originally discovered in 1858. It moves in an elliptic orbit around the sun, taking five years and eight months to complete the circuit. So far it has never come within several million miles of the earth on its periodic visits

How near it will approach this time, astronomers will probably soon be able to compute with accuracy. At preasent Winnecke's comet cannot be seen except through a large telescope.

Reid's comet, which was discovered at Cape Town, South Africa, on March 13, and is now steadily increasing in brightness, will make its nearest approach to the sun on May 1, according to word received at Harvard from Dr. Leuschner of the University of California. The orbit of Reid's comet has been computed says Dr. Leuschner in his message. On April 1 6't will be four and a quarter times brighter than when it On April 16 it will be four and a about seven and a half times brighter, according to a computation made elsewhere, its magnitude will be 6.1 on April 26.

If Reid's comet keeps on increasing in brightness at its present rate, the Harvard astronomers predict that it will be soon visible to the naked eye Hitherto it has been seen only through a telescope.

WOMEN IN PUBLIC LIFE ARE A GRAVE MENACE TO RACE.

Declares Mr. Noel Pemberton Billing, British M.P. —Women of the House Wanted to Save the World.

OTTAWA, April 14.—The entry of women into public life in England is a grave menace to the race, opines Mr Noel Pemberton Billing British member of Parliament, who arrived here after an extensive tour of the United States, Panama and Cuba. "It is the woman of the home" he declares, "who is going to save the world, and not the woman in politics. He considers that as voters, women have rendered valuable service, having served to break up the crooked political parties. To him the growing demoralization of homes caused by the incautious enthusiasm of women who were tasting political enthusiasm for the first time was deplorable.

As an Imperialist Mr. Billing sees great possibilities toward the securing of universal harmony in the complete collaboration of all countries. A yearly Imperial conference at which all countries in the British Empire were invited, is strongly urged by him. Mr Billing, in his views on the Irish question is an Empire one, and that it should be submitted for decision to all countries of the British Empire.

Less Legislation.

Mr Billing strongly suggester a "general tour" of British politicians throughout the Empire in order to associate themselves with the general conditions that prevail therein. In England few statesmen realized the vastness of the British domains abroad. Every statesman he declared could find time to travel for that purpose. We need more administration and less legislation at this time in order to bring the country around," said he.

CONVICTS RUN STILL IN STATE PRISON.

Steal Molasses from Kitchen and Turn Out Half a Gallon Daily.

IONIA, Mich., April 14. — The great, unquenchable thirst must be appeased, and it does not seem to matter much where the drought is, for it always seems to obtain easement.

To-day Major Marsh, in charge of Ionia State Prison, discovered a liquor still in full operation in one of the cell-blocks of the prison. There was every indication that the still had been functioning for some time, and the stuff that it manufactured carried "a kick in each heel."

It was found that the convicts had stolen molasses from the prison kitchen and were distilling it in the cell. The outfit was a most complete one, according to the jail officers, and could turn out half a gallon of a most vile concoction every day.

Pa was reading about a fellow with a million dollars and no appetite.

MR. HOWARD VEALS WRITES TO LEAGUE

REPRESENTS LINDSAY DISTRICT IN CHINESE MISSION FIELD.

OMEMEE, April 14.—The following is a letter from Mr. Howard Veals who is the representative in China from the Lindsay district leagues.

CHENGTU, Szechwan,

Dear People:—As it is now nearly two months since I arrived in Chengtu, I think it is time I kept my promise and wrote to the leaguers of the Lindsay district. You will probably be somewhat interested in our trip out here so I shall outline it briefly, as best I can.

We sailed from Vancouver on Sept. 23rd, thirty-one strong (21 adults and 10 children) including men and women for all branches of the work, pastoral, medical dental, nursing and educational. Ten of the 21 were new recruits, like myself, the other eleven were returning for second, third and fourth terms. As our steamer (The Empress of Russia) was carrying many other missionaries and a number of delegates to the Tokio convention, we certainly had a fine company aboard Unfortunately for some of our party the Pacific was not always pacific. I managed to escape myself by a rather narrow margin. Nevertheless we had a good voyage and everyone was in good spirits when we arrived in Yokohoma (the seaport of Tokio), on the eleventh day out from Vancouver.

We had only eight hours to spend in Yokohama and Tokio and so did not see very much of Japan's metroplos but our Japan missionaries were on hand to show us what could be seen in such a limited space of time. We had a glimpse at the ill-fated Sunday School building, just a few hours before it was reduced to ashes and then after a little run around the city we had dinner with the Japan missionaries in the Central Tabernacle.

The next day we docked at the port of Kobe and were able to get a look at Kwansei Gakuin, our Christian University, with its 1600 students. The next day after that we saw still another Japanese port, Nagasaki. That was our last glimpse of Japan, tht country which is just now an outcast among the nations. We left it with mixed feelings, having admired its beauty and the versatility of its people; but yet being quite aware of the thinness and superficiality of its civilization. The sad thing is that Japan has assimilated much of the worst in western civilization without much of the best perhaps it would be more correct to say that they have taken over the body, without the soul.

Two days from Nagasaki brought us to Shanghai where we bade farewell to the Empress of Russia and landed on Chinese soil. But Shanghai is not really China— rather it is one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world for here are gathered people of every country, not mingled, but each in his own section and each living in his own particular way—coming together only for trade. According to the laws of this strange community each national section or concession is subject to its own laws except where certain municipal rights are deputed to are international council and an international court, appointed by the several communities—in the foreign concession of Shanghai the Chinese Government has no power. As might be expected, Shanghai is one of the greatest trading cities in the world—it is indeed a city of shops displaying goods from all parts of the globe. We tarried there almost a week purchasing necessary supplies before starting on our long journey inland. Two thousand miles is not a long journey in our land, but when taken (in all classes of boats and on foot or on the backs of men, it takes a considerable time.

From Shanghai to Luchow a distance of some 1800 miles we travelled by four different steam-boats each a little smaller than the one before. The first one carried us to Hankow, the second on to Ichang the third one to Chungking while the fourth one carried us on to Luchow.

Of the first two stages there is little to relate, as they were taken on reasonably comfortable river steamers through quiet water. From Ichang to Chungking, however, the Yangtze becomes almost impassable, owing to rapids. Boats carrying specially constructed engines are needed on this route but our boat devloped engine trouble with the result that it was only with the greates difficulty that we got up some of the rapids at one time indeed we lost a whole day and broke three towing cables. It was while aboard this same boat that we were first introduced to Chinese civil warfare. The ancient fued between north and south has become intensified during the past few troublous years to such an extent that China is seldom free from civil strife in one part or another. The central government or so-called government at Peking has absolutely no power to stop this interprovincial warfare and so military adventures multiply freely, being a checkmated only by other military adventurers. Meanwhile the people suffer terribly both at the hands of the soldiers proper and also the hands of the disbanded soldiers whom usually become robbers—but to return to my story. We stopped one morning at the litte walled city of Kwei Fu (Kway fu), in order to take on some coal, but soon we found out that a battle was going on inside the city. We were safe enough as long as they remained inside, as only rifles were being used, but after a little, one side came tumbling out, making for the river. It was our move then as Chinese bullets have a habit of wandering where they should not. We moved on at once but not before our boat had been hit several times and one Chinese passenger had been slightly wounded. We saw more soldiers farther up and heard a little more firing but nothing happened.

Before arriving at Chungking we passed through Wanshien our proposed new station as well as Chung chow and Fuchaw where we are already carrying on work. We stopped over night at Wanshien but did not stop it either of the other stations where our people are at work. We were welcomed at Chungking by our workers there and during the week that we stayed were able to get some idea of the work that they were doing.

We travelled from Chungking to Luchow on a very small Chinese-owned steamer taking four days to make the distance of perhaps 200 miles not of course travelling by night on the uper Yangtze. At Luchow we met three more of our families staying with them a day and a night before moving on up a smaller river a tributary of the Yangtze. It was on this journey that we first made use of the small native man-pulled boats, travelling about 20 miles a day. One afternoon while we were being pulled up a rapid another small boat, hving gotten out of control, crashed into the side of our boat. We were close up to share and there was some scurrying to get our boxes off the fast filling boat. We got everything off all right but not before several of the trunks and boxes were wet. We got another boat and proceded on our way, drying our wet goods as best we could.

We left the water at Fushieu and proceeded overland to Cheugtu. On the way we passed through three more of our stations, Tzeliutsing (Zi lugin), Junghsiend (Yon in Shau) and Jenshow (ren Show). We men walked most of the way, roughly about 175 miles, in 6 days. The women of the party rode in sedan chairs borne on the backs of Chinese coolies. The men had a chair or two amongst the bunch but used them very little. We arrived at Chengtu, feeling quite fit, but glad to be at the end of our journey after two and a half months of almost continuous travel.

I have told you nothing of conditions this time but shall at another time. I have not forgotten the warm welcome I received from the leagues last summer, and I know that you are still remembering me.

Wishing you every success I am, your representative,

HOWARD J. VEALS,

SLAVE TRADING STILL IN MOROCCO.

White People Sold in Recent Years.

MELILLA, Morocco, April 14. — (By Associated Press.)—Slavery and trading in slaves still flourishes in the unconquered districts of both the French and Spanish zones of Morocco. There have been stories that some of the slaves are white people but these reports are not borne out by inquiry.

Threats by the turbulent Moors of the Riff coast to sell into slavery a Spanish sailor boy, Francisco Sallud, unless his father with whom he had been wrecked and captured paid a ransom of 4,000 pesetas, led The Associated Press correspondent to make an inquiry into the question of the existence of enslaved white people in northern Africa.

The result of his inquiries shows that of recent years instances of white people being sold into slavery have been very rare, but there are slave markets for the sale and purchase of colored people in the districts to which French or Spanish rule have not reached.

The traffic varies according to the economic situation of the tribesmen who, when they are in funds, do not hesitate to give high prices for slaves to be used as servants. Slaves so purchased become personal property of the family into which they are bought and are disposed of by testament when the proprietor dies.

Formal Agreement.

However, it is customary for the purchaser to make a formal agreement before a competent legal authority to grant his slave his liberty on his master's death, when the heirs have to give up all claim and at the same time allow the liberated slave to live on and cultivate any portion of his dead master's land which may have been left to him as one of the family.

A slave owner may give his slave a wife from among his other slaves bought in the same way and the children of these marriages become slaves of the same owner unless he has signed the agreement already mentioned in connection with their parents.

The prices paid for slaves vary considerably. Generally the age is the chief consideration but, girl slaves, beauty calls for the highest prices. Seven hundred and fifty pesetas (about $100 at the present rate of exchange) is about the maximum figure ever paid—and this only in the case of a very young and handsome girl. Should the human merchandise have passed the age of 35 or 40, the price paid is round about 400 pesetas, never more.

Purchase Conditionally.

All purchases are made conditionally on the slaves proving satisfactory. A close examination is made of the slave's mouth to see whether he or she possesses a complete set of teeth. Proofs are required that the slave is neither weak-sighted nor deaf and dumb. While limbs are tested and muscles tried and every part of the body subjected to minute inspection in order to discover physical defects.

For women slaves three days' trial of their domestic aptitudes is demanded before the purchase is completed.

Such are the conditions of the slave trade in Morocco at the present day, and this is the fate from which Francisco Sallud escaped, probably by the payment of part of the ransom demanded, although exact information as to the transaction is unavailable.

URGING RECOGNITION OF IRISH REPUBLIC

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Identical resolutions declaring that the Republic of Ireland "ought to be recognized by the Government of the United States of America" were introduced in both Houses of Congress, where they were numbered respectively as Senate and House of Congress, where they were numbered respectively as Senate and House joint resolution number 1. The Senate resolution was introduced by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, and the House resolution by Representative William J. Burke, Congressman-at-large from Pennsylvania.

"I'm So Tired"

THERE is such a thing as being temporarily tired as a result of hard work. This condition is relieved by a good night's rest.

But when you are continuously tired at slight exertion and feel the ordinary daily tasks too much for you, it is time to consider the condition of the nervous system.

You find yourself easily irritated and worried, you have not the energy and strength to carry out your usual daily program, you do not sleep well and get up tired in the mornings, you may have headaches, and you feel down-hearted and discouraged.

Your nerves are tired, weak and exhausted, and you need the assistance which is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Amy L. Metcalf, R. R. No. 3, Arthur, Ont., writes:—

"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with the most favorable results. One spring I was very weak and run-down, and did not sleep well. I was very nervous and would cry for any little thing. My heart was weak and my head ached almost constantly. The doctor's medicine did me no good, and finally I began to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After using six boxes of this medicine I felt fine. I have never used anything which has done me as much good as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have also found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills an excellent remedy.

("This is to certify that I know Miss Amy Metcalf, and believe her statement with regard to Dr. Chase's medicines to be truthful and correct."—A. R. Springer, Methodist Minister, Arthur, Ont.)

APRIL IS MARSHALL MATTRESS MONTH

We Are the Sole Agents for This Celebrated Sanitary Coil-Spring Mattress for Peterborough and District.

During this month, "April," the Marshall Mattress Co. have decided to place their coil-springed ventilated mattresses on sale at very special prices, and these prices are the same all over the "Dominion" for this month only.

Therefore we urge upon you the necessity of making your purchase during April, and benefit by the great reductions. This drop in price is not permanent by any means; it is just as a stimulant for April business.

They are the last word in sleeping comfort, no other mattress can compare with it, in any way whatever. Note the special prices, then see the mattress itself on our Top Floor and be convinced of its superiority.

The Unique Feature of the 'Marshaldown'

The improvement that makes the "MARSHALDOWN" the best felt mattress made — that places it in a class by itself — that adds a long-needed want in mattress construction, is the utilization of a number of the same sensitive, highly-tempered springs as used in the Marshall Celebrated Ventilated Mattress. This row of springs is firmly embedded in the mass of felt along the edge, each is in its individual pocket and securely sewed in place. Then all edges containing a layer of felt are stitched, making a firm, strong roll edge all around.

The action of this row of springs keeps the whole mattress taut and working, as it does, in union with the roll edge feature prevents the mattress from sagging or spreading.

You may sit on the edge of the "MARSHALDOWN". all you want — it immediately assumes its original position as soon as the pressure is removed.

Date the "Gift of Sleep" from MARSHALL MONTH

"Bring us to our resting beds, weary and content, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep."

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

WHAT a blessing is the Marshall Mattress to those who cannot naturally sleep well, whose nights are restless until they are perfectly comfortable, till every nerve and muscle is relaxed, till a yielding support takes up every stress and strain, and the tired mind, relieved of bodily worries, drifts into the peace of dreamless oblivion. Sleep—the great restorer, deep, sound, revitalizing sleep! How it wipes away worry, rebuilds hope, rekindles energy and joy.

Marshall Mattress Prices are Reduced for April only

If you are a light sleeper, if you do not rest properly at night, if you toss and turn wakefully when all the house is still, you need the help and comfort of a Marshall Mattress. Don't think of a Marshall as a luxury. To you it is a necessity, for what pleasure is there in life by day if you cannot sleep at night?

Go to any of the leading furniture dealers this month and you'll find the cost of a Marshall Mattress is much less than you thought. Prices have been reduced for a great spring demonstration.

This is Marshall Month, and the first opportunity to buy the famous Marshall Mattress at reduced prices in the 20 years since they have been introduced. Every home will be a comfortable home when every bed has a Marshall Mattress.

Marshall Ventilated Mattress Co., Limited

Toronto - Ontario

Makers of the "Marshall Ventilated Mattress," the "Marshaldown" Mattress, the "Marshalfelt" Mattress, and Marshall "Shock-Absorbing" Cushions for Automobiles.

The Construction of the "Marshalfelt"

The "Marshalfelt" embodies the same unique features as our Marshaldown, being hand-built from soft white layer felt, constructed with spring edge, using the same sensitive highly-tempered spring as used in the Marshal Celebrated Ventilated Mattress. This row of springs is firmly embedded in the mass of felt along the edge. Each is in its individual pocket and securely sewn in place, then all edges containing a layer of felt are stitched, making a firm, strong roll edge all around.

The action of this row of springs keeps the whole mattress taut, and working as it does in union with the roll edge feature, prevents the mattress from sagging or spreading.

You may sit on the edge of the MARSHALFELT all you want — it immediately assumes its original position as soon as the pressure is removed.

KINGSMILL CALLS IT NOT SPORTING

Admiral Thinks Windle Should Have Been Given Chance to Reply.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Admiral Sir Charles Kingsmill, who is the President of the Ottawa branch of the Citizens' Liberty League and Honorary President of the Provincial Committee, upon being interviewed this evening with reference to the statement of Lieut.-Colonel Hendrie concerning C. A. Windle, which appeared in the Press to-day, said he was unaware of the nature of the political views of Mr. Windle, other than those mentioned by Mr. Windle himself in his Ottawa address on Sunday night.

The Admiral observed that it would have been more sportsmanlike if the prohibitionists had published their charges concerning Mr. Windle's alleged anti-British writings on Saturday last, the day before he spoke in Ottawa, instead of on Monday, the day after he had left, and thus denying him any opportunity of answering his accusers face to face.

GUELPH MUST CONSIDER ERECTING NEW COLLEGIATE

GUELPH, April 13.—The question of a new Collegiate Institute, which has been held over during the war, has been forced upon the Guelph Board of Education by the report of Inspector Houston, which on account of the overcrowded condition of the school, with its nearly 400 scholars, he refuses to grade or approve of, although speaking in the most admiring terms of the excellence of the staff and their loyalty under the adverse conditions under which they are employed.

GRANT A FURTHER INCREASE TO THE BELL TELEPHONE

ERROR IN COMPUTATION IN ORIGINAL JUDGMENT.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—A further increase of 2 per cent. on rates and charges for exchange service has been allowed the Bell Telephone Company by the Board of Railway Commissioners, in a supplementary judgment to that issued April 1. An error in computation for which Assistant Chief Commissioner J. McLean takes the responsibility and expresses regret, is the reason given for the increase from ten to twelve per cent.

Commissioner McLean states that by the orgiinal judgment it was found that there was a deficit in the necessary revenues of the Bell Telephone Company amounting to some $2,100,000. The sum of $1,150,000 would accrue to the company for increased long distance charges and service connection charges, leaving approximately one million to be obtained from exchange service charges. After the issuance of the original judgment, states Commissioner McLean, it was represented by the company that the necessary one million would not be produced by the ten per cent increase in exchange service charges.

The long distance increase allowed will go into effect on April 21 and the exchange rate increase on the same date or within two days afterwards.

WILLIAM SMITH IS MADE COUNCILLOR

MEMBER FOR SOUTH ONTARIO ELEVATED TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

OTTAWA, April 14.— (Canadian Press.)— William Smith, M.P. of South Ontario, veteran member of the Commons, has been elevated by the government to the rank of Privy Councillor. Hereafter he will be known as Hon. William Smith, although he is less formally and more affectionately addressed by his many friends in parliament and out of it. Hon. William Smith has been active in public life for forty years.

MADE A STIR IN THREE YEARS.

But Georgia Republic Has Ceased to Exist.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14—(Associated Press.)— The Georgian Republic, which ceased to exist as an independent, home-controlled government at the end of February, as a result of attacks directed from Moscow, made a considerable stir during the three years of its freedom.

Of all the states that have broken away from great Russia, such as Poland, Armenia and the Ukraine, none has won more real sympathy from visitors. In its capital of Tiflis, tidily nested in the Caucasian foothills, beside the little river Kura, there was always a hearty welcome to strangers. Like all the provincial capitals of old Russia, the life was delightfully democratic and free from the sober restraints of more highly oragnized and commercialized communities.

Tiflis had its opera, its music halls, its central club house, its picturesque drinkers, its old-fashioned national costumes and dancers, both men and women. It had its society of princes and princesses and counts and countesses, who lived in their town houses and extended hospitality almost to all comers, as in the south "before the war." Russians themselves, before and since the great war, loved to visit Georgia, because of its climate and its verdant richness. The Czar and hosts of Petrograd and Moscow nobles and wealthy people had their villas, their hunting lodges, and summer resort places scattered through Georgia.

One cause of the occupation of Georgia by the Bolsheviki was probably loot. This was the last portion of Russia which still retained some of old Russia's vast treasures of art, of paintings, of tapestries and rugs, of silver and gold ware, of arms inlaid with precious metals and jewels, of silver-ornamented harnesses, of diamonds and valuable oriental stones—the very name of which is hardly known in western countries.

A more general cause of the occupation by the Bolsheviki has been the systematic attempt of Moscow to reincorporate into Russia its old provinces.

During its three years of independence, Georgia had on paper 16 mobilizations of troops and 14 wars, all to protect frontiers. All of these newly-formed republics in Europe occupy some strategic transport position which their neghbors need.

ROCKCLIFFE AIRDROME OPENS IN TWO WEEKS.

OTTAWA, April 14. — Rockcliffe airdrome will be opened by April 25 by the Operations Branch of the Air Board. Four machines one Aro seaplane, two D. H.-4 land machines and one large H. L. flying boat will be ready for service by that date. A season of considerable civilian aerial activity is being looked forward to and the local station will be kept at a high state of efficiency. Survey and photography work of a general nature will be carried on. The personnel will consist of ten machines and airdrome workers under the command of Capt. H. Hammond, Operations Branch, Air Board.

ACCIDENTS

An automobile expert gives an idea of some of the contributory factors to the long list of constantly occurring motor accidents. The first is high speed, that modern mania which obsesses so many drivers, and which is responsible for so many delays in the way of tire troubles, and for the numerous notices in the daily papers like the following: "a party of young folks returning from some celebration and running at high speed, car overturned, skidded and crashed into telegraph pole—with perhaps three or four killed and remainder crippled for life." His idea of good driving with few accidents is that of the conservative man, who drives rapidly when the coast is clear, and carefully yet without timidity, when in heavy traffic or wet weather; in short, the men who are ready for an emergency and who know what to do if anything eunxpected happens. Women do not err so much in respect to high-speed mania, although once in a while, one observes a young girl flying around a corner at a breath-taking angle, and women are more likely to crumple up and "go cold" in an emergency, than a man will.

The second point is inattention, a characteristic of the man who stops his car suddenly in traffic without warning, turns right or left without signalling, bumps into somebody's fender, runs over a child and doesn't even know it because he wasn't looking where he was going; or smashes into another's tail-end for the same reason. Then blames the other fellow for stopping so suddenly. In wet weather he "won't bother" to put on the chains, and as a consequence skids into the curb or smashes a wheel.

Poor judgment, which often attacks otherwise good drivers, who become "rattled" in a crisis and do the wrong thing, ignorance of traffic rules, and right of way in different localities, forgetfulness of parking regulations, and the evils of blinding headlights are other contributing causes in motor accidents.

THE HIGHWAYS WEARING OUT.

State Plans to Levy a Tax on Heavy Trucks.

"To make your candles last for ay,
Ye wives and maids give ear-o
To put them out's the only way,
Quoth honest John Baldero."

Back in the reign of Mother Goose this method was recommended to keep things from wearing out, and the same system has lately been applied with regard to roads in New York State. The disquieting discovery was made recently that their magnificent system of highways, on which the state has already expended over $100,000,000, is wearing out. So a bill has been passed imposing a tax of $500 per annum on motor trucks of five tons capacity, with $100 added for each additional ton. Such an impost will drive most of the large capacity motor vehicles, which obviously do a great deal of the damage, off the roads.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, recently reviewed a parade of cheese-makers in Alkmaar from her motor car. The illustration shows the Queen sitting in state while men in white suits and straw hats file past in couples, leaving between them a sort of curious-looking sled arrangement with upcurved ends, covered with immense round cheese balls.

We have voted out the poor man's bar. Next Monday let us vote out the rich man's cellar.

"There she is, boys, a brand new car for less than $4.

"Guess I shouldn't kid you, though. Of course it's only the old car in a new dress. Yep, did it myself, with a brush and a can or two of Lowe Brothers Auto Varnish Colors."

Car owners like the easy way these Auto Varnish Colors have of spreading over the surface. They like the quick-drying feature, the good looks and the long lastingness. Made in eleven popular colors. Come in and ask us about it.

IMPROVEMENTS TO POLICE STATION

SPECIAL QUARTERS WILL BE FITTED UP FOR THE PLAINCLOTHES MEN.

Tenders for the construction of a long-contemplated addition to the Police Stations are being called for by the City Trust Commission. Tenders will be received up till noon Tuesday, April 19th. W. and W. R. L. Blackwell are the architects, and the plans and specifications have been prepared by them.

Chief Newhall told The Examiner yesterday that the improvements the City Trust plan to make had long been needed. A detectives' office is to be constructed above City Engineer Parsons' office, which is just west of the Police Station, according to direction. The City Engineer's office is jammed in between three walls and the contract for the detectives' office will only call for the building of one wall. The office will be easy of access. So ideal appears the situation in every respect that the Chief says the department might have built the office years ago. A door will be put through the present west wall of the building and the present stairway will serve both the detectives' office and retain its present usefulness. A store-room for the use of the department will be made at the head of the stairways leading to Police Court, and it is planned to have the entire station and court-room renovated. The walls have long called for brush or paper and the woodwork is in a similar state of disreputability.

Filing System.

The office of the Chief of Police is to be equipped with a filing system to care for the multitudes of communications and references. Such a system will facilitate the police work greatly, he told The Examiner, and with the filing system the Chief expects to secure a new flat-top desk. The single east window in this office provides totally inadequate lighting, and in securing the light and at the same time facing the door—for the Chief declares he would be taking a long chance in turning his back to some of the criminals received in the sanctum—the back of the roll-top now in use interferes with intelligent conversation, hence the desirability of a flat-top.

The detectives' office in which Sergt. W. Meagher, Detective G. Cookman and Detective A. Thomas will be esconsed, will be fitted up in every way for the more efficient work of these officers, and when everything is completed the police headquarters will compare very favourably with other stations in cities of like population.

A New Car.

While plans are being made for polishing up the administrative side of the policing, the department has been put on a more efficient basis in the field, so to speak. The "Black Maria" of last year has departed and a Studebaker Six, that it is said can do 78 miles an hour, has replaced it. The delivery was made last Thursday, and so far the car has been driven 171 miles, last night alone the police covering 52 miles in the city inspecting beats and poking into every by-way within the city limits. Ten or twelve arrests have been made in the car, and the Chief said to-day that with this car they had a weapon by which they absolutely could smash crime in the city a greater blow than in any other way.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

MOTOR CAR LIFE ALMOST UNLIMITED

It Is a Matter of Taking of the Old 'Bus.

It is said that the potential life of almost any motor car is unlimited. What shortens it in most cases is simply ignorance. The average car owner knows very little about his automobile beyond being able to drive it. He knows little of the mechanism, the principles of operation, its needs, and the results that will follow neglect.

The following spring programme is recommended for a car that has been in storage during the cold weather: attention to lubrication, battery, tires and a good cleaning. For one that has been operated during the winter, divers operations are necessary; which include the following:

1. Take up on main and connecting rod bearings,
2. Remove carbon and grind valves,
3. Clean gasoline tank, line and vacuum tank,
4. Clean and adjust ignition, inspect wiring,
5. Inspect generator and starting motor and wiring,
6. Clean cooling system, supply new connections and belt, if necessary,
7. Tune and test motor.
8. Clean and adjust clutch,
9. Adjust all brakes,
10. Remove wheels, inspect, adjust and repack bearings.
11. Inspect steering, remove excess play from post and knuckles.
12. Tighten body bolts, fenders, remove rattles.
13. Tighten spring shackles,
14. Inspect drivings, pinion shaft and propeller shaft for play,
15. Change engine oil, transmission and rear axle oil.
16. Lubricate entire chassis.
17. Recharge battery.

The car operated all winter will need close inspection of the running gear, eespecially after being driven over rutted roads. Such roads increase side thrust on the wheels, thus upsetting steering wearing the knuckles excessively and also unduly wearing the wheel bearings.

WIFE CAN SEARCH HUBBY'S POCKETS

So Rules Chicago Court in Assault Case.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 14.—The inalienable right of Friend Wife to explore hubby's pockets while he sleeps appropriating to herself anything she desires in the way of loose change or other plunder, was upheld by Judge Howard Hayes. His Honor made certain allowances for the husband under such conditions. He agreed that a good scolding might be permissable or that the husband might take any ordinary precautions such as putting his trousers under his pillow or hiding them, but he made it very clear that Friend Wife should not be locked out in the cold back porch, attired only in her nightie because of making an inventory of her husband's trousers.

The case was that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stern "He threw me out of the house in my nightgown at 5 o'clock on Sunday morning," Mrs. Stern testified. "I begged in vain for two hours for him to let me in and then I crawled through a window. He threw me out again and threw my trunk after me."

"I caught her searching my pants for money," interrupted Stern.

"She had as much right in the house as you did,' 'said the judge "Fifty dolars and costs."

To Free Your Arms of Hair or Fuzz

(Boudoir Secrets.)

No toilet table is complete without a small package of delatone, for with it hair or fuzz can be quickly banished from the skin. To remove hairs you merely mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the objectionable hairs. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when it will be found free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.

GOLD FLOWING INTO THE STATES.

$150,000,000 Since Beginning of Year.

NEW YORK, April 14—(By Canadian Press).—Gold appears to be flowing into the United States from all quarters of the world, especially Europe. Since the beginning of the year net imports are calculated at about $150,000,000, and bankers expect a continuation of the movement. Scarcely a day passes without the arrival of some shipment.

According to the Federal Reserve Board's figures $28,795,000 was imported in the ten days ended March 20 and $133,000,000 between January 1 and March 30. Against this there was an outflow of only $4,349,000 in the longer period and $338,000 in the shorter.

Since March 20 shipments of over $22,000,000 have been reported as en route. Thus the total import since January 1 are over $155,000,000. The bulk of the shipments are from Great Britain but France makes a close second. The board figures give $43,588,000 as from London between Jan. 1 and March 20 and $37,060,000 as from Paris. Since March 20 reports indicate a further $9,433,000 from London and a further $7,000,000 from Paris.

By continental divisions Europe accounts to date for nearly $112,000,000, North America for $14,600,000 including $10,000,000 from Canada, South America for $5,300,000, and Asia for nearly $22,000,000.

SERVING THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO

THE purpose of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is to assist the greatest possible number of Ontario people to realize, in the fullest possible measure, benefits from Ontario's splendid water power.

Into thousands of communities throughout the province, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is directing lines of electrical energy that turn the wheels of industry- - -illuminate the streets of cities and towns- - -draw town and country together, both socially and commercially.

To completely fulfill this purpose, it is necessary not only to develop and distribute electrical power, but also to secure a wider use of this power by encouraging the people of Ontario to more extensively use electrical equipment in their homes,

Hydro Power is owned and operated by the people, needed by the people and backed by the people. Every citizen of Ontario has a share in its progress.

HUNTING DOWN BOGUS MANAGERS.

British Actors' Association Launch Campaign.

LONDON, April 1 by mail, by Associated Press).—The Actors' Association of Great Britain has launched a campaign of boycott against bogus theatrical managers.

The kind of manager who is to be hunted down is the person who with little or no capital takes out a company on tour often pay scandalously low salaries. If the enterprise fails the bogus manager takes what he can from the receipts, and departs, leaving the company stranded and penniless.

The Actors' Association says that this kind of thing is far more common than the public knows, and cases of the kind are reported on an average two or three times a week.

GOLDEN RIFLE RED COMMANDER.

MOSCOW, April 14 (by Associated Press wireless).—The commander of the northern group of the Red Army, Comrade Kazanski, who distinguished himself in the capture of Kronstadt, the centre of the recent revolt, was a peasant from the village of Nikolskaya, in the Orloff district. He started his service in the Red Army as an ordinary machine-gunner, and was twice awarded the Order of the Red Flag.

He has now been awarded a Golden Rifle for "extraordinary gallantry and skill in the campaign for the liberation of Kronstadt."

U.F.W.O. HELD ANNUAL DANCE

The Peterborough branch of the United Farm Women of Ontario held their first annual dance last evening in Victoria Hall. There was a splendid attendance, more than anticipated by the ladies in charge. Tucker's three-piece orchestra provided excellent music, and the refreshments were exceptionally good. A considerable quantity of sandwiches and cake remaining at the conclusion of the dance were donated by the ladies to the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage. The gentlemen from Toronto who supplied music for the dance held last evening at the Conservatory of Music came down later to Victoria Hall and very kindly gave several selections for the dancers there, which were very much appreciated.

The proceeds from this affair will be applied to furnishing the rest-room recently opened by the ladies of this association on Simcoe Street, over the Farmers' Grocery, and an announcement was made last evening of an address to be given at 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 16th, by Miss M. R. Heeley, the Government nurse now visiting Peterborough, who will also give a practical demonstration of nursing work. All members of the society and any local ladies interested in this work are cordially invited to be present.

TEXAS CYCLONE WRECKS VILLAGE, SCATTERS TRAIN

FORTY KILLED AND SCORES INJURED IN PATH OF DISTURBANCE.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Fifty persons were reported killed and scores injured in a cyclone which struck Melissa in North Texas yesterday afternoon. Melissa had a population of one thousand. Every business house in the village was swept away, according to meagre reports. The storm covered a wide area, and swept as far south as Jacksonville, Texas. Two freight trains were scattered for a mile along the right of way. The injured are being brought to McKinney.

SAYS REFERENDUM WILL BE CARRIED

MR. BURNHAM'S VIEWS ON THE QUESTION—DRESS REFORM NEXT.

Several citizens have been asked to give an expression of opinion regarding the outcome of the referendum vote on Monday, but all declined, with the exception of Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., who had the following to say:

"There is no doubt that the Referendum will carry and the public mind will then devote itself to further improvements. The Rev. Wesley McGaw, of Ottawa, says that women's present style of dress must go next as it is immodest. No doubt Separate schools and all forms of division in the state such as sectarianism will be called upon next to depart. Of course Prohibition is Socialism pure and simple, and on its back is riding in he complete socialistic state. The conquest of individualism by socialism is the conquest which socialism has been striving to make. It is all very interesting."

CANADA UNIQUE AMONG NATIONS.

No Labor Troubles, Says New York Sun.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(By Canadian Press.)—In an editorial commenting on the labor situation in Canada, the New York Sun states:

"Canada is unique among the great nations, in that she has no serious labor troubles, and in that she appears to be effecting the difficult process of readjustment to the after-the-war conditions as painlessly as may be.

"The attitude of the Dominion and Provincial governments toward business has been helpful, but fundamentally such successful readjustment must be due to the exercise of plain common sense on the part of both capital and labor. It is not the first time that Canada has set an example worth studying.

"One thinks of Canada as primarily an agricultural nation and it is still true that her wheat and other grains outrun any other commodity. But the Dominion has turned more and more to manufacture and its industries grow at a tremendous pace. Doubtless the growth may continue as further water power is put to use and more resources in coal and minerals are opened up and her net-workof railroads extended."

The editorial continues by pointing out that where wage reductions have been necessary they have been made without friction and says, "This holds true of the Pacific coast and the Middle West as well as of the more industrial Ontario."

HEADACHES

Make Life Miserable

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom if ever free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part and sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head.

There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches, and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keeps the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will eliminate the cause of the headaches.

Mrs. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes "My system was out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to my friends who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy.

BIG PROHIBITION MEETING TORONTO

SIR GEORGE FOSTER, PREMIER DRURY AND HON. N. W. ROWELL AMONG SPEAKERS.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Twelve thousand people attended the meeting in the Arena last night under the auspices of the Ontario Referendum Committee to hear prominent speakers deliver addresses favoring the banning of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province. There was no heckling whatever, the great audience cheering repeatedly for a bone dry Ontario. The speakers were Hon. Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Hon. Newton W. Rowell, ex-President of the Privy Council, and Hon. E. C. Drury, Prime Minister of Ontario. His Lordship Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto, and Commissioner Richards of the Salvation Army led in the devotions.

MAYOR STILL ON WARPATH.

He is Bound that the Hydro Commission will Back Down.

KINGSTON, April 14. — Mayor Nickle is still after the Hydro-Electric Commission in regard to the insulting statements made here some time ago by its auditor, Mickler. The Utilities Commission demanded that the provincial official retract his statements, and several communications have passed between the two commissions regarding the matter.

On Monday afternoon the local commission passed another resolution to the effect that the Hydro communications of February 3rd and March 11th are unsatisfactory, and demanded a direct answer to the original request made.

Mayor Nickle declared that the Hydro officials were side-stepping, and that so far as he was concerned they must give a straight reply to the request of the local commission. If Sir Adam Beck's Commission would not do this, then it would be guilty of encouraging its officials to be offensive towards municipalities dealing with them.

THE TWO PLATOON SYSTEM BILL WAS PASSED BY 47-35

OPPOSITION WAS STRONG BUT A DIVISION WAS SUCCESSFUL.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)— One of the most unusual debates the House has had in many sessions was staged yesterday afternoon when a last minute effort was made to defeat the legislation providing for compulsory two platoon system in all permanent fire departments in centres of ten thousand population and over.

Yesterday when J. A. Calder, of North Oxford, moved a six months' hoist to W.-A. Crockett's bill on behalf of the firemen the debate started that lasted for over an hour. This was more remarkable in that when the bill came up for a second reading and again was up in committee there was no attempt to stage anything more than a half hearted debate. There was opposition to the bill but it did not appear to be important.

Since the committee stage, however, various municipalities which the bill will compel to spend money in increasing fire fighting staffs in order to put the two platoon system into effect have been making the wires warm with protests. That these protests were not unheeded was shown by the fact that when the matter was pressed to a vote and the calling of yeas and nays, itself an unusual proceeding in dealing with a public bill, it was found that 35 members were ready to throw the measure out. But there were 47 members on the other side and the bill went through.

HUNCARY DECLARES CHARLES IS ITS LAWFUL SOVEREIGN.

BERNE, April 14.—The Hungarian Government, through the Swiss Legation in Vienna, has informed the Swiss Federal Council that the Government of Hungary consider former Emperor Charles as Hungary's lawful Sovereign, and that "foreign circumstances" alone prevented the ex-Emperor from exercising his rights to authority. It asks the Swiss Government to permit the former Emperor to reside permanently in Switzerland.

The Swiss Government has reserved its decision on this request until it has made a complete investigation into all the circumstances, taking also the best interests of Switzerland into consideration.

MINIATURE TPOPHY CUPS FOR ONTARIO AMATEUR BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

CITIZENS HONOR INTERMEDIATE CHAMPIONS AND SPEAKERS UPHOLD AMATEUR SPORT FOR YOUNG PETERBORO—MAYOR M'INTYRE ASKED TO CALL A MEETING.

Amateur sport was heartily toasted, and the half-and-half article was just as heartily roasted, at the banquet in the Empress Hotel last night in honour of the Peterborough basketball team, Intermediate titleholders for Ontario.

Peterborough folks let loose a large quantity of enthusiasm not unlike the brand of a couple of decades ago, when the then town had the habit of winning championships. The citizens caught some of the "pep" that radiated from the banquet committee, and the 125 diners joined hands and voices and gave Ontario's best a splendid reception.

Coupled with the desire to do honour to those who had brought honour to the city was the expression of the hope that this city would have a live- wide-awake Amateur Athletic Association. Some suggestions were thrown out by several of the speakers, and these culminated in a resolution, moved by Dr. N. H. Sutton, that Mayor A. A. McIntyre call a meeting with a view to either re-organising the present amateur body, or taking action that would strengthen the hands of the officers of that Association, and let everybody join in a sincere and honest effort to accomplish something real. Officers of the Association who spoke at the banquet last night expressed their willingness to step aside.

Mr. J. J. Duffus, president of the Board of Trade, in seconding the resolution, said the Board of Trade Rooms were always wide open for the convenience of an amateur athletic association.

The dinner put the company in fine spirits, and from leaflets — for once not postmarked Montreal — they sang anything and everything, not forgetting "The Old Family Toothbrush." Mr. John Crane was at the piano and Mr. G. O. Cameron was chorus leader.

Somebody Told Tales.

The champions occupied seats of honour, with the speakers of the evening. About the walls were displayed a number of cards, which in a humorous way told of the fortunes and the misfortunes of the players in their championship tour.

Dr. A. W. McPherson was toastmaster, and gave the toast of The King, which was fittingly honoured.

Once the speeches were under way it was made evident that the banquet committee had made happy choices in securing speakers.

"Fighting" McPherson, catching the spirit of the occasion, paved the way well. He said Peterborough was to be congratulated on having a championship team, and also on the fact that on short notice so many busy and representative citizens had met together to honour the team. The true sporting spirit is not dead in Peterborough, declared Dr. McPherson, and the showing made in the present occasion augurs well for a return of the old times.

The toast of Canada was proposed by Mr. J. J. Duffus, who reminded the gathering of Canada's unsurpassed resources, one of which was the largest body of water in the world — some solace, he thought, should the Province vote "yes" on Monday. Mr. Duffus spoke of Canada's prominence among the world's champions, referring to the hockey honours won by the Falcons, and the great feat of Billy Sherring of Hamilton, who a few years ago won the world's Marathon at the Olympic Games. In natural resources, in sport, and it its manhood, Canada, declared the speaker, can hold its place with any country of the world.

Champions of Other Days.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, in responding to the toast, was in a reminiscent mood, and his remarks on the champions of former days was intensely interesting. He told of a rugby championship won twenty years ago—won in the snow at Montreal against Quebec City, when Peterborough, after winning the Ontario honours, went after and captured Dominion honours. He recalled the names of the players—those still living here being Dr. McPherson, Chris Graham, Sergt. John Deannard, and Detective William Meagher of the Police Force, Ed. Dillon, and J. L. Picard. Then the following year Peterborough won Intermediate honours in the O.H.A., with the famous team of Ernie Wasson, R. M. Glover, Harold Armstrong, Harry Morgan, Fred Whitcroft, Roy Armstrong, and Chris Graham.

Mr. Kenner reviewed other branches of sport mentioning some of the players, including Rev. Father Phelan, who played lacrosse with the old guard, and Mr. J. H. Burnham, one of Peterborough's cricketers of former days.

As a preliminary to the banquet, the champions were met at the Y.M.C.A. by a committee of citizens and with the Caledonian Pipe Band leading the way, they were conveyed in autos to the banquet hall, where their arrival was the signal for a great ovation.

A "Fan's" Tribute

Clean players and unselfish players, was the tribute paid to the champions by Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, in proposing the toast of "Our Guests". Mr. Breyfogle was among the "fans" who saw the champions in the making. Discussing the play in one of the games, Mr. Breyfogle told of how the local boys refused to retaliate when the visiting team used rough tactics He was impressed with their spirit of co-operation and in this they exemplified the unselfish player. In the first of the final games with Woodstock, the team although getting away to a bad start, persisted and fought all the way, finaly winning the game. Characteristics such as these would win for them in the game of life. The speaker said a Toronto sportsman had given as his opinion that the Peterboro boy were made of the right stuff, and played the cleanest game of basketball he had ever seen.

After drinking this toast, the gathering gave three rousing cheers and a tiger for the champions.

Then followed the presentation of eleven miniature silver trophy cups, and the Ontario trophy to the champions.

Those honoured were: — D. R. Pogue, R. R. Pogue, C. H. Stuart, H. C. Seely, A .E. Darling, O. A. DeGraw, F H. Jobbitt, R. H. Brownscombe, J. C. Nicholls, D. N. Sutherland, and Coach Loomis. Business called Mr. Harry Cressman from the city, and he was unable to be present.

He was Bumped.

Mr J. J. Turner made the presentation, assisted by Mr. Leon Fraser Mr. Turner related some of his experiences as a member of the Business Men's Class at the Y.M.C.A. Speaking as one who had tried the game, Mr. Turner avowed that basketball is no game for the aged and infirm.

Mr Clare Stuart, captain of the team, Mr. O. A. DeGraw, and Mr. G. H. Roper, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. replied, the players praising the efforts made on behalf of the team by Mr. Harry Cressman, and Mr. Doug. Loomis, manager and coach respectively. Mr. Roper thanked the citizens for their reception to the champions.

Mr Jack Smith was called on to entertain the gathering and he responded by contributing two vocal solos that pleased everybody.

Everybody Must Help.

Proposing the toast of Amateur Athletics, Rev. Father Costello upheld the amateur and denounced the player who while posing as a "simon-pure" looked for and received monetary consideration. Recalling the remarks on the champions of other days, the speaker declared that the successes of those days could be repeated. Ten years from now the city would be a sporting city second to none in the world if all would do their duty by the Amateur Athletic Association.

In responding to this toast, Mr. R M. Glover expressed the opinion that the absence of success here in recent years, lay not with the players, but with the method or lack of it in developing and handling the material. The participant in sports should play the game for the love of it, for the health he gets out of it, and for the honor of his town. He should realize that strength, stamina and ability, is a God-given gift, and that it should be used as such. The player who poses as an amateur, and, at the same time has his hand out, is not improving his morals or cultivating a character that will help him in life. Participants in sports, urged Mr. Glover should look for the counsel of men who are willing to give their time to carry on the different branches of sport under proper auspices.

Speaking as an executive member of the Athletic Association, Mr. Glover said: We are willing to do anything the citizens wish us to do in developing the sports of our young men, and help to give the city the prominence it deserves in the sporting world .In congratulating the champions, Mr. Glover expressed the hope that they would also be champions in their respective walks of life.

The meeting was thrown open for discussion. Dr. Sutton moved his resolution which was seconded and carried. The Mayor said he would be glad to act in his official capacity with a view to promoting the welfare of an Amateur Athletic Association.

The citizens are indebted to the following committee who arranged the banquet:—Messrs. R. G Langford, chairman, R. Jobbitt, J. J. Duffus, H. A. Cranfield, W. Jackson, J Batten, F. E. Convery, F. C. McBride, H. E. Raynor and H. Rose.

On behalf of the citizens, the chairman thanked the committee, Mr Crane and Mr. Smith, for their services, J. J. Turner and Sons for decorations and the local tobacconists who supplied the "smokes" for the banquet.

IRELAND IS FINE, BUT IN BAD SHAPE.

OTTAWA, April 14.—An amusing yet poignant letter has been received by the Dominion Command of the G. W. V. A. from Private John Muldoon, Longford, Ireland, a former member of the 2nd Depot Battalion in Eastern Ontario. Private Muldoon asks the G.W.V.A. to secure his "King's bounty" (gratuity) for him, in order that he may be able to come back to Canada and go on a farm. The letter ends up: "I have even had to sell my Sunday suit and as fine as the place is it's in a terrible state to-day." The local officials are looking into the matter.

NORTHLAND TO CANADA WHAT INDIA IS TO SPAIN

Will Be Much Activity in North Coming Season.

EDMONTON,Alta., April 14.—(Canadian Press.) —A new era is dawning, and before long Canadians will recognize the fact that the Northlands is to Canada what the Indies were to the Spaniards, is the belief of Colonel J. K. Cornwall, head of the Northern Trading Company. It is not a hot-house country for dainty luxury-loving people, states Col. Cornwall, but a territory in which a red-blooded white man will revel. North of the McMurray and Peace River tenderfeet are not held in much esteem, but the man who wants to go in, and is prepared to abide by the manner and customs of the country can get through, and transact his business.

There is going to be much activity in the north during the coming season and much more information regarding the valuable gold deposits which are known to exist in the neighborhood of Great Slave Lake and elsewhere should be available during the coming year. Many of the men from the placer mine country of the Yukon are going in for testing quartz more than for oil seeking. Colonel Cornwall asserts. Quite a number of the gold miners and others who are going in to stake, will remain for the winter, and the fur business as a consequence is expected to show an upward trend. Hitherto there have been no white trappers in the far north and the Indians and breeds have never turned in the quota of furs which might be expected of them had they but applied a little more "hustle" to their trap lines.

DEMPSEY SHUNS BROADWAY CAMP

LEARNS LESSON WITH BRENNAN — WILL TRAIN DILIGENTLY IN QUIET SPOT.

NEW YORK, April 14.—With Tex Rickard hopping about the State of New Jersey trying to settle definitely on the site for the Dempsey-Carpentier contest, and Georges Carpentier on his way to this country, it looks as though the machinery has been put in motion for the holding of the big international contest on 2nd July next.

Dempsey is shuffling along in vaudeville, but will soon leave the stage and repair to some quiet spot to prepare for his tussle with the Frenchman.

It will be remembered that the champion did his training adjacent to Broadway for his bout with Bill Brennan. And it will also be recalled that the same Brennan furnished Dempsey and the talent with a genuine surprise by staying for twelve long rounds.

Jack says that he has learned his lesson. For his own sake it is to be hoped that he has. Otherwise, that Frenchman will get him if he 'don't watch out."

SPENCER STARS FOR DOYLEMEN

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C., April 14.—Vernon Spencer, late of New York, was by way of being the salient slasher in the festivities here, in which the Tar Heels were again the "fall guys." as Mickey Devine would say. The marauder from Michigan plastered the sphere into safe territory on his first three attempts, scored one run, and incidentally drove in three more. He was not so succesful against the left-hander, who finished up the game for Rocky Mount, fanning once, and flying to right on the other occasion.

The Leafs won 10 to 3, and Gonzales was also in the limelight. The Cuban seems to have got the habit, and if he persists in performing as he has been doing of recent date, Larry will have to look to his laurels. The Havana citizen beat out a bunt in the most approved style, and then, with a brace of boarders on the gangway, tripled to deep right. Had he been less greedy he probably would have scored himself, but when he tried to stretch the hit he was called out, though he slid under the throw, but failed to touch the plate with his hook slide.

In the field Gonzales accepted three chances and, with Davis, worked a fine double play. It is a regular thing with these smooth infielders, and between them they should give Toronto fans many a thrill this season.

THE TIME IS RIPE

Last night's banquet in honour of the Y. M. C. A. Basketball team, intermediate champions of the O. B. A. A., must be classed as one of the most successful functions of the kind ever held in Peterborough. It was representative of every sporting organization in the city, bringing together men in all walks in life, and it was characterized not only by a genuine pride in the achievements of the guests of honour, but by an evident desire for a revival of sports in Peterborough, and for a re-organization of the city's athletic games that would produce better results, not only for the individual athlete, but for the whole community.

The speakers of the evening emphasized the need of a governing body to direct all amateur sport in Peterborough, and their arguments were so convincing that at the conclusion of the banquet the gathering unanimously voiced its approval of the idea by calling a public meeting for the purpose of discussing the re-organization of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, or the formation of a new body on similar lines. This, His Worship, readily consented to do, so that out of last night's remarkably successful banquet is likely to arise a representative body of sportsmen animated with the one idea of encouraging and stimulating the athletic development of Peterborough, and of instilling into the young men of the community the principles of real sport.

The enthusiasm shown by those around the tables, it is hoped will be transmitted to the new organization, and a splendid start towards better conditions in Peterborough would be assured if those who were present last night, will ally themselves with the work of organizing and developing a representative athletic association. Of the need of such an organization, on one who is familiar with athletics in Peterborough needs convincing; as to what can be accomplished the Galt Amateur Athletic Association is a striking example. Since its inception, Galt has won the Western Football Association championship, and followed up that victory by capturing the intermediate O. H. A. title last winter. The sporting enthusiasm of the town is centred in the Association, and remarkable results have been achieved in a short time.

Peterborough needs such a directing body. The young material in the various games has been neglected, and as a result there has not been that development there should have been in the city. What is required is an organization that will begin at the bottom and keep a fatherly eye over the youngsters, see that they are provided with grounds upon which to play, that they are supplied with the necessary facilities, and that their activities are being directed along proper lines. Too much must not be attempted at once. We are gven to that sort of thing in Petebrorough. We expend all our enthusiasm at the go-in, and have nothing left with which to carry on, just like the newlyweds who spent so much on their going away outfits that they could not afford to go away at all. That mistake should not be made in the launching of an athletic Association. Careful planning at the start, with a programme mapped out that can be taken step by step instead of being rushed through at one meeting, and then allowed to collapse, is necessary. The time is ripe. The enthusiasm of last night's gathering evoked by the splendid feat of the champion basketball team, shows that the sportsmen of the city are ready for the movement. It is to be hoped that the opportunity will not be lost.

To the Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I wish to bring to the attention of the readers of your paper what, to my mind, is a very important subject. It is simply this, "the protection of frogs." I almost hear some of you city folk laugh and say how absurd! but if you were as dependent upon the frog as the farmer is, you wouldn't laugh.

The frog is a very industrious little fellow, and is one of the farmers' greatest beneficiaries. He destroys many injurious insects and grubs, which would spoil our crops if he didn't spoil them. Moreover, at the first approach of spring, the frogs form their orchestra and liven up the long, dull evenings of spring with their spirited music, and it isn't jazz either. Therefore, I ask you in the name of the common interests of all the people to refrain from killing a frog without necessity. One word more. Don't believe any of this "frog trickery business." There is nothing to it. They don't possess any super-natural powers at all. Such belief puts me in mind of an old saying, "Humanity deluded by demons." Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, yours truly,

J. C. Sullivan.

LACROSSE NOTES

The basketball banquet put a crimp in the weekly meeting of the lacrosse executive last night, but several of the promoters of a local junior series report encouraging progress. When a supply of sticks is delivered for the youngsters, it is believed that they will all be taken and used. The intermediates will practice at the usual hour on Saturday at the Exhibition grounds.

BELLEVILLE MAN DIES SUDDENLY.

BELLEVILLE, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—While building a fire in his kitchen this morning, Daniel Poucher expired of heart trouble at his home at Poucher's Mills. He was in his 64th year, and was a native of Pickering. He was a miller by occupation, and was interested in municipal matters, and served in Thurlow Township Council and on the School Board for years. He leaves a widow, one son and three daughters.

JERSEY STATE FOR BIG FIGHT SUITS CARPENTIER.

MADRID, April 14.—Georges Carpentier is pleased with the selection of New Jersey as the site for his meeting with Jack Dempsey for the world's championship, he said here to-day. He has booked passage for America on 7th May, and will start training as soon as he arrives in a place selected before he returned to France last fall.

Carpentier, who is on an exhibition tour, apperas in the best of condition, and expressed confidence that he would be able to win the world's title.

FOUR ROUNDS ENOUGH.

NEW YORK, April 14.—"Four round will be enough and a decision won't be needed for the winner."

So says Bill Brennan, the big Chicago heavyweight, about the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Brennan met Dempsey twice. Six rounds the first time and twelve rounds the second. He thinks he ought to know something about the champion.

"Carpentier is fast enough to keep away from Dempsey for about three rounds, but he'll get it no later than the fourth," Brennan said recently.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

"THE SILVER KING."

"The Silver King," made famous by the great Wilson Barrett, has been chosen as one of the offerings of the Trans-Canada English Players when they come to the Grand Opera House for one matinee and evening, commencing Wednesday, 20th April.

The plot of "The Silver King" concerns the murder of Geoffrey Ware, who fell into the hands of a band of crooks. To Mr. Henry Lonsdale, who portrays the title role, falls the bulk of the acting. The part calls for four distinct phases of character work. He appears first as Wilfred Denver, a dissipated idler, then in the guise of a seaman, where he is remorseful and repentant; and then again as the sorrowful silver king, who seeks to make amends to his wife by surrounding her with luxuries; and finally as Nicky, the half-witted fool, when he learns that he is not guilty of the murder of Geoffrey Ware.

Excellent work is also done by Mr. Norman Cannon as the Spider, chief of the band of crooks, and by Mr. Frederick Ross as the old servant. Miss Dorothy Reeve will be seen as Nellie Denver, Miss Peggy Bryatt as the Spider's wife, and Wee Dorothy Mackay has been specially engaged to play the part of Cissie.

The plays which will be presented here are: At the matinee, 2.30 p.m., "East Lynne"; evening, at 8.30 p.m., "TheSilver King."

"WAY DOWN EAST."

Seats are now on sale for the coming engagement of David W. Griffith's masterful motion picture elaboration of "Way Down East" at the box office of the Grand.

The presentation in this city will begin Thursday evening and continue twice daily thereafter, matinee and evening, for a period of three days only.

Again, as in the case of "The Birth of a Nation,' Griffiith has turned to a success of the stage for his material. This time he has taken a play that has withstood the tides of time for more than a score of years and enjoyed an unusual appeal. The success that has crowned his efforts proved that nothing dies for this master of the silent drama; no art to him is lost. This great play lives again in greater scope and grandeur though his touch and vivification. When Lottie Blair Parker and Joseph Grismer brought forth this drama at a time before people were accustomed to think in or of the theatre it was referred to as a rural play; Griffith has utilized it to bring forth the story of a woman's soul and thus lay bare truths as urban as Broadway and as universal as the skies. In this picturization, spectators are transferred from pastoral solitudes to the glitter of city life, thus furnishing a series of contrasts that enhance the dramatic values of the offering. The delightful comedy scenes of simple country folk are retained and even amplified, while the finale brings forth the great snow storm scene ending with the stupendous crashing ice-gorge, all of which are presented in a manner the public has come to expect in a Griffith production. The orchestral accompaniment is said to be the most pretenious yet attempted in connection with a photo-drama presentation.

The management of the Grand Theatre wishes to advise patrons that owing to the widespread appeal and vogue of this presentation it is quite prudent that seats be secured in advance and as early as possible. 'Way Down East' will positively not be seen in the vicinity of Peterborough. This company goes direct to New York from here. Last stand in Canada. Secure seats in advance. Easy to get locations.

AT THE ALLEN.

APPEALING STORY TOLD ON SCREEN.

Character of "Peep O'Day" in Irvin Cobb's "Boys will be Boys," a Novel One.

There are at least two things associated with childhood days that everyone knows about and remembers—little red wagons and brass-toed boots with tops. Hardly a small boy but has not proudly displayed his new shoes and every baby heart has hungered for a little red wagon. Will Rogers is no exception in "Boys will be Boys,"which comes to the Allen Theatre for two days, commencing Friday.

The only difference here is that Rogers grew up without any childhood, and decided to go back and relive it after he had become a grown man. The familiar bright-colored leather topped boots will be quickly recognized by the grown-ups in the audience as the kind that they wore when they were little,and the young people will be interested in seeing just what sort of shoes mother and father wore in the days before "scuffers."

Will Rogers shows his most whimsical and delightful nature in "Boys will be Boys," a story by Irvin S. Cobb.

FOUR CORNERED LOVE AFFAIR ALL AT CROSS PURPOSES

Marion Rogers was in love, but not with the man who loved her. In a different way, according to her nature, Diana Spaulding was in love though not with the man who was infatuated with her. Camerno West was smitten with Diana and the unruly passion of Granville Wingate was aroused by Marion.

The four were together almost constantly. Tense and extraordinary situations developed. The story is told in "The Vice of Fools," by Francis James, visualized by Vitagraph, which will be shown at the Allen theatre for the last time today., with Alice Joyce in the stellar role.

The four-cornered love affair gives the charming Vitagraph star unusual opportunities for the display of her powers of expression on the screen. Of the four involved in a strange coil of circumstances, three are swept along by impulse and desire, regardless of the consequences to themselves or anybody else. Marion alone consults her judgment and invokes her woman's intuition in deciding what course she shall pursue through difficult situations. Marion Rogesr provides a role admirably suited to the talent and ability of Alice Joyce.

AT THE EMPIRE

"Seven Years Bad Luck" is an idea, based on one of the funniest of human weaknesses—a weakness we all laugh at. The characters are all human people interpreting a logical story in the most human way, without the aid of exaggerated bulbous noses, ridiculous hairy adornment or any of those things that passed out of the realm of King Momus many years ago. Such comedy was relegated to the depths reached by the old fashioned "low" comedians who relied on "funny' make-up for their elemental humor.

If you don't believe that "Seven Years Bad Luck" is the funniest comedy ever made, see it yourself.

AT THE REGENT.

NEW WILLIAM RUSSELL PICTURE IS "BEST YET"

Heralded as the best feature in which William Russell has tarred, "The Man Who Dared,' a new William Fox production with the story laid in the California Redwoods, is coming to the Regent Theatre today.

William Russell has the role of Big Jim O'Kane, boss of a lumberjack camp. The story, which is by Julius G. Furthman, tells what happened to Big Jim and the girl he loved when he "got in wrong" with the sheriff. For the sheriff happened to be in love with the girl, too, and he was not exactly all that a sheriff should be.

The film is said to be notable for the beauty of its setting. Trees grow 200 feet high in the Redwoods, and to walk the forest paths is like walking in the naves of great cathedrals. Clyde de Vinna is responsible for the photography. Supporting Mr. Russell are Eileen Percy, a very attractive actress who has since become a Fox star; Frank Brownlee and Lon Poff. Emmett J. Flynn directed the picture.

SPORT NOTES

The East Peterborough Ball League will go to bat to-night. Bohunks and probably Cressman's ball clubs will be represented at the meeting to apply for admission to the League. The meeting is called for eight o'clock at the Windsor Hotel.

Chairman Bob Langford and his committee have very reason to be elated over the success of the banquet last night. The committee put it across in fine style.

The Church Baseball League is in the throes of re-organization. It will be affiliated with the O. B. A. A. and will enter the Juvenile series.

The field adjoining the north building of the Canadian General Electric Company's plant is being put in shape for baseball and other sports. The City League candidates from the big plant will have a workout on Saturday afternoon.

The Westclox entries in the Mercantile League are working out regularly. The Big Ben crowd will have a nifty team this season.

The committee appointed at the annual meeting of the Mercantile League to draft a constitution will meet within the next few days.

LINDSAY'S BOWLING CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

CANADIAN ACTRESS AND SINGER MAKE THEIR MARK IN N.Y.

Setting Forth on a Career That Gives Promise of Place in List of Noted Artists.

(By Ben Deacon)
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 14.—A Canadian actress of high attainments and wide reputation and a Canadian singer who is just setting forth on a career that gives promise of winning for her a place in the lengthy list of noted artists who have hailed from the Dominion were featured in the week's news. Margaret Anglin's performance of Clytomnestra in Euripides' "Iphigenia in Aulis" was undoubtedly the outstanding dramatic feature of the week, while a musical event which attracted considerable attention was the recital given at Aeolin Hall by Evelyn MacNevin, a young Canadian contralto.

"Iphigenia in Aulis" was given at the Manhattan Opera House. It was a revival of the production made in California in 1915 and was on a particularly elaborate scale —rather too elaborate in the opinion of several of the critics. A special musical setting had been composed for it by Walter Damroch and the famous conductor of the New York Symphony himself wielded the baton. The event marked the end of Mr. Damroch's service as conductor of the Oratorio Society.

Miss Anglin appears to have overshadowed Mr. Damroch despite the fact that it really was his party. The consensus of opinion was that her wonderful acting was the outstanding feature of the production. The Damroch music won only faint praise but Miss Anglin's Clytemestra was hailed by practically all of the critics as a thing that will long live in memory.

The chorus arrangements were in the hands of Maurice Brown who has fitted out several other big classic productions in like manner. He fills his stage with a weaving and writhing Delsrtian chorus that is like festooning a severe Greek temple with cheese cloth. . . . These goings on recalls many strange and unrelated things such as amateur tableaux out in Kansas City in the gilded age of strawberry ice cream soda and the cover of 'Hearts and Flowers'.

During the course of the evening Miss Anglin was badly shaken when the horses drawing a chariot into which she was about to step started too soon throwing her to the floor. Other members of the cash rushed to her assistance but she pluckily climbed into the chariot and continued the performance.

New York Debut.

Miss MacNevin's recital marked her New York debut She has sung here at a number of musicales given by the Canadian Club but this week's concert was her first appearance before the general public here. She posseses a remarkably fine voice, of beautiful quality, wide range, and fine dramatic power. Added to this she has remarkably clear diction and a high degree of intelligence and artistry which several of the local musical critics predict is certain to assure her a brilliant future. Her programme included airs by Handel Scarlatti and Marcelli, a group of French songs, a Rachmaninoff group, and a group by American composers. She was probably at her best in the more emotional numbers which gave opportunity for display of her splendidly flexible tone quality, notably in D'Indy's "Lied Maritime" and Rachmaninoff's "Floods of Spring" She was given a particularly encouraging reception by an audience which filled Aeolian Hall and was obliged to respond to frequent demands for encore numbers. Richard Hageman the noted teacher and conductor was her accompanist.

Miss MacNevin is a daughter of Dr. Malcolm MacNevin a vice-president of the Canadian Club, and born in Chatham, Ont. She has studied heres under Hageman and Julius I. Meyer. During the war she frequently gave her services to the Canadian Club for the purpose of assisting in raising funds for war purposes. She is contemplating a tour of Canada in the fall.

LEAFS BEAT PETERSBURG AFTER HARD BATTLE 4 TO 0.

PETERSBURG, Va., April 14. — Yesterday was a strenuous day for the Leafs, who travelled all morning, engaged in a ball game in the afternoon, which all but wound up in a free-for-all, and on top of that had enough spirit left to almost declare a strike over the quality, or rather lack of quality, of the "eats" which they had served up to them at the hotel where they stopped. They won both arguments at the ball park, the game by 4 to 0 and the wordy scrap by an unknown score, but they lost out in the dining-room ruction.

The trouble at the game occurred over a decision at second base, when Altenburg was declared out by the home umpire after he had apparently slid under the throw. Shortstop Martin, who made the play, waxed belligerent, and Altenburg tried not only to clean him up, but the "umps" as well, and was prevented from going through with the matter by his fellow-players, who were not slow to rush on the field when the crisis came. The affair would not have amounted to anything had Manager Martin, the "Roscoe Arbuckle" of baseball, shown any discretion. He called the Toronto player a few pet names, and even after the excitement had quieted down he fussed about and became so abusive that Anderson, on behalf of the Leafs, challenged him to mortal combat.

REFERENDUM INFORMATION

NEXT Monday, April 18, the electors of Ontario will be expected to vote on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

The reason so much liquor is being consumed in Ontario is because the law permits liquor to be imported into the province. At present it is perfectly legal to import car loads of intoxicating liquor into Ontario. If this Referendum carries this condition will cease.

Next Monday, electors, on entering the polling booths, will be handed ballots reading as follows:

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? NO

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? YES X

People who are in favor of stopping the importation of liquor should mark an X opposite the word YES as shown on the ballots above.

When To Vote

This year the polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The law allows employees one hour, in addition to the noon hour, without loss of time, in which to vote.

People who find it impossible to vote before 5 p.m. will be able to vote between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

ON POLLING DAY

The headquarters of the Referendum Committee next Monday will be in the Y. M. C. A. 'Phone 246.

Citizens who will be willing to assist in getting out the voters, particularly of the women, are requested to 'phone their name and addresses to 246.

HEALY—GARVEY.
A very pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, at 9 o'clock on Monday, April 4th, when Miss Tresa H. Garvey, daughter of Michael Garvey, and Mr. James Healy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Healy, all of Douro, were united in marriage, a cousin of the bride, Rev. Father Garvey, performing the ceremony.
The bride, who was becomingly attired in a navy serge suit, with hat to match, was attended by her cousin, Miss Loretta Garvey, while Mr. Raymond Garlow supported the groom.
The young couple left on the 3 o'clock train for Toronto and points west, and on their return will reside in Dummer.

OTTAWA BUILDERS OFFER WAGE CUT

BUT SOME TRADES HAVE ASKED INCREASE OF FROM 15 TO 25 PER CENT.

OTTAWA, April 14. — George Cain, secretary of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Building and Construction Industries, has issued a general statement that in almost every department of the building trades here contractors are agreed to reduce wages. The wage reduction has been made known to the tradesmen, but the Building Trades Council has not yet discussed the matter.
Increases in wages averaging from 15 to 25 per cent. per hour were asked by some trades, in a schedule recently submitted to the contractors by the Building Trades Council. Other trades asked that last year's wage agreement be renewed, while no trade showed a willingness to accept a reduction.
In an announcement in the Ottawa press the builders assure the public that they may rest assured of a reduction this year in building costs of from 15to 20 per cent. "On the other hand," they declare, "we wish the men to understand that it is our policy as in the past to avoid all possible friction, and to adjust matters with that sense of reason and justice which will preserve the good feeling which has hitherto existed between the contractors and the employes in the building trades.
Bricklayers, masons and laborers are offered 10 cents an hour reduction; carpenters 5c. an hour, and a fall of from 15 to 20 per cent. in construction costs is promised.

DOGS CAUSE WAR ON RATS.

Barking Keeps Mt. Vernon Awake, So Health Officials Act.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 14.—The health authorities of Mount Vernon have declared war on rats at the city dump. Dogs turned loose on the dump were so far outnumbered by the rats that many returned home with their noses bleeding from bites inflicted by the rats.
Residents of Sixth Street have complained that the rats keep them awake nights, drawing half the dogs in town to the dump, where the dogs keep up a continual barking. So Dr. T. Harold Tallman, Health Officer, and Dr. Gustave Horstmann, bacteriologist, had a large quantity of strychnine sprinkled over the rubbish. The operation will be repeated until the nuisance is abated.

Rev. V. McFadden, of Parry Sound, is in the city.
Miss G. McFadden has returned home from Chicago, where she has been for some time past.
Mr. Geo. Porter, former manager of the Empire Theatre, is in town for a few days.
Mr. R. Gliddon is in Toronto this week for the series of Mendelssohn concerts.
Mr. and Mrs. W. McKee Bingham are leaving Saturday for their summer cottage at Gore's Landing. They will return to Peterborough early in the fall, when Mr. Bingham will resume his teaching.
The second of the series of informal dances given at the Conservatory of Music last evening was a great success. The music supplied was excellent. Refreshments were served during the evening by the King's Daughters.
At the regular weekly "At Home" of the Holy Name Society of the Immaculate Conception Church held last evening in the Parish Hall, the prizes for cards, a bag of potatoes, was won by Mr. Michael Hickey of the Sacred Heart parish, and a teapot, by Mrs. Leo Cleary, of East City. The prize cake made by Mrs. McGrath was won by Mrs. Bruce Law, of Sherbrooke street.
The regular monthly meeting of the Central Home and School Association was held last evening, with a good attendance. A very interesting and encouraging talk on the work of the Associations was given by Mrs. Medd, and a report of the meetings in connection with Home and School work which tok place at the Ontario Educational Association Convention held in Toronto recently. Mrs. Medd attended this convention, and reported that representatives from over 200 Home and School Associations were present there, some coming from New Ontario and as far away as Vancouver, showing the strides which this new branch of educational endeavor is making all over Canada.
A pleasant little musical progarmme was given during the evening. Miss Maragret Denne rendered a piano solo, Mrs. Hughes a vocal number, and Miss Evelyn Miller recited.

SEVENTY-EIGHT TEACHERS AND NOT ONE MALE.

MILTON, Ont., April 14. — Inspector J. N. Denyes announces that the rural schools of the Halton and Wentworth Inspectorate have 78 teachers, and out of this number, not one is a man, which is a striking contrast to several years ago, when young men took up teaching as a stepping stone to the professions. He believes that boys should receive some of their teaching from men, and considers the absence of male teachers in the rural schools to be a very unfortunate state of affairs.

BILL PROVIDING THIS APPROVED BY LEGISLATTRE COMMITTEE.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—The legal bills committee of the Ontario Legislature today approved of the bill presented by Sergeant-Major McNamara, Riverdale, providing for the maintenance of dependent parents by their children.
Under this measure, which will probably be passed by the legislature, a parent is to be deemed dependent on adult children, if such parent is by reason of age or infirmity unable to maintain himself or herself. In case such children do not carry out this obligation they may be summoned before a magistrate or police justices and ordered to pay a sum not exceeding twenty dollars weekly for such maintenance.

STINNES OFFER TO DANES.

Would Buy Steel Plant to Escape Entente's Tariff.

COPENHAGEN, April 14.—It has been learned on good authority that Hugo Stinnes, the German capitalist, has approached the Danish steel works, known as the Roadvaddam Fabrikker, now facing liquidation, and offered to purchase the shares of the majority stockholders at 25 per cent. of their nominal value.
It is said that Herr Stinnes would continue the works as the Danish branch of his famous knife manufactory at Solingen, with the purpose of evading a retaliatory duty on his exports by Ententе countries.

VOL. XLIX. NO 87 — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1921 — PRICE THREE CENTS

Has Ambrose J. Small, Missing Millionaire, Been Found at Last?

MAN WANDERING IN WOODS AROUND KINGSTON ANSWERS THE DESCRIPTION OF THE THEATRE OWNER WHO STEPPED FROM TORONTO OPERA HOUSE INTO OBLIVION SIXTEEN MONTHS AGO.

AUTHORITIES ARE INVESTIGATING

KINGSTON, April 14. — (Special to the Examiner.) — Is the man who has been wandering around the vilage of Verona and the surrounding district, for the past three weeks, Ambrose J. Small, the missing millionaire theatrical man.

This is the question that G. R. Hornbeck, Provincial police constable, located in Kingston, is endeavoring to solve.

He has been notified that a man answering the description of the missing millionaire, bas been in the Verona district and is putting forth every effort possble to locate the man and ascertain if he is the one sought. People who have met the man state that the description tallies with that given of Mr. Small.

It appears that the man has been around the district for three weeks moving in and out of the village in a mysterious manner. The man acts very queerly and it is believed that he is of unsound mind. It is stated that he is wearing a heavy overcoat with a furlined collar, a slouch Fedora hat and a suit of clothes which are almost threadbare. It is stated that he has been carrying a large sum of money and also has a gold watch and chain, and some who have met the man state that he has a habit when looking at his watch of rubbing the chain, a habit which it is stated Mr. Small had, and of which reference has been made in the newspaeprs from time to time. The man of mystery has been spending a great deal of his time around the mines at Verona but has very little to say. In fact he has refused to talk to the people about himself, and from time to time has wandered away into the bushes giving the people the impression that he does not want them to know who he is.

It is stated that one night he was noticed around the mines with a lantern and that when asked what he was doing there he replied "I am waiting here for my prospectors."

One lady who resides at Verona, was shown a picture of Mr. Small and she felt sure that the "man of mystery" was the missing Toronto millionaire.

A RIOT OF COLOUR AT THE ARMOURIES FOR MOTOR SHOW

DECORATIONS PRESENT A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE—THE SHOW OPENS TO-NIGHT.

The Armouries this morning, even with arrangements for all the booths not quite completed, presented a very brilliant spectacle. The decorators have surpassed themselves this year in their harmonious blending of many bright colours and simulated flower effects. An immense wooden flag, studded with dozen of electric lights of different colours, blazes above the entrance, flags and banners of all sorts decorate the windows and walls, pennants stream from the ceiling, and a long line of upright wooden staves on either side of the hall bears aloft the flags of many different nations. The namecards above each exhibit are most artisically done and add pleasing note to the general decorative effect. The first object that strikes the eye upon entering is an immense basket with broad green paper strips woven in and out between the staves, and a handle entertwined with pink blossoms. These same cheerful blossoms with their wonderfully natural look, decorate many of the booths, and the ice cream will come from the daintiest mingling of mauve and white decorations, with pink blossoms and pussy willows for garniture.

The Coleman Lamp Company, of Toronto, with a whirling gasoline lamp device, is done in black and orange, and the Kingan Hardware Company have a rich brown effect. The booth presided over by the Catholic Women's League is very attractively decorated in a latticework of yellow and white, with yellow flowers, and the Canadian Oil Company's stand, done in black and yellow, is very striking. Pale blue is the fancy of the Heintzman decorators, and the Massey bicycles have a bright exhibit trimmed with red, white and blue. The candy booth, under the charge of the Business Girls' Club, is most gorgeous. Green and white checking forms the base, and immense bouquets of wonderfiul huge flowers in startling blues and yellows make this corner a centre of beautiful color. The Canadian Packing Company have a neatly arranged exhibit, and the North British Rubber Company of Edinburgh has a display of sporting and golf goods on a brilliant red background with Mr. W. J. Hopwood in charge.

There are all sorts of cars, immaculate and glistening, in colours of black, and green and blue, in all sizes, from a wonderful affair in grey and maroon with luxurious upholstering and cut glass flower vases to a neat little black coupe.

There is a special room for "everything electrical" with a model kitchen erected by the Utilities Commission, containing all the modern electric household conveniences, with a demonstration of washing-machines and small appliances on the side, and a dignified table in black and orange bearing all sorts of comfortable looking things worked by electricity.

The tea-room, in charge of the Otonabee Chapter, is most attractive with green and white paper festoons, and white-clothed tables bearing real spring blooms of pansies and carnations. Here tea is served, with salads and cold meats, if one desires them, at a very moderate price. The fashion parade, which will be held upstairs in the lecture room this year, has a conven ient stage, with beautiful background of black and silver and elaborate chairs and floor lamp.

The dance hall is in the very best condition for the merry trippers, the black-face comedians will have their minstrel show in the recreation room and there is a good-sized fishpond for the children, right beside the entrance.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION CALLED IN SASKATCHEWAN.

REGINA, April 14.—At a meeting of the executive of the Provincial Conservative Association here, it was decided to call a Provincial convention to be held in Regina on Wednesday, 27th April.

At this convention the course of action the party will follow, in view of the fact that a Provincial election appears to be imminent, will be decided on.

PETERBORO BOYS WHO WON IN RIFLE SHOOT

Nineteen hunnred and seventy six boys and girls won medals for accurate shooting in the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps competition during the month of March. Of this number 922 won the pro-marksman medal, 501 the marksman, 210 the sharpshooter, 320 won bars, 14 won the expert medal and 9 captured the instructor's medal. With 100 medals won in January, 1447 in February, and the 1976 in March, a total of 4523 medals have been awarded to the youth of America in the first three months of this year. This organization is growing at the rate of 3000 members a month and on an average of 75 maches are being conducted monthly. The highest award that any member of the W. J. R. C. can win is the expert medal. The following Peterborough names are listed among the Canadian winners in March: B. Copping, William N. Miller, Donald Fleming, C. Crawford, A. MacFarlane, Orville Martin, Farron Stevens, S. Watson, Clarence Watt, Chester Crawford.

BANDIT "PAT" IS STILL AT LARGE AND BELIEVED HE ESCAPED POSSES AND BOARDED TRAIN NEAR CARODAC

LONDON, Ont., April 14 (Canadian Press).—Bandit "Pat," the fourth man in the Melbourne murder and attempted bank robbery, is saill at large, despite a most vigorous search in all parts of Western Ontario.

It is presumed that he managed to catch a freight train near Caradoc on Monday night, and in this way eluded capture.

An inquest into the circumstances surrounding the murder of Russell Campbell is being held at Melbourne this afternoon.

Urge Transfer of the Power System Here to Municipal Ownership

DEPUTATION FROM PETERBORO AND OTHER CENTRAL ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES INTERVIEWS PREMIER.

WILL CONSIDER IT

TORONTO, April 14.—(Special to The Examiner.) —A deputation from Peterborough, Belleville, Deseronto, Lindsay, Oshawa and other places urged upon Premier Drury to-day the advisability of the government transferring the Central Power system to the Hydro Commission to be held in trust for the municipalities on the same basis as the systems in Western Ontario and elsewhere. The system is now owned by the Government and operated by the Commission. The request is to have the proeprty transferred to the municipalities on fair terms.

Sir Adam Beck said at the time the Central Ontario system was taken over by the government, the Minister made a statement that is was the intention of the Government to operate it as a provincial undertaking until such time as it might be sub-divided amongst the municipalities. It was their purpose from the beginning that the affairs of the undertaking should be carried on in such a way that it would really represent municipal ownership in the end.

G. H. Kilmer, K.C., counsel to the Hydro Commission, said there was absolute and full authority under the Act for the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to transfer this property to the Hydro Commission in trust for the municipalities on whatever terms that may be arranged between the Commission for the municipalities and the Government as special Act was unnecessary.

Premier Drury promised that the Government would give the matter consideration as soon as they could get an opportunity. There were several aspects that would have to be discussed.

DAIRY SCHOOL DEAN URGES ADVERTISING

That the time has come for dairy men and milk products dealers to start an educative advertising campaign is very evident to H. E. Van Norman, dean of the University of California, and president of the National Dairy Association. At an address before the Northwestern Milk Dealers at Boise, Idaho, Mr. Van Norman stated that through paper advertising the consumption of oranges had been doubled several times. Why then, could not milk, a necessity, be increased through the same medium.

DELAY BURIAL OF EX-EMPRESS

REMAINS WILL NOT LEAVE DOORN UNTIL MONDAY, FOLLOWING ORDER OF GERMAN AUTHORITIES.

TO CONCEAL TRAIN

DOORN, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—The German Government authorities have insisted that the taking of the body of the late former Empress Augusta Victoria from Doorn to Potsdam for burial be delayed and the remains will not leave here until Monday morning, it is announced.

Former Emperor William frequently visits the room where reposes the coffin of the former Empress.

Preparations are being made at Maarn Station to keep from the view of the public the train which will transport the body of Augusta Victoria to Germany. Large tubs containing palms, laurels and other plants will be placed along the side track over which the train will pass.

Court Chaplain von Dryander had a long talk with former Emperor William in the park surrounding Doorn Castle. After the conversation, William apparently was more composed than he previously had been. Later, the chaplain prayed over the body. He had known the former Empress since her childhood.

There was an almost continuous file of automobiles and private carriages before Doorn Castle yesterday. They brought prominent Germans and Dutchmen who signed the condolence register. Only relatives and the most intimate friends of the family were admitted to the castle. Large numbers of wreaths and floral crosses were delivered at the castle yesterday.

Lloyd George Again Attempts to Effect a Settlement But Effort Appears to Have Been a Failure

CONFERRED WITH STRIKE LEADERS FOR TWO HOURS THIS MORNING WITHOUT MAKING ANY PROGRESS.

OFFICIALS DUBIOUS

LONDON, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—A conference held this morning between Lloyd George and a delegation of officials of the Triple Alliance, which has called a strike for Friday night, in support of the striking miners, was concluded within two hours without any progress apparently having been made toward the adjustment of the grave labor situation.

It was reported that the Prime Minister made a long statement appealing strongly to the railwaymen and transport workers, asking them to exercise restraint and not to precipitate a crisis. This plea, however, does not appear to have had any effect.

J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, declared after the conference that he could see no prospect of a reopening of negotiations for adjustment of the strike situation. On the Government side it was said the Labor men were unable to present new arguments giving the Government any different view of their case, while the Government, it was understood, did not indicate that it was prepared to make any further concessions. Thus the situation early this afternoon appeared unchanged and the outlook gloomy.

During the conference, it developed that Lloyd George made a plea to the labod men that they resort to a ballot, suggesting that they put their case to the nation, and saying that the Government would do likewise with its case and let the nation decide the issue.

SANITARY INSPECTOR AND M.O.H. PLAN TO LAUNCH AN EARLY DRIVE ON THE BACK YARDS AND CELLARS

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton is preparing to stage his spring drive on uncleaned and untidy back yards in advance of other years, and he, with the M.O.H., are getting flashlights for a close inspection of alleged unsanitary cellars.

Mr. Stapleton says the 1st of May idea of cleaning out the back yard debris is antiquated, and with an early spring as this year, the yards should be entirely presentable now.

Dr. Young stated to-day that the fly nuisance was caused to a considerable extent by filthy basements, and he was prepared to go any length to have the source of the nuisance cleaned up.

When the plan of action is completed, he and the Sanitary Inspector will stage an attack on downtown shops, and carry the war against the unclean, germ-infected, fire-inviting cellar to the bitter end, which will likely be in the Police Court.

SCARLET FEVER SPREADS HERE

M.O.H. BLAMES CATS FOR RAPIDITY WITH WHICH NUMBER OF CASES INCREASE.

IS A MILD FORM

A mild form of scarlet fever has found its way into Peterborough and the quarantine signs on many a verandah and the number of patients in Queen Mary Hospital testify to how effectively it has spread. The Queen Mary hospital has about 14 scarlet fever patients and there are 5 houses quarantined at present.

The disease, while not of a malicious type, has the usual characteristics of hanging on. Scarlet fever is spread in different ways. A doctor told the Examiner this morning that he believed the contagion was propogated by the feline family. Many of the sick children have a pet pussy and parents seeing amusement provided for the weary hours in bed and seeing no harm, allow their children to fondle the cat. The result is that the cat becomes a carrier of scarlet fever germs and while the felines seemingly themselves suffer no ill, in their long fur the germs thrive and develop and one cat carries the germs to another and eventually the scarlet fever reaches some other child with a favorite "kitty." Dr. Young fastened the responsibility of spreading much of the scarlet fever upon the cat family and declared that there should be a "no admittance" sign on the door of every sick room for the family cat.

The period of quarantine is 10 days if the patient is sent to the hospital, if cared for at home six weeks. This lattter period can be moderated if there are extenuating circumstances, however.

Dr. Young said the disease found most of its victims in childhood and he warned parents to not delay a doctor's examination and treatment if the slightest symtoms were noticed.

DUST NUISANCE IN EAST CITY

The transition from deep mud to fine dust has been rapid to the citizens of East City. A few weeks ago the residents of the East Ward were ploughing their way through the mud that enveloped the roadway and sidewalk area of Peterborough's half million dollar bridge. To-day the same citizens are groaning under the burden of the dust nisance. Some of them have suggested that the Board of Works Department dispatch its five thousand dollar water waggon in the general direction of the new bridge at least twice a day.

EIGHT KILLED AND OVER FIFTY INJURED IN TEXAS STORM, LATER REPORTS SAY—FEW MAY DIE.

MANY ARE HOMELESS

MELISSA, Texas, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—Citizens of Melissa to-day set about affording relief to the large number of families made homeless yesterday by the tornado and storm which swept this little town, causing the death of eight persons and the injury of many more. Five of the eight dead are negroes. Five persons are injured, possibly fatally, while more than fifty received less serious injuries. A number of the injured are in hospitals at McKinney.

PRINGLE FAMILY BECOMES HEIRS TO $3,362,263

MILWAUKEE.— The family of James Pringle, 605 Prospect avenue, president of the Milwaukee Casket Co., will receive $3,361,263 as its share of a fortune of $7,562,842 left by his only brother, Robert, Chicago grain dealer, who died in February, 1919, according to Chicago press despatches. One ninth of the estate will go to Mr. Pringle and one-ninth to each of his three children, T. J., Milwaukee; Morton, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and Margaret, a student at Columbia university.

Mr. Pringle left for Chicago to assist in the settlement of the estate.

Estate is Settled.

The Pringle estate, which has been in the Cook county probate courts since the death of Robert Pringle, was settled Tuesday and the executors were discharged and the assets divided among the heirs.

Another brother, Thomas J. Pringle, one-time candidate for mayor of Milwaukee, died several years ago. Mrs. Thomas J. Pringle, his widow, was mentioned in the will of the bachelor grain operator.

Made Fortune in Grain.

Robert Pringle had a spectacular financail career. He went to Chicago with his family when a youth and before he was 24 had made more than $1,000,000 on the Chicago board of trade. He lost this fortune before he was 30, but continued in the grain business and succeeded in piling up several additional millions. He organized the Pringle, Fitch & Rankin Grain Co., which went out of business when he died.

Regarding the above news item, taken from a Milwaukee paper, the Pringle family referred to originally lived in Peterborough, and are connected with the Swansons living in East City. Mr. Jas. Swanson's mother was a Pringle, and closely related to the families above referred to.

MALE VOICE CHORUS ANNUAL MEETING

WILL BE HELD AT GREENE'S MUSIC STORE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

The first annual meeting of the Peterborough Male Voice Chorus will be held on Friday night in the auditorium at Greene's store. Reports of the recent concert will be presented, together with a general review of the first year's efforts and success. It is likely that the members will survey the future, of which it is already said there are promises of a membership increased to seventy-five when next season's rehearsals begin.

The Chorus have an engagement in Port Hope on May 3rd. They will sing in the Methodist church, which has accommodation for 1200 persons. All members are requested to attend the annual meeting to-morrow night at 8 o'clock sharp.

PROFITEERING IN GERMANY STILL.

Enormous Gains in Coal and Iron.

DUSELDORF, April 1 (by mail, Associated Press).—Enormous and still increasing profits compared with those made in 1914 are being made in the German coal, iron, machinery, textile paper, glass, and electrical industries, according to an article in the Dusseldorf Lokal Zeitung.

The paper quotes the reports of numerous companies, among them being one manufacturing copper and brass tubing and plate at Duisburg, which paid a dividend of 24 per cent. and a bonus of 20 per cent. Its shares, which were quoted in Berlin at 157 at the end of 1919, are now 630.

A 12 per cent. dividend declared by the Kammgarn Spinning Works of Dusseldorf was only 10 per cent. of the profits earned, says the German newspaper. In the ten years previous, this company had regularly declared a dividend of only 8 per cent.

A similar company declared in 1920 a dividend of 40 per cent., as compared with one of 11 per cent. in the three preceding years.

The writer of the article points out that but for the evidence of such figures Germany could more effectively have resisted the demands of her opponents that she make full reparation to the Allies.

Transfer of Power at Campbellford First a Provincial Question

HON. DR. J. D. REID, MINISTER OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS, TELLS CAMPBELLFORD DEPUTATION THAT THE MATTER MUST FIRST BE DEALT WITH BY THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT THROUGH THE HYDRO.

DOMINION WILLING IF THE HYDRO IS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, April 14. — If the Campbellford municipal power company wants to arrange for the transfer of certain water powers to the Dominion Government, it will be first of all necessary for them to take the question up with the Ontario Government, through the Hydro Commission.

This, substantially, was the rejoinder of the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, to a deputation of six Campbellford civic officials, who interviewed the Minister at his office this morning.

The question which the delegation submitted to the Minister was in the form of a request that the Department of Railways and Canals should transfer an order for power to the Campbellford municipal power company, which now rests with the Hydro Commission.

At present the arrangement is that the Government must supply certain industries at Campbellford with power, who were deprived of it through the building of the Trent Canal at Campbellford. The delegation requested that the Department of Railways and Canals cancel this order, which calls for the supply of about 1,500 horse-power, and turn it over to the Campbellford plant.

The result, however, as stated, was that the Minister briefly but plainly informed the delegation that it was a question entirely for the delegation to arrange with the Ontario Government, and that their best plan would be to get into communication with the Government through the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario.

Hon. Mr. Reid stated that the Government would not place any obstacle in the way of the Campbellford officials, should they be able to come to an agreement with the Hydro Commission and the Ontario Goverpment. It was, to his way of thinking, a matter to be settled entirely between the municipality and the Commission or the Provincial Government.

The members of the delegation were introduced to the Hon. Mr. Reid by Mr. C. A. Munson, member for Northumberland, who in a few words, explained to the Minister the nature of the errand upon which the deputation was in Ottawa.

Ex-Mayor Armstrong, of Campbelford, was the principal spokesman for the delegation. Mayor A. J. Meyers and the town engineer also briefly informed the Minister of the situation at Campbellford regarding power, and what they were seeking.

Mr. H. I. Humphrey and Mr. Nelson Stone also spoke in support of the request, chiefly supplementing the remarks of the others

Mayor A. J. Meyers, ex-Mayor Armstrong, Reeve C. Davidson, B. A. MacLean, manager of the Utilities Commission, I. A. Humphries, solicitor were members of the deputation.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 14. — A meeting of the Lacrosse Club was held on Wednesday evening, with the following men present: Charles Nadoo, James Kerr, H. Townsend, R. Cole, James Blute, Wm. Sarginson, V. Tarrel, B. Abernethy, P. Sarginson, and A. Wood.

The obtaining and placing of the men was thorough discussed and a committee was appointed to take charge of this work.

Campbellford has excellent prospects of having a winning team.

Social and Personal.

Mr. W. J. Hall, Sepastopol Street, was in Peterobrough yesterday.

Miss Nellie Hoover, teller in the Standard Bank, leaves on Friday for two weks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Church, in Orillia.

Mr. Thomas MacMannus was a business vistor in Peterborough yesterday.

Mrs. Glenn Thompson held a progressive euchre party on Tuesday evening, at which she entertained five tables. Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Wigins won the prizes. After the euchre a very dainty lunch was served.

Rev. and Mrs. Hinton of Hastings were in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Coxwell and family are now living on Grand Road, in the house recently occupied by Mr. William Clark.

The Kimberley Cheese Factory, English Line, commenced operations to-day, and a good supply of milk was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Johnston left yesterday to spend some time visting their daughter, Mrs. Marvin McComb, Morganston.

Begg — Petherick.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnised yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the Seymour East parsonage, Rear Street, when Miss Jessie Pearl Petherick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Petherick, of Stanwood, became the bride of Mr. William Heard Begg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Begg, English Line. The hapy couple left, amid showers of good wishes and confetti, on the evening train for a short honeymoon in Peterborough, and upon their return will reside on the groom's farm, English Line. The bride and groom have a host of friends, who unite in wishing them a long and prosperous wedded life.

THIS IS A PHOTOGRAPH OF THE GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAM OF CAMPBELLFORD HIGH SCHOOL TAKEN BY THE BONNYCASTLE STUDIO, CAMPBELLFORD.

Peterborough will recall the visit of the Campbellford team to Peterborough this winter, when the visitors whitewashed the local aggregation by a score of 9-0. That is a sample of what they did all over the district. They lost only one game during the season. They played one game against the ladies' team of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Belleville, and returned to Campbellford with the big end of a 8-1 score. The next game was played in Belleville, where the Campbellford girls were defeated by one goal. The team then went to Trenton and defeated the Trenton High School team by a score of 4-1. The last game was played in Peterborough. Soft weather prevented the Campbellford girls from winning any more games, and they laid away their sticks for the season.

Lloyd George Opens Way to the Renewal of Strike Parleys

ASKS LABOR LEADERS THEIR GROUNDS FOR REFUSING OFFERS AND NEW CONFERENCE CALLED.

MEETING TO-NIGHT

LONDON, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Lloyd George has provided the leaders of the Triple Alliance with another opening for the renewal of negotiations in the miners' strike and the general strike of the railway men and transport workers in support of it, by asking for the grounds of their refusal of the government's offer.

A conference of all labour elements has been called for Thursday night in a final effort to effect peace in the coal strike. The conference will be attended by executives of the Labor party, Trade Union Congress and leaders of the Triple Alliance.

EMULATING FAMOUS BOSTON TEA PARTY

HATFIELD, April 14.—Declaring that in so doing they are emulating the spirit of the Boston Tea Party, more than one hundred citizens of this town, in a special town meeting last night, passed a resolution pledging themselves to ignore the State Daylight Savings Law.

This is the fourth town in the Connecticut Valley officially to take such action.

SEEK SONS OF NEGRO SLAYER

NATION-WIDE SEARCH INSTITUTED FOR TWO SONS OF J. S. WILLIAMS, CONVICTED RECENTLY.

BOTH ARE INDICTED

MONTICELLO, Ga., April 14. — A nation wide search was instituted here to-day for Roland Marvin and Leroy Williams, sons of John S. Williams, proprietor of the Jasper County "death farm," following their indictment by the Jasper county grand jury in conection with the wholesale slayig of negroes on and near their father's plantation.

Governor Drosey will be asked to offer a reward for their arrest, Solicitor General Doyle Campbell announced to-day.

The three have been missing since the arrest of their father. They did not attend Wiliams trial at Cobington last week where he was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

A total of 12 indictments were returned by the Grand Jury late yesterday afternoon. Williams and Manning, the negro "boss," whose confession resulted in the former's conviction, were jointly indicted for the death of eight negroes.

Roland Williams was indicted for the death of a negro known as "Black Strap" in the fall of 1920.

Joint indictments were returned against Marvin and Leroy Williams, charging them with the murder of a negro named "Iron Jaw," in the summer of 1920. Marvin Williams was indicted for the murder of John Singleton in April, 1918. This brings the total number of murders on and near Williams' place revealed to date to thirteen.

The Grand Jury to-day started investigation into alleged murders by other individuals.

MAJOR LEAGUE SEASON OPENS

TWO SUPPOSEDLY CLEANSED MAJOR BALL LEAGUES BEGAN NEW SEASON YESTERDAY.

FRESH FROM CAMPS

NEW YORK, April 14. — Fresh from the spring training camps, the National and American Leagues opened yesterday. Only one game was postponed, that of Chicago and Detroit in the American League.

That the National League pennant race would resolve itself into a three-cornered fight between New York, Brooklyn and Pittsburg was the prediction of President John A. Heydler.

Each game was marked by auspicious opening ceremonies, particularly in Washington, where President Warren G. Harding pitched the first ball and General Pershing headed the procession to the grounds.

Following are the results of yesterday's battles:

American League.

St. Louis 4, Cleveland 2.
New York 11, Philadelphia 1.
Boston 6, Washington 3.

National League.

New York 10, Philadelphia 8.
Chicago 5, St. Louis 2.
Cincinnati 5, Pittsburg 3.
Brooklyn 5, Boston 4.

SAY STRIKERS NOW MUST VACATE COMPANY HOUSES

SYDNEY, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)—After being allowed to remain in possession all winter, the striking railroaders of the Dominion Steel Company have been ordered to vacate the company's houses within a few days. Unless they comply eviction proceedings will be instituted. Of the 130 switchmen who went out on strike November 23 last, about 30 occupy company houses, the remainder owning their own homes in Sydney.

SENT TO HOME, BOY ABSCONDER NOW SENTENCED

19-YEAR-OLD BANK CLERK, WHO STOLE $96,000 AND WAS ALLOWED TO GO, GIVEN ONE YEAR.

WAS A NOVEL CASE

CHICAGO, April 14.— Francis J. Carey, the 19-year-old bank cashier of Ottawa, Ill., whose theft of $96,000 last November was followed by criticism of Judge Landis when the latter permitted the youthful culprit to return home pending sentence, was senenced by Judge Landis to serve one year in the National Training School for Boys at Washington, D.C.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Landis made no comment on the case nor did he give Carey any advice as to future conduct. The boy accompanied by his mother, appeared unmoved, although Mrs. Carey seemed to be struggling to suppress her emotions.

Carey's case aroused considerable interest even before his appearance in court had led to the criticism of Judge Landiss procedure. He disappeared from the bank and officials of the institution at first believed he had been the victim of robbers. Securities amounting to $40,000 found in an alley in the rear of the bank building strengthened this theory and led to the belief that he had been imprisoned in the vault.

Baffled by a time lock, the bank officials had the doors burned open Carey was not found. The search finally led to a farm seven miles from Ottawa, where he was arrested. Carey made a full confession and restored $56,000 in money and securities which, with the $40,000 found in the alley, accounted for all missing funds.

The fact that the bank lost nothing was commented on by Judge Landis when he allowed Carey to go back to Ottawa while he was deciding what sentence to impose.

THE CITY MANAGER

Though the commission plan marked a revolutionary advance over the traditional mayor-and-council form of city government in the matter of popular control, experience with it in a large number of cities revealed important defects in its internal organization.

In the first place, it often happened that none of the five men elected to the commission was personally qualified to take active charge of, say, the department of public works or the department of finance. Popular elections proved to be the wrong way to select men for technical tasks; the electorate is interested first of all, and quite rightly, in representation—in voting for one of "our kind of people."

Some very excellent and truly representative commissioners fell down badly because they were misfits as executives.

To this extent, the plan tended to become unrepresentative and undemocratic. There was, for example, no commissionership in which a labor representative would be appropriate. And no high-grade business man could afford to interrupt his private career for a short term on a salary.

There was often, also, too much inclination on the part of individual commissioners to set the needs of their particular departments above those of the city as a whole and to form combinations for "log-rolling" purposes.

"Vote for what I want in my department and I let you have your way in your department," they said, and five-headed government was the result, each commissioner grabbing appropriations for his own department and nobody watching the tax rate.

Another important defect in the system lay in the lack of a single executive head. Five men, deriving their authority all from the same source, were on a par with each other. The commission as a whole might issue orders to its individual members, but who could compel willing, loyal obedience?

How, then, should the good in commission governments be conserved and these defects avoided?

The city-manager plan has proven the answer to this important question; otherwise this most hopeful movement toward democracy might have been discredited.

In the manager plan, commissioners (councilmen) are not elected with the idea that they will have to run a technical department. Their sole function is to represent, to be a jury, fair samples of the people, to know all about local public sentiments and to express it in the form of directions to a technical non-political administrative force at city hall.

Labor men are among the most successful of commissioners in the manager cities. And women are available for these posts.

Moreover, the demands upon a commissioner's time, when his duties are limited to weekly meetings, are lighter. The job of commissioner becomes something to which any citizen may aspire.

Thus the field of available material for these responsible offices is greatly widened. The choice need not and does not drfit toward professional politicians who find the salary attractive, since city-manager towns give only nominal compensation to their commissioners (councilmen).

A striking feature of the city-manager movement is the appearance as high-grade councilmen of men who never were willing to go into politics before.

Nor is there any temptation in the

RECIPROCITY RESURRECTED AND BEATEN

HON. W. S. FIELDING MOVES RATIFICATION OF MEASURE —DEFEATED BY 100 TO 79.

CLOSURE IS APPLIED

OTTAWA, April 14. — (Canadian Press). — Reciprocity came up for discussion in the House of Commons again for the first time since 1911 yesterday on motion of Hon. W. S. Fielding, that the Canadian Government approve and confirm the agreement still on the statute books of the United States.

Discussion to-day was not lengthy. The Liberal and Progressive forces were united in support of reciprocity. On division the amendment was defeated by 100 to 79, a Government majority of 21.

The closure was worked successfully last night. By adopting this Parliamentary device which was framed originally in the naval debate eight years ago, the Minister of Marine got his estimate of $8,330,000 for shipbuilding through the Committee of the Whole. Talk kept up right to 2 o'clock, the time at which the discussion stopped automatically under the rules of closure. A vote followed, in which the Government was sustained by 103 to 79.

Wm. Duff, who made a four-hour speech on the estimates, and was one of the main actors in the all-night session, closed the discussion, quitting at 2 o'clock. He protested against the closure. As it drew near 2 o'clock the House became noisy and Mr. Duff was interrupted frequently. The Chairman was obliged to call for order several times.

A BRIGHTON GIRL FOUND DEAD, SHOT BY AN ACCIDENT

EMPLOYEE OF BANK IS FOUND DEAD ON PREMISES.

BRIGHTON, Ont., April 14. — (Canadian Press.)—Miss Mae Morgan, an employee of the local branch of the Standard Bank, was found dead yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock on the premises of the bank, having met death from a revolver shot. No person witnessed the tragedy, but it is supposed that while Miss Morgan was handling the revolver it accidently discharged.

Burgomaster of Brussels and Pres. Wilson to Meet.

BRUSSELS April 14 (Associated Press).—"Mr. Former Managing Editor," it will be, when President Harding greets Burgomaster Adolphe Max of Brussels, who has been designated by the Council of Ministers to head the Belgian delegation to Washington to congratulate the President upon his election.

Burgomaster Max's courageous stand against the Germans in Brussels during the first months of the occupation is known the world over, for his long imprisonment was the subject of much comment; but what is less known is that, previous to being elected Burgomaster of Brussels, he was in charge of a newspaper as managing editor, and also honorary president of the Belgian Press Association. Le Soir, the paper which Burgomaster Max edited and directed during several years, now has the largest circulation of any newspaper in Belgium. Burgomaster Max speaks English fluently.

WEDDING BELLS

ALLEN--MOHER.

St. Joseph's church, Douro, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday, April 12th, when Mary Moher and Joseph Allen were united in the holy bonds o matfrimony.

The bride was charmingly attired in a navy blue suit with at to match and carried a ouquet of roses.

Florence Allen, sister of the groom, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a navy blue suit with hat to match. John oMher, brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

After the nuptial mass the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents where their many friends had assembled. The bride and groom received many beautiful presents showing the high esteem in which the young couple were held.

PROBABILITIES.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, APRIL 14TH, 1921.

THE ONE ISSUE.

"Vote 'no' in the coming referendum and sign the Ontario temperance memorial for Government control." So concludes an advertisement of the Liberty League, and the citizens who think will smile at the absurdity of the advice. In the name of common sense why should any man who really believes in Government control vote for something that would definitely kill all chance of the introduction of the system he advocates? Does any sane man or woman believe that so long as the importation of liquor is permitted that Government control could be obtained, or, if obtained, could be carried out successfully? The first logical step towards Government control would be to cut off importation by the individual; until that is done it is folly to talk about such a system. The electors must keep their eyes on the real issue—the only issue—that is before them next Monday, and that is, are you in favour of prohibiting the importation of liquor for beverage purposes. That is the question to be decided; arguments about the relative merits of Government control and total prohibition are a sheer waste of time when they are not a smoke screen to try to becloud the real issue.

IMPORTED ORATORS.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham in a letter to The Examiner complains that in our references to the importation of campaign speakers from the United States we "perhaps inadvertently" placed "Pussyfoot" Johnson and Mr. Windle in the same class as "undesirable foreign agitators." The Examiner sees no reason to change its opinion as to the lack of judgment shown in bringing either of these orators into the fight in Ontario. They were not needed; they had nothing new to offer us, and, from all appearances, they could find plenty of opportunity to be of service in their own home cities. But, so far as the personality of the two men is concerned, it must be admitted in fairness to Mr. Johnson that his attitude towards the British Empire has been as commendable as that of his opponent has been deplorable. Various branches of the Citizens' Liberty League who introduced Mr. Windle to Ontario have felt compelled to apologize for doing so when they learned something about the career of their spell-binder. There is no need on that ground for apologizing for the appearance of "Pussyfoot" Johnson; he has been a friend of the British Empire and he offers on that score no opportunity for attack. The wisdom of his introduction into the campaign is another matter. While other "dry" speakers throughout the Province are being given an attentive hearing Mr. Johnson in the short time he was in Ontario was the centre of stormy scenes in Kingston, Toronto and Windsor, which indicates a special resentment on the part of many people to his part in the fight.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

The Examiner has received from the Ontario Fire Prevention League one of the "Home Inspection" blanks, of which the League is sending 250,000 copies to the Principals of the various schools throughout Ontario for distribution among their pupils. This is a Province-wide campaign for the purpose of conserving the homes of Ontario, as well as the lives of the people. The primary object, of course, is by means of these blanks to call the attention of householders to the necessity of cleaning up attics, cellars and back yards and of the removal of hazardous conditions. The League announces that inquisitiveness is not responsible for the inspection that is to be made, nor will the information obtained in this way be used for the purpose of putting householders to any unnecessary inconvenience, expense or trouble. The parents of Peterborough's school children are asked to do their part in the campaign by answering the questions on the blanks when they are brought home by the children.

The high cost of building material, the rapidly increasing population and the enormous annual destruction of dwelling houses—there were 5,644 fires in private houses in Ontario last year—have combined to make the housing problem one of most serious and acute proportions. Ontario is noted for its extravagance through unnecessary fire waste, which, through the careless habits and the indifference of our people, has become nothing short of an economic crime. Statistics show that practically two out of every three fires occur in the home of the Province and eight per cent. of them are preventable. It is in the realization of this state of affairs that the Fire Prevention League has adopted its home inspection plan, which is heartily commended to the people of Peterborough.

THE RURAL VOTE.

Residents of the rural sections of West Peterborough who do not happen to be on the voters' lists are in a more fortunate position than their city friends. The latter, if their names are not already listed, will be without a vote on Monday; not so with residents of the rural districts. The Dominion Elections Act provides that at a rural polling division a person whose name is not on the list but who is qualified to vote and who is vouched for by an elector whose name is on the list may after taking the proper oath, be allowed to vote. The applicant must swear to the following affidavit:

"(1) That he (or she) is a British subject, and not an Indian ordinarily resident on an Indian reservation.

"(2) That he is of the full age of 21 years.

"(3) That he ordinarily resided in Canada for at least 12 months and in the particular electoral district for at least two months immediately preceding the 1st of February, 1921.

"(4) That he is now resident in the particular polling division.

"(5) That he is not disqualified in respect of race by the laws of the Province from voting for a member of the Legislative Assembly, or that, although disqualified in respect of race, he is entitled to vote because he has served in the late war. (Such person must produce his discharge certificate.)"

The elector who vouches for the applicant must swear that:

"(1) He is a qualified elector for a member in the House of Commons for the particular electoral district.

"(2) He resides in the particular polling division.

"(3) He knows the applicant.

"(4) The applicant is a duly qualified elector within the meaning of the Dominion Elections Act."

Many people in the country districts who have changed their place of residence or who have come of age since the last lists were compiled, should bear this fact in mind on Monday and make sure that they are given the opportunity to exercise the franchise.

ONE MAN POWER.

The Province is undergoing a curious experience in government, and presents the spectacle of a Government in power without a majority, made up of two parties. The experience is one which so far at least cannot fairly be said to have been satisfactory to the Farmers, Labor, and the people of Ontario. The Cabinet consists mainly of men who have had no experience, and apparently very little training, in the difficult art of government, and one consequence is that matters which men who had had this experience and training could have dealt with, and formed definite policies upon, have been referred to commissions. We believe we are correct in saying that up to the present time there have been no less than fourteen such commissions. What the cost of them will amount to we cannot undertake to say, but that it will be very large can be safely predicted from the statement made, apparently on good authority, that what has been commonly called the timber probe has cost up to two or three weeks ago $68,000. The results of this so far would appear to be this cost, the stirring up of no end of bad feeling, lengthy debates of an angry description in the House, and, so far as can be judged, the right of certain people to demand the return of the money which they had paid the Government under a ruling which was based apparently on incomplete data. The whole matter has had even to be taken into the courts, and its end is a long way off.

Then there is the Hydro Commission over which the amount of money spent must be very large and nothing yet has come of it. The same thing applies to the Universities' Commission, though a definite discussion may be expected on this during the present week. We need only refer to one other commission, as it leads directly up to the point we specially wish to draw attention to. The question of the outside Civil Service has been dealt with and a recommendation has been made which is objected to on the ground that it places too much power in one man's hands, that is in the hands of the Attorney-General. It does not follow that he is either seeking or wanting this. The same tendency is observable in other matters, and it is as well that attention should be drawn to it before it is allowed to grow.

The people of the Province should, therefore, carefully study their present Government; how in the first place it rose from the group system leading to a Cabinet with no decided policies, and with no majority in the House; then to costly, ineffective Commissions, and lastly to the fear of one man power. On thinking this over, the people may come to the conclusion that the old British two-party system is the best after all.—Kingston Standard.

The first night that he called on the young lady the young man was anxious to make a good impression on the family. The introductions performed, he inquired of her mother:

"Your face is familiar. I believe I have seen you somewhere before."

"You have," replied the mother. "I stood up in front of you on a street car this afternoon for two miles."

"Whiskey improves with age. Don't you think so?"

"I do. As each year passes I like it the more."

PLEBISCITE ON LIQUOR, ALBERTA

Expected to be Taken in September.

SASKATOON, Sask., April 13. — (Canadian Press.) — That a pelbiscite on the liquor question will be held in Alberta, probably in the month of September, is the information received here by Lionel Moore, the organizer for the Moderation League in Saskatchewan, from the Secretary of the Alberta Moderation League. It is stated that a promise has been obtained from the Alberta government to take a plebiscite on the two questions of government control or bone dry laws.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

THE DENOUEMENT.

Chapter 27

As Thierry told me of this wild experience he had had with Mrs. Gregg, his father's client, he seemed years older. I could hardly believe he was the boy of 19, winsome and loving. If only he had a mother. Yet I marveled at the dexterity he had displayed in handling this trying situation.

"I have often wondered," Thierry went on, "why she bothered with me at all. Sometimes I've thought perhaps she expected to get more money out of Dad in that way. Then, of course, I flattered her vanity—I saw to that all right, and I spent money on her—think. Some women would vamp a clothing store dummy if he had cash in his jeans, you know."

I laughed outright. This wise youth had not lived his 19 years for nothing.

"I wasn't flattered by her, don't get that thought," he said a trifle hotly. "Some nights after I had been with her I would come home and smoke two boxes of cigarettes and place the floor of my room for hours before I could get quited down. If I hadn't hated her so I'm afraid she might have been more than a task for me."

Just the hint of a wanton sneer touched his sensitive young mouth.

"After I had played my cards for about a couple of months I planned the grand climax," he went on. "The governor was going out of town for over Saturday and Sunday and it didn't take much coaxing to get Mrs. Gregg to spend that time with me. Dad was to leave on the 10 o'clock train Friday night and I planned to have her arrive about 10.30. That was just one side of the plan," he said smilingly. "At about 6 o'clock I wrote a telegram and then sent for Simpson, the chauffeur. I knew that Dad was in his den just beyond the library and I wanted him to hear what I was going to say."

Thierry's breath came quickly and he leaned forward—

"I handed Simpson the telegram and told him to go out and at once with it, and not to let my fatyer know that I had sent him. Then I hurried upstairs. Father must have done just what I wanted him to do. He must have demanded the telegram from Simpson. It was to Mrs. Gregg. In it I told her that I had been unable to get to the 'phone, but that everything was all right and not to be later than 11 o'clock as Dad left at 10. During dinner I sure was in a state of the jumps, and from then until 10 o'clock was worse than the actual row. Fact was, I enjoyed that part of it immensely," Thie said with satisfaction.

"At 9.45 Dad left for his train and I was almost fearful he was not going to block me. I hated to see the whole blamed thing fizzled. But I was not disappointed."

Thie smiled at the memory of it.

"Mrs. Gregg arrived at 11 o'clock sharp and I guess the governor was hanging around the corner, for he only gave her time to take off her wraps when I heard his key in the door. Oh yes, you bet I was listening for it!" he laughed. "She was standing in the library with her two arms on my shoulders when Dad walked in on us. I know how he must have felt, poor old Dad. But I shan't forget the expression on Mrs. Gregg's face as she heard his step and turned to face him."

Long Distance Service Is Now Classified

THE Classifications on long distance telephone calls in effect from midnight, April 20th, are of interest to all users of that service.

Station-to-Station Service

Station-to-Station service should be used when you are willing to talk to ANYONE at a distant telephone — that is, when you do not need to get a particular person on the line.

Person-to-Person Service

When you make a call specifying that conversation is desired with a particular person at a given number, Person-to-Person service is used.

As this service requires greater operating labor and circuit time than a Station-to-Station call, the rate is about 25% greater.

Appointment and Messenger Service

Appointment calls and Messenger calls are special kinds of person-to-person calls.

An APPOINTMENT CALL rate, which is about 50 per cent higher than the station-to-station rate, is quoted for service when an appointment is made by the calling party to talk at a particular time.

When a person who does not have a telephone is called over long distance and a messenger must be sent to summon the party to the telephone, the MESSENGER CALL rate, which is about 50 per cent higher than the station-to-station rate, is charged, and to this is added the necessary messenger charges.

The Report Charge

When you place a call for a particular person or persons and for any reason they cannot be reached the same day at the address given, or will not talk, or if you make a call and you are not ready to talk when the other person is ready within an hour, a REPORT CHARGE is made. The report charge is about one-fourth the station-to-station rate. It is intended to cover part of our expense of handling the uncompleted call.

Special Evening and Night Rates

The EVENING rate, between 8.30 p.m. and 12 midnight, on station-to-station calls, is about one-half the day rate. The NIGHT rate, between midnight and 4.30 a.m., is about one-fourth the day station-to-station rate.

However, no evening or night rates are quoted on station-to-station calls where the day rate is less than 25 cents. On such short-haul calls the day rate applies. For longer distances special evening and night rates are quoted.

Because it is difficult to reach particular persons at night, when many are away from their homes and places of business, there are no special evening or night rates quoted for person-to-person calls. They apply only on station-to-station calls.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

FORMER PRINTER AND FAMILY IN A LONELY BERTH.

Husband Keeps Vigil in Lighthouse on British Columbia Coast—Happy, He Says, With Wife and Kiddies.

From foreman printer on a big daily newspaper in London, Eng., and later in Victoria, B.C., to lighthouse keeper on Green Island, off the far North Pacific coast of British Columbia, is some transition, and not to be welcomed by many comfort-seekers, but one man with his family did seek the change and are out-Robinsoning the Swiss Family Robinson on that bleak and lonely island. John Moran, his wife and two children, are living happily without the distractions of the H.C. of L. and election campaigns. The story of how they have solved the living problem up there since their arrival in 1916 is told by Francis Dickie in the New York World:

Above the high tide mark on the rock is not more than an acre of irregular plateau. Here, through the ages of time since first a vast upheaval sent the rock upward jutting, a little earth had formed—ground rock, rotted wood by the winter's storms, the droppings of millions on millions of gulls, richest of all formations, and the decayed stalks of grass and weeds, the seeds of these wonderfully wind blown to this lonely spot. So these modern adventurers made a garden and successfully grew potatoes, and the usual line of produce common to northern regions.

Import Belgian Hares.

Soon after their landing they had sent for some Belgian hares. Starting with two pairs of these, and importing occasionally new bucks, they had in two years' time so many rabbits that the pens they had built would not hold them; so they turned the most of them loose on the island. Despite the great toll the wet and frost of winter take, the island today is still overrun with the animals.

To protect their garden the settlers had to build a fence and run wire several feet into the ground. But building a fence is no difficult job on Green Island. Every tide brings in countless cords of wood to choose from. On a rocky ledge on the north side of the island the wood lodges, so they have firewood more than they can use. And, to show how kind nature sometimes can be, a great deal of this is small stuff, bark of fir, wondrous thick, broken branches and other wood just stove and furnace length, so the islanders are not even put to the trouble of cutting their supply.

As addition to the natural verdure, the Morans planted oats and timothy, and now a little herd of half-a-dozen goats find pasture. For the hens it is necessary to import some food. But here again nature has been kind; one end of the island is a shell beeach of finely ground clam shells, the same material that sells for 50 cents a bag in the city, and most necessary to hens.

Today from far along the Alaska coast to the great Canadian fishing town of Prince Rupert, the halibut and salmon fishermen know "Ma" Moran. Stout and cheery is "Ma." The huge range in her kitchen shines with a brightness and glory of the rising sun. Her kitchen is one of those perfect places of hominess and cleanly order to which many a fisherman, wet, chilled, out of food, out of luck, has come to get one of those meals that put life and hope and confidence in even the weariest one.

Through keeping hens the islanders have availed themselves of a novel egg supply. The island is the nesting place of hundreds of sea-gulls. Now, the sea-gull is a peculiar bird. It lays three eggs before it begins its setting, and unless it has three eggs in the nest it will not set. Of course, it was but natural that human ingenuity should take advantage of this bird's habit. The Morans mark a certain number of nests. Watching these carefully, the day the third egg is laid, it is removed. The gull, coming back, gazes asronished at the nest. In imagination one can hear the bird saying to itself: "Now, I was sure I had three eggs laid!" But the gull goes ahead and lays another egg. This the people remove on the following day. When you have several hundred gulls laying eggs for you, it does not take many days to put in a winter's supply. And the Morans are sensible, kindly people; they do not abuse the gulls' good nature. After they have taken two or three eggs from one bird they cease, and the bird proceeds with its setting. The eggs are about the size of a turkey's and taste like a duck's. They are a little strong for consumption in direct manner, such as fried or boiled, but are useful for cooking. Put up in "water-glass" preserver, they prove a valuable addition to the larder.

Deer Flee There.

What with their goats, their rabbits, their hens and their gulls' eggs, the islanders would be already fairly well provided with food. But, in addition, hundreds of wild ducks can be shot nearby, and deer run on the adjacent islands in winter. Here again an interesting phase of nature is displayed.

Upon the British Columbia mainland thousands of deer abound. When the winter comes, the wolves harry them sorely. The deer's only salvation lies in taking to the open water. Here the savage timber wolves are not brave enough to follow. Now, along the British Columbia northern coast thousands of islands, varying from a mere ledge, such as Green Island, to tracts half a dozen miles long, stretch in a continuous line forming a barrier to the open sea, creating the inland passage some seven hundred miles long, one of the finest ocean highways in the world. To some of these islands the deer swim from the mainland when the wolves are numerous.

A pneumatic tube which is of a greater cross-sectional diameter than that of its casing is a recent invention. The tube is moulded so that its sides collapse inward in four places over its diameter when deflated, thus allowing of its installation in the casing. The collapsed portions on each side of the tread which are identical with small depressions expand upon inflation, causing a thickening and pressure on the tube walls. Nails, glass, tacks, etc., are simply extracted, as it is claimed that the tube walls will instantly compress and close the hole so tightly that leakage is impossible.

CELEBRATE DEATH OF NAPOLEON.

Marshal Foch Will Preside at Function.

PARIS, April 13. — (Associated Press.)—Marshal Foch will preside at the ceremony which will take place at the Arc de Triomphe on May 5 to celebratee the 100th anniversary of the death of Napoleon Bonaparte. Standing by the arch graven with the names of Napoleon's victories, the man whom many have come to consider as one of the greatest soldiers of all times, will make a fitting speech to honor a dead comrades.

It is emphasized that the centenary celebration is in no way political in chaarcter but is merely a tribute to one of the greatest of French generals.

President Millerand, and the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber, Bourgeois and Peret, are giving their support to the celebrations, which will include commemorative visits to Corsica, Elba, and to several battlefields where Napoleon gained his most famous victories.

MOVING WALK IN PARIS CITY.

PARIS, April 13 (Associated Press).—A moving sidewalk to relieve congestion is being considered by the city of Paris. The chances for adoption may not be great, but the idea is being seriously discussed, for Parisians have pleasant memories of the aerial sidewalk that was a feature of the 1900 World's Exposition here.

The proposal is to build such a rolling sidewalk under the principal boulevards, from the Madeleine to the Place de la Republique. A pedestrian not only would avoid dangerous, delaying crossings, and not be impeded by cross and counter currents of traffic.

Waist-high line of 3 feet 6 inches from the ground is the maximum height for automobile headlight rays in England.

The Peterboro Motor Show and Peterboro Health Association

The Motor Show, with an optimistic outlook for fine weather, with all sorts of arrangements completed for sober and frivolous enjoyment, and with every available foot of space taken, promises to be a huge success.

A glance at the history of the Peterborough Health Association, which benefits most directly from the Show, is sufficient to indicate what cause one is furthering by attendance at it. Their motto might be summed up as giving help where most needed. Attendance and medicine for the sick, comforts for those afflicted with lingering disease, food and reconstructed modes of living for the undernourished and the neglected, supervised play and nourishment for half a hundred children during two months of hot weather in the summer camp. Here youngsters from the ages of five to eleven, whose mothers in many cases are working and who would otherwise be running wild on city streets, are brought, given a wholesome breakfast, and turned loose for the day in one of the prettiest places in pretty Peterborough, Jackson Park. They have a nurse to watch over them, they can play games and paddle in the creek to their hearts' content, they have a good mid-day meal with all sorts of nutritious things like stews and rice puddings, and a four o'clock lunch which always includes a johnnycake or a variety with lots of raisins and currants in it. Their own special cook is assisted daily in peeling potatoes, etc., by one of the ladies belonging to the Health Association, who take turns in helping to prepare the mid-day meal. It is not strange, after two months of this pleasant life, that children coming in "skin and bones" should improve immensely in appearance before the time is over.

If you come to the Motor Show, you will see all the latest makes of cars in the most immaculate and glistening condition, you can get an idea of the newest inventions in the motor car kingdom and in all sorts of electrical specialties, you will see many other interesting exhibits, and you may enjoy yourself in divers ways. There will be pies and cakes, home-made preserves and relishes by guaranteed cooks, hot coffee and doughnuts, candies galore, ice cream in cones or on a dignified plate, afternoon tea for the weary and supper for the hungry, flowers (fresh and fragrant), a dance hall for merry trippers with light refreshments on the side, fancy work for the hope chest and a fish pond for the kiddies, a fashion show where the very latest styles parade up and down, and a minstrel outfit with the very funniest of harmony quartettes, one member of which possesses a cold "worth a mint of money" which he will tell you all about.

Kindness and the City

He played the friend one happy morning when
A stranger chanced to pass along his way.
The mood was on him to be kind that day,
And what he did seemed, oh, so trifling then;
A cheerful word—the easiest gift of men—
A helping hand for which there is no pay,
But all it means no words can ever say.

Both these he gave and went his way again.
Then he forgot the stranger and his sneed
Nor knew that he had helped his city's fame:
He could not guess that thousands share his deed.
Yet at the mention of his city's name,
One man there is who rises to declare,
"The finest man I've ever met lives there."

Growing Plants

An expert says that growing plants in a house are a pretty fair index of its air, light and moisture conditions, and may be regarded as a sort of meter for them. They will not grow and bloom without these three things, and a house in which plants will not thrive is probably a house where neither grown-ups nor children will thrive.

The future of greenhouse plants, usually in good condition on arrival, depends on our care of them. They should be placed in a sunny window, although ferns and begonias will do fairly well without much sunlight. They must not be allowed to freeze, and should have plenty of air. They must be watered regularly every day, but should not be allowed to stand in water, however. A little soapy, greasy dish-water is very good for them.

Cut off the dead leaves and flowers from time to time and turn the pot to insure even growth. Insects or disease growths should be promptly checked. Some antiseptic spray is necessary with many plants; diluted tobacco juice is very good for most of these troubles, and soapy water may be used to wipe off the under side of the leaves.

In London, there are motor ambulances equipped with X-ray outfits which can be carried to patients too ill to be moved from their homes.

Ladies Auxiliary Held a Meeting

A meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Great War Veterans' Association was held on Monday evening last with a good attendance. This society is composed of a number of energetic ladies, and a consideration of the report read by Mrs. Bugg reveals a great deal of real charitable work done by the organization in Peterborough. The ladies will take part with the men of the G.W.V.A. in the memorial services to be held in the Salvation Army Temple on April 24, and arrangements were made at this meeting for the Tag Day in aid of the G.W.V.A., to be held on St. Julien's Day, April 23. The President, Mrs. E. V. Frederick, was in the chair.

Quilt For The Caledonian Club

The Ladies' Caledonian Club, which has for its aim and object the furthering of friendly relations between all newcomers to the city who are of Scotch birth or blood, has recently completed a patchwork quilt, which is made in the Scotch style, and in which all the ladies of the committee had a hand in the fashioning. A drawing for this pleasant and comfortable accessory to any household will be held on April 20th, on the occasion of a whist drive in the Caledonian Club rooms on George street. The funds obtained will be used for the Pipe Band, and so this Scotch comforter, made by Scotch fingers of members of a Scotch society for the furtherance of Scottish interests, will be instrumental in the future production of Scotch music. It is to be hoped that the lucky number will be held by one possessing at least a few drops of Scotch blood.

Mission Fund For Labrador

The ladies in charge of the local branch of the Dr. Grenfell Mission Fund are busily engaged just now in collecting and making articles for the bale of goods shipped annually from Peterborough. This bale has a valuation of about $300, and contains all sorts of underwear and outer clothing for the wear of men, women and children on the icy coasts of Labrador and Newfoundland. Shoes, stockings, caps, mittens, vests, scarfs—everything necessary to make life more comfortable for these dwellers in the bleak northern lands. The ladies are considering giving an exhibit of the goods before sending away, which would be very interesting to many who were unaware of this good work.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

Ready-to-Wear

The attitude of the buying public towards an appeal based on quality as distinguished from the appeal based on price is a matter of speculation amongst representatives of the ready-to-wear trade just now. The sales which have had such a steady run since last autumn were mainly based on the comparative lowness of their prices to former conditions, but now another group feels that the time has come to subordinate price to quality. In some well-advertised lines quality with price is the point emphasized, which it would seem is the most popular method of procedure. If a woman can obtain a certain desired quality at a reasonable price, what more does she want? In older days, when a lady purchased one good dress annually, which was saved up for festive occasions, and only donned on Sundays and such-like momentous days, a dress that was bought with an eye to many future turnings and re-fashionings, quality was the thing most desired. Those were the times when silk that could stand alone and laces guaranteed to last for many years were purchased, in direct contract to the confections of to-day, which would receive a severe setback if advertised to last for any length of time. The frailer the better is the modern idea, so that a change will be forthcoming in the shortest possible space of time, and the twentieth century mode of feminine apparel is just as intangible when compared to the dress of long ago as the twentieth century damsel on the magazine cover is to the forgotten dame with her yards and yards of stiff material, her covered-up neck and her primly, lace-mitted folded hands.

"Dull Friday

"Dull Friday" used to be the bad day for business in the retail dry goods stores, and a concerted effort was made by the big city stores to banish this bad day by putting on special sales. In doing this, however, they have only injected the dullness into Thursday, which is now regarded as the "bad" day of the week, and store executives are wrestling with the problem of stimulating buying on that day without taking the snap from Friday again. The obvious solution of the problem—more sales—is not desirable, as "too many sales spoil the store."

System of Fines

The ancient Anglo-Saxons had a peculiar way of reckoning punishment for bodily injuries done by one man to another. A monetary value was the basis for their system of fines. "Every man," says Sharon Turner in his "History of the Anglo-Saxons," "was valued at a fixed sum, called his were and whosoever took his life was punished by having to pay this. In addition, there was a fine imposed, called the wite, and a person thus paying the forfeiture of all his worldly goods presents us with the original idea of a "felon"—one who was feolun or destitute of all property.

"Besides the were and the wite there was also a fine imposed for the infliction of any bodily injury whatsoever, based primarily upon the worthship. An eye or leg was valued at 50 shillings, a jaw at 12 shillings, the little finger at 11 shillings, the nose at 9 shillings, the thumb, the front teeth and the ribs at 3 shillings each and any other tooth or finger at one shilling each."

Coloured Cushions

Bright coloured cushions have a wonderful effect on a sombre room. It is surprising how a note of orange or old rose or blazing yellow will light up a dark corner. One of old rose poplin, denim or silk is particularly good in a dark room, provided it harmonizes with its surroundings. A stripe of white with old rose flowers printed on it sewed through the centre and a border of silk fringe make a finishing touch, and the popular style of round or oblong shape with a huge button in the middle may be fashioned from almost anything that one wishes. These cushions, while not at all comfortable and certainly not the style of pillow one would care to lay an aching head upon, are most ornamental, and it is very seldom in this world that one is able to combine comfort with ornament, anyway.

If you happen to be the possessor of rich old walnut furniture which has a gloomy appearance, do not discard the furniture. Tone up the rooms with gay hangings and curtains. In the living-room, buff paper, with copper-colour curtains and an Oriental rug with a medley of copper and blue tones is recommended. In the dining-room, with Jacobean oak, have delft blue walls, with subdued red and blue shades in your floor-covering. Pale mauve is supposed to be the thing for a bed-room, with curtains and valances of a mauve and white chintz with a good deal of deep pink. The writer who speaks of pale mauve must have forgotten a rule which says bed-room colourings should harmonize with one's complexion, or, perhaps, a pale mauve tint in skins is the very latest thing?

Boston fashions have decreed that pedigreed pups in that city shall wear goggles when they motor. These impart a very scholarly look to the canine faces.

Common Mistakes

Three types of mistakes are the most common among employees of department stores, according to a recent careful investigation. The most frequent is that of entering the amount of sale in the wrong column of the tally card, the next consists in forgetfulness of the sales number on the sales check and the third is the failure to print on the sales check the initials of customers and the capital letters in their names, as is required in some stores.

MOTHER GIVES OF OWN BODY TO LET BABE WALK.

Splinters From Shin Bone Transferred to Little One's Legs.

NEWARK, N.J., April 14.—Splinters from the shin bone of a mother were transplanted to the legs of an infant born without the fibula in the lower legs by surgeons of the Newark Memorial Hospital. The operation, which was declared a probable success, was one of the most delicate in the series of clinics held in connection with the annual session of the State session of the College of Surgeons. It took two hours.

A generation ago, doctors who attended the clinic said, such an operation was unheard of and the child probably would have had to go through life without the use of its legs. The child operated on will most likely have the full use of its limbs, it was said.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Selling of the general list was promptly resumed at the active opening of to-day's Stock Market. Discouraging advices dealing with the British labor upheaval gave an impetus to a further decline. Rails and steels continued to feature the re-action. Equipments and Oils also easing. Northern Pacific, yesterday's weakest stock, opened with a sale of 10,000 shares at a loss of 3-8 to ½, and other Transcontinentals were similarly depressed. Crucible, Republic and Sloss Sheffield averaged one point losses, with Baldwin Locomotive, General Electric, Studebaker, Atlantic Gulf and General Asphalt. Royal Dutch was the only conspicuous exception to the lower tendency, gaining two points. The preliminary exchange rates on London were firm.

Rails and Industrials suffered further losses on enlarged offerings during the morning. Delaware and Hudson dropped 5½ points and Norfolk and Western 1 3-8, other transportations falling 1 to 1½. Crucible and Sloss Sheffield showed extreme declines of about 2 points, and such equipments as Baldwin, Pullman, General Electric and Pressed Steel Car forfeited 1 to 3½. Oils and Motors yielded 1 to 2½ points, and Sugars, Tobaccos, Leathers and Textiles trailed along at recessions of 1 to 2 points. Heaviness was shown by various miscellaneous issues, including Sears Roebuck and Famous Players. Call money was unchanged at 7 per cent.

Stocks rallied 1 to 3 points at midday under the lead of Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum and Delaware and Hudson. Several of the low-priced oils were comparatively strong. The rebound was coincident with reports that the latest developments in the British labour situation justified hopes of a compromise.

The lowest prices of the session were made in the last hour. Canadian Pacific showed a loss of 3 1-2 points, Union Pacific and U. S. Steel and Sugars were especially heavy. The closing was weak.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Fresh low record prices for the season were reached in the wheat market to-day. Bearish reports regarding industrial and financial conditions were current, and rallies, based on assertions that such factors had been more than discounted, were of only a temporary effect. Crop prospectes continued to be against the bulls. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½ lower, were followed by a material set-back all around and then by irregular upturns.

Corn was comparatively firm in the absence of any urgent pressure to sell. After opening 1-8 to ¼ lower, the market recovered to about yesterday's finish. Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting unchanged to 3-8 lower, and later hardening all around. Provisions were dull and easier in line with hogs.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts light; trade steady. Heavy beef steers, $9 to $10; butcher steers, choice, $8.50 to $9.50; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7; calves, $10 to $12.50; lambs, $12 to $14; hogs, selects, $13 to $13.25.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange firm; demand, 3.90¼. Canadian dollars, 11 1-16 per cent. discount.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—A full recovery of its recent loss and the establishment of a new high market for the present movement was made by Duluth Superior in this morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Opening at a slight gain over last night's closing quotation, this stock soon moved up to 22½, a gain of 2½ points. Activity and decline of Brazilian to 30, a loss of 5-8, was again attributed to London selling. Seven hundred shares changed hands, the price declining gradually. Spanish River Preferred moved up 3-4 to 82¼, while Toronto Railway was also stronger by a half.

FLOUR PRICES SLASHED.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 14. — (Canadian Press.)— For the first time in almost seven years flour sold under eight dollars a barrel at the mills here to-day. One large mill reduced its quotations for family patents from $8.20 to $7.90. Not since July 1914, local millers said, has flour been quoted under $8 a barrel.

MONTREAL, April 14.— (Canadian Press.)—The Stock Exchange was quiet this morning. Atlantic Sugar was dull all morning and closed at 29 3-4. Brompton weakened a half point and closed at 33, while Brazilian, after a little activity, closed at 30. National Breweries remained the same all morning. Riordon did likewise. Wayagamack remained unchanged.

AN ADDRESS ON THE REFERENDUM

REV. DR. SPEER IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Last night in St. James' Methodist church in this city, Rev. Dr. Speer of Westmoreland Methodist church, Toronto, delivered an address on the Referendum, worthy of the largest audinece that could be convened in the city of Peterboro or a Massey Hall convention.

The doctor proved himself a master of public utterance and a prince of logicians. His address was clear, eloquent, logical and full of energy held in perfect control.

After clearing the decks for action by telling his audience that he knew this city well, having been born within 15 miles of its borders, and having been a clerk on George street in his early days, the Doctor fired a "broadside," and when the smoke cleared away, the "Windel farce" had been blown to atoms.

Then the Doctor used his small guns on the Liberty league, and picked off their arguments in three minutes, showing that where there was law and order there could be no absolute personal liberty. Only on some lonely island, where no foot but his own had trod, can a man be free to do as he pleases.

During the war, said Mr. Speer, we had Dominion prohibition for 18 months and during these few months the common people of Canada saved millions of dollars, as is shown by the Savings Banks.

During the war the people of England formed "bread lines" and "sugar lines," when they would stand for hours waiting for two ounces of sugar and a little bread. While this state of affairs was in vogue, the liquor interests were destroying millions of tons of sugar and grains for the production of strong drink. What cared the brutal traffic for the suffering people.

When the United States contemplated prohibition the liquor interests became frantic. They decided to secure the best lawyer to advocate whiskey. They came to Mr. William Taft with a cheque for $25,000.00, asking him to champion their cause, but he refused. They came back with what is called a "blank draft," signed by leading bankers. They gave Mr. Taft the privilege of filling in the draft for any amount of money that he desired. Then the ex-President stood up with eyes flashing and cheeks aglow with wounded pride:

"Gentlemen," said he, "If you pile up all the gold that the surface of the United States could bear, William Taft would refuse it, and scorn to advocate the vile traffic."

The greatest minds in the world are against the cause of drink. The Liberty League is ashamed of Windle and all such pro-German ragtag. Anglican Bishops, Roman Catholic Bishops, ecclesiastical dignitaries of all denominations are lining up for prohibition. Vote "Yes." Mr. A. B. Cunningham ably filled the chair.

RUSH HEARING OF EVIDENCE BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON RE-ESTABLISHMENT WISHES TO REPORT IN MAY.

OTTAWA, April 14. —(Canadian Press.)— That an effort would be made to conclude the hearing of evidence by the special parliamentary committee on soldiers' civil re-establishment this week in order that the 1921 report might be placed before the House in May was stated by Chairman Cronyn this morning.

This statement was made during the discussion on the advisability of hearing eviednce on the practicability of establishing homes for soldiers in each province. Col. A. Thompson presented resolutions from the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada. Restrictions on Oriental immigration and immigration from Southern Europe were asked.

HARVESTER CUTS PRICES 10 P.C.

FOLLOWS ERCTION OF U.S. STEEL CORPORATION.

CHICAGO, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Basing its action upon the recent reduction in steel prices announced by the United Staes Steel Corporation, the International Harvester Company to-day announced a straight ten per cent. reduction effective next year on products in which steel is the principal raw material. The reduction applies chiefly to harvesting machines.

This Grill is made for Real Cooking

THE New Canadian Beauty Three-Heat Grill is perhaps more generally useful than any other electrical appliance.

With it you can boil, fry, broil, stew or toast—any two operations at the same time. For instance, while a steak is broiling to a delicious brown in the pans below the heat potatoes can be boiling above.

Note the economy. Two cooking operations at the cost in electric current of one.

This appliance has the distinctive finish that identifies all Canadian Beauty Appliances, rich and brilliant as silver in appearance.

It has a larger cooking surface than any other grill made, and has three heats—low, medium and high.

Sold by good dealers everywhere. Write us for attractive literature.

BIGGEST WATER POWER SCHEME EVER PLANNED.

Develop 4,000,000 H.P. By 1934 From Rivers in France.

PARIS, April 14. — (Associated Press).—Plans now in course of preparation by the French Government contemplate the development of a yearly average of 4,000,000 horsepower by 1934 through the utilization of the rivers of the country for the manufacture of electricity.

The creation of energy for the electrification of the railways and the big industries of France has received tremendous impetus since the armistice. Reports just completed show that within the last three years 450,000,000 francs have been invested in 49 power plants throughout France by French investors.

The recent visit of President Millerand to the valley of the Rhone revived interest in the famous Rhone water power project, plans for which have been completed, and now are before the Senate for ratification. The Chamber of Deputies approved the scheme in October, 1919.

Big Saving of Coal.

The Rhone project, as it is known in Europe, is one of the most comprehensive water - power developments ever conceived, and involves the expenditure of 3,000,000,000 francs. No fewer than 20 lesser projects have been launched in France, but the Rhone is further advanced than the others.

It has been estimated that the Rhone scheme, together with the other big projects, would effect an annual saving of 5,000,000 tons of coal, thus diverting this to other purposes and materially reducing the importation of coal by France.

The Rhone plan would make navigable between 400 and 500 kilometers of that river, would reclaim 650,000 acres of ground now useless, and probably place at the door of Paris electricity at a price within the reach of everyone.

The Government plans to make the Rhone, as well as all the other projects, a "creation of the people" through the issuance of six per cent. non-taxable bonds, the proceeds to be used in construction. The Finance Committee of the Senate now has the matter before it, but because of the financial depression and the already great burdens on the French treasury, the actual construction probably will not begin for several years.

The majority of the plants for hydro-electric development concern the rivers Rhone, Garonne, Rhine and Loire.

WHY CHILLY WEATHER BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says skin pores are closed and uric acid remains in blood.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed ,thus forcing the kidneys to double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twingeof rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning fo ra week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to noraml action ,thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rehumatism.

Commercial automobiles are displacing the oxcart and the collie in transportation of products in British Malaysia.

HAPPENINGS IN NORWOOD

ORANGEMEN HAVE PURCHASED A NEW HOME—SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

NORWOOD, April 14.—The Orangemen have purchased the old historic building on Peterborough street from J. L. Squire and Sons, which they have been using as a store house for several years.

Over thirty years ago, when the new Methodist church was built, the building, which had been the first Methodist church and Sunday school, was sold to the Salvation Army and moved from the church property, to its present site.

The late Mr. J. L. Squire purchased it when the Salvation Army decided to leave Norwood.

Pleasant memories are connected with this old building by many who worshipped in it in the long ago, and who were taught their first Sunday school lessons within its then sacred walls.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR PURCHASE VIAMEDE

POPULAR STONEY LAKE RESORT MAY CHANGE HANDS SHORTLY.

LAKEFIELD, April 14.—Negotiations are in progress for leasing Viamede to Mr. E. M. Ianson, of Whitby, the lease involving the option of purchasing a little later.

Mrs. Graham converted Viamede into a summer resort about 25 years ago. In September, 1908, the original plant was entirely destroyed by fire, and in February, 1909, the present building was begun on the site of the old place. So determinedly did the work progress that the new Viamede received its first guest on June 19th of that year, and still holds its record as a summer home for select patronage. Owing to the death of her husband, Mrs. Graham feels unable to resume the entire responsibility of so great an undertaking. She and her daughter will continue to assist in the management.

BRIDGENORTH MAN WAS HEAVY BUYER OF MUSKRAT CATCH

Between 8,000 and 10,000 muskrats were bought by Harry Jopling of Bridgenorth this year. Most of these came from the productive marshes of Rice Lake, but many from Chemong Lake and the Kawartha group. Adam Humphreys of Birdsall, according to Harry Jopling, had the biggest catch of any of the trappers. About 300 rats were secured by Humphreys. These rats were worth a little over $600. From the Curve Lake reserve Mr. Jopling said he got about 1,500 rats, paying from $1.85 to $200 each.

INFORMATION FOR TELEPHONE USERS IN THIS DISTRICT

INTERESTING DATA BY MR. G. O. CAMERON, LOCAL MANAGER FOR BELL TELEPHONE CO

Manager G. O. Cameron of the Bell Telephone Company gave The Examiner some interesting data this morning concerning the new classifications of long distance telephone service, which, according to the decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners, become effective April 21st.

It is evident that users of "long distance" would be well repaid in making careful study of their business as related to the new classifications. Obviously such study will make possible many economies under the new plan.

Said Mr. Cameron:

"The principal changes in long distance practice deal with what are called 'Station-to-Station' and 'Person-to-Person' calls. Hitherto, the calling party who was content to speak to anyone at the distant telephone, paid the same rate as the caller for whom a particular person had to be located and summoned to the telephone. Now, when you make a long distance call without specifying that conversation is desired with a particular person, and the connection is established and conversation held, you have made a 'Station-to-Station' call, and a lower rate will apply than when you ask to speak to a particular person. The word 'Station' means simply telephone instrument.

'When you place a call specifying that you want to talk to a particular person and connection is established and you have your talk, you have made a 'Person-to-Person' call. As the operating service performed and the circuit time used are greater than with the 'Station-to-Station' call, the rate is about one-fourth greater."

"You will observe," said Mr. Cameron, "that under this method the user who is content to use the type of long distance service requiring less operating labor and circuit time gets the benefit in the rate charged.

"Again, when a 'Person-to-Person' call is made and the person desired is not in or will not talk, or when an exact telephone address of the person wanted has not been given and he cannot be reached at a telephone within one hour, a 'Report Charge' applies. This charge is to make partial compensation for the operating work performed and the circuit time used, and is usually about one-fourth of the 'Station-to-Station' rate.

"There are also special rates for 'Apointment' and 'Messenger' calls, and for 'Evening and Night' service on the 'Station-to-Station' basis."

"There are other features of the new schedule," Mr. Cameron concluded, "that will repay study, but the above are the main points. We will be happy to give our patrons every assistance in adjusting this new plan to the special needs of their business. Careful study will mean economy in the use of 'Long Distance.'"

WILL BE NEAR EARTH IN JUNE

WINNECKE'S COMET IS SIGHTED BY YERKES OBSERVATORY, REPORT IS.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., April 13.—Winnecke's comet, the periodic comet which approaches earth at intervals of five years and eight months and will come "very near" to the earth in June, according to the prediction of Dr Crommelin, an English astronomer has been sighted by Prof. E. E. Barnard of the Yerkes Obsevatory, at Williams' Bay, Wis. Word to this effect was received to-day at the Harvard College Obeservatory.

Astronomers have been watching for Winnecke's comet for several weeks. It was originally discovered in 1858. It moves in an elliptic orbit around the sun, taking five years and eight months to complete the circuit. So far it has never come within several million miles of the earth on its periodic visits

How near it will approach this time, astronomers will probably soon be able to compute with accuracy. At preasent Winnecke's comet cannot be seen except through a large telescope.

Reid's comet, which was discovered at Cape Town, South Africa, on March 13, and is now steadily increasing in brightness, will make its nearest approach to the sun on May 1, according to word received at Harvard from Dr. Leuschner of the University of California. The orbit of Reid's comet has been computed says Dr. Leuschner in his message. On April 1 6't will be four and a quarter times brighter than when it On April 16 it will be four and a about seven and a half times brighter, according to a computation made elsewhere, its magnitude will be 6.1 on April 26.

If Reid's comet keeps on increasing in brightness at its present rate, the Harvard astronomers predict that it will be soon visible to the naked eye Hitherto it has been seen only through a telescope.

WOMEN IN PUBLIC LIFE ARE A GRAVE MENACE TO RACE.

Declares Mr. Noel Pemberton Billing, British M.P. —Women of the House Wanted to Save the World.

OTTAWA, April 14.—The entry of women into public life in England is a grave menace to the race, opines Mr Noel Pemberton Billing British member of Parliament, who arrived here after an extensive tour of the United States, Panama and Cuba. "It is the woman of the home" he declares, "who is going to save the world, and not the woman in politics. He considers that as voters, women have rendered valuable service, having served to break up the crooked political parties. To him the growing demoralization of homes caused by the incautious enthusiasm of women who were tasting political enthusiasm for the first time was deplorable.

As an Imperialist Mr. Billing sees great possibilities toward the securing of universal harmony in the complete collaboration of all countries. A yearly Imperial conference at which all countries in the British Empire were invited, is strongly urged by him. Mr Billing, in his views on the Irish question is an Empire one, and that it should be submitted for decision to all countries of the British Empire.

Less Legislation.

Mr Billing strongly suggester a "general tour" of British politicians throughout the Empire in order to associate themselves with the general conditions that prevail therein. In England few statesmen realized the vastness of the British domains abroad. Every statesman he declared could find time to travel for that purpose. 'We need more administration and less legislation at this time in order to bring the country around," said he.

CONVICTS RUN STILL IN STATE PRISON.

Steal Molasses from Kitchen and Turn Out Half a Gallon Daily.

IONIA, Mich., April 14. — The great, unquenchable thirst must be appeased, and it does not seem to matter much where the drought is, for it always seems to obtain easement.

To-day Major Marsh, in charge of Ionia State Prison, discovered a liquor still in full operation in one of the cell-blocks of the prison. There was every indication that the still had been functioning for some time, and the stuff that it manufactured carried "a kick in each heel."

It was found that the convicts had stolen molasses from the prison kitchen and were distilling it in the cell. The outfit was a most complete one, according to the jail officers, and could turn out half a gallon of a most vile concoction every day.

MR. HOWARD VEALS WRITES TO LEAGUE

REPRESENTS LINDSAY DISTRICT IN CHINESE MISSION FIELD.

OMEMEE, April 14.—The following is a letter from Mr. Howard Veals who is the representative in China from the Lindsay district leagues.

CHENGTU, Szechwan,

Dear People:—As it is now nearly two months since I arrived in Chengtu, I think it is time I kept my promise and wrote to the leaguers of the Lindsay district. You will probably be somewhat interested in our trip out here so I shall outline it briefly, as best I can.

We sailed from Vancouver on Sept. 23rd, thirty-one strong (21 adults and 10 children) including men and women for all branches of the work, pastoral, medical dental, nursing and educational. Ten of the 21 were new recruits, like myself, the other eleven were returning for second, third and fourth terms. As our steamer (The Empress of Russia) was carrying many other missionaries and a number of delegates to the Tokio convention, we certainly had a fine company aboard. Unfortunately for some of our party the Pacific was not always pacific. I managed to escape myself by a rather narrow margin. Nevertheless we had a good voyage and everyone was in good spirits when we arrived in Yokohoma (the seaport of Tokio), on the eleventh day out from Vancouver.

We had only eight hours to spend in Yokohama and Tokio and so did not see very much of Japan's metroplos but our Japan missionaries were on hand to show us what could be seen in such a limited space of time. We had a glimpse at the ill-fated Sunday School building, just a few hours before it was reduced to ashes and then after a little run around the city we had dinner with the Japan missionaries in the Central Tabernacle.

The next day we docked at the port of Kobe and were able to get a look at Kwansei Gakuin, our Christian University, with its 1600 students. The next day after that, we saw still another Japanese port, Nagasaki. That was our last glimpse of Japan, tht country which is just now an outcast among the nations. We left it with mixed feelings, having admired its beauty and the versatility of its people; but yet being quite aware of the thinness and superficiality of its civilization. The sad thing is that Japan has assimilated much of the worst in western civjlization without much of the best perhaps it would be more correct to say that they have taken over the body without the soul.

Two days from Nagasaki brought us to Shanghai where we bade farewell to the Empress of Russia and landed on Chinese soil. But Shanghai is not really China— rather it is one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world. Here are gathered people of every country, not mingled, but each in his own section and each living in his own particular way—coming together only for trade. According to the laws of this strange community each national section or concession is subject to its own laws except where certain municipal rights are deputed to are international council and an international court, appointed by the several communities—in the foreign concession of Shanghai the Chinese Government has no power. As might be expected, Shanghai is one of the greatest trading cities in the world—it is indeed a city of shops displaying goods from all parts of the globe. We tarried there almost a week purchasing necessary supplies before starting on our long journey inland. Two thousand miles is not a long journey in our land, but when taken (in all classes of boats and on foot or on the backs of men, it takes a considerable time.

From Shanghai to Luchow a distance of some 1800 miles we travelled by four different steam-boats each a little smaller than the one before. The first one carried us to Hankow the second on to Ichang the third one to Chungking while the fourth one carried us on to Luchow.

Of the first two stages there is little to relate, as they were taken on reasonably comfortable river steamers through quiet water. From Ichang to Chungking, however, the Yangtze becomes almost impassable, owing to rapids. Boats carrying specially constructed engines are needed on this route but our boat devloped engine trouble with the result that it was only with the greates difficulty that we got up some of the rapids at one time indeed we lost a whole day and broke three towing cables. It was while aboard this same boat that we were first introduced to Chinese civil warfare. The ancient fued between north and south has become intensified during the past few troublous years to such an extent that China is seldom free from civil strife in one part or another. The central government or so-called government at Peking has absolutely no power to stop this interprovincial warfare and so military adventures multiply freely, being a checkmated only by other military adventurers. Meanwhile the people suffer terribly both at the hands of the soldiers proper and also the hands of the disbanded soldiers whom usually become robbers—but to return to my story. We stopped one morning at the litte walled city of Kwei Fu (Kway fu), in order to take on some coal, but soon we found out that a battle was going on inside the city. We were safe enough as long as they remained inside, as only rifles were being used, but after a little, one side came tumbling out, making for the river. It was our move then as Chinese bullets have a habit of wandering where they should not. We moved on at once but not before our boat had been hit several times and one Chinese passenger had been slightly wounded. We saw more soldiers farther up and heard a little more firing but nothing happened.

Before arriving at Chungking we passed through Wanshien our proposed new station as well as Chung chow and Fuchaw where we are already carrying on work. We stopped over night at Wanshien but did not stop it either of the other stations where our people are at work. We were welcomed at Chungking by our workers there and during the week that we stayed were able to get some idea of the work that they were doing.

We travelled from Chungking to Luchow on a very small Chinese-owned steamer taking four days to make the distance of perhaps 200 miles not of course travelling by night on the uper Yangtze. At Luchow we met three more of our families staying with them a day and a night before moving on up a smaller river a tributary of the Yangtze. It was on this journey that we first made use of the small native manpulled boats, travelling about 20 miles a day. One afternoon while we were being pulled up a rapid another small boat, hving gotten out of control, crashed into the side of our boat. We were close up to share and there was some scurrying to get our boxes off the fast filling boat. We got everything off all right but not before several of the trunks and boxes were wet. We got another boat and proceded on our way, drying our wet goods as best we could.

We left the water at Fushieu and proceeded overland to Cheugtu. On the way we passed through three more of our stations, Tzeliutsing (Zi lugin), Junghsiend (Yon in Shau) and Jenshow (ren Show). We men walked most of the way, roughly about 175 miles, in 6 days. The women of the party rode in sedan chairs borne on the backs of Chinese coolies. The men had a chair or two amongst the bunch but used them very little. We arrived at Chengtu, feeling quite fit, but glad to be at the end of our journey after two and a half months of almost continuous travel.

I have told you nothing of conditions this time but shall at another time. I have not forgotten the warm welcome I received from the leagues last summer, and I know that you are still remembering me.

Wishing you every success I am, your representative,

HOWARD J. VEALS,

SLAVE TRADING STILL IN MOROCCO.

White People Sold in Recent Years.

MELILLA, Morocco, April 14. — (By Associated Press.)—Slavery and trading in slaves still flourishes in the unconquered districts of both the French and Spanish zones of Morocco. There have been stories that some of the slaves are white people but these reports are not borne out by inquiry.

Threats by the turbulent Moors of the Riff coast to sell into slavery a Spanish sailor boy, Francisco Sallud, unless his father with whom he had been wrecked and captured paid a ransom of 4,000 pesetas, led The Associated Press correspondent to make an inquiry into the question of the existence of enslaved white people in northern Africa.

The result of his inquiries shows that of recent years instances of white people being sold into slavery have been very rare, but there are slave markets for the sale and purchase of colored people in the districts to which French or Spanish rule have not reached.

The traffic varies according to the economic situation of the tribesmen who, when they are in funds, do not hesitate to give high prices for slaves to be used as servants. Slaves so purchased become personal property of the family into which they are bought and are disposed of by testament when the proprietor dies.

Formal Agreement.

However, it is customary for the purchaser to make a formal agreement before a competent legal authority to grant his slave his liberty on his master's death, when the heirs have to give up all claim and at the same time allow the liberated slave to live on and cultivate any portion of his dead master's land which may have been left to him as one of the family.

A slave owner may give his slave a wife from among his other slaves bought in the same way and the children of these marriages become slaves of the same owner unless he has signed the agreement already mentioned in connection with their parents.

The prices paid for slaves vary considerably. Generally the age is the chief consideration but, girl slaves, beauty calls for the highest prices. Seven hundred and fifty pesetas (about $100 at the present rate of exchange) is about the maximum figure ever paid—and this only in the case of a very young and handsome girl. Should the human merchandise have passed the age of 35 or 40, the price paid is round about 400 pesetas, never more.

Purchase Conditionally.

All purchases are made conditionally on the slaves proving satisfactory. A close examination is made of the slave's mouth to see whether he or she possesses a complete set of teeth. Proofs are required that the slave is neither weak-sighted nor deaf and dumb. While limbs are tested and muscles tried and every part of the body subjected to minute inspection in order to discover physical defects.

For women slaves three days' trial of their domestic aptitudes is demanded before the purchase is completed.

Such are the conditions of the slave trade in Morocco at the present day, and this is the fate from which Francisco Sallud escaped, probably by the payment of part of the ransom demanded, although exact information as to the transaction is unavailable.

Twelve cities have changed over from the commission plan to the manager plan, among them Wichita, and Colorado Springs. Many others are debating it, Des Moines itself, being one, and there are numerous towns which would have changed long ago if they could have gotten away from legal restrictions.

URGING RECOGNITION OF IRISH REPUBLIC

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Identical resolutions declaring that the Republic of Ireland "ought to be recognized by the Government of the United States of America" were introduced in both Houses of Congress, where they were numbered respectively as Senate and House of Congress, where they were numbered respectively as Senate and House joint resolution number 1. The Senate resolution was introduced by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, and the House resolution by Representative William J. Burke, Congressman-at-large from Pennsylvania.

"I'm So Tired"

THERE is such a thing as being temporarily tired as a result of hard work. This condition is relieved by a good night's rest.

But when you are continuously tired at slight exertion and feel the ordinary daily tasks too much for you, it is time to consider the condition of the nervous system.

You find yourself easily irritated and worried, you have not the energy and strength to carry out your usual daily program, you do not sleep well and get up tired in the mornings, you may have headaches, and you feel down-hearted and discouraged.

Your nerves are tired, weak and exhausted, and you need the assistance which is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Amy L. Metcalf, R. R. No. 3, Arthur, Ont., writes:—

"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with the most favorable results. One spring I was very weak and run-down, and did not sleep well. I was very nervous and would cry for any little thing. My heart was weak and my head ached almost constantly. The doctor's medicine did me no good, and finally I began to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After using six boxes of this medicine I felt fine. I have never used anything which has done me as much good as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have also found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills an excellent remedy.

("This is to certify that I know Miss Amy Metcalf, and believe her statement with regard to Dr. Chase's medicines to be truthful and correct."—A. R. Springer, Methodist Minister, Arthur, Ont.)

We Are the Sole Agents for This Celebrated Sanitary Coil-Spring Mattress for Peterborough and District.

During this month, "April," the Marshall Mattress Co. have decided to place their coil-springed ventilated mattresses on sale at very special prices, and these prices are the same all over the "Dominion" for this month only.

Therefore we urge upon you the necessity of making your purchase during April, and benefit by the great reductions. This drop in price is not permanent by any means; it is just as a stimulant for April business.

They are the last word in sleeping comfort, no other mattress can compare with it, in any way whatever. Note the special prices, then see the mattress itself on our Top Floor and be convinced of its superiority.

The Unique Feature of the 'Marshaldown'

The improvement that makes the "MARSHALDOWN" the best felt mattress made — that places it in a class by itself — that adds a long-needed want in mattress construction, is the utilization of a number of the same sensitive, highly-tempered springs as used in the Marshall Celebrated Ventilated Mattress. This row of springs is firmly embedded in the mass of felt along the edge, each is in its individual pocket and securely sewed in place. Then all edges containing a layer of felt are stitched, making a firm, strong roll edge all around.

The action of this row of springs keeps the whole mattress taut and working, as it does, in union with the roll edge feature prevents the mattress from sagging or spreading.

You may sit on the edge of the "MARSHALDOWN" all you want — it immediately assumes its original position as soon as the pressure is removed.

Date the "Gift of Sleep" from MARSHALL MONTH

"Bring us to our resting beds, weary and content, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep."
—Robert Louis Stevenson.

WHAT a blessing is the Marshall Mattress to those who cannot naturally sleep well, whose nights are restless until they are perfectly comfortable, till every nerve and muscle is relaxed, till a yielding support takes up every stress and strain, and the tired mind, relieved of bodily worries, drifts into the peace of dreamless oblivion. Sleep—the great restorer, deep, sound, revitalizing sleep! How it wipes away worry, rebuilds hope, rekindles energy and joy.

Marshall Mattress Prices are Reduced for April only

If you are a light sleeper, if you do not rest properly at night, if you toss and turn wakefully when all the house is still, you need the help and comfort of a Marshall Mattress. Don't think of a Marshall as a luxury. To you it is a necessity, for what pleasure is there in life by day if you cannot sleep at night?

Go to any of the leading furniture dealers this month and you'll find the cost of a Marshall Mattress is much less than you thought. Prices have been reduced for a great spring demonstration.

This is Marshall Month, and the first opportunity to buy the famous Marshall Mattress at reduced prices in the 20 years since they have been introduced. Every home will be a comfortable home when every bed has a Marshall Mattress.

Marshall Ventilated Mattress Co., Limited

Toronto - Ontario

Makers of the "Marshall Ventilated Mattress," the "Marshaldown" Mattress, the "Marshalfelt" Mattress, and Marshall "Shock-Absorbing" Cushions for Automobiles.

The Construction of the "Marshalfelt"

The "Marshalfelt" embodies the same unique features as our Marshaldown, being hand-built from soft white layer felt, constructed with spring edge, using the same sensitive highly-tempered spring as used in the Marshal Celebrated Ventilated Mattress. This row of springs is firmly embedded in the mass of felt along the edge. Each is in its individual pocket and securely sewn in place, then all edges containing a layer of felt are stitched, making a firm, strong roll edge all around.

The action of this row of springs keeps the whole mattress taut, and working as it does in union with the roll edge feature, prevents the mattress from sagging or spreading.

You may sit on the edge of the MARSHALFELT all you want — it immediately assumes its original position as soon as the pressure is removed.

GRANT A FURTHER INCREASE TO THE BELL TELEPHONE

ERROR IN COMPUTATION IN ORIGINAL JUDGMENT.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—A further increase of 2 per cent. on rates and charges for exchange service has been allowed the Bell Telephone Company by the Board of Railway Commissioners, in a supplementary judgment to that issued April 1. An error in computation for which Assistant Chief Commissioner J. McLean takes the responsibility and expresses regret, is the reason given for the increase from ten to twelve per cent.

Commissioner McLean states that by the orgiinal judgment it was found that there was a deficit in the necessary revenues of the Bell Telephone Company amounting to some $2,100,000. The sum of $1,150,000 would accrue to the company for increased long distance charges and service connection charges, leaving approximately one million to be obtained from exchange service charges. After the issuance of the original judgment, states Commissioner McLean, it was represented by the company that the necessary one million would not be produced by the ten per cent increase in exchange service charges.

The long distance increase allowed will go into effect on April 21 and the exchange rate increase on the same date or within two days afterwards.

WILLIAM SMITH IS MADE COUNCILLOR

MEMBER FOR SOUTH ONTARIO ELEVATED TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

OTTAWA, April 14.— (Canadian Press.)— William Smith, M.P. of South Ontario, veteran member of the Commons, has been elevated by the government to the rank of Privy Councillor. Hereafter he will be known as Hon. William Smith, although he is less formally and more affectionately addressed by his many friends in parliament and out of it. Hon. William Smith has been active in public life for forty years.

MADE A STIR IN THREE YEARS.

But Georgia Republic Has Ceased to Exist.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14— (Associated Press.)— The Georgian Republic, which ceased to exist as an independent, home-controlled government at the end of February, as a result of attacks directed from Moscow, made a considerable stir during the three years of its freedom.

Of all the states that have broken away from great Russia, such as Poland, Armenia and the Ukraine, none has won more real sympathy from visitors. In its capital of Tiflis, tidily nested in the Caucasian foothills, beside the little river Kura, there was always a hearty welcome to strangers. Like all the provincial capitals of old Russia, the life was delightfully democratic and free from the sober restraints of more highly oragnized and commercialized communities.

Tiflis had its opera, its music halls, its central club house, its picturesque drinkers, its old-fashioned national costumes and dancers, both men and women. It had its society of princes and princesses and counts and countesses, who lived in their town houses and extended hospitality almost to all comers, as in the south "before the war." Russians themselves, before and since the great war, loved to visit Georgia, because of its climate and its verdant richness. The Czar and hosts of Petrograd and Moscow nobles and wealthy people had their villas, their hunting lodges, and summer resort places scattered through Georgia.

One cause of the occupation of Georgia by the Bolsheviki was probably loot. This was the last portion of Russia which still retained some of old Russia's vast treasures of art, of paintings, of tapestries and rugs, of silver and gold ware, of arms inlaid with precious metals and jewels, of silver-ornamented harnesses, of diamonds and valuable oriental stones—the very name of which is hardly known in western countries.

A more general cause of the occupation by the Bolsheviki has been the systematic attempt of Moscow to reincorporate into Russia its old provinces.

During its three years of independence, Georgia had on paper 16 mobilizations of troops and 14 wars, all to protect frontiers. All of these newly-formed republics in Europe occupy some strategic transport position which their neghbors need.

ROCKCLIFFE AIRDROME OPENS IN TWO WEEKS.

OTTAWA, April 14. — Rockcliffe airdrome will be opened by April 25 by the Operations Branch of the Air Board. Four machines one Aro seaplane, two D. H.-4 land machines and one large H. L. flying boat will be ready for service by that date. A season of considerable civilian aerial activity is being looked forward to and the local station will be kept at a high state of efficiency. Survey and photography work of a general nature will be carried on. The personnel will consist of ten machines and airdrome workers under the command of Capt. H. Hammond, Operations Branch, Air Board.

KINGSMILL CALLS IT NOT SPORTING

Admiral Thinks Windle Should Have Been Given Chance to Reply.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Admiral Sir Charles Kingsmill, who is the President of the Ottawa branch of the Citizens' Liberty League and Honorary President of the Provincial Committee, upon being interviewed this evening with reference to the statement of Lieut.-Colonel Hendrie concerning C. A. Windle, which appeared in the Press to-day, said he was unaware of the nature of the political views of Mr. Windle, other than those mentioned by Mr. Windle himself in his Ottawa address on Sunday night.

The Admiral observed that it would have been more sportsmanlike if the prohibitionists had published their charges concerning Mr. Windle's alleged anti-British writings on Saturday last, the day before he spoke in Ottawa, instead of on Monday, the day after he had left, and thus denying him any opportunity of answering his accusers face to face.

ACCIDENTS

An automobile expert gives an idea of some of the contributory factors to the long list of constantly occurring motor accidents. The first is high speed, that modern mania which obsesses so many drivers, and which is responsible for so many delays in the way of tire troubles, and for the numerous notices in the daily papers like the following: "a party of young folks returning from some celebration and running at high speed, car overturned, skidded and crashed into telegraph pole—with perhaps three or four killed and remainder crippled for life." His idea of good driving with few accidents is that of the conservative man, who drives rapidly when the coast is clear, and carefully yet without timidity, when in heavy traffic or wet weather; in short, the men who are ready for an emergency and who know what to do if anything eunxpected happens. Women do not err so much in respect to high-speed mania, although once in a while, one observes a young girl flying around a corner at a breath-taking angle, and women are more likely to crumple jup and "go cold" in an emergency, than a man will.

The second point is inattention, a characteristic of the man who stops his car suddenly in traffic without warning, turns right or left without signalling, bumps into somebody's fender, runs over a child and doesn't even know it because he wasn't looking where he was going; or smashes into another's tail-end for the same reason. Then blames the other fellow for stopping so suddenly. In wet weather he "won't bother" to put on the chains, and as a consequence skids into the curb or smashes a wheel.

Poor judgment, which often attacks otherwise good drivers, who become "rattled" in a crisis and do the wrong thing, ignorance of traffic rules, and right of way in different localities, forgetfulness of parking regulations, and the evils of blinding headlights are other contributing causes in motor accidents.

THE HIGHWAYS WEARING OUT.

State Plans to Levy a Tax on Heavy Trucks.

"To make your candles last for ay,
Ye wives and maids give ear-o
To put them out's the only way,
Quoth honest John Baldero."

Back in the reign of Mother Goose this method was recommended to keep things from wearing out, and the same system has lately been applied with regard to roads in New York State. The disquieting discovery was made recently that their magnificent system of highways, on which the state has already expended over $100,000,000, is wearing out. So a bill has been passed imposing a tax of $500 per annum on motor trucks of five tons capacity, with $100 added for each additional ton. Such an impost will drive most of the large capacity motor vehicles, which obviously do a great deal of the damage, off the roads.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, recently reviewed a parade of cheese-makers in Alkmaar from her motor car. The illustration shows the Queen sitting in state while men in white suits and straw hats file past in couples, leaving between them a sort of curious-looking sled arrangement with upcurved ends, covered with immense round cheese balls.

IMPROVEMENTS TO POLICE STATION

SPECIAL QUARTERS WILL BE FITTED UP FOR THE PLAINCLOTHES MEN.

Tenders for the construction of a long-contemplated addition to the Police Stations are being called for by the City Trust Commission. Tenders will be received up till noon Tuesday, April 19th. W. and W. R. L. Blackwell are the architects, and the plans and specifications have been prepared by them.

Chief Newhall told The Examiner yesterday that the improvements the City Trust plan to make had long been needed. A detectives' office is to be constructed above City Engineer Parsons' office, which is just west of the Police Station, according to direction. The City Engineer's office is jammed in between three walls and the contract for the detectives' office will only call for the building of one wall. The office will be easy of access. So ideal appears the situation in every respect that the Chief says the department might have built the office years ago. A door will be put through the present west wall of the building and the present stairway will serve both the detectives' office and retain its present usefulness. A store-room for the use of the department will be made at the head of the stairways leading to Police Court, and it is planned to have the entire station and court-room renovated. The walls have long called for brush or paper and the woodwork is in a similar state of disreputability.

Filing System.

The office of the Chief of Police is to be equipped with a filing system to care for the multitudes of communications and references. Such a system will facilitate the police work greatly, he told The Examiner, and with the filing system the Chief expects to secure a new flat-top desk. The single east window in this office provides totally inadequate lighting, and in securing the light and at the same time facing the door—for the Chief declares he would be taking a long chance in turning his back to some of the criminals received in the sanctum—the back of the roll-top now in use interferes with intelligent conversation, hence the desirability of a flat-top.

The detectives' office, in which Sergt. W. Meagher, Detective G. Cookman and Detective A. Thomas will be esconsed, will be fitted up in every way for the more efficient work of these officers, and when everything is completed the police headquarters will compare very favourably with other stations in cities of like population.

A New Car.

While plans are being made for polishing up the administrative side of the policing, the department has been put on a more efficient basis in the field, so to speak. The "Black Maria" of last year has departed and a Studebaker Six, that it is said can do 78 miles an hour, has replaced it. The delivery was made last Thursday, and so far the car has been driven 171 miles, last night along the police covering 52 miles in the city inspecting beats and poking into every by-way within the city limits. Ten or twelve arrests have been made in the car, and the Chief said to-day that with this car they had a weapon by which they absolutely could smash crime in the city a greater blow than in any other way.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

MOTOR CAR LIFE ALMOST UNLIMITED

It Is a Matter of Taking of the Old 'Bus.

It is said that the potential life of almost any motor car is unlimited. What shortens it in most cases is simply ignorance. The average car owner knows very little about his automobile beyond being able to drive it. He knows little of the mechanism, the principles of operation, its needs, and the results that will follow neglect.

The following spring programme is recommended for a car that has been in storage during the cold weather: attention to lubrication, battery, tires and a good cleaning. For one that has been operated during the winter, divers operations are necessary; which include the following:

1. Take up on main and connecting rod bearings,
2. Remove carbon and grind valves,
3. Clean gasoline tank, line and vacuum tank,
4. Clean and adjust ignition, inspect wiring,
5. Inspect generator and starting motor and wiring,
6. Clean cooling system, supply new connections and belt, if necessary,
7. Tune and test motor.
8. Clean and adjust clutch,
9. Adjust all brakes,
10. Remove wheels, inspect, adjust and repack bearings.
11. Inspect steering, remove excess play from post and knuckles.
12. Tighten body bolts, fenders, remove rattles.
13. Tighten spring shackles,
14. Inspect drivings, pinion shaft and propeller shaft for play,
15. Change engine oil, transmission and rear axle oil.
16. Lubricate entire chassis.
17. Recharge battery.

The car operated all winter will need close inspection of the running gear, eespecially after being driven over rutted roads. Such roads increase side thrnst on the wheels, thus upsetting steering wearing the knuckles excessively and also unduly wearing the wheel bearings.

WIFE CAN SEARCH HUBBY'S POCKETS

So Rules Chicago Court in Assault Case.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 14.—The inalienable right of Friend Wife to explore hubby's pockets while he sleeps appropriating to herself anything she desires in the way of loose change or other plunder, was upheld by Judge Howard Hayes. His Honor made certain allowances for the husband under such conditions. He agreed that a good scolding might be permissable or that the husband might take any ordinary precautions such as putting his trousers under his pillow or hiding them, but he made it very clear that Friend Wife should not be locked out in the cold back porch, attired only in her nightie because of making an inventory of her husband's trousers.

The case was that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stern "He threw me out of the house in my nightgown at 5 o'clock on Sunday morning," Mrs. Stern testified. "I begged in vain for two hours for him to let me in and then I crawled through a window. He threw me out again and threw my trunk after me."

"I caught her searching my pants for money," interrupted Stern.

"She had as much right in the house as you did,' 'said the judge "Fifty dolars and costs."

GOLD FLOWING INTO THE STATES.

$150,000,000 Since Beginning of Year.

NEW YORK, April 14—(By Canadian Press).—Gold appears to be flowing into the United States from all quarters of the world, especially Europe. Since the beginning of the year net imports are calculated at about $150,000,000, and bankers expect a continuation of the movement. Scarcely a day passes without the arrival of some shipment.

According to the Federal Reserve Board's figures $28,795,000 was imported in the ten days ended March 20 and $133,000,000 between January 1 and March 30. Against this there was an outflow of only $4,349,000 in the longer period and $338,000 in the shorter.

Since March 20 shipments of over $22,000,000 have been reported as en route. Thus the total import since January 1 are over $155,000,000. The bulk of the shipments are from Great Britain but France makes a close second. The board figures give $43,588,000 as from London between Jan. 1 and March 20 and $37,060,000 as from Paris. Since March 20 reports indicate a further $9,433,000 from London and a further $7,000,000 from Paris.

By continental divisions Europe accounts to date for nearly $112,000,000, North America for $14,600,000 including $10,000,000 from Canada, South America for $5,300,000, and Asia for nearly $22,000,000.

To Free Your Arms of Hair or Fuzz

(Boudoir Secrets.)

No toilet table is complete without a small package of delatone, for with it hair or fuzz can be quickly banished from the skin. To remove hairs you merely mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the objectionable hairs. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when it will be found free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.

HUNTING DOWN BOGUS MANAGERS.

British Actors' Association Launch Campaign.

LONDON, April 1 by mail, by Associated Press).—The Actors' Association of Great Britain has launched a campaign of boycott against bogus theatrical managers.

The kind of manager who is to be hunted down is the person who with little or no capital takes out a company on tour often pay scandalously low salaries. If the enterprise fails the bogus manager takes what he can from the receipts, and departs, leaving the company stranded and penniless.

The Actors' Association says that this kind of thing is far more common than the public knows, and cases of the kind are reported on an average two or three times a week.

GOLDEN RIFLE RED COMMANDER.

MOSCOW, April 14 (by Associated Press wireless).—The commander of the northern group of the Red Army, Comrade Kazanski, who distinguished himself in the capture of Kronstadt, the centre of the recent revolt, was a peasant from the village of Nikolskaya, in the Orloff district. He started his service in the Red Army as an ordinary machine-gunner, and was twice awarded the Order of the Red Flag.

He has now been awarded a Golden Rifle for "extraordinary gallantry and skill in the campaign for the liberation of Kronstadt."

U.F.W.O. HELD ANNUAL DANCE

The Peterborough branch of the United Farm Women of Ontario held their first annual dance last evening in Victoria Hall. There was a splendid attendance, more than anticipated by the ladies in charge. Tucker's three-piece orchestra provided excellent music, and the refreshments were exceptionally good. A considerable quantity of sandwiches and cake remaining at the conclusion of the dance were donated by the ladies to the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage. The gentlemen from Toronto who supplied music for the dance held last evening at the Conservatory of Music came down later to Victoria Hall and very kindly gave several selections for the dancers there, which were very much appreciated.

The proceeds from this affair will be applied to furnishing the rest-room recently opened by the ladies of this association on Simcoe Street, over the Farmers' Grocery, and an announcement was made last evening of an address to be given at 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 16th, by Miss M. R. Heeley, the Government nurse now visiting Peterborough, who will also give a practical demonstration of nursing work. All members of the society and any local ladies interested in this work are cordially invited to be present.

TEXAS CYCLONE WRECKS VILLAGE, SCATTERS TRAIN

FORTY KILLED AND SCORES INJURED IN PATH OF DISTURBANCE.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Fifty persons were reported killed and scores injured in a cyclone which struck Melissa in North Texas yesterday afternoon. Melissa had a population of one thousand. Every business house in the village was swept away, according to meagre reports. The storm covered a wide area, and swept as far south as Jacksonville, Texas. Two freight trains were scattered for a mile along the right of way. The injured are being brought to McKinney.

SAYS REFERENDUM WILL BE CARRIED

MR. BURNHAM'S VIEWS ON THE QUESTION—DRESS REFORM NEXT.

Several citizens have been asked to give an expression of opinion regarding the outcome of the referendum vote on Monday, but all declined, with the exception of Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., who had the following to say:

"There is no doubt that the Referendum will carry and the public mind will then devote itself to further improvements. The Rev. Wesley McGaw, of Ottawa, says that women's present style of dress must go next as it is immodest. No doubt Separate schools and all forms of division in the state such as sectarianism will be called upon next to depart. Of course Prohibition is Socialism pure and simple, and on its back is riding in he complete socialistic state. The conquest of individualism by socialism is the conquest which socialism has been striving to make. It is all very interesting."

CANADA UNIQUE AMONG NATIONS.

No Labor Troubles, Says New York Sun.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(By Canadian Press.)—In an editorial commenting on the labor situation in Canada, the New York Sun states:

"Canada is unique among the great nations, in that she has no serious labor troubles, and in that she appears to be effecting the difficult process of readjustment to the after-the-war conditions as painlessly as may be.

"The attitude of the Dominion and Provincial governments toward business has been helpful, but fundamentally such successful readjustment must be due to the exercise of plain common sense on the part of both capital and labor. It is not the first time that Canada has set an example worth studying.

"One thinks of Canada as primarily an agricultural nation and it is still true that her wheat and other grains outrun any other commodity. But the Dominion has turned more and more to manufacture and its industries grow at a tremendous pace. Doubtless the growth may continue as further water power is put to use and more resources in coal and minerals are opened up and her net-workof railroads extended."

The editorial continues by pointing out that where wage reductions have been necessary they have been made without friction and says, "This holds true of the Pacific coast and the Middle West as well as of the more industrial Ontario."

HEADACHES

Make Life Miserable

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom if ever free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part and sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head.

There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches, and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keeps the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will eliminate the cause of the headaches.

Mrs. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes "My system was out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to my friends who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy.

BIG PROHIBITION MEETING TORONTO

SIR GEORGE FOSTER, PREMIER DRURY AND HON. N. W. ROWELL AMONG SPEAKERS.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Twelve thousand people attended the meeting in the Arena last night under the auspices of the Ontario Referendum Committee to hear prominent speakers deliver addresses favoring the banning of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province. There was no heckling whatever, the great audience cheering repeatedly for a bone dry Ontario. The speakers were Hon. Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Hon. Newton W. Rowell, ex-President of the Privy Council, and Hon. E. C. Drury, Prime Minister of Ontario. His Lordship Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto, and Commissioner Richards of the Salvation Army led in the devotions.

MAYOR STILL ON WARPATH.

He is Bound that the Hydro Commission will Back Down.

KINGSTON, April 14. — Mayor Nickle is still after the Hydro-Electric Commission in regard to the insulting statements made here some time ago by its auditor, Mickler. The Utilities Commission demanded that the provincial official retract his statements, and several communications have passed between the two commissions regarding the matter.

On Monday afternoon the local commission passed another resolution to the effect that the Hydro communications of February 3rd and March 11th are unsatisfactory, and demanded a direct answer to the original request made.

Mayor Nickle declared that the Hydro officials were side-stepping, and that so far as he was concerned they must give a straight reply to the request of the local commission. If Sir Adam Beck's Commission would not do this, then it would be guilty of encouraging its officials to be offensive towards municipalities dealing with them.

WINNIPEG, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Father Damase Dandurano, O.M.I., who on March 23 last celebrated his 102nd anniversary, died last evening in St. Boniface, Man. He was the oldest Roman Catholic priest in the world, being born in 1819 in the village of Laprairie, Quebec, of pure French parentage.

THE TWO PLATOON SYSTEM BILL WAS PASSED BY 47-35

OPPOSITION WAS STRONG BUT A DIVISION WAS SUCCESSFUL.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)— One of the most unusual debates the House has had in many sessions was staged yesterday afternoon when a last minute effort was made to defeat the legislation providing for compulsory two platoon system in all permanent fire departments in centres of ten thousand population and over.

Yesterday when J. A. Calder, of North Oxford, moved a six months' hoist to W. A. Crockett's bill on behalf of the firemen the debate started that lasted for over an hour. This was more remarkable in that when the bill came up for a second reading and again was up in committee there was no attempt to stage anything more than a half hearted debate. There was opposition to the bill but it did not appear to be important.

Since the committee stage, however, various municipalities which the bill will compel to spend money in increasing fire fighting staffs in order to put the two platoon system into effect have been making the wires warm with protests. That these protests were not unheeded was shown by the fact that when the matter was pressed to a vote and the calling of yeas and nays, itself an unusual proceeding in dealing with a public bill, it was found that 35 members were ready to throw the measure out. But there were 47 members on the other side and the bill went through.

HUNGARY DECLARES CHARLES IS ITS LAWFUL SOVEREIGN.

BERNE, April 14.—The Hungarian Government, through the Swiss Legation in Vienna, has informed the Swiss Federal Council that the Government of Hungary consider former Emperor Charles as Hungary's lawful Sovereign, and that "foreign circumstances" alone prevented the ex-Emperor from exercising his rights to authority. It asks the Swiss Government to permit the former Emperor to reside permanently in Switzerland.

The Swiss Government has reserved its decision on this request until it has made a complete investigation into all the circumstances, taking also the best interests of Switzerland into consideration.

MINIATURE TPOPHY CUPS FOR ONTARIO AMATEUR BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

CITIZENS HONOR INTERMEDIATE CHAMPIONS AND SPEAKERS UPHOLD AMATEUR SPORT FOR YOUNG PETERBORO—MAYOR M'INTYRE ASKED TO CALL A MEETING.

Amateur sport was heartily toasted, and the half-and-half article was just as heartily roasted, at the banquet in the Empress Hotel last night in honour of the Peterborough basketball team, Intermediate titleholders for Ontario.

Peterborough folks let loose a large quantity of enthusiasm not unlike the brand of a couple of decades ago, when the then town had the habit of winning championships. The citizens caught some of the "pep" that radiated from the banquet committee, and the 125 diners joined hands and voices and gave Ontario's best a splendid reception.

Coupled with the desire to do honour to those who had brought honour to the city was the expression of the hope that this city would have a live- wide-awake Amateur Athletic Association. Some suggestions were thrown out by several of the speakers, and these culminated in a resolution, moved by Dr. N. H. Sutton, that Mayor A. A. McIntyre call a meeting with a view to either re-organising the present amateur body, or taking action that would strengthen the hands of the officers of that Association, and let everybody join in a sincere and honest effort to accomplish something real. Officers of the Association who spoke at the banquet last night expressed their willingness to step aside.

Mr. J. J. Duffus, president of the Board of Trade, in seconding the resolution, said the Board of Trade Rooms were always wide open for the convenience of an amateur athletic association.

The dinner put the company in fine spirits, and from leaflets — for once not postmarked Montreal — they sang anything and everything, not forgetting "The Old Family Toothbrush." Mr. John Crane was at the piano and Mr. G. O. Cameron was chorus leader.

Somebody Told Tales.

The champions occupied seats of honour, with the speakers of the evening. About the walls were displayed a number of cards, which in a humorous way told of the fortunes and the misfortunes of the players in their championship tour.

Dr. A. W. McPherson was toastmaster, and gave the toast of The King, which was fittingly honoured.

Once the speeches were under way it was made evident that the banquet committee had made happy choices in securing speakers.

"Fighting" McPherson, catching the spirit of the occasion, paved the way well. He said Peterborough was to be congratulated on having a championship team, and also on the fact that on short notice so many busy and representative citizens had met together to honour the team. The true sporting spirit is not dead in Peterborough, declared Dr. McPherson, and the showing made in the present occasion augurs well for a return of the old times.

The toast of Canada was proposed by Mr. J. J. Duffus, who reminded the gathering of Canada's unsurpassed resources, one of which was the largest body of water in the world — some solace, he thought, should the Province vote "yes" on Monday. Mr. Duffus spoke of Canada's prominence among the world's champions, referring to the hockey honours won by the Falcons, and the great feat of Billy Sherring of Hamilton, who a few years ago won the world's Marathon at the Olympic Games. In natural resources, in sport, and it its manhood, Canada, declared the speaker, can hold its place with any country of the world.

Champions of Other Days.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, in responding to the toast, was in a reminiscent mood, and his remarks on the champions of former days was intensely interesting. He told of a rugby championship won twenty years ago—won in the snow at Montreal against Quebec City, when Peterborough, after winning the Ontario honours, went after and captured Dominion honours. He recalled the names of the players—those still living here being Dr. McPherson, Chris Graham, Sergt. John Deannard, and Detective William Meagher of the Police Force, Ed. Dillon, and J. L. Picard. Then the following year Peterborough won Intermediate honours in the O.H.A., with the famous team of Ernie Wasson, R. M. Glover, Harold Armstrong, Harry Morgan, Fred Whitcroft, Roy Armstrong, and Chris Graham.

Mr. Kenner reviewed other branches of sport mentioning some of the players, including Rev. Father Phelan, who played lacrosse with the old guard, and Mr. J. H. Burnham, one of Peterborough's cricketers of former days.

As a preliminary to the banquet, the champions were met at the Y.M.C.A. by a committee of citizens and with the Caledonian Pipe Band leading the way, they were conveyed in autos to the banquet hall, where their arrival was the signal for a great ovation.

A "Fan's" Tribute

Clean players and unselfish players, was the tribute paid to the champions by Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, in proposing the toast of "Our Guests". Mr. Breyfogle was among the 'fans" who saw the champions in the making. Discussing the play in one of the games, Mr. Breyfogle told of how the local boys refused to retaliate when the visiting team used rough tactics He was impressed with their spirit of co-operation and in this they exemplified the unselfish player. In the first of the final games with Woodstock, the team although getting away to a bad start, persisted and fought all the way, finaly winning the game. Characteristics such as these would win for them in the game of life. The speaker said a Toronto sportsman had given as his opinion that the Peterboro boy were made of the right stuff, and played the cleanest game of basketball he had ever seen.

After drinking this toast, the gathering gave three rousing cheers and a tiger for the champions.

Then followed the presentation of eleven miniature silver trophy cups, and the Ontario trophy to the champions.

Those honoured were: — D. R. Pogue, R. R. Pogue, C. H. Stuart, H. C. Seely, A .E. Darling, O. A. DeGraw, F H. Jobbitt, R. H. Brownscombe, J. C. Nicholls, D. N. Sutherland, and Coach Loomis. Business called Mr. Harry Cressman from the city, and he was unable to be present.

He was Bumped.

Mr J. J. Turner made the presentation, assisted by Mr. Leon Fraser Mr. Turner related some of his experiences as a member of the Business Men's Class at the Y.M.C.A. Speaking as one who had tried the game, Mr. Turner avowed that basketball is no game for the aged and infirm.

Mr. Clare Stuart, captain of the team, Mr. O. A. DeGraw, and Mr. G. H. Roper, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. replied, the players praising the efforts made on behalf of the team by Mr. Harry Cressman, and Mr. Doug. Loomis, manager and coach respectively. Mr. Roper thanked the citizens for their reception to the champions.

Mr Jack Smith was called on to entertain the gathering and he responded by contributing two vocal solos that pleased everybody.

Everybody Must Help.

Proposing the toast of Amateur Athletics, Rev. Father Costello upheld the amateur and denounced the player who while posing as a "simon-pure" looked for and received monetary consideration. Recalling the remarks on the champions of other days, the speaker declared that the successes of those days could be repeated. Ten years from now the city would be a sporting city second to none in the world if all would do their duty by the Amateur Athletic Association.

In responding to this toast, Mr. R. M. Glover expressed the opinion that the absence of success here in recent years, lay not with the players, but with the method or lack of it in developing and handling the material. The participant in sports should play the game for the love of it, for the health he gets out of it, and for the honor of his town. He should realize that strength, stamina and ability, is a God-given gift, and that it should be used as such. The player who poses as an amateur, and, at the same time has his hand out, is not improving his morals or cultivating a character that will help him in life. Participants in sports, urged Mr. Glover, should look for the counsel of men who are willing to give their time to carry on the different branches of sport under proper auspices.

Speaking as an executive member of the Athletic Association, Mr. Glover said: We are willing to do anything the citizens wish us to do in developing the sports of our young men, and help to give the city the prominence it deserves in the sporting world .In congratulating the champions, Mr. Glover expressed the hope that they would also be chamoions in their respective walks of life.

The meeting was thrown open for discussion. Dr. Sutton moved his resolution which was seconded and carried. The Mayor said he would be glad to act in his official capacity with a view to promoting the welfare of an Amateur Athletic Association.

The citizens are indebted to the following committee who arranged the banquet:—Messrs. R. G Langford, chairman, R. Jobbitt, J. J. Duffus, H. A. Cranfield, W. Jackson, J Batten, F. E. Convery, F. C. McBride, H. E. Raynor and H. Rose.

On behalf of the citizens, the chairman thanked the committee, Mr Crane and Mr. Smith, for their services, J. J. Turner and Sons for decorations and the local tobacconists who supplied the "smokes" for the banquet.

IRELAND IS FINE, BUT IN BAD SHAPE.

OTTAWA, April 14.—An amusing yet poignant letter has been received by the Dominion Command of the G. W. V. A. from Private John Muldoon, Longford, Ireland, a former member of the 2nd Depot Battalion in Eastern Ontario. Private Muldoon asks the G.W.V.A. to secure his "King's bounty" (gratuity) for him, in order that he may be able to come back to Canada and go on a farm. The letter ends up: "I have even had to sell my Sunday suit and as fine as the place is it's in a terrible state to-day." The local officials are looking into the matter.

NORTHLAND TO CANADA WHAT INDIA IS TO SPAIN

Will Be Much Activity in North Coming Season.

EDMONTON, Alta., April 14.—(Canadian. Press.) —A new era is dawning, and before long Canadians will recognize the fact that the Northlands is to Canada what the Indies were to the Spaniards, is the belief of Colonel J. K. Cornwall, head of the Northern Trading Company. It is not a hot-house country for dainty luxury-loving people, states Col. Cornwall, but a territory in which a red-blooded white man will revel. North of the McMurray and Peace River tenderfeet are not held in much esteem, but the man who wants to go in, and is prepared to abide by the manner and customs of the country can get through, and transact his business.

There is going to be much activity in the north during the coming season and much more information regarding the valuable gold deposits which are known to exist in the neighborhood of Great Slave Lake and elsewhere should be available during the coming year. Many of the men from the placer mine country of the Yukon are going in for testing quartz more than for oil seeking, Colonel Cornwall asserts. Quite a number of the gold miners and others who are going in to stake, will remain for the winter, and the fur business as a consequence is expected to show an upward trend. Hitherto there have been no white trappers in the far north and the Indians and breeds have never turned in the quota of furs which might be expected of them had they but applied a little more "hustle" to their trap lines.

DEMPSEY SHUNS BROADWAY CAMP

LEARNS LESSON WITH BRENNAN — WILL TRAIN DILIGENTLY IN QUIET SPOT.

NEW YORK, April 14.—With Tex Rickard hopping about the State of New Jersey trying to settle definitely on the site for the Dempsey-Carpentier contest, and Georges Carpentier on his way to this country, it looks as though the machinery has been put in motion for the holding of the big international contest on 2nd July next.

Dempsey is shuffling along in vaudeville, but will soon leave the stage and repair to some quiet spot to prepare for his tussle with the Frenchman.

It will be remembered that the champion did his training adjacent to Broadway for his bout with Bill Brennan. And it will also be recalled that the same Brennan furnished Dempsey and the talent with a genuine surprise by staying for twelve long rounds.

Jack says that he has learned his lesson. For his own sake it is to be hoped that he has. Otherwise, that Frenchman will get him if he "don't watch out."

SPENCER STARS FOR DOYLEMEN

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C., April 14.—Vernon Spencer, late of New York, was by way of being the salient slasher in the festivities here, in which the Tar Heels were again the "fall guys." as Mickey Devine would say. The marauder from Michigan plastered the sphere into safe territory on his first three attempts, scored one run, and incidentally drove in three more. He was not so succesful against the left-hander, who finished up the game for Rocky Mount, fanning once, and flying to right on the other occasion.

The Leafs won 10 to 3, and Gonzales was also in the limelight. The Cuban seems to have got the habit, and if he persists in performing as he has been doing of recent date, Larry will have to look to his laurels. The Havana citizen beat out a bunt in the most approved style, and then, with a brace of boarders on the gangway, tripled to deep right. Had he been less greedy he probably would have scored himself, but when he tried to stretch the hit he was called out, though he slid under the throw, but failed to touch the plate with his hook slide.

In the field Gonzales accepted three chances and, with Davis, worked a fine double play. It is a regular thing with these smooth infielders, and between them they should give Toronto fans many a thrill this season.

THE TIME IS RIPE

Last night's banquet in honour of the Y. M. C. A. Basketball team, intermediate champions of the O. B. A. A., must be classed as one of the most successful functions of the kind ever held in Peterborough. It was representative of every sporting organization in the city, bringing together men in all walks in life, and it was characterized not only by a genuine pride in the achievements of the guests of honour, but by an evident desire for a revival of sports in Peterborough, and for a re-organization of the city's athletic games that would produce better results, not only for the individual athlete, but for the whole community.

The speakers of the evening emphasized the need of a governing body to direct all amateur sport in Peterborough, and their arguments were so convincing that at the conclusion of the banquet the gathering unanimously voiced its approval of the idea by calling a public meeting for the purpose of discussing the re-organization of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, or the formation of a new body on similar lines. This, His Worship, readily consented to do, so that out of last night's remarkably successful banquet is likely to arise a representative body of sportsmen animated with the one idea of encouraging and stimulating the athletic development of Peterborough, and of instilling into the young men of the community the principles of real sport.

The enthusiasm shown by those around the tables, it is hoped will be transmitted to the new organization, and a splendid start towards better conditions in Peterborough would be assured if those who were present last night, will ally themselves with the work of organizing and developing a representative athletic association. Of the need of such an organization, on one who is familiar with athletics in Peterborough needs convincing; as to what can be accomplished the Galt Amateur Athletic Association is a striking example. Since its inception, Galt has won the Western Football Association championship, and followed up that victory by capturing the intermediate O. H. A. title last winter. The sporting enthusiasm of the town is centred in the Association, and remarkable results have been achieved in a short time.

Peterborough needs such a directing body. The young material in the various games has been neglected, and as a result there has not been that development there should have been in the city. What is required is an organization that will begin at the bottom and keep a fatherly eye over the youngsters, see that they are provided with grounds upon which to play, that they are supplied with the necessary facilities, and that their activities are being directed along proper lines. Too much must not be attempted at once. We are gven to that sort of thing in Petebrorough. We expend all our enthusiasm at the go-in, and have nothing left with which to carry on, just like the newlyweds who spent so much on their going away outfits that they could not afford to go away at all. That mistake should not be made in the launching of an athletic Association. Careful planning at the start, with a programme mapped out that can be taken step by step instead of being rushed through at one meeting, and then allowed to collapse, is necessary. The time is ripe. The enthusiasm of last night's gathering evoked by the splendid feat of the champion basketball team, shows that the sportsmen of the city are ready for the movement. It is to be hoped that the opportunity will not be lost.

Voice Of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name as well as the address of the writer for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

To the Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I wish to bring to the attention of the readers of your paper what, to my mind, is a very important subject. It is simply this, "the protection of frogs." I almost hear some of you city folk laugh and say how absurd! but if you were as dependent upon the frog as the farmer is, you wouldn't laugh.

The frog is a very industrious little fellow, and is one of the farmers' greatest beneficiaries. He destroys many injurious insects and grubs, which would spoil our crops if he didn't spoil them. Moreover, at the first approach of spring, the frogs form their orchestra and liven up the long, dull evenings of spring with their spirited music, and it isn't jazz either. Therefore, I ask you in the name of the common interests of all the people to refrain from killing a frog without necessity. One word more. Don't believe any of this "frog trickery business." There is nothing to it. They don't possess any super-natural powers at all. Such belief puts me in mind of an old saying, "Humanity deluded by demons." Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, yours truly,

J. C. Sullivan.

LACROSSE NOTES

The basketball banquet put a crimp in the weekly meeting of the lacrosse executive last night, but several of the promoters of a local junior series report encouraging progress. When a supply of sticks is delivered for the youngsters, it is believed that they will all be taken and used. The intermediates will practice at the usual hour on Saturday at the Exhibition grounds.

BELLEVILLE MAN DIES SUDDENLY.

BELLEVILLE, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—While building a fire in his kitchen this morning, Daniel Poucher expired of heart trouble at his home at Poucher's Mills. He was in his 64th year, and was a native of Pickering. He was a miller by occupation, and was interested in municipal matters, and served in Thurlow Township Council and on the School Board for years. He leaves a widow, one son and three daughters.

JERSEY STATE FOR BIG FIGHT SUITS CARPENTIER.

MADRID, April 14.—Georges Carpentier is pleased with the selection of New Jersey as the site for his meeting with Jack Dempsey for the world's championship, he said here to-day. He has booked passage for America on 7th May, and will start training as soon as he arrives in a place selected before he returned to France last fall.

Carpentier, who is on an exhibition tour, apperas in the best of condition, and expressed confidence that he would be able to win the world's title.

FOUR ROUNDS ENOUGH.

NEW YORK, April 14.—"Four round will be enough and a decision won't be needed for the winner."

So says Bill Brennan, the big Chicago heavyweight, about the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Brennan met Dempsey twice. Six rounds the first time and twelve rounds the second. He thinks he ought to know something about the champion.

"Carpentier is fast enough to keep away from Dempsey for about three rounds, but he'll get it no later than the fourth," Brennan said recently.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

"THE SILVER KING."

"The Silver King," made famous by the great Wilson Barrett, has been chosen as one of the offerings of the Trans-Canada English Players when they come to the Grand Opera House for one matinee and evening, commencing Wednesday, 20th April.

The plot of "The Silver King" concerns the murder of Geoffrey Ware, who fell into the hands of a band of crooks. To Mr. Henry Lonsdale, who portrays the title role, falls the bulk of the acting. The part calls for four distinct phases of character work. He appears first as Wilfred Denver, a dissipated idler, then in the guise of a seaman, where he is remorseful and repentant; and then again as the sorrowful silver king, who seeks to make amends to his wife by surrounding her with luxuries; and finally as Nicky, the half-witted fool, when he learns that he is not guilty of the murder of Geoffrey Ware.

Excellent work is also done by Mr. Norman Cannon as the Spider, chief of the band of crooks, and by Mr. Frederick Ross as the old servant. Miss Dorothy Reeve will be seen as Nellie Denver, Miss Peggy Bryatt as the Spider's wife, and Wee Dorothy Mackay has been specially engaged to play the part of Cissie.

The plays which will be presented here are: At the matinee, 2.30 p.m., "East Lynne"; evening, at 8.30 p.m., "TheSilver King."

"WAY DOWN EAST."

Seats are now on sale for the coming engagement of David W. Griffith's masterful motion picture elaboration of "Way Down East" at the box office of the Grand.

The presentation in this city will begin Thursday evening and continue twice daily thereafter, matinee and evening, for a period of three days only.

Again, as in the case of "The Birth of a Nation,' Griffiith has turned to a success of the stage for his material. This time he has taken a play that has withstood the tides of time for more than a score of years and enjoyed an unusual appeal. The success that has crowned his efforts proved that nothing dies for this master of the silent drama; no art to him is lost. This great play lives again in greater scope and grandeur though his touch and vivification. When Lottie Blair Parker and Joseph Grismer brought forth this drama at a time before people were accustomed to think in or of the theatre it was referred to as a rural play; Griffith has utilized it to bring forth the story of a woman's soul and thus lay bare truths as urban as Broadway and as universal as the skies. In this picturization, spectators are transferred from pastoral solitudes to the glitter of city life, thus furnishing a series of contrasts that enhance the dramatic values of the offering. The delightful comedy scenes of simple country folk are retained and even amplified, while the finale brings forth the great snow storm scenes ending with the stupendous crashing ice-gorge, all of which are presented in a manner the public has come to expect in a Griffith production. The orchestral accompaniment is said to be the most pretenious yet attempted in connection with a photo-drama presentation.

The management of the Grand Theatre wishes to advise patrons that owing to the widespread appeal and vogue of this presentation it is quite prudent that seats be secured in advance and as early as possible. 'Way Down East' will positively not be seen in the vicinity of Peterborough. This company goes direct to New York from here. Last stand in Canada. Secure seats in advance. Easy to get locations.

AT THE ALLEN.

APPEALING STORY TOLD ON SCREEN.

Character of "Peep O'Day" in Irvin Cobb's "Boys will be Boys," a Novel One.

There are at least two things associated with childhood days that everyone knows about and remembers—little red wagons and brass-toed boots with tops. Hardly a small boy but has not proudly displayed his new shoes and every baby heart has hungered for a little red wagon. Will Rogers is no exception in "Boys will be Boys,"which comes to the Allen Theatre for two days, commencing Friday.

The only difference here is that Rogers grew up without any childhood, and decided to go back and relive it after he had become a grown man. The familiar, bright-colored leather topped boots will be quickly recognized by the grown-ups in the audience as the kind that they wore when they were little,and the young people will be interested in seeing just what sort of shoes mother and father wore in the days before "scuffers."

Will Rogers shows his most whimsical and delightful nature in "Boys will be Boys," a story by Irvin S. Cobb.

FOUR CORNERED LOVE AFFAIR ALL AT CROSS PURPOSES

Marion Rogers was in love, but not with the man who loved her. In a different way according to her nature, Diana Spaulding was in love though not with the man who was infatuated with her. Camerno West was smitten with Diana and the unruly passion of Granville Wingate was aroused by Marion.

The four were together almost constantly. Tense and extraordinary situations developed. The story is told in "The Vice of Fools," by Francis James, visualized by Vitagraph, which will be shown at the Allen theatre for the last time today., with Alice Joyce in the stellar role.

The four-cornered love affair gives the charming Vitagraph star unusual opportunities for the display of her powers of expression on the screen. Of the four involved in a strange coil of circumstances, three are swept along by impulse and desire, regardless of the consequences to themselves or anybody else. Marion alone consults her judgment and invokes her woman's intuition in deciding what course she shall pursue through difficult situations. Marion Rogesr provides a role admirably suited to the talent and ability of Alice Joyce.

AT THE EMPIRE

"Seven Years Bad Luck" is an idea, based on one of the funniest of human weaknesses—a weakness we all laugh at. The characters are all human people interpreting a logical story in the most human way, without the aid of exaggerated bulbous noses, ridiculous hairy adornment or any of those things that passed out of the realm of King Momus many years ago. Such comedy was relegated to the depths reached by the old fashioned "low" comedians who relied on "funny' make-up for their elemental humor.

If you don't believe that "Seven Years Bad Luck" is the funniest comedy ever made, see it yourself.

AT THE REGENT.

NEW WILLIAM RUSSELL PICTURE IS "BEST YET"

Heralded as the best feature in which William Russell has tarred, "The Man Who Dared,' a new William Fox production with the story laid in the California Redwoods, is coming to the Regent Theatre today.

William Russell has the role of Big Jim O'Kane, boss of a lumberjack camp. The story, which is by Julius G. Furthman, tells what happened to Big Jim and the girl he loved when he "got in wrong" with the sheriff. For the sheriff happened to be in love with the girl, too, and he was not exactly all that a sheriff should be.

The film is said to be notable for the beauty of its setting. Trees grow 200 feet high in the Redwoods, and to walk the forest paths is like walking in the naves of great cathedrals. Clyde de Vinna is responsible for the photography. Supporting Mr. Russell are Eileen Percy, a very attractive actress who has since become a Fox star; Frank Brownlee and Lon Poff. Emmett J. Flynn directed the picture.

SPORT NOTES

The East Peterborough Ball League will go to bat to-night. Bohunks and probably Cressman's ball clubs will be represented at the meeting to apply for admission to the League. The meeting is called for eight o'clock at the Windsor Hotel.

Chairman Bob Langford and his committee have very reason to be elated over the success of the banquet last night. The committee put it across in fine style.

The Church Baseball League is in the throes of re-organization. It will be affiliated with the O. B. A. A. and will enter the Juvenile series.

The field adjoining the north building of the Canadian General Electric Company's plant is being put in shape for baseball and other sports. The City League candidates from the big plant will have a workout on Saturday afternoon.

The Westclox entries in the Mercantile League are working out regularly. The Big Ben crowd will have a nifty team this season.

The committee appointed at the annual meeting of the Mercantile League to draft a constitution will meet within the next few days.

LINDSAY'S BOWLING CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

LINDSAY, April 14.— The lawn bowlers are getting the green in shape for the season's bowling. The annual meeting of the club was marked by an enthusiastic attendance. The officers elected are as follows: Patrons, Mon. Casey, W. F. McCarty and John Carew; President, Leo Rogers; Vice-Pres., A. B. Sarvis; Sec.-Treas., T. J. Begley; Executive, T. CANADIAN ACTRESS AND SINGER MAKE THEIR MARK IN N.Y.

Setting Forth on a Career That Gives Promise of Place in List of Noted Artists.

(By Ben Deacon)
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 14.—A Canadian actress of high attainments and wide reputation and a Canadian singer who is just setting forth on a career that gives promise of winning for her a place in the lengthy list of noted artists who have hailed from the Dominion were featured in the week's news. Margaret Anglin's performance of Clytomnestra in Euripides' "Iphigenia in Aulis" was undoubtedly the outstanding dramatic feature of the week, while a musical event which attracted considerable attention was the recital given at Aeolin Hall by Evelyn MacNevin, a young Canadian contralto.

"Iphigenia in Aulis" was given at the Manhattan Opera House. It was a revival of the production made in California in 1915 and was on a particularly elaborate scale —rather too elaborate in the opinion of several of the critics. A special musical setting had been composed for it by Walter Damroch and the famous conductor of the New York Symphony himself wielded the baton. The event marked the end of Mr. Damroch's service as conductor of the Oratorio Society.

Miss Anglin appears to have overshadowed Mr. Damroch despite the fact that it really was his party. The consensus of opinion was that her wonderful acting was the outstanding feature of the production. The Damroch music won only faint praise but Miss Anglin's Clytemestra was hailed by practically all of the critics as a thing that will long live in memory.

The chorus arrangements were in the hands of Maurice Brown who has fitted out several other big classic productions in like manner. He fills his stage with a weaving and writhing Delsrtian chorus that is like festooning a severe Greek temple with cheese cloth. . . . These goings on recalls many strange and unrelated things such as amateur tableaux out in Kansas City in the gilded age of strawberry ice cream soda and the cover of 'Hearts and Flowers'.

During the course of the evening Miss Anglin was badly shaken when the horses drawing a chariot into which she was about to step started too soon throwing her to the floor. Other members of the cash rushed to her assistance but she pluckily climbed into the chariot and continued the performance.

New York Debut.

Miss MacNevin's recital marked her New York debut She has sung here at a number of musicales given by the Canadian Club but this week's concert was her first appearance before the general public here. She posseses a remarkably fine voice, of beautiful quality, wide range, and fine dramatic power. Added to this she has remarkably clear diction and a high degree of intelligence and artistry which several of the local musical critics predict is certain to assure her a brilliant future. Her programme included airs by Handel Scarlatti and Marcelli, a group of French songs, a Rachmaninoff group, and a group by American composers. She was probably at her best in the more emotional numbers which gave opportunity for display of her splendidly flexible tone quality, notably in D'Indy's "Lied Maritime" and Rachmaninoff's "Floods of Spring" She was given a particularly encouraging reception by an audience which filled Aeolian Hall and was obliged to respond to frequent demands for encore numbers. Richard Hageman the noted teacher and conductor was her accompanist.

Miss MacNevin is a daughter of Dr. Malcolm MacNevin a vice-president of the Canadian Club, and born in Chatham, Ont. She has studied heres under Hageman and Julius I. Meyer. During the war she frequently gave her services to the Canadian Club for the purpose of assisting in raising funds for war purposes. She is contemplating a tour of Canada in the fall.

LEAFS BEAT PETERSBURG AFTER HARD BATTLE 4 TO 0.

PETERSBURG, Va., April 14. — Yesterday was a strenuous day for the Leafs, who travelled all morning, engaged in a ball game in the afternoon, which all but wound up in a free-for-all, and on top of that had enough spirit left to almost declare a strike over the quality, or rather lack of quality, of the "eats" which they had served up to them at the hotel where they stopped. They won both arguments at the ball park, the game by 4 to 0 and the wordy scrap by an unknown score, but they lost out in the dining-room ruction.

The trouble at the game occurred over a decision at second base, when Altenburg was declared out by the home umpire after he had apparently slid under the throw. Shortstop Martin, who made the play, waxed belligerent, and Altenburg tried not only to clean him up, but the "umps" as well, and was prevented from going through with the matter by his fellow-players, who were not slow to rush on the field when the crisis came. The affair would not have amounted to anything had Manager Martin, the "Roscoe Arbuckle" of baseball, shown any discretion. He called the Toronto player a few pet names, and even after the excitement had quieted down he fussed about and became so abusive that Anderson, on behalf of the Leafs, challenged him to mortal combat.

REFERENDUM INFORMATION

NEXT Monday, April 18, the electors of Ontario will be expected to vote on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

The reason so much liquor is being consumed in Ontario is because the law permits liquor to be imported into the province. At present it is perfectly legal to import car loads of intoxicating liquor into Ontario. If this Referendum carries this condition will cease.

Next Monday, electors, on entering the polling booths, will be handed ballots reading as follows:

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? NO

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? YES X

People who are in favor of stopping the importation of liquor should mark an X opposite the word YES as shown on the ballots above.

When To Vote

This year the polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The law allows employees one hour, in addition to the noon hour, without loss of time, in which to vote.

People who find it impossible to vote before 5 p.m. will be able to vote between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

ON POLLING DAY

The headquarters of the Referendum Committee next Monday will be in the Y. M. C. A. 'Phone 246.

Citizens who will be willing to assist in getting out the voters, particularly of the women, are requested to 'phone their name and addresses to 246.

INVENTED SAWING OUTFIT.

A gasoline sawing outfit in use by Oscar Thompson, of Bishop Mills, is attracting considerable attention. Apart from the engine the machine is mostly of his own invention. The wheels of the tractor are old moving wheels and the transmission gear is made from the cogwheels, etc., of the old horse mower, which are so arranged that the tractor can draw the outfit.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY.

The funeral of Mrs. A. J. Warne, Sr., took place at two o'clock yesterday afternoon from the family residence, 638 George Street. In the absence of Rev. W. H. Young, of whose church Mrs. Warne was a member, the impressive funeral services were conducted by Rev. B. Greatrix, assisted by Rev. Mr. Cruikshanks. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. The pall-bearers were Messrs. G. W. Powell, H. P. Lindsay, F. H. Dobbin, A. E. Dickson, Jas. Skinner, and C. Borland.

Relatives from out of town attending the funeral were Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. George Carruthers, Mrs. Will Warne of Cobourg, Mr. Charles Warne of Oshawa, Mrs. John Piper and Mr. Will Piper of Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS

HEALY—GARVEY.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, at 9 o'clock on Monday, April 4th, when Miss Tresa H. Garvey, daughter of Michael Garvey, and Mr. James Healy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Healy, all of Douro, were united in marriage, a cousin of the bride, Rev. Father Garvey, performing the ceremony.

The bride, who was becomingly attired in a navy serge suit, with hat to match, was attended by her cousin, Miss Loretta Garvey, while Mr. Raymond Carlow supported the groom.

The young couple left on the 3 o'clock train for Toronto and points west, and on their return will reside in Dummer.

OBITUARY

The death took place yesterday of Mr. John Donghue.

Three sisters, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Griffin of Rochester and Mrs. Carew, of Vancouver and one brother, Daniel, survive him.

The funeral will take place tomorrow (Friday) morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

OTTAWA BUILDERS OFFER WAGE CUT

BUT SOME TRADES HAVE ASKED INCREASE OF FROM 15 TO 25 PER CENT.

OTTAWA, April 14. — George Cain, secretary of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Building and Construction Industries, has issued a general statement that in almost every department of the building trades here contractors are agreed to reduce wages. The wage reduction has been made known to the tradesmen, but the Building Trades Council has not yet discussed the matter.

Increases in wages averaging from 15 to 25 per cent. per hour were asked by some trades, in a schedule recently submitted to the contractors by the Building Trades Council. Other trades asked that last year's wage agreement be renewed, while no trade showed a willingness to accept a reduction.

In an announcement in the Ottawa press the builders assure the public that they may rest assured of a reduction this year in building costs of from 15to 20 per cent. "On the other hand," they declare, "we wish the men to understand that it is our policy as in the past to avoid all possible friction, and to adjust matters with that sense of reason and justice which will preserve the good feeling which has hitherto existed between the contractors and the employes in the building trades.

Bricklayers, masons and laborers are offered 10 cents an hour reduction; carpenters 5c. an hour, and a fall of from 15 to 20 per cent. in construction costs is promised.

DOGS CAUSE WAR ON RATS.

Barking Keeps Mt. Vernon Awake, So Health Officials Act.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 14.—The health authorities of Mount Vernon have declared war on rats at the city dump. Dogs turned loose on the dump were so far outnumbered by the rats that many returned home with their noses bleeding from bites inflicted by the rats.

Residents of Sixth Street have complained that the rats keep them awake nights, drawing half the dogs in town to the dump, where the dogs keep up a continual barking. So Dr. T. Harold Tallman, Health Officer, and Dr. Gustave Horstmann, bacteriologist, had a large quantity of strychnine sprinkled over the rubbish. The operation will be repeated until the nuisance is abated.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McKee Bingham are leaving Saturday for their summer cottage at Gore's Landing. They will return to Peterborough early in the fall, when Mr. Bingham will resume his teaching.

The second of the series of informal dances given at the Conservatory of Music last evening was a great success. The music supplied was excellent. Refreshments were served during the evening by the King's Daughters.

At the regular weekly "At Home" of the Holy Name Society of the Immaculate Conception Church held last evening in the Parish Hall, the prizes for cards, a bag of potatoes, was won by Mr. Michael Hickey of the Sacred Heart parish, and a teapot, by Mrs. Leo Cleary, of East City. The prize cake made by Mrs. McGrath was won by Mrs. Bruce Law, of Sherbrooke street.

The regular monthly meeting of the Central Home and School Association was held last evening, with a good attendance. A very interesting and encouraging talk on the work of the Associations was given by Mrs. Medd, and a report of the meetings in connection with Home and School work which tok place at the Ontario Educational Association Convention held in Toronto recently. Mrs. Medd attended this convention, and reported that representatives from over 200 Home and School Associations were present there, some coming from New Ontario and as far away as Vancouver, showing the strides which this new branch of educational endeavor is making all over Canada.

A pleasant little musical progarmme was given during the evening. Miss Maragret Denne rendered a piano solo, Mrs. Hughes a vocal number, and Miss Evelyn Miller recited.

SEVENTY-EIGHT TEACHERS AND NOT ONE MALE.

MILTON, Ont., April 14. — Inspector J. N. Denyes announces that the rural schools of the Halton and Wentworth Inspectorate have 78 teachers, and out of this number, not one is a man, which is a striking contrast to several years ago, when young men took up teaching as a stepping stone to the professions. He believes that boys should receive some of their teaching from men, and considers the absence of male teachers in the rural schools to be a very unfortunate state of affairs.

BILL PROVIDING THIS APPROVED BY LEGISLATTRE COMMITTEE.

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—The legal bills committee of the Ontario Legislature today approved of the bill presented by Sergeant-Major McNamara, Riverdale, providing for the maintenance of dependent parents by their children.

Under this measure, which will probably be passed by the legislature, a parent is to be deemed dependent on adult children, if such parent is by reason of age or infirmity unable to maintain himself or herself .In case such children do not carry out this obligation they may be summoned before a magistrate or police justices and ordered to pay a sum not exceeding twenty dollars weekly for such maintenance.

STINNES OFFER TO DANES.

Would Buy Steel Plant to Escape Entente's Tariff.

COPENHAGEN, April 14.—It has been learned on good authority that Hugo Stinnes, the German capitalist, has approached the Danish steel works, known as the Roadvaddam Fabrikker, now facing liquidation, and offered to purchase the shares of the majority stockholders at 25 per cent. of their nominal value.

It is said that Herr Stinnes would continue the works as the Danish branch of his famous knife manufactory at Solingen, with the purpose of evading a retaliatory duty on his exports by Entente countries.

Opening Night at the Motor Show Attracted Largest Numbers Ever

IN SPITE OF A DRIZZLING RAIN THE ARMOURIES WAS THRONGED BY THE LARGEST CROWD WHICH EVER ATTENDED THE EVENT ON AN OPENING NIGHT.

EVERY ATTRACTION SCORED HEAVILY

Despite unclement weather conditions, the Motor Show last evening, with one of the biggest opening attendances in its history, got off to a real good start.

After the parade, Rev. Father Phelan opened the proceedings with a short address, commenting on the good work of the Peterborough Health Association, who benefit directing by the success of the Motor Show, and urging the attendance of all who wish to help on its charitable activities for the coming season.

There was a crowd of merry sightseers all evening, who, one and all, seemed to have a thoroughly good time.

Every one of the attractions was largely patronized. The dance-hall was crowded all evening, and excellent music was provided by the Syncopated Three from the Conservatory of Music. Light refreshments for the benefit of the dancers will be sold this evening on the balcony. The fashion parade, in charge of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E., was well patronized, the lecture hall being filled for each show. Excellent models showed off some very beautiful gowns and furs provided by Barries, Ltd., while the hats came from "The Vanity" shop. Owing to the shortage of mannequins, the Chapter regrets being unable to take adavntage of the kind offer of "The Fashion Shop" to provide gowns for this showing.

The immense basket at the entrance of the hall was a vision of rose-filled beauty, and all evening, charming girls circulated amongst the crowd and sold roses, carnations and narcissus. The ice cream had a brisk sale, and the doughnuts, coffee and soft drinks purveyed by the ladies in charge of the Catholic League booth, with assistants in dainty white and yellow, were very popular. The beautifully-decorated booth for the sale of home-made candy makes a bright splash of color, and the products on sale here are just as good as the floral embellishments. The fish-pond proved a wonderful attraction of the kiddies, and the raffle booth was surrounded at all times. There are some fine exhibits in the way of automobile accessories and rubber goods, and well-patronized corner was the one occupied by the Utilities Commission model kitchen.

Many people are a good deal wiser with regard to the ways of electricity to-day than yesterday through inspection of the many large and small objects displayed here, and demonstrations of electric sweepers, different sorts of washers, dish-washing machines, electric stoves, and small appliances, including floor-waxers and water-heaters, were much enjoyed by the ladies.

There is something very appealing about the appetizing display of the Canadian Packing Company's wares; cooked meats, hams and eggs, in delicate cartons, all most attractively arranged.

A feature of the evening's entertainment was the music provided by the orchestra from the Conservatory of Music, which played untiringly all evening, and the Pipe Band of the Caledonian Club added a great deal of brisk harmony to the opening parade: "Highland Laddie," "Athol Highlanders," "Barren Rocks of Aden," "McKenzie Highlanders," and "Kinmuir's on and awa'," in a swelling burst of Scotch melody, were finely rendered by this, the one band that turned out for the Motor Show opening. There will be special music to-night, with vocal solos by Miss Lillian Eastwood, a pupil of the Conservatory.

Prizes Won.

Five excellent prizes were won last evening on the admission tickets, only one of which was claimed. The system, which is not quite clear to some, is to issue admission tickets with a stub attached. The buyer retains the stub, and the ticket goes in the box, from which a drawing is made at 9.30 every evening. The lucky number may then claim the prize belonging to the holder of same. Some confusion would be avoided if those holding ticket-stubs would be present at the drawing and claim their prize. The articles donated are excellent value. In these days, there is a great deal to be said in favor of a barrel of flour or a ham and side of bacon, which come for the sum of a quarter, and when you can get an auto tire or a silk umbrella for the small price demanded for a raffle ticket, what more could anyone desire?

To-night there will be many useful articles and an auction at the raffle booth, and the admission tickets will give you a chance of winning a barrel of flour, half a dozen "Roy" photographs, a six-quart ice cream freezer, a suit length, or a ham and side of bacon, for the extremely low price of two bits.

THE MAN ANSWERING SMALL'S DESCRIPTION HAS VANISHED

INQUIRIES IN KINGSTON INDICATE THAT THE SAME MAN MAY HAVE SPENT THE FIRST WEEK IN MARCH IN THAT CITY, ACTING VERY QUEERLY AND CARRYING MUCH MONEY.

KINGSTON, April 15. (Exclusive despatch to the Examiner.) — Did Ambrose J. Small, the missing Toronto millionaire theatrical man, spend the first week in March, in Kingston?

From information secured here this morning a man answering the description of Mr. Small was in Kingston, during the first week in March. It is believed that this man is the same one about whom reports were made on Thursday, as having been staying at Verona.

W. E. Hopkinsen, grocer, says a man answering the description of Mr. Small was in Kingston, the first week in March. The man answered the description given of the man who had been at Verona.

The first information Mr. Hopkinsen had concerning the "man of mystery" was when he called at the home of his wife's brother, Benj. Demarsh, Jr., at Bedford Mills, the last week in February. When he called at the home of Mr. Demarsh, he claimed to be a relative from Buckingham, Quebec, and acted very queer. The man had a large sum of money, and paid for his keep but expressed no desire to work. He had a big wad of bills tied around one of his legs.

At the time the man came to Kingston he said that he wanted to secure some tools to build a barn. He stayed with a man named Young, a carpenter living on Division street for a week. Mr. Hopkinsen says the man had tea at his house one night. The man acted so queer that people who met him were afraid of him, and he was allowed to leave the city without being apprehended or even questioned.

The reporter made inquiries around Verona this morning and was informed that "the man of mystery" had disappeared from that district since Tuesday night, and had not been noticed since. County constables are keeping a close watch and if the man supposed to be the missing millionaire puts in an appearance it is a safe bet that someone will net him.

TORONTO MEDICAL AUTHORITIES VINDICATE PETERBORO CATS OF SPREADING THE SCARLET FEVER

TORONTO, April 15 (Exclusive Despatch to The Examiner).—Once more "Pussyfoot" has been vindicated. This time, however, it is not the eminent American Prohibition worker, bearing that sobriquet, but the common or garden feline of the average Canadian home, who was under fire.

A despatch from Peterborough attributed the spread of scarlet fever there to carrying of germs by pet cats. Toronto medical authorities returned a verdict of "not guilty" in the charge against tabby.

"I think we have much more to fear from human carriers than from any animal,' said Dr. C. J. O. Hastings, M.O.H. "Investigations have proven that cats or dogs very rarely carry disease germs. The reason for the spread of the epidemic is found in the mildness of the cases. Many persons do not realise they have scarlet fever until they have carried the infection to a number of others.

Dr. Hastings stated there was "the usual amount" of scarlet fever in Toronto, but no more. "It is one of those diseases that are always present," he explained. "Scarlet fever is carried by missed cases—that is, by cases which have been overlooked or have not been discovered."

Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Medical Officer of Health for Ontario, agreed.

BELIEVE GOVT. WILL APPROVE BUYING POWER

LOCAL MEMBERS OF DEPUTATION WHICH URGED POWER OWNERSHIP SATISFIED.

UNSCRAMBLE PROPERTY

With the personal support of Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, and Premier Drury's promise that the proposed transfer of the Trent power properties from the Government to the municipalities in this district would receive the earliest possible attention, the local delegates returned from Toronto last night convinced that in a comparatively short time this project will be accomplished.

"We were well received by the Premier," said Mr. R. Hicks. "He apparently regarded the municipal ownership of Hydro powers as an established custom. We were so impressed by the favorable hearing given our request that we came away with a strong feeling that this scheme will go through."

Unscramble Properties.

Mr. E. F. Mason, who with Mr. Hicks represented the Peterborough Utilities Commission, reported Sir Adam Beck's expression that the Government's properties in this district would have to be unscrambled, properly inventoried, and set out in a form that could be laid before the municipalities. For example when the Seymour Power Company's assets were acquired they included gas plants, a street railway system, pulp mills, planing mills, power houses and transmission systems. Some of these are regarded as primarily public utilities, but the planing mill would fall into the private ownership class. Hence, it is understood that Sir Adam Beck's intention is to separate these properties into the categories into which they naturally fall. When that is done, the Commission will have a complete and exact list of the utilities desired by the Trent municipalities. There may arise the question as to whether Peterborough would assume the street railway and gas plant in this proposed deal, but it is more than likely that the "unscrambling" process suggested by Sir Adam Beck will definitely separate them from the power properties. The Central Ontario towns and cities want to buy the power plants and the transmission systems now owned by the provincial government and operated by the Hydro-Electric Commission, and to simplify the transaction it will probably be restricted to these utilities.

Influential Deputation.

T. H. Stinson, of Lindsay, secretary of the Trent Association, introduced to Premier Drury the men who had been chosen at a preliminary meeting in the Hydro-Electric offices to present the petition. They were Mayor McIntyre and R. Hicks of Peterborough, Mayor O'Reilly, Lindsay, Mayor Hooey, Coburg, and Reeve Vickery, Oshawa.

Mr. Mason stated to the Examiner that some of the municipalities apparently are not yet acquainted with the details of this scheme. That is the only explanation he could offer for their failure to suppport it. The municipalities which undertake this co-operative enterprise will eventually become owners of the entire system of generating plants and transmission lines. Those which hold aloof will simply remain customers instead of blooming as co-proprietors. The municipalities represented were Peterborough, Havelock, Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg, Belleville, Oshawa and Omemee.

COUNSELL SAYS RANEY LIES IN REPLY TO-DAY

CHARACTERIZES RANEY'S ATTACK ON HIM AS "COWARDLY"; DENIES ACCUSATIONS.

"WILL HANG HIMSELF"

HAMILTON, April 15.—(Canadian Press).—J. L. Counsell, the Hamilton lawyer, who defended Magistrate Hastings in the celebrated Dunnville investigation, today fired a broadside at Attorney-General Raney for his remarks in the Legislature last night, when the Minister charged that Counsell had been employed by the bootlegging and gambling fraternities.

"Typical of Raney and cowardly as well," he said. "Raney was speaking in the House, where he knows he is privileged. He knows he is lying. Raney is doing more for the liquor interests than anybody I know. People will stand only so much. Give him enough rope and he will hang himself and take the prohibition people with him."

Mr. Counsell added that he would answer any statement Mr. Raney might make if he had the courage to make it outside the House.

Split in the Triple Alliance; To-night's Strike is Cancelled; Miners to Resume Negotiations

UNEXPECTED AND SENSATIONAL SPLIT IN THE RANKS OF ALLIANCE THIS AFTERNOON CHANGED COMPLEXION OF THE BLACKEST INDUSTRIAL CRISIS BRITAIN EVER FACED.

MINERS MEET TO-MORROW TO CONSIDER IT

LONDON, April 15 (Canadian Press).—The calling of the conference of representatives of the miners from all the coalfields at a date to be fixed to-morrow, was decided upon by the Miners' Federation Executive this evening.

It took this action after hearing the decision of the railwaymen and transport workers to cancel their sympathetic strike.

The unexpected and sensational split in the ranks of the Triple Alliance this afternoon completely changed the complexion of the blackest industrial crisis Great Britain had ever faced, and averted the projected strike of the railwaymen and transport workers, set for ten o'clock to-night.

Events developed suddenly, and left the public in a maze.

Simultaneously with the announcement in the Commons by Premier Lloyd-George that the miners had declined to accept the invitation to re-open negotiations with the mine owners on the terms advanced by Frank Hodges, the miners' secretary, came the announcement that the railroad men and transport workers had "cancelled" the strike called for to-night.

The reason for this action quickly developed. It appeared that conferences throughout the day among the members of the Triple Alliance had developed heated controversy revolving about Hodge's proposals.

The miners condemned these, with the assertion that Hodges had conceded too much, while the railwaymen and the transport workers declared the proposition was reasonable, and that the miners should renew negotiations.

The miners remained obdurate, and an open breach resulted.

LONDON, April 15 (Canadian Press). — Lloyd-George announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the miners had refused to re-open negotiations for a settlement of the strike on the basis that had been suggested.

The announcement that the railwaymen's strike, set for ten o'clock to-night, had been cancelled was made at four o'clock this afternoon by General Secretary Thomas, of the Railwaymen's Union.

BLAST SHAKES COUNTRYSIDE

PLANT OF UNITED STATES FIREWORKS COMPANY WRECKED AND DISTRICT ROCKED FOR 25 MILES.

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT

RANDOLPH, April 15. — (Canadian Press.) — Randolph was knocked early to-day by a series of explosions in the plant of the United States Fireworks Company, which with the subsequent fire, wiped out that plant, shivered the houses for miles around, and tossed sleeping people from their beds, in a shower of falling glass and overturned furniture.

No persons were seriously injured but the property damage was estimated at fifty thousand dollars. The blast was felt within a radius of 25 miles.

COME DOWN EARLY TO M. FINE'S

A LUCKY PURCHASE OF MEN'S AND WOMEN'S APPAREL—ASTOUNDING LOW PRICES.

Shoppers will have an opportunity to make both sides of their dollars count to-morrow at M. Fine's dry goods store, 427 George street. A bi gsnap was offered him the other day by which he secured a new stock of new spring waists, suits, dresses and other wearing apparel for ladies at surprisingly low figures — the lowest ever secured in these lines. Ladies who appreciate unusual bargains should be sure to see these goods early to-morrow. Prices will be a sacrifice.

Men will also find in this big snap splendid chances to buy new spring clothing and furnishings. Don't miss it. 1d

HATTON SALE OF PURE BRED STOCK RETURNED $4,000

AUCTION OF AYRSHIRES AND SHORT HORNS ATTRACTED MANY BUYERS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

More than $4000 was realized by Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton at his sale of high grade stock and farm implements at Walkerfield farm yesterday afternoon. W. J. Hancock, the auctioneer, said the bidding was brisk and it only took from two o'clock till five to dispose of the stock and implements.

Crown Attorney Hatton was pleased with the prices most of the stock went at and said the sale was highly satisfactory in every way.

The cattle sold at good figures. Most of the stock were pure bred Ayreshires selling at $150 on the average, the top price being $1.75. J. T. O'Connell got three and the Brown Bros., of North Monaghan, two. One of the three shorthorns, sold at $225 and the other two at $125. Bowles Bros., of Springville, secured two of the Shorthorns.

One heavy horse brought $215 and a colt sold for $100.

Frank Montgomery got a Chester White brood sow for $95 and 8 hogs sold at from $17 to $18

A flock of Plymouth and Barred Rocks and White Wyandottes went to a Hebrew buyer at $2.50 each and another man got the White Leghorns at $1.50.

The farm implements sold well and by five o'clock everything was cleaned out. The sale was particularly well attended, buyers aware of the fine quality of the stock coming from all over the county to bid.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

HYDRO BREAKING WORLD'S RECORD FOR EXCAVATION

Last night's meeting of the Engineering Institute was well attended ,the Council room of the Board of Trade being filled to the doors.

The speaker was Mr. A. C. D. Blanchard, of Niagara Falls, Chief Field Engineer for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission on the Chippewa Development.

Mr. Blanchard described in detail the many construction methods in use on this immense work. Particularly interesting were the large 8-yard electric shovels which are establishing a world's record for excavation.

There is a considerable quantity of rock to be taken out and this part of the work was described from the work of the channellers to the crushers, where the rock was prepared for use on concrete.

Slides were shown of the power house and the machinery. The audience were pleased when told that Peterborough would supply two of the giant generators. Mr. Blanchard brought with him some moving pictures showing the construction machinery in operation. To those who had not seen the largest shovels in the world in action, it was interesting to see how these huge mechanisms would do their work, and the precisions with which they were handled.

The drilling of the blast holes, the loading with dynamite and the blasting were all shown in detail.

Parts of the pictures were taken from an airplane and showed the route of the power canal through the country.

Mr. Blanchard said that it was expected to turn the water into the power canal about the first of September and that the generators and water wheels would be running shortly afterwards.

Mr. F. B. Brown of Montreal, who was among those present, spoke briefly at the conclusion of the address and commented favorably on the size of the undertaking and the fact that Canadian engineers were responsible for the whole of it.

The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Blanchard.

Memorial to Fallen of Campbellford is Proposed for $6,000

RESOLUTION PASSED AT MEETING FAVORING ERECTION OF A MONUMENT TO CAMPBELLFORD MEN WHO MADE SUPREME SACRIFICE IN THE GREAT WAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 15. — The Memorial committee met on Thursday, April 14, in the Council Chambers of the Public Library to discuss the erection of a suitable monument.

Those present were Mayor Meyers, Deputy-reeve Stone, Councillor J. Wilkinson of the Town Council, Councillors Grills and Donal of the Seymour Township Council, Mrs. Hume, Mrs. J. Archer and Mrs. A. Haig from the Daughters of the Empire; H. Stephens and W. T. Davidson from the Great War Veterans' Association, and Rev. Mr. MacIntosh to represent the clergymen.

Mayor Meyers, as convenor, opened the meeting by saying that business would be commenced by choosing a chairman of the committee, but this on mot'on was left to the next meeting.

Mr. Stephens spoke, saying that the Great War Veterans desired a monument as a memorial to the fallen heroes in preference to a hospital, as a hospital would cost too much to maintain and construct.

The ladies of the I.O.D.E. expressed the same opinion.

A leter from Rev. Father Whibbs was read, stating that he could not act on this committee.

Rev. Mr. McIntosh expressed the opinion that a hospital would be the most appropriate memorial.

Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. Donal said that they considered a monument the most appropriate.

Mr. J. N. Stone pointed out that the military authorities seemed to favour the erection of monuments. He thought that the people should decide what to build.

Mr. W. T. Davidson favored a monument on which the names of those who paid the supreme sacrifice could be recorded.

Finally a motion was passed that the Council favor the erection of a monument as a memorial.

Mr. McCallum, of Kingston, was present and presented some large sized, coloured paintings of memorial monuments. He gave the dimensions of each, the first being on a large base eight feet square. There were two smaller bases on this and then a die on which is a bronze statute of a Canadain soldier which statue is about seven and one-half feet high. The height over all would be about eighteen feet and the cost $6,000. Another monument was a rectangular granite one, with a raised part bearing a bronze plate, which would cost about $5,000. The majority seemed to favour the first. The names would be either on a bronze tablet or in raised letters on the granite or sunken letters or letters let in with lead.

A motion was passed recommending the expenditure of about $6,000 for the building and erecting of a monument for the fallen heroes. The meeting then adjourned till May 9th, 1921.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 15.—There was a meeting held in the Public Library on Wednesday evening to organise sports for the Methodist Church. A large number of men and boys were present, and the matter was thoroughly dealt with.

The following officers were appointed:

Hon. president — Rev. H. B. Kenny.

President—Mr. P. Denyes.

Manager—Mr. Chas. Davidson.

Secy.-Treas.—Mr. Heayne.

Executive Committee — Mr. Stafford, Mr. Calver, Mr. Saunders, Mr. J. Gay.

New Garage.

Mr. Harry Meiklejohn, who has spent the last four and a half years in various automobile factories in Detroit, has returned to Campbellford to open a garage on Bridge Street, where he owns the premises occupied by Mr. Chamberlain last season. Mr. Meiklejohn is an expert mechanic, and is a graduate in electricity, acetylene welding and motor work. He intends to install an excellent plant for welding and radiator and body repair work.

Personals.

Mr. Meyers, of Peterborough, made a business trip to Campbellford on Thursday.

Mr. P. Levesconte, of E. F. Mason & Co., Peterborough, renewed acquaintances in town on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Maynard, of Ryrie Bros., Toronto, spent a few days of this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Maynard, of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers, of Kingston, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Free.

KERMESSE WAS HUGE SUCCESS AT LAKEFIELD

NEARLY $400 WAS REALIZED YESTERDAY FROM ENJOYABLE AFFAIR.

LAKEFIELD, April 15th—The kermesse held on Thursday afternoon and evening, under the auspices St. John's Church, Lakefield, in the Memorial Hall, was an unqualified success. Nearly $400 was realized, which was most gratifying to the ladies in charges. Mrs. E. R. Tate was the chief executive of an able corps of workers, who for weeks had prepared for this big affair. The hall was attractively decorated with peach blossoms, which gave a spring-like air to the festive scene. The orchestra, which played untiring all afternoon, assisted by Mrs. E. R. Tate, pianists, Mrs. Strickland, and Mrs. Britton, violins, Mrs. Atwood and Mr. Todd, banjos, Miss Florence Atwood, mandolin, Mr. Fawcett, drums and bells was assisted in the evening by Mr Trueman Jewell with his cornet. The music was much enjoyed and was a great attraction. Mr. John Sanderson and Mrs. A. Wanamaker were in charge of bevy of little girls selling flowers. These pretty little maids were dressed to represent flowers, and were the Misses Ruth Junkin, Ruth Morin, Ida Webster, Miriam Tate, Ione Sanderson, Mabel Junkin, Angela Osborne, Alice Dench, Maxwell Hamilton, Winifred Payne, Helen Everett, Hazel Crawford and Yvonne Stewart. Mrs. Wm. Watson, Jr. was in charge of a quilt which was made by the Women's Auxiliary and was drawn for, Miss Clara Doidge holding the lucky ticket. Mrs. Mahood, Mrs. Northcott, Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Hampton presided at the home-cooking table, and did a thriving business. Mrs. Fitzgerall and Mrs. Dench were at the jumble table and many genuine bargains were secured there. One beautiful oak tea tray with brass trimimings made and donated by Mr. Sam White was drawn for Miss Graham was in charge of this tray, which was won by Mrs. Lawrence Charlton. Mrs. Osborne was a strong attraction as a fortune teller, receiving her clients in a mysterious-looking tent, guarded by two little gypsy boys, Gordon Strickland and Derrick Nelson. Miss Helen Simpson who was a pretty Puritan maid, had the wheel of fortune and made a neat little sum, and Mrs. Eric Greer, as Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, did a thriving trade in vegetables, and had a real little house in which to display her wares Mrs. Marling, Mrs. Alfred, Mrs. G. Simpson and Miss Ruth Crawford did a good business at the candy table, which is always popular with old and young. Mrs. Bogue took charge of the handkerchief line, which held a place between the fortune- telling tent and the home-cooking table. Afternoon tea was under the direction of Miss Trude Waldon, who was ably assisted by Mrs. Chappell, Mrs. Percy Watson Mrs Hope, Mrs. Stenner, Miss Amy Watson, Miss Estella Watson, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Ogilvie, Miss Rhoda Alford, Miss Dorothy Turner, Miss Alice Dunsford, Miss Mabel Lemay, Miss Mary Hampton, Mrs. Stiles, Miss Helen Watson, Miss Ferne Wanamaker, Miss May Mahood, Miss Verna Tayne, Mrs. Sam White had charge of the ice-cream table and had busy afternoon and evening. In the evening a first-class minstrel show was given, which attracted a very good crowd. Mr G. G. Connell, presided at the piano, and Messrs. E. R. Tate, O. A. Langley, R. D. Murduff, and R. L. Mason were end men. Mr. T. B. Marling made a capital interlocutor Able members of the troupe were Messrs. J. C. Strickland, Bert Kidd, Kennen Hamilton, Ira Lennox, G. E. Donaldson, Geo. King, Allan Hunter and Wm. Fairbairn. The minstrels were much appreciated and their jokes received well merited applause. Local hits abounded and were well received specially those which referred to the vagaries of the Lakefield trains. Mr. Tate was the outstanding figure and excelled even his former good performances. The following sang solos; Mr. Lennox "When the Sun Goes Down in Dixie"; Mr. Kidd, "Carry me Back to Ole Virginny"; Mr. King, "Under Southern Skies"; Mr. Donaldson, "Just Kiss Yourself Goodbye"; Mr. Langley, "Climb up, ye Chilluns, Climb". The songs were splendidly rendered and heartily encored Messrs. Tate, Langley, Mason, Murduff and Kidd were the comedians and kept the ball of fun rolling.

After the minstrel show, an informal dance was held, for which most of the audience remained until the midnight hour. Buffet refreshments were served during the evening.

CAMPAIGN FOR DISCREDITING LAW ALLEGED

RANEY, IN SELF DEFENSE BEFORE HOUSE, CHARGES DELIBERATE EFFORT FOR THIS PURPOSE.

"PROPAGANDA OF LIES"

TORONTO, April 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Defending himself against the criticisms and personal atacks was, he declared, to be a part of a province-wide effort to discredit the Ontario Temperance Act, Attorney-General Raney, speaking to the question of O.T.A. appeals in the Legislature, charged J. L. Counsell, counsel for Magistrate Hastings at the Cayuga investigation with having been "employed by bootleggers and gambling fraternities."

Before the incident ended hot words were passed between Dr. Forbes Godfrey, West York, and Hon. Mr. Raney, in which the Attorney General was invited to repeat the words outside the House and was informed he was beneath contempt tonight.

In the same connection Hon. Mr. Raney declared that there is a deliberate propaganda of lies, torrents of lies, promulgated chiefly by the Toronto mouthpieces of the bootleggers and gambling fraternities and deliberately designed to discredit the law and its enforcement, and that the campaign has been gathering head for a year and is now at the peak.

After debating most of the afternoon and evening the issue of O.T.A. appeals, all three of the proposals before the Legislature were declared lost on a division at 12.30 this morning. H. H. Dewart, Liberal leader, and Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Conservative leader, then viciously protested an effort on Premier Drury's part to "jam through" the Attorney-General's bill, proposing appeals to county judges, on the evidence adducted. The Premier withdrew the bill and the House went on with other business. The Sinclair amendment proposed an appeal to the county judge with a rehearing of evidence at the discretion of the county judge.

MELBOURNE JURY CHARGES MURDER

AGAINST SYDNEY MURRELL AND TWO COMPANIONS IN BANK ROBBERY CASE.

LONDON, Ont., April 15.—(Canadian Press.)— A verdict definitely naming Sydney Murrell as the murderer of Russell Campbell, with a rider declaring that William Murrell and William H. Vaughan, alias "Slim" Williams, are equally guilty, although they did not fire the shot, was returned at Melbourne yesterday by the jury which, under Coroner Dr. Woods, of Mount Brydges, conducted an inquest into the Melbourne bank robbery.

The bandits were brought back to London last night and will be arraigned next week before the county magistrate on a murder charge. No trace of the fourth bandit has as yet been secured.

G.T.R. MUST HAND CONTROL OVER AT ONCE

SIR JAMES LOUGHEED IN SENATE SAYS NO FURTHER ARBITRATION UNTIL ROAD IS SURRENDERED.

RESTS WITH RAILWAY

OTTAWA, April 15. — (Canadian Press.) — In the Senate yesterday, Sir James Lougheed, Government leader, speaking for the Government said that there would be no resumption of arbitration proceedings unless and until the Grand Trunk complied with the Government's demand and surrendered control of the road. In the event of compliance a new agreement would be necessary, and this he believed would call for special legislation by Parliament.

Senator Drummond said, "If the Grand Trunk does not comply, what then?"

Sir James Lougheed replied: — "That is something which depends upon the Grand Trunk."

GORDON TAKES LEADING PART IN THE FIGHT

DEFENDS POSTAL EMPLOYEES AND OPPOSES PROPOSED CUT IN POSTAL BONUSES.

RECEIVES SUPPORT

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, April 15.—G. N. Gordon, Liberal member for West Peterborough, figured prominently in the fight on behalf of the postal mail carriers and other smaller salaried civil servants this afternoon in the House of Commons.

Mr. Gordon was particularly keen on it, because so many postmen were returned soldiers who worked for a mere pittance during the war, and were still underpaid by the state He argued that the cost of living had not come down appreciably in cities like Peterborough, and that as far as these men were concerned there should not be the cut in bonus which is being made this year by the Government. It ought to continue until there was a decrease in living.

Even then, mail carriers were not getting the salaries which their constant life in all kinds of weather warranted. Rain or shine, these men carried on the service of the King, and a country could not afford to treat such servants with indifference.

His views were backed by many members, including some from the Government side.

It will be further discussed when the Post Office Estimates are up for discussion.

OTTAWA, April 15 (Canadian Press).—A reaction, after two protracted sittings, marked by sharp party conflict was noticeable in the Commons yesterday.

Although a considerable volume of business was transacted, the proceedings lacked the "pep" of those the preceding days.

The Interim Supply Bil, which was the cause of the much disputation on Tuesday and late on Wednesday, was passed after the discussion of some details of the proposed expenditure.

Renew Negotiations For Settling Strike

NEWSPAPER LEADS

P. C. Larkin, Toronto, acclaimed the "Tea King of America," and President of the Salada Tea Company, lays great stress on the newspaper as an advertising medium. He says that, in spite of every sort of setback from dealers and others, their policy of daily newspaper advertising only has forced the merchants to obey the popular voice of the tea-drinkers. "I could easily quote figures to show how incalculably large a share newspaper advertisihg may have in the forming of national tastes course to fall on the school sections.

LONDON, April 15.—(Canadian Press.)—The British mine owners and representatives of the National Federation of Miners, have accepted an invitation extended by the Prime Miniser to renew negotiations for settlement of the miners' strike. Acceptance by the miners this morning, however, was subject to the sanction of the other unions making up the "Triple Alliance." These organizations are the Railwaymen and Transport Workers.

FRIDAY, APRIL 15TH, 1921.

THE PREMIER IS RIGHT.

Premier Drury in hsi speech in Toronto the other night completely exposed the "Government control" fallacy, showing clearly that such a system would be impossible so long as the importation of liquor was permitted. The first step in a campaign for Government control, the Premier told his hearers, as The Examiner has repeatedly told its readers, should be to cut off importation by the people of the Province. This having been done, the way would be opened for the launching of a systematic demand for Government control, and Hon. Mr. Drury promised that if such a demand was made emphatically enough he would provide an opportunity to test public opinion on the matter. It was the British way of doing things, the Premier concluded.

Every sensible man will agree with Mr. Drury, and the attempt to fool people into voting "no" on Monday in the hope of attaining a system of "Government control" is doomed to failure. Only by preventing the importation of liquor by the individual can the people of this Province obtain Government control, and every voter who sincerely believes in that method of dealing with the liquor problem has only one logical course before him on Monday, and that i to vote "yes." By adopting any other course, he is casting doubt either on his ability to think or on the genuineness of his advocacy of Government control.

THE POWER TRANSFER.

The Ontario Government has promised through the Premier himself to give early consideration to the request from the municipalities of Central Ontario that the power system be transferred to the ownership of the municipalities themselves. The deputation which waited upon the Premier yesterday presented their case skilfully, and Sir Adam Beck and G. H. Kilmer, K.C., counsel for the Hydro-electric Commission, spoke favourably of the plan, so that there is every hope that the Government will consent to the transfer. The matter is one of great importance to Peterborough and other municipalities in the district, who want to be placed on the same status as cities and towns in Western Ontario. The latter have been operating on such a system for some years, and one of them, the city of Guelph, among the first to enter into the scheme, is already out of debt. The deputation yesterday was the result of the meeting of representatives of the municipalities here some weeks ago, and the apparently successful result of the visit to Queen's Park is a matter for gratification. It is believed that there will be no difficulty in arranging the details of the transfer.

RURAL VOTERS.

The Examiner asks its rural readers to note that there was an error in these columns last night in regard to the qualifications of rural voters. The quotation from the Dominion Elections Act giving the form of oath required, ignored the fact that for the purpose of this particular referendum the Act has been amended. Under the Dominion Act, it is required of the voter that he must have resided in the particular polling sub-division in which he is applying for a vote for at least two months prior to February 1st, 1921. The amendment to the section which applies to Monday's vote reads as follows:

"That you have ordinarily resided in Canada for at least twelve months and in Ontario for at least two months immediately preceding the first day of February, 1921."

This means that rural voters who are not on the lists but who have been residents of Canada for a year and of Ontario for two months prior to the first of February, may claim a vote on Monday. It does not matter if he has moved into the polling sub-division only this week so long as he fills the other qualifications. This is an important pont, and The Examiner hopes that this added information will remove any doubt about the matter that may have existed, or that may have been caused by yesterday's reference to the qualifications.

CLEAN UP NOW!

The Examiner's advice of a week ago to the householders to take advantage of the early appearance of summer weather to inaugurate the annual spring clean up of back yards as soon as possible has been endorsed by Medical Officer of Health Dr. Young and Sanitary Inspector Stapleton, who announce that they intend to launch their drive for a cleaner city at once. The Inspector's statement that, in view of the splendid weather, the yards should be presentable now, is one that cannot be denied, but, unfortunately, many people have been postponing the clean up and some of the premises are in a condition that is far from creditable. The announcement that the authorities are preparing for their inspection should be a sufficient warning to the citizens who have been neglectful. Similiarly, the declaration of the M.O.H. that the cellars and basements of the business establishments are to be closely inspected as a step in the battle against the fly evil, should result in activity in the business sections. A clean city is a healthy city—a safer city, a more pleasing city in which to live—and the people are urged to back up the efforts of the authorities in every way possible.

TWO QUERIES.

In the interesting discussion of the railway wage question which took place in Toronto between Mr. James Murdock, on behalf of the railway unions and Mr. D'Arcy Scott, ex-Vice-Chairman of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners, Mr. Murdock gave figures to show that the wages railway men ran from $1,597 a year for through-freight brakemen, (the lowest-paid class of railway workers, other than laborers or maintenance-of-way men) upwards; and Mr. Murdock asked:

> "Can we say that with rent, light, heat, clothes, food and taxes at the present prices now in evidence, that these men can be assured of a decent living and secure for their children necessary education on a lower wage than the rates stated?"

A query of that kind is a difficult one to answer, from any generous point of view. As a consequence, it is asked on the union side in all wage controversies.

But that query involves another, which we suppose to be equally difficult of answer.

Namely, can we say that if any class of workers are not offered as much pay in some industry, for instance the railway industry, as they think they need to live on, should they receive an addition to their pay from the taxes or means of the rest of the people? In other words, in the railway case, should the railway workers claim public charity to maintain their incomes at $1,597 a year and upwards?

The railway case is a fitting one in which to contrast the two queries. In some industries, the full accounts of which are not made public, the worker suspects that some excessive profit is made by somebody which limits his wages. When he asks, "Am I not entitled to a good living wage?" and is countered by the plea that the industry can not afford to give him all he wants, he expects to retort, "Yes, it can, if some of you folks who supply the capital will do with less profit than I suspect you make." But obviously profit is not the condition at present with the railway business. The railway companies of Canada and the United States at present are losing at the rate of a thousand million dollars a year, almost the only road in America which is paying a dividend is the C.P.R., and the C.P.R. is paying that dividend, not from railway operation but only by the aid of other branches of the company's business.

If, therefore, present railway wages and railway working conditions are to be maintained, they can be maintained only by public charity. Either there must be increased passenger and freight rates, which means soaking the public in a business way, or in the case of the National Railway system in Canada, the Government must meet railway deficit by taxation.

And now, how are you going to answer the two queries?

1. Should workers always get what they consider a necessary living wage?

2. Should workers always get what they consider a necessary living wage from public charity?—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Local motorists do not seem to be breaking the speed limit so far as joining the Automobile Association is concerned.

Hon. C. A. Windle is apparently putting the "boom" in "boomerang."

That fifty-mile chase London detectives had after rum-runners was a spirited affair, as The Toronto Star would doubtless express it.

The Pussyfoots and Windles may do most of the talking, but after all the individual voter can do far more effective work than either, for he has the privilege of marking a ballot.

Prove yourself a citizen by voting on Monday. No matter which way a man votes he is better than the individual who stays away from the polls.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Throne hunting these days seems to be about as profitable an occupation as house hunting.

The difference between a man's conversation and a woman's lies more in the quantity than the quality.

Does anyone remember the old-fashioned days when Mexico held the exclusive rights to revolutions?

That opposites attract is demonstrated by the marriage of the musical young woman and the man who couldn't read notes. But, of course he could spend them.

No matter how much of a hurry a man may be in he will walk four blocks past half a dozen barber shops in order to be shaved by his favorite tonsorial artist.

The telegraph editor wants to know whether someone can suggest another variation of that much used heading, "Has Ambrose J. Small, Missing Milionaire, Been Found at Last?"

Along about the time that a young man conscientiously begins to shave those half dozen hairs off both sides of his upper lip each day and affect spats he has reached the pinnacle of worldy wisdom.

When Shakespeare made Macbeth say "It (Life) is a tale told by an idiot, much of sound and fury, signifying nothing", he must have been recovering from listening to the conversation, punctuated with "I's", of one of these people who would rather blow their own horns than listen to Sousa's band.

In view of the rapidly developing agitation for local patriotism why not civic patriotic songs as well as national ones Here's suggestion for Windsor which some aspiring musician might compose a few bars for:—

Sing a song of sixpence,
A rowboat full of rye,
Rushing to Detroit,
Uncle Sam's so dry.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

BELLEVILLE WILL HAVE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

BELLEVILLE, April 15.—Prospects are bright for a flourishing athletic association in this city which will be the controlling body for all sports. At a meeting of citizens the following were appointed as a board of management to select the officers of the association: Mayor Hanna, George Graham, Mac. Robertson, M. P. Duff, Robert Colling, F. Robertson and E. D. O'Flynn.

The G. T. R. team will represent the city in the Central Ontario League and a team, possibly St. Michael's, will be in the Trent Valley League.

A team may be entered in the Bay of Quinte League.

Already a number of membership tickets have been sold.

Suitable grounds for athletics is being provided.

A Scandal Stopped—A Comradeship Spoiled

Chapter 28

"I think if Dad had had a gun with him he'd have plugged her," Thierry said, leaning forward on the bench where we sat and pressing his hands together nervously.

I knew that the recital of this lurid experience was greatly agitating the boy. It had left its scar on his impressionistic emotions. I felt some strange allurement toward the story myself. There seemed to be a connecting link between this boy's emotions and my own half-hidden, half-humored doubts and fears.

"Gosh, it was a big scene!" Thierry jerked his long body up straight at the memory of it. "—Dad standing there with contemptuous wrath and Mrs. Gregg absolutely non-plussed and not knowing whether to cuddle the governor or play the injured gag. It was a full five minutes before anyone spoke. I expected to see the air split in a thousand pieces, it was drawn so taut. Then I heard Dad's voice, rumbly and with an edge on it—it had a cut to it all right. But do you know I don't believe it ever got her. I remember the very words, just what he said: 'Keep your hands off my boy! Thank God I know you now. You'll find a taxi waiting for you outside.'"

I watched Thierry put a match to the seventh cigarette. I had counted them.

"Mrs. Gregg didn't open her mouth. Of course there wasn't anything to say. I watched her pick up her long sealskin coat from a chair where she had dropped it, and half mechanically I helped her into it. Ogelsby had taken Mrs. Gregg's traveling case to her room and I rang for him. My part in that drama was not a popular one," Thie said dryly and the corners of his mouth twitched sensitively

"I was beginning to wonder what the governor was going to do with me after he had settled with Mrs. Gregg. As I handed her her traveling case, she gave me a significant little smile and walked past us and out of that room like the queen bee herself.

"I heard a few quiet taps of her high heels down the hall and the front door slammed after her. I was damn glad to get her out—and mighty thankful, too, for I knew it was her final exit for Dad and me. The worst part was facing the governor. I wouldn't tell him that I'd staged that rotten drama for his personal uplift. A chap can't hand that kind of stuff to his own father even when it's true. I had chosen to be the buffer c I had to see to it a finish. So I just stood with my hands hanging limp at my sides and waited—

"Of course Dad did the worst thing possible. He just said he wasn't going away until the morning, and left me flat and went up to his rooms. I didn't see him again for four days.

"Even after he came back from his trip, it was ages before we slipped into anything like being good pals again. I knew Dad's always held that affair against me. There's always been that breach between us. We neither of us ever mention the thing and it's never had a chance to heal."

Thierry's words burned into my memory.

"That's the story," he said simply.

"That was big of you, Thie—very big," I said, and I meant it. The boy needed a touch of approbation. I placed my hand caressingly on his stooping shoulder. He turned towards me quickly and took my hand, and pressed it impulsively between his own slender fingers.

"You'll understand better—better how I feel about women," he said tragically.

"We'll both understand better now," I answered, a little of the tragic tone creeping into my own voice.

MR. SPRACKLIN GIVEN OLD HOME WELCOME.

Gets Attentive Hearing in Chatham at Referendum Meeting.

CHATHAM, April 15.—Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin addressed more than twelve hundred persons in Park Street Methodist Church here in the interests of the Chatham Referendum Committee. The address was a scathing denunciation of the liquor traffic and the Liberty League.

The audience gave him an attentive hearing, there being absolutely no heckling whatever. The reception accorded the speaker was like the old home-town welcome to a former town boy, Rev. Mr. Spracklin having resided here in boyhood.

TORPID LIVER
For Over 4 Months

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

When the liver becomes laxy, slow or torpid it is not working properly ,and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills quickly remove the secretions, clear away the waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, and cause so many troubles.

Mrs. Alice Mehill, Napanee, Ont., writes:—'I was very badly run down, and had a torpid liver for four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials, and I am a different person to-day. I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to any one troubled wtih liver trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

INCREASES SPEED AFTER KILLING MAN

KITCHENER, Ont., April 15. — Another life was claimed on the "Speedway" on King street between Kitchener and Waterloo late last night when a large motor car ran down Stanley Kramer, who was riding on his bicycle to his home almost opposite the Collegiate Institute. The motor car was travelling at a speed estimated at forty miles an hour, and when in front of the Collegiate struck the cyclist, lifting him from his wheel and pitched him for nearly forty feet where he dropped to the pavement in a huddled mass. The body was removed to the hospital nearby, but the unfortunate man died five minutes later. The occupants of the car did not stop but increased their speed and shut off the lights, making it impossible for the eye witnesses to get the number. The guilty parties made their escape and the local police have no clue as to the car or occupants. An inquest was commenced this afternoon and after the jury had viewed the remains adjourned until Thursday. The deceased was 25 years of age and came here some years ago from Delhi, Ont.

FULL STATISTICSS OF ELECTIONS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Two to One Vote Against Secession of Cape Province a Striking Feature.

CAPETOWN, April 15. — (By Canadian Press).—Complete statistics of the general election of last February supply some very interesting comparative figures covering the general result in both town and country and go to show how pronounced was General Smuts' victory with his Unionist Allies. The most striking feature perhaps was the two to one vote of Cape Province against secession from the British Empire, for this was due very largely to th e support Union received from the Boers of the back farms. Of the 134 seats, twelve were uncontested, and these were eliminated from the figures. A comparison of the polling in the 122 contested seats in 1921 with the 1920 (previous election(results, works out as follows:—

	1920	1921
Labour	39,944	28,335
South African Party and Unionists	122,822	139,697
Nationalists	97,625	104,692
Independents	6,685	2,858
Totals	267,076	275,582

It will be immediately seen what a small part the unpolled votes of 1920 played in the election of 1921; the increase is only 8,506. This is far below anticipation, and demonstrates the peculair difficulties in South Africa in polling up to anything like full srength The fluid nature of the town constituencies, due to the never-ending movement of the voters from one place to another, and the insuperable difficulty of tracing removals, means that 70 per cent. is on the high side for all town pollings. The whole unpolled vote is probably 28 per cent. But it is certain that the vast majority of the unpolled vote over 100,000 in actual numbers) is not anti-Smuts. The Nationalists, by reason of their really wonderfully efficient organization and system of espionage, especially in the country districts, polled at practically their full strength.

Figures Analysis.

When, however, we come to analyse the figures from the point of view of Secession v. Constitution, we get this result:—

	Secession	Constitution
Orange Free State	21,750	19,201
Natal	3,061	16,596
Capt. Province	43,440	82,772
Transvaal	36,409	61,353
Totals	104,660	170,922

Majority for Constitution 66,262.

This is eminently satisfactory, and when the unpolled votes and uncontested seats are taken into reasonable account, it is not too much to say that there is a majority in South Africa of two to one in favor of the maintenance of the Constitution and the British connection. One of the most gratifying features of the election is that in the Orange Free State, the stronghold of Secession, the Nationalists only increased their total poll from 20,679 to 21,750.

As we all know now the Labor debacle decided the election. It would have been a drawn game throughout and a complete deadlock, had not the urban constituencies gone practically solid for Smuts. The experience of one Johannesburg fight—Troyeville where Walter Webber knocked out Creswell, the Labor leader—is typical. In March 1920, Creswell won the seat against a Unionist by a majority of over 600. In February Webber won by 216—a difference of over 800 on a poll of about 2,200. It is too soon to prophecy about the Labor leader's future None of the nine elected Labor members are likely to give him a seat, and it is not improbable that he may retire altogether from politics and return to his profession as a mining engineer. He is a man of considerable capacity and scrupulous honesty, and, whatever he decides to do, is unlikely to disanpear from prominence.

One of the reassuring features of the polling throughout the Union is the evidence it furnishes that the Dutch followers of General Smuts stuck to their colors. Every effort there was not little fer inside the Nationalists to detach them, and fair and unfair, was made by the South African party that they might "go over" in big numbers. But their loyalty is now proved beyond argument, and it is certain that this saved Smuts from losing in the country what he had won in the towns.

Detroit Paper's Comment on the Treatment of "Pussyfoot" by the Windsorites.

DETROIT, April 15. — The Detroit Free Press, commenting upon the treatment accorded William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, at Windsor, says editorially:

"After they thought it all over in the calm of the next day, it is altogether likely that a good many men who took part in the demonstration which broke up William E. Johnson's meeting in Windsor,reached the conclusion that it did not pay. Mr. Johnson's conduct under trying circumstances on both sides of the water has proved that he is a courageous, self-possessed and amiable gentleman. His attitude following the incident in England, when he lost one day, was remarkable for its freedom from all resentment and bitterness. The good humored calm with which he confronted the noisy youths of Windsor, must certainly command their admiration whenever they take time to consider it."

DOG FIGHTS SOW, SAVES BOY.

Gives Its Life for Child That Infuriated Mother Pig Was Killing.

BECKLEY, West Va., April 15.—The four-year-old son of Clyde Scott of Shady, five miles south of here, is hovering between life and death here as a result of being attacked by an infuriated brood sow.

The animal broke out of her pen in search of one of her little ones that had squeezed through a hole on the fence, and seeing the boy nearby attacked him, tearing his legs and body in several places with her teeth. A pet collie dog hearing the child's screams came to the rescue, attacking the pig and holding on until the boy's mother rushed into the field and carried him out of danger.

The collie, unwilling to give up the fight, and the sow, wild with rage, fought on until the dog was killed. The sow was badly mangled.

The collie was the pet and playmate of the child, who but for its timely aid, would have been killed outright. As it is, his chances of recovery are considered slight.

FIRST TOWN COUNCIL.

BANFF, April 13 (Canadian Press).—For the first time in its history, the town of Banff now has a town council. However, it will not function in the ordinary ways of a town council, but will merely be an advisory board to Dominion Parks Superintendent Hakrin, who, as the representative of the Dominion Government, is dictator of the town. The town being in the heart of the Rocky Mountain National Park, thus is governed only from Ottawa.

HUSTLE REAL AND HUSTLE PRETENCE.

Englishman Draws Comparison Between New York and Chicago.

(By Tom Clarke.)

Little things reveal big cities. New York expects everybody to know it and do like wise without wasting time or words; it does not mean to be impolite.

Chicago talks and pretends hustle, but is a little less genuine about it.

And Washington neither pretends to nor does hustle, and justly prides itself on its polish and its accommodating ways to the stranger within the gates.

New York first:

The hotel floor clerk (feminine) is distributing the morning mail.

Myself (wishing to get on good terms): "Good morning. Any love letters for me?"

Floor clerk (250 words a minute): "There's no such thing as love in this country . . . no time. . . . Next."

Crushed, I retreat to the newsstand.

Myself (after buying a paper): "I wonder if you can oblige me with a 2-cent stamp?"

Man in charge: "Why don't you ask for a stamp?"

I go in search of the front door of the hotel, where a friend has arranged to meet me. There seem to be about 25 front doors. I decide on one.

Myself (to the janitor): "Is this the front door?"

Janitor (m gnificently): "Don't you think it's good enough?"

Chicago next:

Business Man (in shirt sleeves): "Busy isn't the word. Can't get a minute to myself. Must have two minutes with you, though . . ." Then he goes on talking for two hours.

When I escape I lose my way and asked policeman to direct me to a newspaper office.

"Cop" (a burst of rapid drum firest "Three blocks north and one and a half east."

Not having my compass, 'I take a taxicab.

Washington:

Myself (to man at door of motor car showroom): "Can you direct me to Connecticut avenue, please?"

Man (smilingly handsomely): "English, eh? We say 'Conneticut.' Sure, Come inside and look at the map. Say! guess I'll come along with you and put you right."

LOOKING FORWARD TO A RECALL TO RUSSIA.

Russian Business Men Under Old Regime Hope to Take Part in Regeneration.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(Associated Press.) — Russian business men under the old regime, now scattered in other countries, are looking forward to being called called back to take part in the regeneration of Russia. This is the view stated by Mr. Berline, formerly head of the Bank of Petrograd and with a director of an association of Russian business men and financiers who were prominent before the revolution. The organization has its headquarters in Paris, and Mr. Berline is here to advance its interests in this country.

Mr. Berline said the association embraced about 80 per cent. of Russia's business men and financial interests, including representatives of all the important Russian banks, as well as captains of Russian industry and commerce.

Among the members of the association named by Mr. Berline are the Nobel brothers, who controlled the greater part of the Russian petroleum industry, and Count A. A. Bobrinsky and L. I. Brodsky, leaders of the Russian sugar industry. The association is headed by N. K. Denisov, a Russian financier.

A Protest.

Mr. Berlin said that the association has protested to the British Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, against the trade agreement afterwards made between Great Britain and "the so-called Soviet government" of Russia. In doing so, President Denisov informed the British premier that the power of the Bolsheviki was waining before the rising wave of popular indignation, although it might be prolonged for a brief period by terror and bloodshed. No future legitimate Russian government will recognize and feel bound by any agreement with the Bolsheviki, Mr. Denisov told the Premier.

The attitude of the members of of this association of Russian business men on the subject of trade with Russia was set forth by Mr. Berline as follows:

"Realizing fully that the re-establishment of the world's economic equilibrium is impossible without Russia, we feel at the same time that trade with the Bolsheviki will not, in the least, hasten Russia's re-entry into world economics. On the contrary, it would only render the word economic crisis more acute, since it would tend to prolong the Bolshevist rule in Russia, and the country would continue in a state of political and economic anarchy.

A Greeting.

"We join all the other elements of the Russian people in greeting the splendid attitude of the government and of the people of the United States towards the Bolshevist overtures. There is no possibility for any considerable trade with Russia, until Russia returns to normal political and economic conditions. In order to be able to buy, Russia must sell. If Russia's production is re-established, she will be able to export again her foodstuffs and raw materials. Russia's export before the war amounted to over $750,000,000. It is only on the basis of this export that she will be able to import what she needs.

"It may be said, and quite justly, that in order to be able to re-establish production, Russia needs rolling stock and machinery from abroad. This very fact makes it necessary for Russia to return as quickly as possible to normal political conditions.

"As soon as the Bolshevist tyranny is overthrown and a stable democratic government appears in Russia, a government that will enjoy the confidence of the population and will have the right and the authority to speak and act for the Russian nation, this government will establish the credit Russia needs in order to start anew. Only such a government will have the right to grant concessions, etc. and, I am sure, only such a government will meet with the confidence of the business and financial circles abroad."

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, dgestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Eyelet Effects For a Hat

A new idea in millinery is a hat of straw or fabric embroidered in eyelet effects. The embroidered fabric is placed over a contrasting color, which shows through and is used to make the crown. The brim is of straw. Long carved pins, grosgrain and cellophane ribbons are used for trimming. "Bow" hats of lisere and moire ribbon are in favor also, with a huge ribbon bow with trailing ends set at one side of the brim.

V.C. ON TRIAL AT OTTAWA ON CHARGE OF MURDER.

OTTAWA, April 14 (Canadian Press).—The trial of Filip Konowal, V.C., who stands indicted on a charge of murdering William Artick a naturalised Austrian, commenced in the Hull Assizes yesterday.

The murder was committed on Sunday afternoon, 20th July, 1919, but Konowal has since been at liberty on bail of $8,000.

The Crown will endeavour to establish that Konowal murdered Artick in cold blood. It is claimed he stabbed his victim with a butcher knife, the weapon being twisted by the blow. It is alleged that the murder was the aftermath of a fight in Artick's home. Since the murder the prisoner has been confined in Federal institutions, where he has been receiving treatment for mental disorders.

GREATEST SWINDLE LAST CENTURY

The romantic story of the extracting of gold from sea water swindle is told in a London paper by Mr. John Laurence, the famous criminologist:

The Rev. Prescott Jernegan was the originator of one of the cleverest get-rich-quick schemes that have ever been invented—one which deluded even the hardest-headed of business men.

It was in 1896 that Jernegan, who was nounced that while on a holiday in Florida he had had a remarkable dream.

"I dreamt," he said, "that there is a large quantity of gold in sea-water, partly natural, and partly dissolved from the vast stores of sunken treasure which had been sunk in the sea for countless generations."

"But it has been known for many years that there is gold in sea-water," objected one of his friends. "Only it is so expensive to extract that it does not pay to do it. If some man could invent an easy, cheap way of extracting it he would make a huge fortune."

"That I saw in my dream," the minister calmly announced. "I saw the whole process, which is a very simple one indeed, and if I am only given a trial I am sure that we can become rich b the dreams of avarice."

For some time he worked at his invention for extracting gold from sea-water. At last he announced that it was ready to be tried, and he invited a number of his friends to be present at the demonstration. It is a significant fact, by the way, that the men he invited had all saved money and were capitalists in a small way.

His apparatus consisted of a special box, which he called his "Electrolytic marine salts box," by means of which the gold in sea-water was to be extracted by electricity. On a deserted part of the coast this box was taken, and in the presence of all these who had been invited solemnly placed in the sea at the end of a short wharf. Platinum wires were laid leading from the shore to the end of the wharf.

How the Gold "Accumulated."

A small hut had been constructed by Jernegan at the end of the wharf so that the band of capitalists could see that the magic box was not raised, nor the platinum wires tampered with. All one bitter December night the party kept guard while, according to the reverend gentleman, gold was steadily forming in the little box below the waves.

The gold was certainly accumulating fast enough, but not exactly in the way that the deluded band of capitalists thought!

While they sat in the little hut, getting what shelter they could from the piercing winds, and keeping a close eye on the unbroken surface of the icy waters, a man named Fisher was actually underneath those waters adding the necessary gold which was to delude thousands of people and bring a huge fortune to the man in whose fertile brain the scmeme originated.

Fisher was a diver, and he wore a special diving suit, by which he was supplied with the air he wanted to breath from a special commpressed air apparatus, which he carried strapped on the back of his diving suit, so that he was not compelled to have the usual air pipes which might betray him to those sitting above. Wires had been fixed under the water in order to guide him to the box.

While the party were sitting in the hut, Fisher waded out from the shore and substituted gold for the mercury the box contained.

The following morning, when the box was examined and passed on to experts, the latter's report showed gold in paying quantities.

The greed of the little band of capitalists was excited. They saw visions of untold wealth, of gold coming to them in vast quantities, thanks to the wonderful dream of the Rev. Prescott Jernegan. Little did they know that the only gold the latter was likely to extract as a result of his dream would be extracted from the pockets of his dupes and not a speck from the sea-water.

All Tests Satisfactory.

One or two of the hard headed dupes asked for further tests to be carried out before they invested their money, and they were carried out just as easily as the first one. A large number of trials with Jernegan's magic gold extractor were made along various parts of the coast, and, thanks to the way Fisher, the diver, carried out his work, gold was always found in paying quantities!

Every test carried out more and more convinced the most skeptical business men that the Rev. P. Jernegan had made a wonderful discovery, and money began to pour in from excited investors in order to exploit the invention and make fortunes for themselves. The final "proof" that the whole affair was genuine was given by a famous chemist, who was so completely deceived, after making what he considered the most careful investigations, that he put no less than $100,000 into the scheme to make hundreds of the magic gold extractors!

A company was formed, with Jernegan as one of the chief promoters, and many eminent business men honestly believed that they were in a genuine concern, and when the swindle was exposed it was found that some of them had lost fortunes.

The company, under the title of the Electrolytic Marine Salts Company, was capitalized at $10,000,000, and the money was forthcoming in a ceaseless stream. People went mad to invest in the swindle, and many angry scenes took place because subscribers could not get as much of the stock as they wanted!

Jernegan did not omit to get as much money as he could from his own relations and friends, even swindling his sister out of $800 which she had laboriously saved. A special amount, too, of the stock was set aside for the poor widows of his congregation.

Nemesis.

To give confidence to the investor, huge builings were erected and hundreds of machines were set working to extract gold from sea-water. A small army of laborers of all nationalities were soon digging, building, and surveying. Lagoons were created from which the sea-water passed through sluices into the "gold accumulators."

The shares of the company, worth on a face value of $25, jumped to $150 and there were scenes of wild speculation to obtain shares even at that inflated value. Of the gold extracted (from the investors' pockets) Jernegan was to receive under agreement forty-five per cent., and when the bubble burst and he fled to Europe, he actually managed to get away with $125,000 in cash.

The ill-gotten gains were, however, soon spent, and Jernegan found himself compelled to make an effort to do some honest work.

Now comes the amazing part of the story. After his successful defence in Vienna against extradition he traveled about the Continent having a good time, and finally went to England.

There, at that time, a swindling company had actually been formed to extract gold from sea-water by an entirely new process. Jernegan was naturally attracted, wondering where the swindle was, and he made the closest possible investigations. He came to the conclusion that the new gold-from-sea-water company was genuine and he invested every penny he had left in it! Needless to say, he lost all his money by an exactly similar swindle to the one through which he had made it!

He was never brought to justice, and the latest reports of him stated that he was teaching in the Phillippines, where he actually tried to start another gold-extracting company on similar lines.

Fisher, who was undoubtedly one of the ring-leaders, fled, and died two years later.

HOMELY "SPUD" WILL KEEP GLASS CLEAR.

And now comes the homely "spud," the common or garden variety Irish potato, as a substitute for the many preparations recommended for keeping the windshield of the automobile clear in rainy or foggy weather. The enthusiastic supporters of what must be termed the "the spud method" of keeping the windshield clear say that all that is necessary is to keep a nice fresh and juicy spud in the car.

Wireless System is to Be Tried Out in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 12.— Wireless telephones are to be used by Chicago police in their war on crime, it is announced here.

A $12,000 plant is being installed on the roof of the City Hall for constant communication with rifle guards, fire boats, fire engine houses, police stations and patrol wagons. At first the terminals will have only receiving apparatus.

William G. Keith, Commissioner of Gas and Electricity, who proposed the experiment, said that he hoped ultimately to have every policeman equipped with receiving apparatus which weighs only a few ounces and can be concealed under his clothing.

SHAPELY HORSES NOT ALWAY BESTS— UGLY DUCKLINGS HAVE PROVEN CHAMPIONS AND THEY COME IN A GREAT MANY STYLES

NEW YORK, April 15. — It has been remarked that the best of our thoroughbreds have had beauty of outline in addition to other attributes to make them notable among their kind. The good horse or mare as a rule looks the part, but there have been notable instances of animals utterly devoid of the qualities one expects in the highest blood horse type racing with rare speed and courage.

Many fine looking thoroughbreds have been seen in the country in the last 25 years. Some of them had a majestic quality, while others were faultless in point of physical perfection. Nobody would think of denying Man o' War a place among the good looking performers of the American turf, and yet his claims for distinction bulk largely on his noble, majestic bearing. His very countenance bespeaks his greatness, and yet his critics say he is too heavy in the forehand to confrom to the standard of perfection. The fact that he is higher over the croup than at the withers robs his top line of the symmetry which is characteristic of Whiskbroom 2nd, one of the handsomest of all the thoroughbreds of the present day, or of Leonardo 2nd the best looking of the younger generation despite his calf knees.

Those who have known the turf for the last quarter of a century, speak of Salvator as their beau ideal. With his sparkling chestnut coat and white face and legs he was a model. The contrast between the son of Prince Charlie and his rival, Tenny, was sparkling, and it was difficult to realize that they were of the same tribe. Tenny was sway-backed to the point of deformity. He was heavy in the shoulder and had the development of a quarter horse back of the saddle. The old saying that good horses come in all shapes and sizes were exemplified in his case with emphasis, for when in the mood Tenny was a sterling performer.

Troubadour a Grand Looker.

Troubadour, for a big horse, was a grand looking one, and in motion was a poem. Miss Woodford and her rival, Freeland, were both beauties, albeit the mare was a trifle masculine in type. El Rio Rey and his half brother, Emperor of Norfolk, were fine examples of the robust thoroughbred, and Potomac was a handsome horse, though he was a trifle high in the leg. Perhaps the greatest beauty of all the St. Plaise family was the lovely filly La Torca, though the Nursery stud has always been noted for the quality of its mares. Fides Lady Primrose and others could be mentioned having a smoothness of contour that was a delight to the eye. Kingston was truly made and beautifully balanced. His head was a trifle effeminate and he was over at the knees all his life, but up to the day that he left the turf, after winning upward of 90 races, he was the type of a highly mettled thoroughbred.

Hanover had a gold chestnut beauty of his own. Handspring and Hastings, though of different types, were good to look upon. Domino was not as prepossessing as Dobbins or Henry of Navarre, his greatest contemporaries.

Colin and Fair Play were both attractive, despite the former's unsightly hock. As stallions Fair Play is the better looker; in face he has been pronounced the best looking stallion in Kentucky. Peter Pan, though verging on the coarse side, as a three year old, has in the stud developed into a fine, robust type of the thoroughbred sire.

Among the mares of her day Imp was noticeable. She had a rugged nature which made her performance noteworthy. While not a great beauty she was racy looking and pleasing to the eye. Firenze was small but had quality, while Beldame and Hamburg Belle looked the great mares that they were.

Hermis and Irish Lad were unlike in type though both were good to look upon the former as round as a butter ball, while the big horse attracted by his masculine quality.

Pictures taken in France, especially one showing the horse with his former owner, that splendid type of sportsmen, Herman B. Druryea, reveal Irish Lad as a fine specimen of the thoroughbred sire.

Sysonby and Artful, rivals as 2-year olds, were each noted for their high quality, though the colt's head had a plain look at times, due to his being a trifle lop-eared. For power the turf has seen few horses the equal of Sysonby and his early death was a calamity to the breeding interests of the country. As a matter of fact Mr. Keene had more than his share of bad luck when he lost Domino, Commando and Sysonby at the very outset of their periods of usefulness.

Broomstick Begets Beauty

Broomstick, a neat colt, on the small side when racing, has grown into a sturdy, handsome stallion, and like Clifford, another fast horse is a perfect type of the Bramble family. His daughter Regret, was as handsome as she was fleet. Voter was not as fine looking as his best sons, notably ballot and the Manager, each of which is conspicuous for finish. The great sprinter's tail was set on very low, and he was cloven like a ram, so great was the muscular development of his quarters.

In recent years Hourless was a conspiculous example of a good horse that looked the part. In the stud he had been praised by competent authorities. His old antagonist Omar Khayyam, has developed to a point where he compels the admiration of those with an eye for beauty in the thoroughbred. Cudgel, though a trifle long in the back, looked the great racehorse he was. After a few years in the stud he should be a horse of great attractiveness. Sun Briar was always a perfect type of the blood horse, barring his faulty ankles, while the Macomber string boasted of a fine colection of stallions in Star Hawk, War cloud and Star Master.

Among last year's crop of notables, Man o' War and Leonardo 2nd have already been referred to. Inchcape was a smoothly turned juvenile and those who have seen him this Spring say he is a rare type. Trysster, a plain looking colt at first glance, improved with acquaintance last year, and he would not have to develop much in order to be classed among the good lookers of 1921. Cleopatra, Prudery and Nancy Lee, among the fillies, would command attention in any country. The former, which will be sadly missed from this year's contests, has the greyhound quality of her dead sire, Corcyra.

While the adage "handsome is as handsome does" applies to the turf as well as elsewhere, all things being equal, breeders would prefer shapely individuals, either in the breeding paddocks or for the racing tests.

U.S. CORPORATION CUTS STEEL PRICES

JUDGE GARY ANNOUNCES REDUCTIONS RANGING FROM $1.50 TO $15 A TON.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, has announced a reduction in steel prices ranging from $1.50 to as much as $15 a ton for tin plate. The announcement stated that the action of substantially reducing steel prices was taken after consultation with the presidents of the various subsidiary companies, who were called to New York to give careful consideration to the whole subject.

The reduction in prices takes effect immediately. The decreases, however, are confined to certain products. It was stated that a reduction on tubular and sheets would be announced later, probably within the next two weeks, as the adjustment in regard to these products had not yet been definitely decided upon.

No statement was made as to whether there would be a reduction in wages immediately following the decline in steel prices. It was said at the company's offices that nothing could be added to the statement issued which was confined to the bare announcement that prices had been reduced.

FRUITS ON THE LOCAL MARKET

PRICES EASING OFF — WHEAT DOWN AGAIN.

Splendid specimens of Florida pineapples are now on the local market, selling from 40 to 60 cents, a few as high as 70 cents. The price is expected by local dealers to gradually decline to 25 and 35 cents.

Cucumbers have declined considerably in price. When they first came in about a month ago they sold as high as 60 cents. The public held off, and now the price has gone down to 15, 20 and 25 cents and within reach of persons of modest means. The cucumbers are firm and of good quality and considerably ahead of those in other seasons in size and quality, because of the early spring. Tomatoes have come down and a pound may be had at 40 cents, that a week ago cost 50 cents. Oranges, lemons, grapefruit and bananas are firm in price. Strawberries by the tiny pint boxes are priced 30 and 35 cents. Small bunches of nice pink rhubarb with very slender and forced-looking stalks sells for 15 cents in the stores.

Altogether, the fruit shops are filled with many enticing products of Mother Earth and the stores are enjoying a very good spring trade, according to one dealer this afternoon.

Wheat Declining.

Wheat has staged another drop and is down now to $1.60 for fall, $1.55 for marquis and $1.50 for spring wheat.

Hides and wool remain firm. Dairy products are unchanged. Eggs are selling at 28 to 30 cents, but will probably settle at 25 cents shortly for the summer months.

Stop liquor firms in Quebec from sending intoxicating liquors to our boys and girls by putting an X opposite the word YES on your ballot next Monday.

JOHN S. WILLIAMS,
well-known Toronto art critic, who died Friday in his 78th year.

SIR ARTHUR VICARS SHOT.

DUBLIN, April 15. — (Canadian Press).—Sir Arthur Edward Vicars, former Ulster King of Arms, was shot dead this morning at Listowel, and his residence burned.

A GOOD BABY SOOTHER

The trouble with most baby comforts is that they break or collapse too easily. Why not pay a few cents more and get a real good soother The PERFECTO SANITARY SOOTHER is packed each one in a box or envelope and is absolutely sanitary The nipple cannot collapse or break away from the shield.

The PERFECTO SOOTHER is the best for the baby. m w f

REPLIES TO ARNOLD LAWYER.

Enright Asks Keith to Discuss Ayers Statement With Leach.

NEW YORK, April 15. — John S. Keith, attorney for the Arnold family, received a reply from Police Commissioner Enright to his complaint of a statement attributed to Captain John H. Ayres, head of the Bureau of Missing Persons, that the mystery of the disappearance of Dorothy Arnold had been solved, and that her name had been stricken from the list of missing persons.

Commissioner Enright asked Mr. Keith to take up the matter in person with Deputy Commissioner John A. Leach at Police Headquarters.

Mr. Keith said he had no desire to make formal charges against Capt. Ayers. He repeated his assertion that the statement attributed to Captain Ayers was not true, and said all he wanted was an acknowledgment that the disappearance of Miss Arnold was still an unsolved case in the Police Department.

URGES PROVINCIAL AID TO WESTERN UNIVERSITY.

SARNIA, April 15.—At a meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, a resolution was adopted urging Provincial aid to Western University, London, and after hearing an address by E. W. Holton, of the Northern Navigation Company, with reference to the Armstrong Bill, which proposes to place steamship lines on inland waters under control of the Railway Commission in so far as rates are concerned, the Board went on record as being unanimously opposed to the proposed Bill.

An Adding Machine Does Its Work Accurately But Some Times the Operator Touches the Wrong Key And a Mistake Occurs

No matter how carefully the plans are laid, how exact the machine or how efficient the organization, there comes an error once-in-a-while.

In adding up the efficiency of this establishment, we would arrive at the wrong total if we did not allow for the inaccuracies that are bound to occur. We limit them as much as possible, however.

YOUNG FARMERS PURSUE ORATORY

ARRANGE FOR A MAY DEBATE AND ENLIVEN MEMBERSHIR CAMPAIGN.

The Peterborough branch of the United Farm Young People of Ontario, held a lively meeting in the S./O. E. Hall, Hunter street, on Monday evening last. Mr. F. C. McRae, District Agricultural Representative was present, and entertained the local branches of the U.F.O. and U.F.W.O. as well as the young people, with moving pictures of educational value. This was followed by an interesting debate with Messrs. Chas. Moore, C. S. Brown, and H. B. Cowan ably acting as judges and giving a decision in favour of the negative.

The young people will hold their next meeting in the U.F.O. rooms, Simcoe street, on Wednesday, May 11th, when a debate, "Resolved, — That the automobile is a hindrance rather than a benefit to the farmer," will be given, Messrs. Frank Sullivan and Vernon Campbell upholding the affirmative, while Messrs. Roy Sanderson and Harry McKee will uphold the negative.

This club has also arranged for a membership contest the losing side to make arrangements for a strawberry fesfival in June.

CUT WORKING TIME IN C.P.R. SHOPS

ANGUS SHOPS TO WORK ONLY 32 HOURS A WEEK

MONTREAL, April 15.—(Canadian Press.)—All workers in the Angus shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway received notice yesterday that the plant would be shut down from last night until Monday morning and that thereafter the shops would be open only four days a week, the equivalent to 32 hours weekly. Until further notice the wages will remain as before, but in proportion to the amount of time worked. About 3,000 men are affected.

THIRD DISASTROUS FIRE IN 3 WEEKS

4,000 HOUSES IN HAKODATE, JAPAN, DESTROYED LAST NIGHT

HAKODATE, Japan, April 15.—(Canadian Press.)— Fire broke out here last night and destroyed some four thousand horses before it was brought under control. The buildings destroyed included three Christian missions, the British Consulate, several banks, hospitals, school houses, theatres and government buildings. The fire in Hakodate was the third great conflagration to occur in Japan within the past three weeks.

COAL STRIKE HAS TIED UP LINERS

216 VESSELS LAID UP IN RIVER TYNE ALONE.

LONDON, April 15.— (Canadian Press.)—By reason of the shortage of coal through the cessation in the output and threatened transport strike, a re-arrangement in sailing of trans-Atlantic liners has been necessitated. There are 216 vessels laid up in the River Tyne, the largest coaling port in England. These include sixty-five government vessels. The Department of Mines yesterday issued an order under which domestic consumers of coal will be unable to obtain supplies without an order from the local authorities.

WHITE SLAVER IS SENTENCED.

Gets From 4 to 10 Years.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Benjamin Weinstein, self-confessed white slaver, was sentenced to from four to ten years in State Prison by Judge Alfred J. Talley, in General Sessions. Weinstein, who is 24, admitted having kept as prisoner in tenement rooms at 625 East Eleventh Street, Caroline Gray, 18, of Roanoke, Va., from the day after Christmas until Jan. 10, when she was released by policemen.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Edelsen, who prosecuted the case, told Judge Talley that Weinstein was the worst kind of vermin in existence." Miss Gray came here from Roanoke with her brother early in November. Weinstein met her while she was sightseeing alone.

FASTED FOR DAYS AT TIME, SAYS MRS. TERRY

Toronto Woman Freed of Troubles for First Time in Thirty Years —Eats, Sleeps and Feels Just Fine.

"I am now free from suffering for the first time in over thirty years, and I owe it all to Tanlac," said Mrs. A. W. Terry, of 252 Gladstone avenue, Toronto.

"Before I took Tanlac my stomach was so out of order everything I ate formed gas and my suffering was something dreadful. I had no appetite and for days at a time I ate scarce anything, I suffered from constipation and a sluggish liver and was so weak and racked with pain I couldn't hold my body straight My condition was deplorable.

"But when I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac my friends all noticed my wonderful improvement I kept right on taking it and now I never have an ache or pain of any kind, eat and sleep fine and feel stronger than for years. I just feel the good of Tanlac to my finger tips and never expect to be without it."

CANADIAN WHEAT RUSHED TO STATES.

Shipped Over Border to Avoid Duty.

WINNIPEG, April 15. — Shipments of Canadian wheat and flour, sold to American dealers, are being rushed across the border in an endeavor to avoid the heavy duty that will follow in the event of the Fordney tariff bill becoming law in the United States, local railway officials stated this week. Monday evening a special Canadian National train left for the south and crossed the border before daylight. This was made up of scattered shipments that shippers required to be rushed as soon as possible.

HANDSOMEST POLICE CHIEF IN CANADA

Here is what the "Border Cities Star" says of Peterborough's former Chief of Police Thompson, now head of the Windsor police department:

"A good many Borderites saw Chief Thompson for the first time last night. Everybody pronounced him the handsomest chief of police in Canada."

And so say we all!

SARNIA MEMORIAL SITE.

SARNIA, Ont., April 15.—A site on the west end of Victoria Park, Christina Street, has been selected for the erection of the memorial monument bearing tablets on which will be inscribed the names of Sarnia's dead war heroes and also all Sarnians who served with the Allied forces.

Mayor George Crawford has suggested that if possible the unveiling services will be conducted on 24th May.

WORK WORN WOMEN

CARE OF HOME AND CHILDREN OFTEN CAUSES A BREAKDOWN.

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women accept these visitations as a part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and relief at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill, she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills enrich the blood, and through their use many weak, ailing wives and mothers have been benefitted. If you are ailing easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RULES FOR DANCING

The following new rules for dancing, together with four amendments to existing regulations, suggested by H. J. Phillips, are recommended to the earnest consideration of all lovers of the Terpsicharean art:

1. No person shall dance without a license.
2. Said license shall include a registration card, to be carried by the dancer at all times; an operator's permit, and a set of markers to be worn front and rear while dancing.
3. No license shall be issued without the passing of a rigid competency test by the State Board of Toddle Commissioners.
4. This board will have its office hours limited by law to from 1 to 3 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursday, and Saturday, but in the case of feminine applicants, if they know any new steps, the commissioners will be glad to work overtime.
5. Appointments with the state board may be made by letter only.
6. In taking said competency test all applicants shall pass an examination in the following subjects:
   1. Straightaway.
   2. Reversing.
   3. Backing.
   4. Turning and pivoting.
   5. Whirling.
   6. Throttling down into low.
   7. Picking up without shifting gears.
   8. Facial expression.
   9. Conversational ability.
   10. Control.
7. In the said competency test facial expression shall be rated as 70 per cent. The expression on a dancer's face is not important to the dancer, but it is very tough on the onlookers.
8. Every face not registering at least 2.75 per cent. of intelligence while dancing shall be thrown out and the owner barred from appearance in any dance halls.
9. Male faces, which are rather silly to gaze upon anyhow, and which in cheek to cheek or head to head dances become absolutely insane, shall be ruled out, but a period of six months shall be allowed for improvements.
10. The girl who hangs her chin over her partner's shoulder and allows her face to register the expression of a dying tuna fish wigwagging distress to its mate, shall not even be considered as an applicant.
11. Shimmy dancing shall be allowed only by a special form of license. The special form of license shall cover special forms of shimmy dancing. No shimmying with the Board of Licensing Commissioners shall be tolerated.
12. Applicants for permits to do the Alligator Glide, Camel Walk, and Grizzly Bear Dip shall apply to the Commissioner of the Zoo.

Amendments.

A. All dancing licenses shall be issued by classes according to ages. Men over 60 shall in no case be allowed to toddle with partners under 25. Bald-headed men shall not be issued dancing licenses under any circumstances. Their skulls dazzle the musicians. Women over 50 shall be compelled to show just cause why they should dance at all.

B. The parking of corsets in the ladies' dressing-room before dancing shall be prohibited. A special parking place shall be provided in the garage.

C. Any goop who has the audacity to go to dances and pull the old two step and waltz shall be summoned before the Dancing Commissioners upon receipt of 2two written complaints, and if found guilty shall be suspended for not more than one year nor less than two.

D. Toddling in the corridore while awaiting admission to the licensing department is hereby forbidden. It distracts the commissioners.

THE PROTECTING ANGEL

TO make the lonely road less difficult for the widow—to provide food, clothing and an education for the fatherless children—that is the function of life insurance and was the aim of the founders of the Mutual Life when they organized the Company fifty-one years ago.

In order to achieve that purpose at the lowest possible cost to the policyholder the Company was organized on a purely mutual or co-operative basis—so that all profits are returned to the policyholders to reduce the cost of insurance.

This Mutual principle has been followed for more than half a century. The Mutual Life of Canada has held steadfastly to the ideas and ideals of its founders. It has been an "Angel of Mercy" to thousands of desolated Canadian homes.

The wonderful record of the Mutual Life of Canada, which has paid in death claims and other benefits no less than $33,320,716, and has assurances in force to-day of $206,000,000 is proof that it is practicable to carry on a business on the principle of "each for all and all for each."

Have you a Mutual Policy in your home?

PRINCESS PATS

TORONTO, April 15.—The banquet of the Princess Pat's Club in Hart House on the 20th is arousing great enthusiasm among exmembers of that famous battalion many of whom have signified their intention of coming in from outside points. The guests of honor will be General Sir A. Macdonell and among the speakers are Sir Robert Falconer, Hon Mr. Justice Riddell and Mayor Church.

REFERENDUM INFORMATION

NEXT Monday, April 18, the electors of Ontario will be expected to vote on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

The report that Liquor can not be secured for Medical or Sacramental purposes if the Referendum is carried, is an Absolute Falsehood, intended to deceive the Voters.

Full provision is made for the use of Alcoholic Liquors for Medical, Sacramental, and Mechanical purposes.

Next Monday, electors, on entering the polling booths, will be handed ballots reading as follows:

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? NO

Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? YES X

People who are in favor of stopping the importation of liquor should mark an X opposite the word YES as shown on the ballots above.

When To Vote

This year the polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The law allows employees one hour, in addition to the noon hour, without loss of time, in which to vote.

People who find it impossible to vote before 5 p.m. will be able to vote between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

ON POLLING DAY

The headquarters of the Referendum Committee next Monday will be in the Y. M. C. A. 'Phone 246.

Citizens who will be willing to assist in getting out the voters, particularly of the women, are requested to 'phone their name and addresses to 246.

REFERENDUM COMMITTEE,
A. B. CUNNINGHAM, President.

Mothers! Keep Syrup Pepsin Handy

An absolute household necessity, a wonderful emergency remedy for constipation. Someone may need it any minute!

ALL in the family look to the mother for guidance and advice in the multitude of little disorders that arise almost daily. Chief of the minor ailments are those that precede or follow constipation. The experienced mother will tell this one to exercise more and that one to cut down on certain binding foods, but when these cautions fail she has to advise medicine.

Modern people are getting away from the notion that simple constipation, a headache, biliousness, colds, feverishness, indigestion, require a drastic, weakening drug. They take a teaspoonful or less of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is but a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. The full formula is on every package. It is a mild, gentle remedy that does not gripe or weaken. The taste is syrupy and pleasant, and as it is free from narcotics and mercurials, mothers have for thirty years past felt safe in giving it to infants. A sixty-cent bottle will last a family months, and it is guaranteed to produce the results claimed or your money will be refunded.

You will find nothing better for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels than this same Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. Every member of the family can use it with safety and feel sure of results. Many thousands of families are never without a bottle in the house, and last year over eight million bottles were sold in drug stores, the largest sale of its kind in the world.

These believers in Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin no longer take calomel or castor oil, salt waters, physics or purgatives even if made into a sugar-coated pill, for they have learned that they can get better, safer and more agreeable results with Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. If you will once bring a sixty-cent bottle into your home and take a teaspoonful the next time you feel constipated you will never thereafter be without it.

Try It FREE

There are heads of families who will want to prove to their own satisfaction that my Laxative Syrup Pepsin is as effective in constipation, as mild and gentle in action, as pleasant-tasting and safe as I claim. Let such write me for a free sample. It will be sent postpaid. Simply say "Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front Street, Bridgeburg, Ont.: Send a free trial bottle of your Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to—" and give your name and address. I will see that the rest is attended to promptly.

FORMER RESIDENT LAKEFIELD DIES

MRS. W. E. EVANS, WIFE OF A FORMER LAKEFIELD SCHOOL PRINCIPAL.

LAKEFIELD, April 15. — The death of Mrs. W. E. Evasn, formerly of Lakefield, took place at her home in Toronto on Saturday last, after a lingering illness. Mr. and Mrs. Evans lived in Lakefield for a number of years, while Mr. Evans was principal of the public school. They moved to Toronto about 20 years ago. Mrs. Evans is survived by her husband, one son and one daughter. Mrs. Allan Hunter of Lakefield went to Toronto on Monday to attend the funeral.

When Grandmother Was a Girl

HOOP skirts were worn by those who first asked the druggist for, and insisted on having, the genuine Golden Medical Discovery put up by Dr. Pierce over 50 years ago. Dress has changed very much since then! But Dr. Pierce's medicines contain the same dependable ingredients. They are standard today just as they were fifty years ago and never contained alcohol.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the stomach and blood cannot be surpassed by any tonic and alterative today.

When you feel "all out of sorts" —your vitality at a low ebb—the blood becomes surcharged with poisons! The best tonic is called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks without alcohol — a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature put in the fields and forests for keeping us healthy. It puts vim, vigor, vitality into the blood. Try it! All druggists.

Send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Bridgeburg, Ont. Laboratory for trial pkg.

SAY ORIENTALS NEEDED ON COAST.

Landed in Montreal By Clergymen.

MONTREAL, April 15.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Canon Gould, General Secretary of the Mission Board at Toronto, described work among the Orientals on the Pacific Coast and among the Indians and Eskimos in North-West Canada, in speaking before the Anglican Synod in session here. He said that, while he had met many people on the Pacific Coast who bewailed the presence of the Orientals in their midst, "I have not met one person of knowledge and standing who could tell me what they would do without them from the industrial standpoint."

MORE POLICE MURDERED.

DUBLIN, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—Five policemen were ambushed last night in County Limerick, one of them being killed and three wounded. The Sinn Feiners then attacked Fedamore Barracks but were repulsed after two hours' fighting, in which there were no casualties. The Sinn Fein Shoe Factory here, which was used as an assembling shop for bombs, was raided last night and two persons were arrested.

INDUSTRIOUS HEN.

REGINA, April 13 (Canadian Press).—A Regina hen must have heard of the record made by a sister in Kansas recently, for on Easter Sunday the industrious bird produced an egg eight and a half inches long, six inches in narrow circumference, and only one-eighth of an ounce short of a quarter of a pound by weight. The Kansas egg exceeded this by only one-eighth of an ounce in weight, and fell short of it in dimensions.

WOMAN'S DEPARTMENT.

WINNIPEG, April 13 (Canadian Press).—Miss Mary P. McCallum has been appointed assistant secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, of which the secretary is Norman Lambert. For four years Miss McCallum has been associate editor of the Grain Growers' Guide, and before that was on the staff of the Regina Post. She is a native of Manitoba.

It is understood that Miss McCallum's appointment will mean that a woman's department corresponding to those of the affiliated provincial organisations will be established in the Federal body.

BARRIEFIELD MILITARY CAMP TO BE OPENED IN JUNE

KINGSTON, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—The district military headquarters is now busily engaged in preparing a scheme for the annual military camp at Barriefield as before the war, but it will be held this year in the month of June instead of the beginning of July as formerly. Lt.-Col. Hodgin, general staff officer, is engaged in preparing a practical memorandum upon the matter. It is likely that the red tunic will be issued and not khaki.

TAKE CARE OF THAT COUGH

Some people get a nasty cough and don't pay much attention to it, saying, "Oh, it will wear away in a short time," but while it may wear off, serious injury may have been done to the lungs and respiratory organs by the prolonged, harsh, racking coughing.

On the first sign of a cough or cold get a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It will stop that nasty cough, ease the tightness across the chest, and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Wm. Enshaw, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"Last winter I caught a bad cold, had a sore throat and a terrible hacking cought that I could not get rid of. I could not sleep at night, I tried quite a few remedies, but they did not do me much good until I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. By the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone. I feel that "Dr. Wood's" has no equal."

When you get Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, you are not experimenting with new and untried remedy, but one that has a reputation extending over thirty years.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 35c. and 60c. a bottle, manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large obttle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everyobdy uses this preparation now ,because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gary hair disappears, and after another application or two, you hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

THE CITY MANAGER

The remarkable progress of Dayton under the city-manager plan of municipal government has been told in fuller detail than space will allow for the rest of the 150 city-manager towns, but nearly all of them have similar stories to tell.

Nearly all, but there are a few where the change has not brought progress or efficiency immediately, cities that have elected unprogressive councils which put in local politicians as managers and have sat down and stagnated.

Yet even there issues have cleared, obstructive influences have been identified and successive elections brought relief.

One such council in Ohio played politics two terms, but the town saw exactly what was going on and at the third election a discriminating landslide put three of the councilmen out of politics and installed a harmonious, live council and a new high-grade manager.

There is no magic in this plan of government that will prevent the people from electing the wrong men. The plan compels them to make their mistakes in broad daylight, and the chance to go astray under those conditions is the irreducible hazard of democracy.

Almost always they have chosen better men than have hitherto been successful in local politics. Of course, what one town is proud of, another may consider old-fashioned, but every town reports improvement.

Here are some typical reports of financial progress.

San Jose, Cal., (population 40,000) ran in 1919 with less expenditure than the old government in 1916 despite advanced costs.

Manistee, Mich., (population 10,000) had under the old government voted a bond issue of $80,000 for a new trunk sewer. The new government spent $1,200 cleaning tons of debris from the old sewer, then found adequate.

Sandusky, O., (population 23,000) reduced its debt $230,000, and in 1919 under the new plan its operating expenses, despite ascending wages and costs, were less than under the old plan in 1914.

Ashtabula, O., is still living within its pre-war tax rate.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., (population 12,000) saved $67,000 in two years.

Alhambra, Cal., (population 10,000) bought the water system and ran it for $14,000 a year less than the private corporation did.

In Waltham, Mass., the new government increased the city tax rate only 8 per cent., while labor increased 54 per cent.; the water and engineering departments were combined, thus saving salaries and increasing efficiency; by stopping leakage and waste, an expenditure of $300,000 for a new water supply was avoided.

Griffin, Ga., (population 8,250) saved $43,000 the first year by improving every department, and did more street work in one year than in any previous five years.

Wichita, Kas., (population 72,000) built a sewer by direct labor at a cost of $214,000. The lowest contractor's bid was $316,000.

Webster City, Ia., (population 6,000) has saved $36,000 a year since the adoption of the plan.

Among the most significant features of business administration in most of these cities is the adoption of a modern budget.

The needs of the city are carefully planned a year ahead in great detail and there is a powerful incentive to live within the income.

Economy is made possible, too, for the reason that a lot of political creditors are eliminated and political "fences" do not have to be built out of the city treasury.

MAXWELL

— AND —

CHALMERS

At the Motor Show APRIL 14th, 15th, 16th

For "MOTOR WEEK" you are offered a Specially Fine Display of the 1921 Models: The MAXWELL and the CHALMERS Motor Cars.

Prospective buyers can be referred to many pleased and satisfied owners in and around Peterborough "who know." Avail yourself of their knowledge and experience in making your Motor Car purchase.

THE MAXWELL

Has Won Its Following Through Its Quality

The metals used in the Maxwell Chassis compare favourably, pound for pound, with those in the best Cars that the world has produced, according to metallurgists.

The fundamental purpose of the Maxwell is to carry the same passenger load over the same roads and at the same speeds as larger and more expensive Cars.

But it must perform this mission in an extremely economical way.

Therefore the Maxwell has to be light. But to make it strong as well as light, only the very best of materials can be employed.

Hence the quality metals.

And it is through the quality of its metals that Maxwell has developed its following.

Over 300,000 Maxwells now on the highways of two continents are a daily endorsement of the merit of this Great Car.

THE CHALMERS

The ease of the Chalmers Engine has a story. When you sit behind the wheel of a present-day Chalmers you will long remember the rare ease of its engine.

It responds to the slightest call without effort. At high speed you are conscious of no great activity under the bonnet. When you lag along at slow speed you note no "breaking," no "missing," no jerky action—but a quickness, a silence that is smooth and expressive of high efficiency.

Most troubles in a car come from vibration. In a Chalmers there is so little vibration as to be negligible.

Farmers Are Invited to Come and See

THE CLETRAC

Tank Type Tractor

Only the name is new. The Cletrac Tank-Type Tractor is, except for some late improvements, exactly the same as the old Cleveland Tractor.

The wonderful growth and remarkable popularity of this tractor has made the name "Cleveland" one of our most valuable assets.

All the name "Cleveland" has come to mean in tractor construction and performance the "Cletrac" stands for, and more. It's a happy combination, suggesting not only the old name but as well the distinctive track.

See the Cletrac at the Motor Show during April 14, 15 and 16, and at our Show-Rooms any time after.

FORECAST OF COMING SEASON'S WORK OF THE NATIONS' LEAGUE

ACTIVITIES TO BE UNDERTAKEN BY THE VARIOUS COMMISSIONS DEFINED BY ARTHUR SWEETSER, OF THE ORGANIZATION'S SECRETARIAT—HOPES U.S.A. WILL BE REPRESENTED AT MEETING.

GENEVA, April 15. — (By the Associated Press).—An outline of the work to be undertaken by the various commissions of the League of Nations this summer has been prepared by Arthur Sweetser, of the Secretariat of the League Preparations for this work were made at the last meeting of the Council of the League which ended in Paris March 4.

Mr. Sweetser points out in his forecast of the season's work of the League that the situation affecting the mandates over about 13,000,000 of backward peoples will again be brought up for discussion at the next meeting of the Council in May Hope in United States.

Hope is expressed by representative of the Secretariat that the United States will be represented at this meeting. It will be recalled that the council at its meeting in February and March was discussing the mandates when it received a note from the United States government ascertaining that the United States must be consulted on any question relating to the mandates, protesting against the allocation to Japan of the Island of Yap and the other German islands in the North Pacific and claiming equal commercial opportunity in the Mesopotamian oil region, assigned to Great Britain under a mandate. In pointing out the desirability that the United States should be represented at the next meeting of the Council to consider these subjecs, Mr. Sweetser says:

Personal Conference.

"Not only are the members of the Council really sincere in believing that a question so difficult as this can very much better be handled by personal conversation than by the exchange of notes, but there is every reason to believe that it would be far easier for them to meet the American viewpoint in this way than ie would be if negotiations were continued by cable.

"Participation in this discussion, would not, of course, affect America's relation to the League in any way or involve America in membership in the League, but would be resorted to simply as the most direct and effective method of protecting American rights and interests in a question over which it is obvious that the League has been given authority."

The Disarmament Commission, headed by the former Premier Viviani of France, Fisher of Great Britain and the former Premier Orlando, of Italy, will begin its labors shortly. Commenting thereon, Mr. Sweetster says:

"In view of the foundation already laid by the different elements of the League, it would seem difficult to initiate any priductive disarmament plans outside the League except upon the single question of naval reduction which depends very largely, of course, on the United States.

A Strong Body.

Mr. Sweetser points out that the Disarmament Commission is one of the strongest bodies yet brought together by the League in that it is representative not only of the more important nations, labor, politics and military subjects from the various organization, already under the oegis of the League, such as the International Labor Office, the Economic and Financial Commission and the Permanent Military Naval and Air Commission.

In this connection, Mr. Sweetser says that, the League of Nations has issued a strong appeal to all governments to ratify the Treaty of St. Germain which was drawn up to prevent the dumping in more backward parts of the world of the large stocks of war material now held in the belligerent countries. He adds:

"Under this agreement all such traffic was to be regulated by the League of Nations, but up to the present, owing largely to the failure of the United tStates to take action in the matter, the other interested governments have been unwilling to ratify the convention for fear of handicapping their own nationals in a trade which remained open to American firms."

The Commission on Amendments to the Covenant of the League is required to make a report to that body before June 1 next. Mr Sweetser asserts that it is recognized in many quarters that this commission served as a large pillar to any bridge which might be built between the League and the United States." The oCmmission says is well qualified to enter into a discussion with the United States in case President Harding sees fit to attempt to adapt the existing League to his own ideas for an Association of Nations. A. J. Balfour, of Great Britain, is president of the Covenant Commission. Mr. Sweetser says that the amendments thus far presented are extensions of the Covenant rather than severe modifications of it, with the single exception of the Canadian amendment to eliminate Article X

Election of judges of the Court of International Arbitration is to begin this spring. When the Council of the League held its last meeting, 27 nations has signed the protocol for the Court but only one, Sweden had actually deposited her ratification. If the necessary 24 members of the League do not ratify the protocol soon the Secretary General of the League is authorized by the Council to ask for conditional nominations of the judges.

An international conference on the suppression of international traffic in women and children will be held at Geneva in the last week in June. The Assembly of the League has asked the Council to appoint a special commission of inquiry into the desertation of women and children still going on in Turkey and adjacent countries. It is expected that the conference at Geneva in June will take steps to organize this commission and to send it to the Near East as soon as the disturbed conditions in that part of the world will permit.

The Opium Traffic

The committee of the League in charge of the suppression of opium traffic will be asked to meet by the beginning of May and to report to the Council by the first of June.

Another committee will attempt the application of the economic blockade to a nation going to war in defiance of its agreements

Still another committee will consider the full scope of Article XVIII for the regisration of treaties and international agreements.

The Secretariat of the League and the International Labor Office will be gone over to ascertain whether they are operating efficiently and economically.

A favorite in sporting circles that will be missed from the streets of Peterborough is the chestnut mare name Rose, owned by the late H. C. Winch. She has now taken her departure to a new home in Millbrook, with her new owner, Mr. Needham. Rose, who is now 15 years old, was raised from a colt by the late Mr. Winch and figured in many a race in the old days.

SIR SAM HUGHES CONFINED TO HIS HOME WITH A COLD

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)—It was ascertained at the residence of Sir Sam Hughes here this afternoon that he is confined at home with a cold. He is progressing favorably and expects to be about again in a day or two.

GIVEN TWO HOURS IN JAIL FOR APPLAUSE DURING TRIAL.

OTTAWA April 14 (Canadian Press).—When William Pettley, a visitor at Hull from Winnipeg, applauded this afternoon during the trial of Filip Konowal, V.C., charged with the murder of William Artick, he earned for himself two hours in solitary confinement in the Hull Jail. Pettley was released at five o'clock, and immediately left the city.

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

To see the healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside bathing every morning for a week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and foxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges or whose skin is sallow or pallid, that one week of inside bathing will have them looking and feeling better every way.

Keep Out the Flood of Foreign "Booze"

Customs Statement

Liquor imported into Canada from abroad for consumption in Ontario.

1920	338,539		2,120,546
Increase	213,867	Gals.	$1,569,752

"BOOTLEGGERS", "Rum Runners", "Whiskey Smugglers" and "Blind Pigs" are demoralizing the community, selling imported liquors contrary to law.

Drunkenness is increasing, and also the crimes and offences which go hand in hand with drunkenness.

Drinking in the home threatens to take the place of drinking at the bar.

Importation Must Cease

The Ontario Temperance Act is becoming increasingly difficult to enforce because of the flood of imported liquor coming in from other provinces and from abroad.

In 1920 the traffic in liquor imported from outside Canada increased 285% over 1919, while liquor poured in from other provinces literally by the car load.

This situation is directly due to the repeal of the war-time Order-in-Council which, when in force, prohibited importation.

This Referendum is to prohibit importation permanently.

Premier Drury himself says: "I shudder to think of the condition in which we would find ourselves if we lost. If this Referendum fails we would be confronted for a time with this unenforceable law."

This Referendum must not fail.

"SIX"

At the Motor Show

IN THE ARMOURIES

April 14th, 15th and 16th

STABILITY—BEAUTY—LUXURY

It is the product of the soundest engineering skill and the ripest experience. It has been as thoroughly tried and proven as it is humanly possible to do.

Made in four types—5-Passenger Touring Car and Sedan, 3 Passenger Roadster, and 4-Passenger Coupe—still this model may not be fairly designated in the trade terms of the time.

It is not a Light "Six."

For stability is in direct ratio to the amount of material in a machine.

Reo is the recognised schoolmaster of the industry.

We maintain, therefore, that no car of equal passenger capacity but lighter in weight than a Reo, can possibly last as long, withstand as hard usage, and show as low an upkeep cost as a Reo.

Our idol is endurance, if we may be permitted the figure

Not stunt power, but lugging capacity.

It possesses all those qualities the experienced motorist desires in his car—a clean, easy get-away, rapid yet wonderfully smooth acceleration and speed sufficient to satisfy any reasonable owner.

This Reo "Six," like all former Reos, is built for endurance—not for racing speed nor for sensational stunts—nor for more "talking points," but for service.

The "REO" Speed Wagon

The "Reo" truck user, with his rugged "Reo" Motor, can climb the steepest grades on high at full speed, on pneumatic tires. "Reo" management never experiments with its customers' money. The "Reo" Truck was tested and tried until the Company's engineers themselves were absolutely certain of its superiority over any other type.

Salesmen in charge of our Exhibit will give all further information necessary. Please look them up. Demonstrations arranged for, to suit your convenience. Glad to have you call at our Place of Business.

SIR SAM HUGHES CRITICALLY ILL

HIS OTTAWA FRIENDS ANXIOUS--G. N. GORDON CALLS ATTENTION TO INCOME TAX.

Mr. G. N. Gordon returned from Ottawa to-day and will be in the city until Monday night. He said that Sir Sam Hughes has just emerged from a very critical illness and there is much anxiety on the part of his friends, as to the outcome.

Mr. Gordon further said that all the members were exhausted with the all night sessions and keeping the House up other nights until two o'clock in the morning, under closure. He said the most important announcement was that the Finance Minister, Sir Henry Drayton, refused to make any chance in the Act respecting Income Tax, so every man requires to assess himself and send in his return by the 30th of April with a cheque for one-quarter of the taxes due the Dominion Government. This requires to be sent to W. L. Doyle, Esq., Inspector of taxation, Belleville, with a cheque for one quarter of the income tax, otherwise a person is liable to a very severe penalty. The balance of the taxes due the Government requires to be paid when notice is given

UNWASHED NUMBER PLATES ON TRUCKS BREACH OF RULES

"There's the Statute book. Better get a book and read it up. It's a deadly instrument and you better arm yourself with everything to protect youself."

The speaker was Magistrate D. W. Dumble, addressing John Corbett, manager of the Peterborough Bread Company, in police court this morning. Corbett pleaded ignorance of the law when he was charged with having the front and rear numbers of one of the company's bread trucks obstructed so they were not visible. Constable Young, the informant, claimed the plates were covered with mud, but Corbett declared the truck was sufficiently well identified by the conspicuous sign on the truck. He was fined $5 and costs of $3.10 and advised to give the numbers a bath at the bakery.

Two other collections of $8.10 were made this morning. John Taylar, driver of a coal waggon and George Dormer, a bread waggon, said they did not know about By-law 1685 when they turned their outfits on George street on Tuesday in the centre of the block. According to an amendment to this by-law, "no vehicle shall turn around on the street except at the intersection of two streets. Both said they were not familiar with this law and had disobeyed it a hundred times without a policeman's interference. They will remember this section probably henceforth and forever more, for both were assessed $5 and costs of $3.10 by the Magistrate.

SCOTLAND WOOLEN MILLS CO FOR "BETTER" CLOTHES

From the Sheep to the Mills....
From the Mills to YOU....
IN FINE FABRICS

Value vs. Price

ANY TAILOR or Clothing Concern can talk price—of those who do, but few have anything else to talk about.
All we have to say on the subject is that

SWM Clothes are "Better Clothes" at a "Possible Price"

Made-to-Order $30 Made to Fit YOU
NO MORE NO LESS

Unrestricted Choice of Material

When compared on a Dollar-for-Dollar and Fabric-for-Fabric basis with any other made-to-measure or "hand-me-down" clothes, SWM superiority is apparent—in style—in fit—in tailoring.

How it's done— I received a letter from a customer the other day. He said: "The suit I got from you recently certainly is the best I've had in 20 years. I wonder how you do it at the price."

It's easy—I deal direct with the Mills, thereby cutting out the profits of Mr. Middleman, and I sell a thousand suits while the other fellow sells a hundred—a large turnover at a small profit.

SWM one price is rock bottom—but not at the sacrifice of a single meritorious tailoring feature. All wool fabrics—and trimmings of equal grade—good workmanship with prompt service I maintain as necessary rungs in the ladder of success.

HOW WOMEN AVOID SURGICAL OPERATIONS

Some Are Extremely Necessary, Others May Not Be

Every Woman Should Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Trial First

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6324 St. Lawrence Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Vermont woman adds her testimony to the long line of those fortunate women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after it had been decided an operation was necessary:

Burlington, Vt.—"I suffered with female trouble, and had a number of doctors who said that I would never be any better until I had an operation. I was so bad I could hardly walk across the floor and could not do a thing. My sister-in-law induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it certainly has helped me wonderfully. I keep house and do my work and have a small child. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to a number of my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. H. R. SHARON, Apple Tree Point Farm, Burlington, Vt.

In hospitals are many women who are there for surgical operations, and there is nothing a woman dreads more than the thought of an operation, and the long weary months of recovery and restoration to strength if it is successful.

It is very true that female troubles may through neglect reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. In fact, many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

NO TROUBLE TO REACH NORTHERN OIL DISTRICT.

Arrangements For Carrying Passengers Are Perfected.

EDMONTON, April 15 (Canadian Press).—There will be ample accommodation for all persons seeking transportation to the northern oil fields, according to local officials of the three northern transportation companies who are now completing arrangements for the carrying of passengers and freight north. Reports to the contrary are incorrect, and the transportation companies declare there will be no trouble in the way of moving all the men and supplies to offer. It is estimated that 3,000 passengers, or even more, can be carried by the three companies—the Hudson's Bay Company, Northern Trading Company, and the Alberta and Arctic Transportation Company — operating on the Mackenzie and Peace River routes.

Just what proportion the trek into the north will assume cannot yet be determined, but to this date there are no signs, according to information from the steamboat offices, of a stampede. That there will be a far larger travel list on the Mackenzie route than ever before is certain, but the stories of "thousands of brave men feverishly preparing for their northward dash" are being taken here at a fairly heavy discount. Opinions among those interested in the northern development differ as to the number of men who will probably be going north this summer, but a fair estimate, based on reports and on bookings with the steamer companies and inquiries already on their lists, puts the season's total at about one thousand.

Some eighteen or twenty round trips to the Fort Norman oil fields can be made by the combined services of the three companies, it is stated, if there is sufficient business offering. Few or many trips will be made, according to the number of passengers wanting to go. In all cases, it is understood, the Mounted Police will insist upon return tickets being purchased, and the estimated capacity of the three lines is based upon their ability to move the passengers back before the close of navigation.

The Federal Government's geologists and field workers in the north will be taken by the river route and not by airplane, the Air Board having, it is stated, in the interest of economy, abandoned its plans of transporting five Government geological survey parties from Peace River. It has now been decided to build barges and to move the men and their supplies in that slower but much more economical way. The route followed by the barges will probably be the Peace, Slave, and Mackenzie Rivers, most of the work under prospect being in the vicinity of the Fort Norman and Windy Point oil fields.

BIG BUSINESS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 15.—(Canadian Press).—Nearly fourteen million prescriptions, most of them calling for one pint of liquor, have been issued by physicians in the United States in the little more than one year that the Volstead Act has been in force. They were issued by 45,000 physicians, who are licensed to prescribe liquor for patients.

IDENTIFY TWO CRIMINALS BY THEIR FINGER-PRINTS.

CORNWALL, Ont., April 14 (Canadian Press).—Chief of Police Paterson, who is somewhat of a finger-print expert, took the prints of the fingers of George Alfred Lucey and William Bradley, the two young men in jail here awaiting trial on charges of robbing stores at Avonmore and Finch.

Yesterday the Chief received word from Albert J. Cawdron, superintendent director of Criminal Investigation of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Ottawa, that the prints submitted of Lucey were identical with those of Number 23849, George Lucey, whose record is as follows: April 15, 1915, at Beamsville, Ont., for shopbreaking, sentenced to 6 to 26 months in the Ontario Reformatory; November 16, 1916, at Welland, Ont., for burglary, three years in Kingston Penitentiary; January 12, 1920, at Port Colborne, Ont., for breaking and entering, three months in Welland County Jail.

William Bradley's prints tallied with those on record at Ottawa as Number 67582, whose record shows that on 6th November, 1920, at the Ottawa Police Court, he was charged with shopbreaking and sentenced to three months in the common jail.

Bradley is an Ottawa man, while Lucey is from Barton Township, near Hamilton.

SEEK REMOVAL OF DUTY ON LUMBER FROM CANADA.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 15.—A resolution to memorialize Congress to remove the duty on lumber imported from Canada was introduced in the New York Legislature by Senator L. W. H. Gibbs, Republican, of Erie. It was referred to a committee.

TO CUT WAGES ON BRITISH SHIPS.

Announce Reduction in Few Days.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(Canadian Press).—Wage reductions on British ships will soon be put into effect, it was learned from British shipping men here, according to the Wall Street Journal. At a meeting of the Association of British Shipowners to be held April 22, extent of the reduction will be determined.

Stewards on the Aquitania, which sailed yesterday, said their wages had been reduced from $50 a month to about $30, and they were preparing to walk out when the ship reached England, provided other English workers were having success at their strikes, the paper declares.

At the offices of the Cunard Line it was said that nothing was known of the reported cut in the stewards' pay.

British officers and seamen are strongly organized, and have declared themselves ready to resist attempts to lower their wages.

WILL SEEK TO SAVE SON FROM GALLOWS.

WOODSTOCK, April 15. — Mrs. Garfield, of Toronto, mother of Norman Garfield, who is in jail here waiting to be hanged on June 2 for the murder of Ben Johnston, has been making a round of local business men for the purpose of finding out their opinions with reference to a petition for mercy for her son which she intends to circulate here. Several merchants have been interviewed, but it is understood that she has not met with much success.

UNITED FOR THE RELIEF OF FAMINE

International Societies Under One Administration

PEKIN, March 19 (by mail, Associated Press).—All organisations cooperating in relief work in the famine area, heretofore in the hands of the various international relief societies which divided the hunger regions among them, have now been united under a common administration. The result is a maximum of local advice and help combined with the best of foreign assistance and business administration.

On this administrative committee are represented not only seven nationalities, but 28 relief societies.

The names of the Chinese who are to receive aid are drawn by lot since the funds are always insufficient. The local county magistrates collect the heads of all villages and have them write down the names of the deserving poor in their communities to a total of a figure considerably lower than the figure they have already reported. Then, from the lower figure, the names are drawn.

CHEMISTRY AS NATIONAL ASSET.

Its Importance Will Be Emphasized.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 15 (by Associated Press).—The importance of chemistry as a national asset will be emphasised at the spring meeting of the American Chemical Society, which is to be held here in the week beginning Monday, 25th April. It is expected that 3,000 members of the society will attend the meeting.

Special stress will be laid upon increasing and developing food products and in promoting production along various lines for the purpose of reducing the cost of loving.

Mr. R. Norris Shreve, the secretary of th dye division, announces that important discoveries and new processes will be discussed in the meetings of that division. Many millions of dollars which have been invested in the manufacture of dyes in the United States since the World War and the manufacturers of colours have made a determined effort to meet the competition of Germany.

Mr. Shreve says that the American makers are now able to meet practically all the requirements of textile manufacturers for dyes, type for type, and that chemists and dyers are co-operating to develop the application of colours to the fabrics in the most approved manner.

Attention will be drawn to the interdependence of the dye industry and the manufacture of poison gases and explosives. The members of the American Chemical Society feel that chemical independence of all foreign countries is an essential asset in preparedness for this nation.

SEVEN CLUBS ALREADY IN U.F.O. GROUP

F. A. POLLARD OF KEENE SUCCEEDS MARTIN COUGHLIN AS PRESIDENT—LOCAL TEAM ADMITTED.

It looks like at least seven clubs for the East Peterborough Baseball League this season, Hastings, Otonabee and Bohunks, the later a local team applied for admission at the annual meeting of the league last night at the Windsor Hotel. F. S. Pollard of Keene, was in the chair, in the absence of President Martin Coughlin.

Keene and Norwood clubs were represented. Lakefield and Douro Clubs sent word of their desire to remain in the league. Mr. Harry Cobb, representing Cressman's ball club was present, and he intimated that Cressman's would stay with the Mercantile League.

The Wright Trophy.

Mr. Eddie Wright was on hand to formally make his offer to present the League with a silver trophy. The silverware is somewhat similar to the Central Ontaio League trophy, and the team winning the championship for three consecutive seasons will become permanent owners of the trophy. The League, in accepting the trophy, extended a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Wright for gis gift.

Discussion took place as to the best way of dealing with the applications of new clubs, and it was decided that the problem be passed on to the executive for a solution. The executive will meet to-morrow evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Windsor hotel. The constitution will also be considered at this meeting.

Form Two Groups.

It was suggested last night that two groups might be formed, with last year's clubs in one group, and the newcomers in a second group. Another suggestion was that Keene, Hastings, Otonabee and Norwood be grouped together, and Bohunks, Lakefield, Douro and another team be in another section. It was said that Warsaw might provide the fourth club.

Alex. Kay was present and gave the meeting a lot of assistance by explaining ways of overcoming difficulties in the path of the two-group scheme.

The newly-elected officers of the League are as follows:

Patrons—Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., Mr. E. N. McDonald, M.P.P., the Warden of Peterborough County, the Reeves of the Municipalities represented in the League and Mr. E. R. Wright.

Past President—Martin Coughlin.

President—F. S. Pollard, Keene.

1st Vice-Pres.—Dr. Smith Lakefield.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Fred Kempt, Norwood.

Sec.-Treas.—C. E. Curtis.

Executive committee — Fred Welsh, Douro; H. Rorabeck, Norwood; E. H. Barnes, Keene, and a representative from each of the remaining clubs, to be named later.

CITY LEAGUERS MONDAY NIGHT

TEAMS FOR JUVENILE SERIES OF THE O.B.A. ARE ASKED TO SEND REPRESENTATIVES.

President Convery has called a meeting of the City Baseball League Executive for Monday night at eight o'clock in the Board of Trade Rooms, for the discussion of general business.

Ball clubs wishing to enter teams in a Juvenile series of the O.B.A.A. are urged to send representatives to this meeting. The City League will give every encouragement to teams entering the Juvenile series.

BILLIARD CHAMPIONS VS. PICK OF LEAGUE

A SERIES OF BILLIARD GAMES WILL BE PLAYED TO-NIGHT AT G.W.V.A. ROOMS.

To the many lovers of the cue and ball a very interesting game of billiards will be played to-night in the Great War Veterans' rooms between the champions of the league (G.W.V.A. A1 team) and pick of the rest of the Billiard League. The first game is scheduled to start prompt at 7.30 p.m. When the champions met the Caledonians in the replay for the championship, they won every game with the exception of one that called for two points of difference.

A large crowd of spectators have attended the previous games and no doubt will attract a number of enthusiasts to get acquainted with some of the finer strokes.

Announcing Oldsmobile 4

Built to Extend the Fame of a Good Name

Oldsmobile popularity receives a new impetus among motorists who want Oldsmobile sturdiness, reliability and beauty in a four-cylinder car.

In spite of present conditions, Oldsmobile dealers who have seen and tested the new model have ordered enough new Oldsmobile Fours to keep our plant busy for months to come.

They recognize in the new Oldsmobile Four "the car of the day" when buyers want dollar-for-dollar value for their investment in an automobile.

See this car. Observe its evident virtues of permanent style, sane design and sturdier construction. Note how it retains the same pleasing lines, the same close attention to body details that have always emphasized Oldsmobile beauty and comfort.

Ride in the car. Drive it yourself. Because when you actually drive the car yourself or ride in it, you will appreciate that these surface excellences are but outward signs of its unseen virtues.

In looking over the Oldsmobile "4" we purposely ask you to forget any preconceived standard you have had of value, because we believe the Oldsmobile "4" is going to sweep aside every precedent of four-cylinder goodness that you may have had of any car of like class.

EDGAR BURNHAM, Local Dealer SHOW ROOM ADDRESS ANNOUNCED LATER

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

WOOLLENS VS. DE LAVAL AT THE OVAL—CALEDONIANS VS. G.W.V.A. AT THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Two football games under local League auspices will be played to-morrow afternoon. At the Exhibition grounds on the west end pitch the Caledonians will have as their guests the Great War Veterans. After making final arrangements, the Canadian Woollens were successful in having the Oval grounds made ready for the game against the De Laval.

Official referees for the games are: Mr. J. Hensby for Canadian Woollens vs. De Laval and Mr. J. Howarth the Caledonians vs. G. W. V. A. Both games are scheduled to start at 3 p.m. prompt.

The Canadian Woollens have selected the following team to do duty for them against the De Laval: C. Fenner, goal; J. Cridland and T. Chambers, backs; F. Frost, S. McMillan and J. Roberts, half-backs; J. Swan, H. Jones, M. Shaw, Jas. Shaw and R. Monkman, forwards. Reserves, C. Clark and J. Montgomery. Players remember the game is at the Nicholls Oval. No automobiles allowed on the roads.

The De Laval have made a few alterations for to-morrow's game and intend giving the Woollens a hard game. Team reads: R. Ward, goal; Arnold Pickles and R. Leach, full-backs; A. Nicholls, J. Long and Albert Pickles, half-backs; J. Cutmore, J. Conway, J. Dyer, E. Abrahams and R. Hanson, forwards. Reserves, J. Lindsay and J. Murray.

According to rumour the Scotsmen will have difficulty in collecting a team for to play against the Vets, through a number of the players working outside the city limits and cannot get away from business, but have chosen the following team: E. Wright, goal; R. McFeat and Sam McMillan, full-backs; T. W. Service, J. Moir and Alex. Morris, half-backs; Alex. Burgess, R. Hannah, J. Dingwall, J. Terrace and Wm. Calder, forwards. Reserves, Brunton and Brown.

After making a successful opening last Saturday afternoon the Vets contemplate annexing another two points by placing the strongest eleven that has played for them since winning the League championship: W. Jones, goal; A. Bishop and N. Crowe, backs; H. Burrows, T. E. Haycock and O. W. Hurlle, half-backs; S. Curtiss, E. T. Monks, J. W. Sharman, A. Rorrison and Jas. Peel, forwards. Reserves, R. Willshaw, S. Young and J. Willshaw.

It will be a long time yet before the Canadian General will be able to play in their new grounds—King Edward Park. Up at the Bonner-Worth the ground is being put into shape as quick as possible.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Football Association will be held on Monday evening in G.W.V.A. rooms at 7.30 p.m. Please note the place and time.

Two very clever cartoons depicting the last two defeats of local teams are on display in the window of Sutcliffe's the barber, Charlotte street, and are the original ideas of Mr. Arthur Edwards, who is still keeping up his good work with the pencil.

Good Scorers Up To Date.

THE MELLIS HAND SIGNAL SEEN HERE

DIRECTION INDICATION FOR ROAD VEHICLES—MECHANICAL HAND AID FOR MOTORISTS.

This new device for indicating direction when turns, etc., are made, may now be seen at the Motor Show.

One of the most ingenious and effective direction indicators for automobiles and other vehicles was demonstrated yesterday by Mr. Wm. H. L. Mellis, one of the inventors.

The indicator is in the shape of a hand (and is as near the human hand as possible). It is affixed to the side of the wind sheld.

The driver merely has to manipulate a lever attached to the stearing wheel shaft (or any suitable place the driver may desire) and the hand is moved in whatever direction is required. (Straight ahead, which is the natural position, or right, left or back), which is the stop signal, by a cable operating on a steel drum.

The Mellis Hand Signal is not only a safety device but a great convenience to the driver, and a protection to his car as well as the car behind, as it eliminates the necessity of leaning across the seat and signalling with the human hand as in the old way. In the wet weather and winter time it will be a great help as the Mellis Hand Signal will always be seen in any position and at any time day or night.

The Mechanical Hand is so equipped that at night an electric light which is installed inside the palm of the hand will give it prominence and when hand is extended to right or left it shows a red light.

The light in the hand is a great help to the motorist as it throws a nice soft white light through the fingers and under the hand. If you want to back into your garage, you mechanically throw the hand pointing towards rear of your car and you will have a clear view of where you are driving.

When meeting another motor coming towards you at night, all you have to do is to put out your headlights and the passing car will see your light in the Mellis Hand Signal which shows up your running board and hood so that motorist coming in opposite direction can tell exactly where you are without being dazzled with headlights or spot light, as has been the case.

The Mechanical Mellis Hand Signal is also connected to horn or bell and when the hand is moved in any direction it gives a distinct sound of the horn or bell to call the attention of every one as to the direction you want to go.

The Mellis Hand Signal is a great help to the pointman or policeman on duty at busy corners as when the Hand is extended out in a certain direction it stays there in plain view until you make your turn, then you pull it back to normal position, which is straight ahead. (Not like old way of putting part of your hand out for a second and pulling it in again with the chances of the driver not seeing your signal.)

Messrs. Mellis Brothers are the Inventors and Patentees and hold the Patents for Canada, United States, British and foreign countries.

The inventors are Wm. H. L. Mellis, Peterborough, and Jas. M. Mellis, of Victoria, B.C.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 15. —(Canadian Press.)—The announcement over night of the abrogation of national agreements by the Railroad Labor Board came as a complete surprise to Wall street and infused a strong tone into the stock market at the opening of to-day's session. Within the first few minutes gains of one to four points were made by all classes of transportation shares, especially the more popular pacifists, grangers and coalers. The rebound extended to Oils and Industrials with Mexican Petroleum, Royal Dutch, General Asphalt, Atlantic Gulf, Republic Iron and Studebaker as the outstanding features.

Regardless of considerable profit-taking, the market held the greater part of its broad advance during the very lively forenoon. Following a moderate re-action in which Crucible Steel and Western Union fell two points each, the list rallied easily, being sustained by reports which indicated a break in the ranks of British labor. Steels, Equipments, Motors, Oils and Food Specialties were added to the many strong rails, in which short covering was especially extensive. Call money opened and renewed into next week at 7 per cent., and exchange rates on London were substantially higher.

NEW YORK, Aril 15. — (Canadian Exchange.) — Sterling exchange strong; demand $3.91 1-2; Canadian dollar 11 11-16 per cent. discount.

CHIGAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 15. — (Canadian Press.) — Higher prices in the wheat market resulted to-day from renewed hopes of settlement of the British coal strike. Besides there were indications of export business, both in wheat and rye. Commission houses and speculators were the chief buyers. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 1-2 lower, were followed by material advances all around, and then something of a reaction.

The scantiness of rural offerings helped to strengthen corn. After opening at a 3-8 advance the market scored a moderate general upturn. Oats were firmer with other grains, starting unchanged to 1-4 to 3-8 down and then rising well above yesterday's finish. Provisions lacked support.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 15.—(Canadian Press).—Prices steadied a little in trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, despatches insinuating that there had been breaks in the Triple Alliance being responsible for the improved sentiment. Changes in prices were limited to fractions, with C.P.R. recovering 5-8 to 125½, and Brazilian ½ to 30½. Dominion Steel Corporation was up 3-4 to 41.

"WAY DOWN EAST" IS A SENSATIONAL SUCCESS

D. W. GRIFFITH'S MASTERPIECE, SHOWN AT THE GRAND, SURPASSES ANY FILM ACHIEVEMENT EVER SEEN HERE—A TRIUMPH FOR LILLIAN GISH.

David W. Griffith's wonder film, "Way Down East," the most remarkable achievement of the superman of the silent drama, opened its local engagement at the Grand opera house last evening, and the large audience was stirred as never a local audience has been stirred, by a film production. The wizard of the movies has taken Lottie Blair Parker's play of New England life—everybody who goes to the theatre has seen the stage version—and by his uncanny artistry, attention to detail, and deep appreciation of the play of human emotions, has made of the "simple story of plain people," an appealing masterpiece, different from anything that has yet been attempted. Although the main story of the play has been used as the basis of this soul-stirring film, it is as different from the stage version as is the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra from a village band. The active drama, although appealing in its story, is crude and stilted; the film production carries a tremendous appeal because it is real and convincing.

And the climax of the story! Here Mr. Griffith has achieved the most sensational effect that has ever been attained in a motion picture. You remember you saw the stage play that Anna Moore is turned out of the home of Squire Bartlett in a blinding snow storm, the snow in the stage version being a shower of torn paper. Griffith with the aid of a wonderful camera man, shows the unfortunate girl wandering through a real New England blizzard, while her lover, David Bartlett, frantically follows her. This scene is a masterpiece, but what follows makes even the blizzard effect seem tame. The girl makes her way on to the ice on the river. Just as the Spring break up takes place, and the camera shows her prone on a cake of ice, in the midst of the rushing river, drifting ever faster towards the brink of a waterfall, the ice beneath constantly growing smaller as pieces break off and float away. And then the figure of David is seen, jumping from ice cake to ice cake, falling between them sometimes, but dragging himself up and ever making his way towards the girl. Just as the falls are reached he snatches her in his arms and struggles to safety. The scene will never be forgotten by last night's audience. So cleverly is the suspense sustained and built up that one forgot all about the fact that he was watching a moving picture. In other cities the rescue scene has been greeted with tremendous cheers. Last night the crowd was too excited to cheer; they sat spell bound clinging to the arms of their chairs, and when at last the suspense was over there was an audible sigh of relief as the audience relaxed from the tension.

That is the big moment of the production but without it the film version of "Way Down East" would be a remarkable achievement because of the wonderful way in which the story is developed and because of the superb acting of the magnificent cast. The chief honours after giving Mr Griffith the tribute that is rightly his, are carried off by Lillian Gish whose "Anna Moore" reaches a new height in artistry. Nothing more effective has been shown on the silver sheet than her performance in "Way Down East" in which she runs the whole gamut of passion. The scene in which she baptizes her dying child will live long in the memory of those who see the film. Richard Barthelmess is the "David Bartlett" and this accomplished young actor is always true to type and convincing. Burr McIntosh, one of the original stage cast in "Way Down East" makes Squire Bartlett's role a triumph for himself. Lowell Sherman does clever work as the miserable "Lennox Sanderson" and the comedy roles of Hi Holler Si Whipple and the other rural characters are most amusingly portrayed. The comedy is cleverly used by Mr. Griffith to relieve the tension of the dramatic moments of the play.

The photography of the production surpasses anything yet seen. The wonderful new England landscapes, the scenes of the river in a summer sunset, the amazing blizzard effects and above all the sensational rescue have been superbly handled by the camera man. Colour effects are introduced into several scenes with marked success. The art of Mr Griffith's direction is everywhere noticeable in the picture, little touches that no one else seems to be able to produce, the kitten which falls asleep in the warmth of a summer afternoon, the pigeon which alights on the shoulder of Lillian Gish, the dog which tugs at her skirts, these are Griffith effects that combine to make the film the realistic production it is.

A special symphony orchestra under the direction of Mr. A. D. Jordon is a most effective addition to the success of the presentation. The special score fits into the action in a manner that adds wonderfully to the effect and the orchestra interprets in artistic fashion.

"Way Down East" will be repeated at the Grand to-night and tomorrow afternoon and evening. To have missed it will be to have missed the most wonderful film success that has yet been recorded.

Capitol

The Theatre Beautiful

Opening Announcement

To the Citizens of Peterborough and Surrounding Territory:—

It is with a great deal of pleasure and personal pride that I extend a welcome to the opening of your new playhouse, The Capitol. During the many months of its construction we have tried to create a theatre that would be modern in all its artistic appointments and facilities. We have spared no expense to create a playhouse beautiful in every sense of the word, having at all times in our mind a theatre where high-class entertainment and real comfort went hand in hand. The decorating, furnishings and seats have all been selected with the care that years of practical experience in Theatre construction commands.

Your New and Beautiful Play House Opens Monday Evening, April 18th

We want you to come and pass opinion on "THE CAPITOL," The Theatre Beautiful. However, this welcome is not for the opening alone—it is for all time.

WE WELCOME YOU

Cordially and Sincerely,

N. L. NATHANSON,
Managing Director.
